No false or misleading entries shall be made for any reason in Tyler's books, records, or other financial documents, or in any materials prepared for or submitted to Tyler's accountants or independent auditors, and no employee shall engage in any arrangement that results in such prohibited act. In addition, all employees dealing with or providing information or documentation to Tyler's accountants or independent auditors must provide complete and accurate information, and must immediately report any request, suggestion, or threat that they do otherwise to the chairperson of the Tyler audit committee, as outlined above under "Anonymous Reporting of Accounting or Auditing Concerns."

Just as Tyler expects all employees to speak honestly to clients, potential clients, and vendors, Tyler also expects all employees to display the same integrity in anything they write, whether for internal or external use. Therefore, all internal records, memoranda, and other documents must be accurate, complete, and truthful and must be maintained in that condition without any alteration, falsification, omission, or other change that would mislead someone reviewing the record about its original contents or meaning. Any employee who is asked or directed to engage in such prohibited conduct should immediately report it to their HR representative or Tyler's chief human resources officer, or if it concerns questionable accounting or auditing matters, to the chairperson of the Tyler audit committee, as outlined above under "Anonymous Reporting of Accounting or Auditing Concerns."

Retaliation against any employee as a result of their bringing forward any questions, concerns, or complaints about accounting or auditing matters, recording of information, record retention, or any other matter concerning the honesty and integrity of Tyler's operations or financial reporting is strictly prohibited. Similarly, retaliation is prohibited against any employee who provides accurate information to any law enforcement agency about the commission of any state or federal offense. Any employee who feels that they have been retaliated against or threatened with retaliation for these reasons should immediately report it to Tyler's chief human resources officer, or if it concerns questionable accounting or auditing matters, to the chairperson of the Tyler audit committee, as outlined above under "Anonymous Reporting of Accounting or Auditing Concerns."

No payment on behalf of Tyler shall be approved without adequate supporting documentation or made with the intention or understanding that any part of such payment is to be used for any purpose other than as described by the documentation supporting the payment.

No Tyler confidential information shall be used or revealed within or outside of Tyler without proper authorization and purpose.

The use of Tyler employees, materials, or equipment for personal purposes is strictly prohibited, unless specifically authorized.

Compliance with established internal control procedures is required at all times.

Political Activities and Contributions

Tyler will not make any contribution to or for any political party, committee, or candidate for any public office. Any employee requested by another employee to contribute Tyler funds to a political party, committee, or candidate for public office should decline to do so and promptly notify their human resources representative or Tyler's chief human resources officer of the details of any such request.

Payments to Government Officials and Personnel

Tyler's relationships with governmental agencies and their personnel in any federal, state, local, or foreign jurisdiction where Tyler conducts business shall be conducted so that full disclosure of the conduct will not impugn or jeopardize Tyler's integrity or reputation. Accordingly, payments to government personnel, including gifts of substantial value or lavish entertainment, is strictly prohibited, whether the payment is made from personal funds or assets or those of Tyler, and whether made directly or indirectly through consultants, advisors, suppliers, clients, or other third parties.

Use of Agents and Others to Assist in Obtaining and Performing Contracts

From time to time, Tyler may elect to use special consultants, distributors, representatives, and agents to assist in obtaining or performing contracts. These representatives must be bona fide professional individuals or organizations, they must render bona fide services, and their compensation must be limited to a reasonable fee for their services. A representative may not be employed by Tyler if they are connected directly or indirectly to the prospective client or to an official or agent of a prospective client.

Conflicts of Interest

Tyler expects the undivided loyalty of its employees in the conduct of business. It is important that employees be free from any financial interests or other relationships that might conflict with the best interests of Tyler. Accordingly, each employee shall avoid any investment or other interest in any business that would conflict with the proper performance of their duties or responsibilities for Tyler, or which might interfere with their independence of judgment with respect to the transactions between Tyler and such other business.

While it is impossible to enumerate all situations in which possible conflicts might arise, the following are some examples:

- To give or receive gifts of more than token value that are in any way connected with the business relationship;
- To lend or borrow money or other assets from individuals or concerns that do business with or compete against Tyler, except banks and other financial institutions;
- To serve as an officer, director, employee, or consultant of, or receive any income from any enterprise doing business with or competing against Tyler, or seeking to do so, or to own an interest in or engage in the management of an organization providing services or products to Tyler, or to which Tyler sells, or with which Tyler competes, except when such interest (1) comprises publicly traded securities listed on a national securities exchange, NASDAQ, or the OTC margin list and (2) is not in excess of 5% of the securities of such company;
- To accept compensation from outsiders for services for which the employee is being paid by Tyler;
- To speculate or deal in materials, equipment, supplies, products, lands, leases, or property purchased or sold by Tyler, or for which negotiations to purchase, acquire, or sell are pending or may reasonably be anticipated, or to receive (other than from Tyler) any compensation, bonus, or commission in connection with any transaction relating to Tyler's business;
- To knowingly cause, directly or indirectly, Tyler to enter into a business transaction with a close relative of a Tyler employee or business enterprise of such relative;
- To knowingly buy or sell for the employee's own account or the account of a relative of a Tyler employee any security or other interest which Tyler may be considering buying or selling, or has decided to buy or sell, until Tyler's decision has been completely executed and publicly announced; and/or

- To transmit any knowledge of any consideration or decisions of any information that might be prejudicial to the interests of Tyler to any person, except as may be necessary for the proper discharge of the employee's responsibilities on behalf of Tyler.

If an employee finds that they have, or are considering the assumption of, a financial interest or outside relationship that might involve a conflict of interest, or if the employee has any doubt as to the proper application of this policy, they should promptly make all facts known to Tyler's chief human resources officer and refrain from any exercise of responsibility in any manner that might reasonably be considered to be affected by such adverse interest.

Protection of Confidential or Proprietary Information

Tyler's confidential and proprietary information is vital to its current operations and future success. Each employee shall use reasonable care to protect or otherwise prevent the unauthorized disclosure of such information. In no event shall confidential information be disclosed or revealed within or outside Tyler without proper authorization or a permitted purpose. If an employee is uncertain whether certain information should be treated as confidential, the employee should presume that such information is confidential and not disclose it without confirmation that there is proper authorization or a permitted purpose.

By way of example, confidential or proprietary information includes information relating to Tyler's business methods, business plans, research, development, inventions, databases, systems, systems designs, technology, intellectual property, know-how, management, business development, operations, products, services, pricing strategies, client sources, employee records, terms and conditions of arrangements of any business or clients, client lists, methods of competing, financial statements, financial projections, financing methods, and other proprietary information.

Prohibition Against Insider Trading

Insider trading is the trading of Tyler stock while in possession of material "inside" or nonpublic information. This includes the purchase or sale of Tyler stock on the open market through a stockbroker of your choice or through an online brokerage account, the exercise of stock options and corresponding sale of the underlying stock, the sale of stock acquired through Tyler's Employee Stock Purchase Plan (following the applicable holding periods), or the short sale of Tyler stock. The prohibition against trading other than during the trading window also encompasses the fulfillment of "limit orders" placed with a broker, and the brokers with whom any such limit order is placed must be so instructed at the time it is placed. The prohibition does not, however, include the purchase of stock under the Employee Stock Purchase Plan pursuant to previously authorized payroll deductions.

In addition to the prohibition against trading, it is also a violation of the federal securities laws to disclose (or tip) material nonpublic information to another person who subsequently uses that information to their profit.

What is "material nonpublic information?"

In general, information is "material" if its disclosure to the public would affect an investor's decision to purchase or sell Tyler stock. It is difficult to describe all the types of material nonpublic information a Tyler employee may possess that could cause problems with trading or tipping others to trade Tyler stock. Some examples of material nonpublic information about Tyler include information or knowledge about the following events:

- Tyler's quarterly or annual earnings or other important financial information;
- Changes in previously disclosed financial information, including earnings estimates;
- Tyler has suffered, or is about to suffer, extraordinary losses or costs;
- Tyler has realized, or is about to realize, extraordinary earnings;
- Tyler is making changes in previously disclosed financial information;
- Tyler has entered into, or is about to enter into, an important contract with a client, or that such a contract has been terminated or is about to be terminated;
- A merger, acquisition, or takeover;
- Acquisition or sale of a company, a division, or a significant amount of assets;
- Tyler plans to declare stock splits, stock dividends, or cash dividends;
- Tyler becomes a party to major litigation;
- Tyler is making significant changes in management;
- Tyler plans to make significant changes in operations; and/or
- Tyler has achieved a milestone.

In most cases, employees should presume that information concerning any of these events is material. If an employee has any questions about what information is material, or whether the information has been disclosed to the public, they should contact Tyler's chief legal officer.

General Trading Limitations

All employees, officers, and directors must comply with the following restrictions:

1. They may not buy or sell Tyler stock during the period beginning on the first business day after the end of each fiscal quarter through the close of trading on the second full business day after release of the quarter's operating results to the public. This blackout period is intended to remove any appearance that you may have traded based on material nonpublic information concerning the financial results.
2. If, during times other than the blackout period referred to above, they possess material information (good or bad) that is unknown to the general public (in other words, information that they have not read in the newspaper, Tyler's press releases, or annual or quarterly reports, or seen publicly displayed on the bulletin boards around Tyler's facilities), then they are prohibited from buying or selling Tyler stock until after the close of trading on the second full business day after such material information has been released to the public.
3. They are prohibited from sharing material nonpublic information with others (friends, family, stock brokers, strangers) that buy or sell our stock or recommending that they trade or hold Tyler stock based on the material nonpublic information or at any time when the employee, officer, or director possesses material nonpublic information.

4. They may not give material nonpublic information to others, even if they are not buying or selling Tyler stock, without Tyler's permission. In other words, they may not give this information except where it is required in the performance of duties as an employee, officer, or director of Tyler and they have permission to do so.

These restrictions also apply to family members and others living in the household of the employee, officer, or director.

These general trading limitations are based upon U.S. securities laws. Compliance with these general rules should mean compliance with applicable U.S. laws, as well as the regulations of the New York Stock Exchange.

Property Rights

During and subsequent to employment by Tyler, an employee must disclose to Tyler all ideas, concepts, inventions, improvements, and discoveries, including those related to software, and any and all writings including those related to software, regardless of the media that are conceived, made, or reduced to practice by the employee, provided that such ideas, concepts, inventions, improvements, and discoveries arise from or relate to work done for or on behalf of Tyler, relate to Tyler's business, involve the employee's use of Tyler equipment, facilities, or time, or arise out of any information received regarding Tyler's business. It is each employee's responsibility to fully disclose to Tyler as promptly as available all information known or possessed by the employee concerning these property rights. Where appropriate, ideas or questions should be directed to Tyler's chief legal officer for patent, copyright, trademark, or trade secret protection.

Tyler Technologies' Appraisal & Tax Division provides systems and software that automate the appraisal and assessment of real and personal property, including record keeping, mass appraisal, inquiry and protest tracking, appraisal and tax roll generation, tax statement processing and electronic state-level reporting. These systems are image and video-enabled to facilitate the storage of and access to the many property-related documents and for the online storage of digital photographs of properties for use in defending values in protest situations. Other related tax applications are available for agencies that bill and collect taxes, including cities, counties, school tax offices, and special taxing and collection agencies. These systems support billing, collections, lock box operations, mortgage company electronic payments, and various reporting requirements.

Tyler Technologies' Public Safety Division provides public safety software that is a fully unified and comprehensive solution for law enforcement, fire and EMS, including 911/computer aided dispatch ("CAD"), records management, mobile computing, corrections management, Web-based information sharing and decision support. The modules are fully integrated, utilizing a common database and providing full functionality between modules, reducing data entry. The software provides fast, efficient dispatching, and quick access to records, reports and actionable information from an agency's database.

Connecting the Data That Connects Us All

Meet the data-driven community

From the youngest school student to the everyday resident to community leaders, we all create and consume data as part of our daily lives.

For the public sector, this data can be a valuable tool to better understand the needs of constituents, focus limited resources where they can do the most good, and improve the way services are delivered.

As the leading software provider for the public sector, Tyler has solutions that collect, create, and manage data to power the performance of governing agencies and departments. In 2018, we made a significant investment in the ability of our clients to maximize their use of data. By taking data analysis, process integration, and citizen engagement to the next level, we're able to help our clients drive deeper insights, greater efficiency, and smarter outcomes.

20 years

In 1998, Tyler began executing its strategy to build the leading company focused on the unique software needs of local government.

To our fellow shareholders

A MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENT & CEO LYNN MOORE JR.

Tyler experienced another year of double-digit growth and strong financial results, with 2018 being notable as a year with a high level of strategic investment in acquisitions, research and development, and stock repurchases. Our steady growth continues to validate our long-term strategy of providing best-in-class software solutions for the public sector backed by investments that solidify and expand our market leadership.

Tyler's revenue topped $900 million for the first time, while the fourth quarter represented our 29th consecutive quarter of double-digit growth. GAAP revenue rose 11.2 percent to $935 million, while non-GAAP revenue increased 11.6 percent to $940 million. GAAP net income for the year was $147 million, or $3.68 per diluted share, down 13 percent. The decline was primarily due to the one-time tax benefit associated with the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act that was recognized in the fourth quarter of 2017. Non-GAAP net income for the year was $193 million, or $4.80 per diluted share, up 24.6 percent. Even as we increased our R&D spend by 33.7 percent, cash provided from operations grew 27.8 percent over 2017 to reach a new high of $250 million, while free cash flow grew 45.9 percent. We ended the year with a record high backlog of $1.25 billion, up 1.7 percent.

Our win rates were strong across our solution suites, with many of the year's most significant deals composed of multiple Tyler solutions or existing clients deepening their Tyler relationships. Among these were Lubbock County, Texas, with a $10 million multi-suite contract including our ERP, public safety, and courts & justice solutions; Loudoun County, Virginia, a long-time client who added EnerGov™ civic services solutions for $7 million; and Anchorage, Alaska, upgrading its tax system to the iasWorld® Integrated CAMA and tax billing and collections solution for $3.6 million.

Comprehensive solutions, comprehensive results

Tyler's approach to delivering software continues to distinguish us from competitors by offering clients the choice for accessing solutions in the way that makes the most sense for them, whether through on-premises, software as a service, or hybrid arrangements. In 2018, our software revenue was split between license and maintenance revenues of $478 million and subscription revenue of $221 million.

That said, we continue to see a long-term shift to the cloud by the public sector, albeit at a slower pace than the private sector. The cloud represents our fastest-growing revenue stream, with subscription revenues increasing 36.1 percent over 2017, and we've now achieved a greater than 20 percent growth in subscription revenue in 47 of the past 52 quarters. For the year, subscriptions made up 41 percent of total contract value for new software arrangements.

Although the gradual shift to more subscription arrangements creates a near-term headwind to revenue growth, it provides a long-term opportunity for higher revenues over the life of a client relationship. In addition, our bookings growth in 2018 was pressured by our intentional reduction of the initial term for most of our new software subscription contracts, as the weighted average term of new software agreements was 3.9 years in 2018, down from 5.2 years in 2017.

We continue to see a long-term shift to the cloud by the public sector, albeit at a slower pace than the private sector.

Investing in the future

Our balance sheet has never been healthier, as we finished the year with $232 million in cash and investments and zero debt, even after investing a total of $328 million in cash for acquisitions and stock repurchases. Thanks to our financial strength, Tyler remains ideally positioned to make a variety of investments designed to deliver future growth and long-term shareholder value.

We remain diligent in proactively seeking out strategic acquisitions of market leaders to broaden our capabilities, strengthen our competitive position, and expand our addressable market. As we approach a billion dollars in annual revenues, our target of double-digit revenue growth becomes increasingly challenging, and continued achievement of our targets depends on healthy growth supplemented by strategic acquisitions. We completed five acquisitions during 2018, highlighted by the addition of Secraia, Inc. for $150 million in cash — our second largest acquisition on record — along with four much smaller acquisitions that strengthen our product offerings.

Last year was also a year of elevated internal investment, with our R&D spend increasing 33.7 percent to $62.3 million. These product development efforts span our product suites as we add a number of new features and applications that will further solidify our market leadership, while responding to the ever-changing needs of our clients.

We also utilized our balance sheet to resume our stock buyback activity, repurchasing approximately 781,000 shares in 2018 for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $150 million. This exceeded the amount spent on buybacks in the prior six years combined and reflects our confidence in the company's future.

Through smart investments, fiscal discipline, great products and people, and unparalleled client service, we continue to fulfill our mission of empowering the people who serve the public, while continuously strengthening our market leadership.

Leading experience

In May, John Marr assumed the role of executive chairman of the board, while I was appointed chief executive officer. My added responsibilities continue the transition of day-to-day operational oversight that began in January 2017 with my appointment as president. Since that time, my role has grown to working with operational groups, direct leadership, and all aspects of Tyler operations.

As executive chairman, John continues to be actively involved in the company's management, engaging with Tyler's leadership team, as well as investors and clients. These new roles are a natural extension resulting from 13 years of a strong working partnership.

Looking ahead

This year's success was the result of the commitment Tyler made 20 years ago to singularly focus on the needs of the public sector. Through smart investments, fiscal discipline, great products and people, and unparalleled client service, we continue to fulfill our mission of empowering the people who serve the public, while continuously strengthening our market leadership. All of us at Tyler look forward to working together to make this year only the beginning of much greater success.

2018 Financial Year in Review

2018 Year in Review

Tyler is the largest software company in the nation solely focused on the public sector. We have implemented more than 21,000 installations in more than 10,000 local government agencies, schools, and other public organizations to help manage revenue, ensure public safety, deliver justice, administer finances, manage school transportation, and enable the thousands of other tasks for which the public sector is responsible. Healthy communities rely on local government, and Tyler helps local government to work smoothly.

In 2017, we announced our Connected Communities vision for empowering seamless connections between citizens and government, connecting data across geographic boundaries and processes between agencies. By working to connect applications and data across multiple departments and jurisdictions, we seek to improve the way local governments serve their constituents, increase employee efficiency, and heighten citizen engagement.

In 2018, we made progress in bringing our Connected Communities vision closer to reality. Thanks to our strategic acquisitions, product innovation, and a singular focus on client success, we helped local governments become more data-driven and better connected while creating significant shareholder value.

Accelerating innovation through acquisitions

The future of a community will be determined, in part, by the way it uses data to power and improve its services. The more it can bring data together, the better it can understand the story the data is trying to tell, using the data to make smarter decisions and drive desired outcomes.

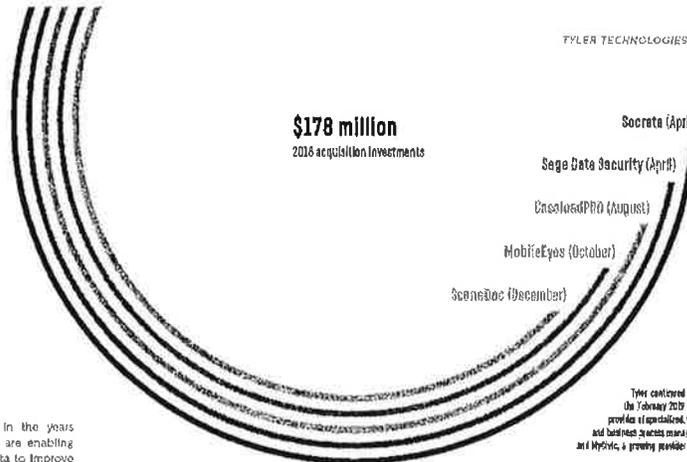

To further meet the public sector's growing need for connected data, we made five acquisitions, four of which provide native cloud applications. Each uses data in different ways to help the public sector improve performance, protect citizens, gain valuable insights, and extend citizen engagement. While this year represented a heightened level of M&A activity for Tyler, we continue to seek acquisition opportunities, as our strong financial position gives us the ability to act when we find companies that fit our strategic vision at reasonable valuations.

In April, we acquired Seattle-based Socrata, Inc. for $150 million in cash, representing our second-largest acquisition until being surpassed by MitoPact in February 2019. Socrata is the industry leader in open data and data-as-a-service solutions for government, providing cloud-based data integration, visualization, analysis, and reporting solutions. With this acquisition, Tyler created a new Data & Insights Division that will work across all Tyler solutions so that our broad footprint of clients can make data discoverable, actionable, and meaningful. The data sharing and analytical capabilities of the Socrata platform will play a key role in accelerating and advancing our Connected Communities vision in the years ahead. Our combined offerings are enabling public sector leaders to use data to improve program outcomes at the city, county, and state levels, in addition to the prominent federal clients served by the Data & Insights team.

In the time since we acquired Socrata, the team has been hard at work launching new products and integrating its technology into Tyler's other solutions to help clients get more out of data. For example, the Socrata Connected Government Cloud™ lets citizens collect data from different departments or jurisdictions to create a single source of business intelligence, while Open Finance™ integrates with Tyler's financial solutions to help citizens understand how their government is collecting and spending revenues.

In April, we acquired cybersecurity firm Saga Data Security LLC, whose unique cybersecurity services are being used to further protect our clients' investments in Tyler solutions. Sage's nDiscover™ gives us the ability to help the public sector manage data security issues as cybersecurity threats grow in scope and sophistication. Prior to the acquisition, we were greatly impressed by Sage as one of its customers, since acquiring Sage, we have successfully piloted a new cybersecurity offering with several public sector clients and expect to begin to expand its usage throughout our client base in 2019.

In August, we acquired CaseloadPRO, whose comprehensive probation case management system is being used to help strengthen Tyler Alliance — our suite of applications connecting public safety and justice processes from dispatch through disposition. The product, now known as Tyler Supervision™, helps probation and other judicial departments efficiently track and manage probationers and parolees, filling an important gap in our portfolio.

In October, we acquired MobileEyes, whose solution for fire suppression and fire prevention strengthens our public safety and civic services solutions. MobileEyes™ is used by fire prevention agencies, building departments, and sprinkler and alarm contractors to perform custom inspections, produce professional reports, and quickly communicate findings to the right constituents.

In December, we acquired SceneDoc, whose solution enables mobile-powered field reporting for law enforcement agencies through the field capture of data, electronic notes, and multimedia from smartphones, tablets, wearables, and task-specific apps, along with secure storage and access to and from the cloud.

We continue to use our ongoing whitespace analysis to guide our priorities for expanding our product offerings and growing our addressable market, either through internal product development efforts or by acquiring best-in-breed products that complement and strengthen existing offerings in our portfolio. We then further invest in those businesses to integrate their products with our existing solutions while leveraging our sales team and client base.

TYLER TECHNOLOGIES ANNUAL REPORT 2018

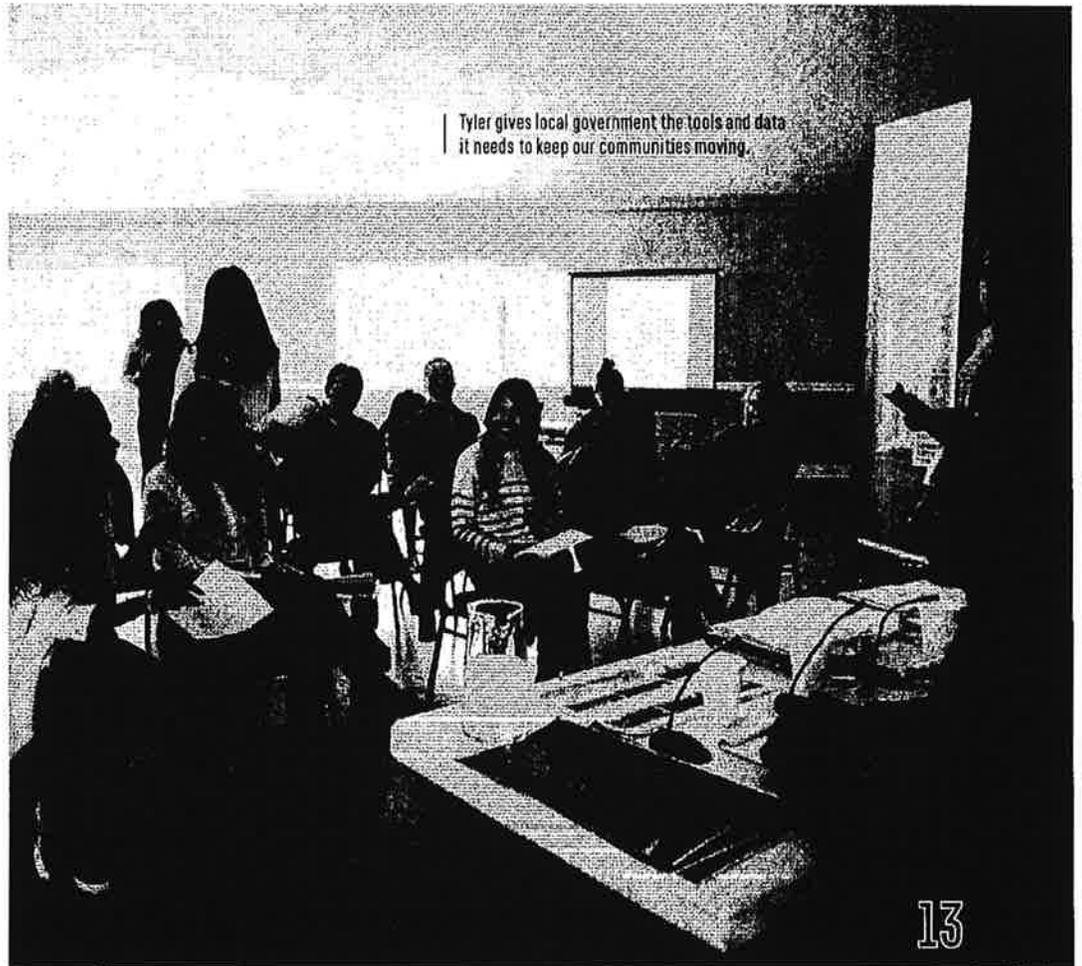

Supporting the people who support our communities

So much of what makes a community run smoothly is the work of public administration. These are the people and departments that help build, finance, manage resources, and provide civic services to our communities. Our products act as the operating systems for local government, with solutions like Muniis® managing core functions like financial, human resources, and procurement; FreeGov™ managing land use, business, and regulatory processes; and InaWorld managing property valuations and tax collections. As an example, this year more than 1,800 clients used Muniis to work smarter while better serving their constituents.

New products, new opportunities

Our core ERP applications continue to provide the foundation for our success, accounting for more than 40 percent of our revenue. The strength of these more mature products gives us the flexibility to pursue our R&D investments and give them the time needed to grow. This year we spent more than $63 million — a 34 percent increase over 2017 — on projects spanning across our verticals. While our R&D spending has contributed to short-term pressure on our margins in the past two years, this record level of investment allowed us to further develop the new features and applications necessary to remain a leader across our verticals while extending into new markets. As with our acquisitions, much of our R&D reflects our long-term focus on the cloud and connecting Tyler products more closely together.

Notable project launches in 2018 included:

Tyler EAM

Launched in April, our enterprise asset management (EAM) solution provides public sector organizations a complete view of its assets from procurement to maintenance to retirement. Tyler EAM™ is the only EAM system available today that integrates seamlessly with our enterprise resource planning (ERP), community development, utility billing customer information system (CIS), and incident management systems, increasing the overall value of a community's investment in Tyler products.

Socrata Connected Government Cloud

In May, we launched the Socrata Connected Government Cloud to give government workers a single source of trusted data they can use to measure and analyze performance across multiple departments and programs, including financial, civic services, and public safety solutions.

Traversa Multi-District Model

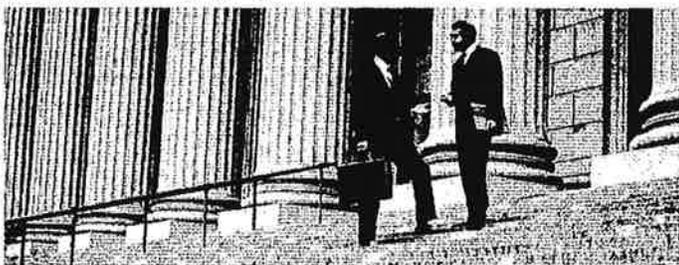

In July, we announced the Multi-District Model version of our popular transportation management software, enabling large student transportation service providers to easily centralize operators for all of their locations or regions within one app.

New World Enterprise Records for Public Safety

Also in July, we added a browser-based records management solution to our New World public safety solution, enabling public safety agencies to capture, process, analyze, and act on information quickly. Enterprise Records shares mission-critical data between applications with fully integrated workflow.

New World ShieldForce

Launched in October, this mobile-first application gives first responders, command staff, and patrol officers access to real-time, mission-critical computer-aided dispatch (CAD) data at the scene through smartphones, tablets, and watches.

Today's investments drive long-term growth

Unlike some other technology companies, our acquisitions and R&D investments are focused on our long-term success. Because of the time required to fully incorporate investments into our portfolio, along with a sales and RFP process for the public sector that can take months or even years, many investments we make today may not generate a return for several years. While we look forward to celebrating the success of this year's investments in future reports, we should also take the opportunity to appreciate past investments that began to bear fruit in 2018.

- Since the acquisition of ExecuTime in mid-2016, efforts have been focused on improving integration with the Tyler portfolio to provide a more comprehensive offering to clients. In 2018, 30 percent of all new Multi-Human Capital Management™ agreements included ExecuTime™.
- Acquired in 2017, our online dispute resolution solution Modria® went live with an implementation that represented its first integration with the Odyssey® court case management system. In April, Clark County, Nevada, added Modria to give its citizens and courts an alternative option for completing divorce mediation requirements. More than 50 percent of filers used the Modria solution as a part of a pilot project. With half of those using Modria all the way through the final mediation process. This sped up the resolution of these cases while allowing the courts' mediators to spend more time facilitating more complex or contentious cases. The success of this pilot led to a decision for mandatory use in 2019.
- New World CrewForce® and ShieldForce™ are Tyler's latest mobile-first applications designed and developed for fire and law enforcement. Each product brings the power of computer-aided dispatch (CAD) information to the hands of first responders via smartphones, tablets, and vehicles. Since being released in the spring of 2017 and fall of 2018, respectively, more than 2,500 individual user licenses have been sold for CrewForce and ShieldForce.
- Launched in 2017, our case records portal reSearch® provides attorneys, judges, and consultants a more efficient way to access important case records and documents at any time and on any device. This year, the reSearch solution was added by the states of Texas, New Mexico, and Georgia, joining the initial launch by courts in Illinois.

Building products and relationships in equal measure

Our financial success is directly connected to the operational success of the local governments across the country and around the world that rely on our products. Our 96 percent client retention rate speaks to the value of both our products and our expertise.

Not only do our clients stay, but they are often a source for growth. New business frequently comes from cross-sell or add-on sales opportunities, while many clients are users of more than one Tyler solution.

Time and again, we've found that a client who trusts us to manage one process, such as fund accounting, 911 dispatch, or school transportation, is more likely to trust us with another, like student records, appraisals, or court case management, opening the door for future growth. As we continue to more closely integrate our products and provide comprehensive tools for managing and analyzing client data, our clients will have more incentive to continue to invest with Tyler and add other Tyler solutions to their technology portfolios. Expanding our relationships with our existing clients and increasing the number of multi-product clients represent a major growth opportunity in the coming years as we continue to build out our common digital infrastructure.

Protecting communities by connecting data and processes

To help keep our communities safe, our courts and public safety solutions are used by judges, prosecutors, defenders, jails, police and fire departments, and probation officers to share data, minimize errors, eliminate redundancies, and provide citizens with greater access to justice. Even if it's just for a speeding ticket. For example, this year we implemented our Odyssey Case Manager™ software at Los Angeles Traffic Court for 850 users at 20 locations -- one of our largest go-lives ever.

Improving our connection to our clients

In addition to investing in strategic acquisitions, new products, and creating a common foundation for our solutions, we continually invest in other areas of our business that can help us better serve our current and prospective clients.

This year our user-driven support portal, Tyler Community, grew to more than 55,000 members as users from jurisdictions across North America crowdsourced best practices and solutions. Tyler University, our online education and training tool, added 1,104 new modules of content to help users improve skills and learn about new features, while in November we expanded the Socrata Data Academy to teach government leaders and data specialists how to gain insights from data to affect change in their communities.

Along with our client support platform, we made a significant investment this year in our external support and outreach platform through the development and launch of a new corporate website. The new site helps current and prospective clients and investors navigate the site more easily, accessing content that is relevant to their interests.

Each year we reinforce client connections through our annual Tyler Connect user conference, and in 2018 we met in Boston. With 54 educational tracks and more than 1,000 training classes over a three-day period, clients engaged in discussions on a number of industry topics, such as citizen transparency, privacy and security, cloud solutions, and data analysis. The 2018 conference hosted more than 4,600 clients from all 50 states and D.C., as well as six Canadian provinces.

Community is always a smart investment

Our commitment to local communities extends far beyond our products. One in every three Tyler employees worked in the public sector before joining our team. Our passion for public service not only informs the work we do for our clients, but inspires us to invest back into the community whenever possible.

Tyler employees generously contributed their time and money this year to nonprofit organizations in the communities where we live and work. Thanks to our employees, charities were able to feed the hungry, fund STEM education for at-risk children, support families in need, and more. In addition, our nonprofit Tyler Foundation provided funding for organizations across the country to improve health, human services, and technology education.

Due to natural disasters, 2018 was an especially challenging year for many of the clients we serve. We worked with hundreds of communities facing hurricanes, wildfires, tornadoes, flooding, and other disasters to ensure they had the data and support needed to coordinate services, inform constituents, and save lives. For example, our engineers developed a real-time map showing the locations of emergency shelters and other flooding in response to Hurricane Michael, which devastated large portions of the southeastern United States, while our disaster recovery team ensured stricken communities were able to access their data even when government offices were damaged or destroyed.

Empowering insight from outside the jurisdiction

Our Data & Insights solutions are integrated across our solution areas to empower communities with a single source for financial, performance, and human data. An example of the potential of connected data can be seen with the recent adoption of the Socrata Connected Government Cloud by the Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC) in San Francisco, California. The MTC will be able to deliver data from more than 100 jurisdictions around the Bay Area into a single, self-service website that employees and residents can use to analyze the impact of transportation on affordable housing, climate change, and more.

Tyler brings data together from across departments for a true picture of the community.

Building the team that builds our business

In addition to naming Lynn Moore Jr. as CEO and John Marr Jr. as executive chairman of the board, another notable change to our leadership team was the addition of Kelley Shimansky as our new chief human resources officer. Kelley assumed the role from Bob Sansone, who retired after 23 years with Tyler.

Part of Kelley's mission will be continuing to provide the best environment for our people to serve our clients in a highly competitive job market; our talented team members continue to see Tyler as a top employer, with an average employee tenure of more than 7.5 years. This tenure means our clients continue to be served by experienced professionals who are familiar with meeting the challenges of the public sector.

Finding and attracting talented employees is a challenge for every company in today's economy, and while Tyler's no different, we work hard to attract great people to power Tyler's continued success. As always, a key part of our recruiting strategy is to provide great benefits and a top work environment. This year, Tyler was again recognized on multiple "Best Places to Work" lists. In addition to being named to Forbes' "Best Employers for Women" and "Best Employers for Diversity" lists, our robust internship program helps us source talent from top schools in markets across the country, while our improved career page on our new website makes it easier than ever for job seekers to explore open positions. Finally, our employee referral program helps us identify candidates who will be compatible with our culture and passion for serving the public sector. As a result of our efforts, we were able to grow our workforce by 11.3 percent in 2018, adding more than 460 new team members.

Working to make schools work smarter

Because of their responsibility for the safety and success of our children, school districts turn to Tyler to help manage the day-to-day needs of students and the adults who support them. One example of our continued innovation in this area is the 81 new features and enhancements we added to Tyler SIS Student Info™ such as the integration of popular learning management systems like Google Classroom™ and Canvas™. In doing so, we've created the industry's most powerful mobile-capable portal for making data more accessible and transparent for districts, teachers, students, and parents.

Connection makes a community

Data-driven innovation has the ability to fundamentally change the way our communities work, but only if people have the support and tools they need to analyze, understand, and act on this data. Public sector leaders, their employees, and their constituents can now interact with information in a way that improves service, reduces frustration, and increases transparency. We're proud to be the company that is leading the public sector toward a world powered by data-driven insights.

Our investments, our solutions, and our people combined to make 2018 our strongest year yet. As pleased as we are with the success we experienced this year, we believe that the people, products, and strategy we have in place will allow us to look back at the investments we made in 2018 as valuable contributions to the foundation for greater success to come.

(a) Reflects the impact of the adoption of Accounting Standards Update ("ASU") ASU No. 2014-09, Revenue from Contracts with Customers in fiscal year 2018. Refer to Note 1 "Summary of Significant Accounting Policies" for further discussion.

(b) 2018 includes the significant impact of the enactment of the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act ("TCJA"). The most significant impact of the TCJA to us is the reduction in the U.S. federal corporate income tax rate from 35% to 21%. The impact of the TCJA on our 2018 income tax provision is a $4.4 million decrease in our 2018 tax benefit due to the implementation of the new tax rate. Refer to Note 7 "Income Tax" for further discussion on the impact of the TCJA.

(c) During 2016, we only adopted ASU No. 2016-09 Employee Share-Based Payment Accounting requiring the recognition of issuer tax benefits for tax deductions as a component of income tax expense. These benefits or deductions were historically recognized in equity. As the standard requires a prospective method of accounting, our net income in 2016 includes a $23.6 million income tax benefit due to the adoption of ASU that did not occur in the comparable period presented above. In 2015, ASU No. 2016-09 modified the method of calculating diluted shares resulting in the inclusion of 539,000 additional shares in our diluted earnings per share calculation, which is not comparable to the other Tyler periods presented. The adoption of ASU No. 2016-09 also requires the return tax benefits, previously presented as financing activities, to be classified as operating activities. An retrospective adoption for this component of the standard is not available, we have adjusted all periods presented above to reflect this change in classification.

(d) On November 16, 2015, we completed the acquisition of New World Systems Corporation ("NWS"). Operating results for the twelve months ended December 31, 2016, include $5.9 million for non-recurring financial advisory, legal, accounting, due diligence, valuation and other expenses necessary to complete the NWS acquisition.

OVERVIEW

General

We provide integrated information management solutions and services for the public sector, with a focus on local governments. We develop and market a broad line of software products and services to address the IT needs of cities, counties, schools and other local government entities. In addition, we provide professional IT services to our clients, including software and hardware installation, data conversion, training and for certain clients, product modifications, along with continuing maintenance and support for clients using our systems. We also provide subscription-based services such as software as a service ("SaaS"), which primarily utilize the Tyler private cloud, and electronic document filing solutions ("e-filing"), which simplify the filing and management of court related documents. Revenues for e-filing are derived from transaction fees and, in some cases, fixed fee arrangements. We also provide property appraisal outsourcing services for taxing jurisdictions.

Our products generally automate seven major functional areas: (1) financial management and education, (2) courts and justice, (3) public safety, (4) property appraisal and tax, (5) planning, regulatory and maintenance (6) land and vital records management and (7) data and digital. We report our results in two segments. The Enterprise Software ("ES") segment provides municipal and county governments and schools with software systems and services to meet their information technology and automation needs for mission-critical "back-office" functions such as: financial management; courts and justice automation; public safety; planning, regulatory and maintenance; land and vital records management; and data analytics. The Appraisal and Tax ("AT") segment provides systems and software that automate the appraisal and assessment of real and personal property as well as property appraisal outsourcing services for local governments and taxing authorities. Property appraisal outsourcing services include: the physical inspection of commercial and residential properties; data collection and processing; computer analysis for property valuation; preparation of tax rolls; community education; and arbitration between taxpayers and the assessing jurisdiction.

For the twelve months ended December 31, 2018, total revenues increased 11% compared to the prior year. Organic revenue growth was 9% for the twelve months ended December 31, 2018, compared to the prior year period and revenues from acquisitions contributed 2% of growth for the twelve months ended December 31, 2018.

Subscriptions revenue grew 28% for the twelve months ended December 31, 2018, due to a gradual shift toward cloud-based software as a service business, as well as continued strong growth in our e-filing revenues from courts and the addition of new subscription revenues from the acquisition of Sociata. Organic subscriptions revenue increased 27% for the twelve months ended December 31, 2018.

Our backlog at December 31, 2018 was $125 million, a 2% increase from last year.

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

Recent Acquisitions

On December 7, 2018, we acquired certain assets and intellectual property of SceneDoc, Inc. ("SceneDoc"), a company that provides mobile-first, software-as-a-service (SaaS) data reporting for law enforcement agencies. The total purchase price was approximately $6.2 million, of which $5.4 million was paid in cash and approximately $759,000 accrued for a warrant held by the seller. As of December 31, 2018, the purchase price allocation for SceneDoc is not yet complete. The preliminary estimates of fair value assumed at the acquisition date for intangible assets, receivables and deferred revenue and related deferred taxes are subject to change as valuations are finalized.

On October 1, 2018, we acquired all of the equity interests of TradeMates, Inc. ("TradeMates"), a company that develops software to improve public safety by supporting fire prevention and suppression, emergency response, and structural safety. The total purchase price was approximately $5.3 million in cash.

On August 31, 2018, we acquired all of the assets of CaseLoadPRO, L.P. ("CaseLoadPRO"), a company that provides a fully featured probation case management system. The purchase price of $9.3 million was paid in cash.

On April 30, 2018, we acquired all of the capital stock of Socata, Inc. ("Socata"), a company that provides open data and data-as-a-service solutions including cloud-based data integration, visualization, analysis, and reporting solutions for federal, state and local government agencies. The purchase price, net of cash acquired of $17 million, was $147.6 million in cash.

On April 30, 2018, we acquired all of the equity interests of Sage Data Security, LLC ("Sage"), a cybersecurity company offering a suite of services that supports an entire cybersecurity lifecycle, including program development, education and training, technical testing, advisory services, and digital forensics. The total purchase price was $11.6 million paid in cash.

As of December 31, 2018, the purchase price allocations for Sage, Socata, CaseLoadPRO, and MobileEyes are complete.

The operating results of all 2018 acquisitions are included with the operating results of the Enterprise Software segment since their date of acquisition. Revenues from Socata included in Tyler's results of operations totaled approximately $19.9 million and the net loss was $15.5 million for the twelve months ended December 31, 2018. The impact of the Sage, CaseLoadPRO, MobileEyes and SceneDoc acquisitions, individually and in the aggregate, on our operating results, assets and liabilities is not material.

Our balance sheet as of December 31, 2018, reflects the allocation of the purchase price to the assets acquired based on their fair value at the date of each acquisition. The fair value of the assets and liabilities acquired are based on valuations using Level III, unobservable inputs that are supported by little or no market activity and that are significant to the fair value of the assets or liabilities.

We monitor and analyze several key performance indicators in order to manage our business and evaluate our financial and operating performance. These indicators include the following:

Revenues — We derive our revenues from five primary sources: sale of software licenses and royalties; subscription-based arrangements; software services; maintenance; and appraisal services. Subscriptions and maintenance are considered recurring revenue sources and comprised approximately 65% of our revenue in 2018. The number of new SaaS clients and the number of existing clients who convert on our traditional software arrangements to our SaaS model are a significant driver to our business, together with new software license sales and maintenance rate increases. In addition, we also monitor our customer base and churn as we historically have experienced very low customer turnover. During 2018, based on our number of customers, turnover was approximately 2%.

Cost of Revenues and Gross Margins — Our primary cost component is personnel expenses in connection with providing software implementation, subscription-based services, maintenance and support, and appraisal services to our clients. We can improve gross margins by controlling headcount and related costs and by expanding our revenue base, especially from those products and services that produce incremental revenue with minimal incremental cost, such as software licenses and royalties, subscription-based services, and maintenance and support. Our appraisal projects are cyclical in nature, and we often employ appraisal personnel on a short-term basis to coincide with the life of a project. As of December 31, 2018, our total employee count increased to 4,525 from 4,059 at December 31, 2017.

Selling, General and Administrative ("SG&A") Expenses — The primary components of SG&A expenses are administrative and sales personnel salaries and commissions, share-based compensation expense, marketing expense, rent, and professional fees. Sales commissions typically fluctuate with revenues and share-based compensation expense generally increases as the market price of our stock increases. Other administrative expenses tend to grow at a slower rate than revenues.

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

Liquidity and Cash Flow — The primary driver of our cash flows is net income. Uses of cash include acquisitions, capital investments in property and equipment and discretionary purchases of treasury stock. Our working capital needs are fairly stable throughout the year with the significant components of cash outflows being payment of personnel expenses offset by cash inflows representing collection of accounts receivable and cash receipts from clients in advance of revenue being earned. In recent years, we have also received significant amounts of cash from employees exercising stock options and contributing to our Employee Stock Purchase Plan.

Balance Sheet — Cash, accounts receivable and days sales outstanding and deferred revenue balances are important indicators of our business.

Adoption of New Revenue Accounting Standard

On January 1, 2018, we adopted ASU No. 2014-09, using the full retrospective method of transition, which requires that the new standard be applied to all periods presented. The impacts of adoption are reflected in the financial information herein. For additional details, see Note 1—"Summary of Significant Accounting Policies" to our consolidated financial statements in this report.

Recent Accounting Guidance not yet Adopted

Leases. On February 25, 2016, the FASB issued its new lease accounting guidance (ASU No. 2016-02, Leases ("Topic 842")). Under the new guidance, lessees will be required to recognize the following for all leases with the exception of short-term leases at the commencement date:

- A lease liability, which is a lessee's obligation to make lease payments arising from a lease, measured on a discounted basis; and
- A right-of-use asset, which is an asset that represents the lessee's right to use, or control the use of, a specified asset for the lease term.

Topic 842 is effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2018, including interim periods therein. Early adoption is permitted for all business entities upon issuance. Upon adoption, entities will be required to use a modified retrospective approach with an option to use certain practical expedients. We expect to adopt ASU 2016-02 when effective, using the transition method that allows us to initially apply the guidance at the adoption date of January 1, 2019, and recognize a cumulative-effect adjustment to the opening balance of retained earnings in the period of adoption. We expect to use the package of practical expedients that allows us to not reassess (i) lease classification for any expired or existing leases and (2) initial direct costs for any expired or existing leases. We expect ASU 2016-02 will impact our consolidated financial statements and related disclosures. We are currently evaluating the impact and expect that most of our lease commitments will be subject to the updated guidance and recognized as lease liabilities and right-of-use assets on our consolidated balance sheets upon adoption. Based on our current portfolio of leases, we estimate a range of $15.5 million to $17.0 million of lease assets and liabilities to be recognized on our balance sheet, primarily relating to office facilities.

Outlook

The local government software market continues to be active, and our backlog at December 31, 2018 reached $125 billion, a 2% increase from last year. We expect to continue to achieve solid growth in revenue and earnings. With our strong financial position and cash flow, we plan to continue to make significant investments in product development to better position us to continue to expand our competitive position in the public sector software market over the long term.

CRITICAL ACCOUNTING POLICIES AND ESTIMATES

Our discussion and analysis of financial condition and results of operations is based upon our financial statements, which have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States ("GAAP"). The preparation of these financial statements requires us to make estimates and judgments that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements, the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period, and related disclosures of contingencies. The Notes to the Financial Statements included as part of this Annual Report describe our significant accounting policies used in the preparation of the financial statements. Significant items subject to such estimates and assumptions include the application of the process toward completion methods of revenue recognition, estimated standalone selling price ("SSP") for distinct performance obligations, the carrying amount and estimated useful lives of intangible assets, distribution of share-based compensation expense and valuation allowance for receivables. We base our estimates on historical experience and on various other assumptions that we believe to be reasonable under the circumstances. The results of which form the basis for making judgments about the carrying values of assets and liabilities that are not readily apparent from other sources. Actual results may differ from these estimates under different assumptions or conditions.

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

We believe the following critical accounting policies require significant judgments and estimates used in the preparation of our financial statements.

Revenue Recognition. We earn revenue from software licenses, royalties, subscription-based services, software services, post-contract customer support ("PCS" or "maintenance"), hardware, and upgrade services. Revenue is recognized upon transfer of control of promised products or services to customers in an amount that reflects the consideration we expect to receive in exchange for those products or services. We determine revenue recognition through the following steps:

- Identification of the contract, or contracts, with a customer
- Identification of the performance obligations in the contract
- Determination of the transaction price
- Allocation of the transaction price to the performance obligations in the contract
- Recognition of revenue when, or as, we satisfy a performance obligation

Most of our software arrangements with customers contain multiple performance obligations that range from software licenses, installation, training, and consulting to software modification and customization to meet specific customer needs (services, hosting, and PCS). For these contracts, we account for individual performance obligations separately when they are distinct. We evaluate whether separate performance obligations can be distinct or should be accounted for as one performance obligation. Arrangements that include software services, such as training or installation, are evaluated to determine whether those services are highly interdependent or highly interrelated to the product's functionality. Many of our software arrangements involve "off-the-shelf" software. We recognize the revenue allocable to "off-the-shelf" software licenses and specified upgrades at a point in time when control of the software license transfers to the customer, unless the software is not considered distinct. We consider off-the-shelf software to be distinct when it can be added to an arrangement with minor changes in the underlying code, it can be used by the customer for the customer's purpose upon installation, and existing services such as training are not considered highly interdependent or highly interrelated to the product's functionality.

For arrangements that involve significant production, modification or customization of the software, or where software services are otherwise not considered distinct, we recognize revenue over time by measuring progress-to-completion. We measure progress-to-completion primarily using labor hours incurred as it best depicts the transfer of control to the customer which occurs as we incur costs on our contracts. These arrangements are often implemented over an extended period and occasionally require us to revise total cost estimates. Amounts recognized in revenue are calculated using the progress-to-completion measurement after giving effect to any changes in our cost estimates. Changes to total estimated contract costs, if any, are recorded in the period they are determined. Estimated losses on uncompleted contracts are recorded in the period in which we first determine that a loss is apparent. When software services are distinct, the fee allocable to the service element is recognized over the time we perform the services and is billed on a time and materials basis.

Subscription-based services consist of services derived from SaaS arrangements, which primarily utilize the Tyler private cloud, and electronic filing transactions. Revenue from subscription-based services is generally recognized over time on a straight basis over the contract term, beginning on the date that our service is made available to the customer. For SaaS arrangements, we evaluate whether the customer has the contractual right to take possession of our software at any time during the hosting period without significant penalty and whether the customer can feasibly maintain the software on the customer's hardware or enter into another arrangement with a third-party to host the software. We allocate contract value to each performance obligation of the arrangement that qualifies for treatment as a distinct element based on estimated SSP. When it is determined that software is distinct and the customer has the ability to take control of the software, we recognize revenue allocable to the software license fee when access to the software license is made available to the customer. We recognize hosting services ratably over the term of the arrangement, which range from one to ten years but are typically for a period of three to five years. For software services associated with certain SaaS arrangements, we have concluded that the services are not distinct, and we recognize the revenue ratably over the remaining contractual period once we have provided the customer access to the software. We record amounts that have been invoiced in accounts receivable and in deferred revenue or revenues, depending on whether the revenue recognition criteria have been met.

The transaction price is allocated to the separate performance obligations on a relative SSP basis. We determine the SSP based on our overall pricing objectives, taking into consideration market conditions and other factors, including the value of our contracts, the applications sold, customer demographics, and the number and types of users within our contracts. We use a range of amounts to estimate SSP when we sell each of the products and services separately and need to determine whether there is a discount to be allocated based on the relative SSP of the various products and services. In instances where SSP is not directly observable, such as when we do not sell the product or service separately, we determine SSP using the expected cost-plus margin approach. Revenue is recognized net of allowances for sales adjustments and any taxes collected from customers, which are subsequently remitted to governmental authorities.

Typically, the structure of our arrangements does not give rise to variable consideration. However, in those instances whereby variable consideration exists, we include in our estimates additional revenue for variable consideration when we believe we have an enforceable right, the amount can be estimated reliably and its realization is probable.

We maintain allowances for doubtful accounts, which are provided at the time the revenue is recognized. Since most of our customers are domestic governmental entities, we rarely incur a loss resulting from the inability of a customer to make required payments, either on changes in circumstances that indicate that the carrying amount for the allowances for doubtful accounts may require revision include, but are not limited to, deterioration of a customer's financial condition, failure to manage our customer's expectations regarding the scope of the services to be delivered, and defects or errors in our services or impairments of our software products. The allowance for doubtful accounts reflects our best estimate of probable losses inherent in the accounts receivable balance. We determine the allowance based on known doubtful accounts, historical experience, and other currently available evidence.

In connection with certain of our contracts, we have recorded receivables receivable or unbilled receivables consisting of costs and estimated profit in excess of billings as of the balance sheet date. Many of the contracts which give rise to unbilled receivables at a given balance sheet date are subject to billings in the subsequent accounting period. We review unbilled receivables and related contract provisions to assure we are justified in recognizing revenue prior to billing the customer and that we have objective evidence which allows us to recognize such revenues. In addition, we have a sizable amount of deferred revenues, which represents billings in excess of revenue earned. The majority of this liability consists of maintenance billings for which payments are made in advance and the revenue is ratably earned over the maintenance period, generally one year. We also have deferred revenue for those contracts in which we receive a deposit and the conditions in which to record revenue for the service or product have not been met. On a periodic basis, we review by customer the detail components of our deferred revenue to assure our accounting remains appropriate.

Intangible Assets and Goodwill. Our business acquisitions typically result in the creation of goodwill and other intangible asset balances, and these balances affect the amount and timing of future period amortization expense, as well as expenses we could potentially incur as a result of an impairment charge. The cost of acquired companies is allocated to identifiable intangible and intangible assets based on estimated fair value, with the excess allocated to goodwill. Accordingly, we have a significant balance of acquired date intangible assets, including software, customer related intangibles, trade names, licenses and goodwill. These intangible assets (other than goodwill) are amortized over their estimated useful lives. We currently have no intangible assets with indefinite lives other than goodwill.

When testing goodwill for impairment quantitatively, we first compare the fair value of each reporting unit with its carrying amount. If the carrying amount of a reporting unit exceeds its fair value, a second step is performed to measure the amount of potential impairment. In the second step, we compare the implied fair value of reporting unit goodwill with the carrying amount of the reporting unit's goodwill. If the carrying amount of reporting unit goodwill exceeds the implied fair value of that goodwill, an impairment loss is recognized. The fair values calculated in our impairment tests are determined using discounted cash flow models involving several assumptions. The assumptions that are used are based upon what we believe a hypothetical marketplace participant would use in estimating fair value. We base our fair value estimates on assumptions we believe to be reasonable but that are unpredictable and inherently uncertain. We evaluate the reasonableness of the fair value calculations of our reporting units by comparing the total of the fair value of all of our reporting units to our total market capitalization. Our annual goodwill impairment analysis, which we performed quantitatively during the second quarter of 2018, did not reveal an impairment charge. During 2018, we did not identify any triggering events that would require an update to our annual impairment review.

All intangible assets (other than goodwill) are reviewed for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount of an asset may not be recoverable. Recoverability of other intangible assets is measured by comparison of the carrying amount to estimated undiscounted future cash flows. The assessment of recoverability or of the estimated useful life for amortization purposes will be affected if the timing or the amount of estimated future operating cash flows is not achieved. Such indicators may include, among others, a significant decline in expected future cash flows, a sustained, significant decline in stock price and market capitalization, a significant adverse change in legal factors or in the business climate, unanticipated competition, and reductions in growth rates. In addition, products, capabilities, or technologies developed by others may render our software products obsolete or non-competitive. Any adverse change in these factors could have a significant impact on the recoverability of goodwill or other intangible assets.

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

Share-Based Compensation. We have a stock incentive plan that provides for the grant of stock options, restricted stock units and performance stock units to key employees, directors and non-employee consultants. We estimate the fair value of share-based awards on the date of grant. Share-based compensation expense includes the estimated effects of forfeitures, which will be adjusted over the requisite service period to the extent actual forfeitures differ or are expected to differ from such estimates. Changes in estimated forfeitures are recognized in the period of change and will also impact the amount of expense to be recognized in future periods. Forfeiture rate assumptions are derived from historical data.

We estimate stock price volatility at the date of grant based on the historical volatility of our common stock. Estimated option life is determined using the weighted average period the stock options are expected to be outstanding, based primarily on the options' vesting terms, assuming contractual life and the employees' expected exercise based on historical patterns. Determining the appropriate fair-value model and calculating the fair value of share-based awards at the grant date requires considerable judgment, including estimating stock price volatility, expected option life and forfeiture rates.

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

2018 Compared to 2017

Revenues

On April 20, 2018, we acquired Sociata, a company that provides open data and data-as-a-service solutions for federal, state and local government agencies including cloud-based data integration, visualization, analysis, and reporting solutions. The following table details revenue for Sociata for the periods presented as of December 31, 2018, which is included in our consolidated statements of income.

Revenues:
Software licenses and royalties	$ 10,000
Subscriptions	12,000
Software services	1,000
Maintenance	2,000
Appraisal services	2,000
Hardware and other	2,000
Total revenues	$ 31,000

On December 7, 2018, we acquired StoneDoc, Inc., a company that provides mobile-first, software-as-a-service (SaaS) field reporting for law enforcement agencies. On October 1, 2018, we acquired MobileEyes, a company that develops software to improve public safety by supporting the prevention and suppression, emergency response, and structural safety. On August 31, 2018, we acquired CaseLoadPRO, a company that provides a fully featured probation case management system. On April 30, 2018, we also acquired Sage, a cybersecurity company offering a suite of services that supports an entire cybersecurity lifecycle. The impact of these acquisitions on our operating results is not considered material, individually and in the aggregate, and is not included in the table above. The results of these acquisitions are included with the operating results of the ES segment from their dates of acquisition. For comparative purposes, we have provided explanations for changes in operations to exclude results of operations for these acquisitions during the acquisition.

Software licenses and royalties.

The following table sets forth a comparison of our software licenses and royalties revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
ES	$ 80,795	$ 79,285	$ 1,510	2%
ESG	6,726	7,254	(528)	(7%)
Total software licenses and royalties revenue	$ 87,521	$ 86,539	$ 982	1%

Software license and royalties revenue grew 1% compared to the prior year. The majority of this growth was due to an active marketplace as the result of generally positive local government economic conditions, as well as our increasingly strong competitive position, which we attribute in part to our investment in product development in recent years. An increase in the number of larger contracts related to our planning, regulatory and maintenance solutions and public safety solutions also contributed to the growth in license revenue.

Although the mix of new contracts between subscription-based and perpetual license arrangements is highly variable from quarter to quarter and year to year, we expect our longer-term software license growth rate to be negatively impacted by a growing number of customers electing our subscription-based options, rather than purchasing the software under a traditional perpetual software license arrangement. Subscription-based arrangements result in lower software license revenue in the initial year as compared to perpetual software license arrangements but generate higher overall revenue over the term of the contract. Our new clients in 2018 was approximately 47% selecting perpetual software license arrangements and approximately 52% selecting subscription-based arrangements compared to a client mix in 2017 of approximately 53% selecting perpetual software license arrangements and approximately 47% selecting subscription-based arrangements.

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

Subscriptions

The following table sets forth a comparison of our subscriptions revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
		As Adjusted
ES	$270,149	$184,317	$ 85,832	47%
AMT	$ 807	7,859	($ 6,952)	(88)%
Total subscriptions revenue	$270,956	$192,176	$ 78,780	41%

Subscription-based revenue primarily consists of revenue derived from our SaaS arrangements, which generally utilize the Tyler private cloud. As part of our subscription-based services, we also provide electronic document filing solutions ("e-filing") that simplify the filing and management of court related documents for courts and law offices. E-filing revenue is derived from transaction fees and fixed fee arrangements.

Excluding the results of acquisitions, subscription-based revenue increased 21% compared to 2017. New SaaS clients as well as existing clients who converted to our SaaS model provided the majority of the subscription revenue increase. In 2018, we added 410 new SaaS clients and 97 existing clients elected to convert to our SaaS model. Also, e-filing services contributed approximately $6.7 million of the subscription revenue increase in 2018. The increase in e-filing revenue is attributed to new e-filing clients, as well as increased volume as the result of several existing clients migrating to e-filing. The acquisition of Socinta, which primarily has a subscription revenue model, also contributed to the increase in subscription revenues.

Software services

The following table sets forth a comparison of our software services revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
		As Adjusted
ES	$180,714	$161,245	$ 19,469	12%
AMT	$1,148	$9,215	($ 8,067)	(87)%
Total software services revenue	$181,862	$170,460	$ 11,402	7%

Software services revenue primarily consists of professional services billed in connection with implementing our software, converting client data, training client personnel, custom development activities and consulting. New clients who purchase our proprietary software licenses generally also contract with us to provide for the related software services. Existing clients also periodically purchase additional training, consulting and minor programming services. Excluding the results of acquisitions, software services revenue grew 3% compared to the prior year period. This growth is due to a higher level of new software sales, through both our license and subscription models.

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

Maintenance

The following table sets forth a comparison of our maintenance revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
		As Adjusted
ES	$159,908	$107,701	$ 52,207	48%
AMT	$ 617	$1,618	($ 991)	(61)%
Total maintenance revenue	$160,525	$109,319	$ 51,206	47%

We provide maintenance and support services for our software products and certain third-party software. Maintenance revenue grew 7% compared to the prior year. Maintenance and support revenue increased mainly due to growth in our installed customer base from new software license sales as well as annual maintenance rate increases.

Appraisal services

The following table sets forth a comparison of our appraisal services revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
		As Adjusted
ES	$ 1,148	$ —	$ 1,148	—%
AMT	$21,944	$5,023	$ 16,921	33%
Total appraisal services revenue	$23,092	$5,023	$ 18,069	36%

In 2018, appraisal services revenue decreased 15% compared to the prior year primarily due to the successful completion of several large revaluation projects in mid-2017. The appraisal services business is somewhat cyclical and driven in part by statutory revaluation cycles in various states.

Cost of Revenues and Gross Margins

The following table sets forth a comparison of the key components of our cost of revenues for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
		As Adjusted
Software licenses and royalties	$ 3,902	$ 3,201	$ 701	22%
Acquired software	22,152	21,686	466	2%
Software services, maintenance and subscriptions	138,973	187,634	($ 48,661)	(26)%
Appraisal services	14,259	16,298	($ 2,039)	(13)%
Hardware and other	1,208	22,835	($ 21,627)	(95)%
Total cost of revenues	$181,694	$254,354	$ 72,660	(29)%

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

The following table sets forth a comparison of gross margin percentage by revenue type for the years ended December 31:

Gross margin percentage	2018	2017	Change
		As Adjusted	$	%
Software licenses, royalties and acquired software	77.1%	71.0%	$6.1	0.3%
Software services, maintenance and subscriptions	64.3%	45.0	19.3	(0.7)
Appraisal services	34.5	34.9	(0.4)
Hardware and other	23.6	28.8	(5.2)
Overall gross margin	47.0%	47.5%	(0.5)%

Software licenses, royalties and acquired software. Cost of software licenses, royalties and acquired software is primarily comprised of amortization expense for acquired software and third-party software costs. We do not have any direct costs associated with royalties. The gross margin increase of 0.3% is due to higher software license revenues offset by an increase in amortization expense for acquired software attributed to new acquisitions completed in 2018.

Software services, maintenance and subscriptions. Cost of software services, maintenance and subscriptions primarily consists of personnel costs related to installation of our software, conversion of client data, training client personnel and support activities and various other services such as custom client development and on-going operation of SaaS and a-filing arrangements. In 2018, the software services, maintenance and subscriptions gross margin decreased 0.7% compared to the prior year. Excluding employees added through acquisitions, our implementation and support staff has grown by 57 employees since December 31, 2017 as we accelerated hiring to ensure that we are well-positioned to deliver our current backlog and anticipated new business. Recognition of acquisition-related deferred revenue associated with subscriptions and maintenance also resulted in lower gross margins.

Appraisal services. Appraisal services revenue comprised approximately 23% of total revenue. The appraisal services gross margin decreased 0.4% compared to 2017 due to the reduction in higher margin projects substantially complete by early 2017 and lower volume of revenues in the remainder of the year relative to fixed costs.

Our 2018 blended gross margin slightly decreased by 0.5% compared to 2017. Our overall gross margin decrease is mainly attributed to reductions in our implementation staff and lower margin revenues from appraisal services, offset by improved margin on revenues from software licenses.

Selling, General and Administrative Expenses

Selling, general and administrative ("SG&A") expenses consist primarily of salaries, employee benefits, travel, share-based compensation expense, commissions and related overhead costs for administrative and sales and marketing employees, as well as, professional fees, trade show activities, advertising costs and other marketing related costs. The following table sets forth a comparison of our SG&A expenses for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
		As Adjusted	$	%
Selling, general and administrative expenses	$22,691	$175,314	$152,623	85%

SG&A as a percentage of revenue was 22.2% in 2018 compared to 20.9% in 2017. SG&A expense increased approximately 18% compared to the prior year period. In 2018, our operating results include $31 million of SG&A expenses for Acrolia from the date of acquisition. The remaining SG&A expense increase is mainly due to compensation cost related to increased staff levels, higher stock compensation expense and increased commission expense as a result of higher sales. Excluding employees added with acquisitions, we have added 47 employees mainly to our sales and finance teams since December 31, 2017. In addition, our 2018 stock compensation expense rose $12 million, mainly due to increases in our stock price over the last few years.

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

Research and Development Expense

Research and development expense consists primarily of salaries, employee benefits and related overhead costs associated with new product development. The following table sets forth a comparison of our research and development expense for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
		As Adjusted	$	%
Research and development expense	$66,234	$47,024	$19,210	34%

Research and development expense increased 34% in 2018 compared to the prior year period, mainly due to a number of new Tyler product development initiatives across our product suites, including increased investments in research and development of recently acquired businesses. To support these initiatives, our research and development staff has grown by 159 since December 31, 2017.

Amortization of Customer and Trade Name Intangibles

Acquisition Intangibles are comprised of the excess of the purchase price over the fair value of net tangible assets acquired that is allocated to acquired software, leases and customer and trade name intangibles. The remaining excess purchase price is allocated to goodwill that is not subject to amortization. Amortization expense related to acquired software is included with cost of revenues, while amortization expense of customer and trade name intangibles is recorded as operating expense. The estimated useful lives of both customer and trade name intangibles range from five to 25 years. The following table sets forth a comparison of amortization of customer and trade name intangibles for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
		As Adjusted	$	%
Amortization of customer and trade name intangibles	$2,162,272	$13,381	$2,148,891	15%

Amortization of customer and trade name intangibles increased due to the impact of intangibles added with several acquisitions completed in 2017 and 2018.

Estimated annual amortization expense relating to customer and trade name acquisition intangibles, excluding acquired software for which the amortization expense is recorded as cost of revenues, for the next five years is as follows (in thousands):

2020	12,350
2021	15,212
2022	14,743
2023	24,665
Thereafter	$5,419

Amortization expense relating to acquired leases will be recorded as a reduction to hardware and other revenue and is expected to be $372,000 in 2019, $313,000 in 2020, $312,000 in 2021, $312,000 in 2022, $312,000 in 2023 and $723,000 thereafter.

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

Other

The following table sets forth a comparison of other income (expense), net, for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)			Change
	2018	2017	$	%
Other income, net	$3,378	$691	$2,687	NM

Other income is comprised of interest expense and non-usage and other fees associated with our revolving credit agreement as well as interest income from invested cash. Other income, net, increased compared to the prior period due to increased interest income from significantly higher levels of cash and investments resulting from cash generated in the last year. We had no debt in the current period, as we repaid all borrowings under the revolving line of credit in January 2017.

Income Tax Provision (Benefit)

The following table sets forth a comparison of our income tax provision for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)			Change
	2018	2017	$	%
Income tax provision (benefit)	$8,408	$16,115	$14,523	(28.7)%
Effective income tax rate	54.4%	(3.7)%

The increase in the income tax provision in 2018 is primarily due to the one-time tax benefit of $76.0 million (as adjusted) recognized in the fourth quarter of 2017 resulting from the remeasurement of deferred tax assets and liabilities associated with the enactment of the Tax Act which reduced the statutory U.S. federal corporate income tax rate from 35% to 21%. The increase is somewhat offset by the decrease in statutory U.S. federal corporate income tax rate for 2018. In addition, excess tax benefits from stock option exercises were lower in 2018 as compared to the prior period. Stock option exercise activity in 2018 generated excess tax benefits of $32.5 million, while stock option exercise activity in 2017 generated $40.8 million excess tax benefits.

The increase in the effective income tax rate in 2018 compared to 2017 is also primarily attributable to the one-time tax benefit associated with the Tax Act recognized in 2017 and the decrease in excess tax benefits related to stock option exercises (realized), offset by the decrease in statutory U.S. federal corporate income tax rate for 2018. Excluding the impact of the Tax Act and the excess tax benefits, our income tax provision and effective tax rate in 2018 would have been $42.6 million and 27.4% and in 2017, would have been $69.5 million (as adjusted) and 37.0%, respectively.

The effective income tax rates in both 2016 and 2017 differed from the statutory United States federal corporate income tax rate of 21% and 35%, respectively, due to state income taxes, the research tax credit, non-deductible share-based compensation expense, disqualifying incentive stock option dispositions, and other non-deductible business expenses, and in 2017, the domestic production activities deduction.

Software licenses and royalties

The following table sets forth a comparison of our software licenses and royalties revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)			Change
	2017	2016	$	%
ES	$79,288	$78,271	$ 117	—%
AMF	7,854	5,482	2,372	44
Total software licenses and royalties revenue	$87,142	$83,753	$3,389	4%

Software license and royalties revenue increased 4% compared to the prior year. The increase in software licenses and royalties is attributed to additions to our implementation staff, which increased our capacity to deliver backlog.

Although the mix of new contracts between subscription-based and perpetual license arrangements may vary from quarter to quarter and year to year, we expect our long-term software license growth rate to be negatively impacted by a growing number of customers choosing our subscription-based options, rather than purchasing the software under a traditional perpetual software license arrangement. Subscription-based arrangements result in lower software license revenue in the initial year as compared to perpetual software license arrangements but generate higher overall revenue over the term of the contract. Our new client mix in 2017 was approximately 53% selecting perpetual software license arrangements and approximately 47% selecting subscription-based arrangements compared to a client mix in 2016 of approximately 65% selecting perpetual software license arrangements and approximately 35% selecting subscription-based arrangements.

Subscriptions

The following table sets forth a comparison of our subscriptions revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)			Change
	2017	2016	$	%
ES	$184,317	$158,469	$25,848	16%
AMF	7,389	7,108	281	4
Total subscriptions revenue	$191,706	$165,577	$26,129	16%

Subscription-based revenue primarily consists of revenue derived from our SaaS arrangements, which generally utilize the Tyler private cloud. As part of our subscription-based services, we also provide electronic document filing solutions ("e-filing") that simplify the filing and management of court related documents for courts and law offices. E-filing revenue is derived from transaction fees and fixed fee arrangements.

Subscription-based revenue increased 16% compared to 2016. New SaaS clients as well as existing clients who converted to our SaaS model provided the majority of this subscriptions revenue increase. In 2017, we added 374 new SaaS clients and 88 existing clients elected to convert to our SaaS model. The average contract size in 2017 were 64% and 44% higher than 2016 for new clients and clients converting to our SaaS model, respectively. Also, e-filing services contributed approximately $3.5 million of the subscriptions revenue increase in 2017. The increase in e-filing revenue is attributed to new e-filing clients, as well as increased volumes as the result of several existing clients mandating e-filing.

Software services.

The following table sets forth a comparison of our software services revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2017		2016		Change
	As Adjusted		$	%	$	%
ES	$181,245	$155,322	$25,923	17%	$5,323	4%
M&T	$9,215	$4,395	$4,820	55%	2,589	18%
Total software services revenue	$190,460	$159,717	$30,743	19%	$8,912	5%

Software services revenue primarily consists of professional services billed in connection with implementing our software, converting client data, training client personnel, custom development activities and consulting. New clients who purchase our proprietary software licenses generally also contract with us to provide for the related software services. Existing clients also periodically purchase additional training, consulting and minor programming services. Software services revenue grew 5% compared to the prior year period. This growth is partly due to additions to our implementation and support staff, which increased our capacity to deliver backlog and partially due to completing recognition of a majority of the acquisition-related deferred service revenue that was fair valued at rates below Tyler's average service rate in prior periods.

Maintenance.

The following table sets forth a comparison of our maintenance revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2017		2016		Change
	As Adjusted		$	%	$	%
ES	$17,751	$32,409	$14,658	83%	$36,252	113%
M&T	21,518	$8,585	$12,933	150%	2,073	16%
Total maintenance revenue	$39,269	$40,994	$18,291	45%	$38,221	93%

We provide maintenance and support services for our software products and certain third-party software. Maintenance revenue grew 12% compared to the prior year. Maintenance and support revenue increased mainly due to growth in our installed customer base from new software license sales as well as annual maintenance rate increases. In addition, the increase is partially due to completing recognition of a majority of the acquisition-related deferred maintenance revenue that was fair valued at rates below Tyler's average maintenance rate in prior periods.

Appraisal services.

The following table sets forth a comparison of our appraisal services revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2017		2016		Change
	As Adjusted		$	%	$	%
ES	$ ---	$ ---	$ ---	---	$ ---	---
M&T	$25,422	$18,282	$7,140	39%	$(1,364)	(5)%
Total appraisal services revenue	$25,422	$18,282	$7,140	39%	$(1,364)	(5)%

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

In 2017, appraisal services revenue decreased 5% compared to the prior year primarily due to the successful completion of several large revaluation projects in mid-2017. The appraisal services business is somewhat cyclical and driven in part by statutory revaluation cycles in various states.

COST OF REVENUES AND GROSS MARGINS

The following table sets forth a comparison of the key components of our cost of revenues for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2017		2016		Change
	As Adjusted		$	%	$	%
Software licenses and royalties	$ 3,321	$ 2,864	$ 457	16%
Acquired software	21,886	22,235	(349)	(2)%
Software services, maintenance and subscriptions	387,531	348,922	$38,609	11%
Appraisal services	18,282	16,411	$1,871	11%
Hardware and other	10,339	10,142	$197	2%
Total cost of revenues	$440,359	$399,574	$40,785	10%

The following table sets forth a comparison of gross margin percentage by revenue type for the years ended December 31:

Gross margin percentage	2017		2016		G.M. %
	As Adjusted		%	%
Software licenses, royalties and acquired software	71.6%	89.3%	1.1%
Software services, maintenance and subscriptions	65.6	48.1	17.5
Appraisal services	34.3	27.8	6.5
Hardware and other	28.8	39.2	(10.4)
Overall gross margin	47.5%	47.3%	0.2%

Software licenses, royalties and acquired software. Cost of software licenses, royalties and acquired software is primarily comprised of amortization expense for acquired software and third-party software costs. We do not have any direct costs associated with royalties. The gross margin increase of 17.5% is due to higher incremental margins on software license revenues, in part due to slightly lower amortization expense for acquired software resulting from acquisitions.

Software services, maintenance and subscriptions. Cost of software services, maintenance and subscriptions primarily consists of personnel costs related to installation of our software, conversion of client data, training client personnel and support activities and various other services such as custom client development and on-going operation of SaaS and e-filing arrangements. In 2017, the software services, maintenance and subscriptions gross margin increased 0.2% compared to the prior year. Our implementation and support staff grew by 220 employees in 2017. Many of these additions occurred in early to mid-2017 and are contributing to revenues in 2017. Costs related to maintenance and various other services such as SaaS and e-filing typically grow at a slower rate than related revenue due to leverage in the utilization of support and maintenance staff and economies of scale. Reduced recognition of acquisition-related deferred revenue associated with software services and maintenance obligations completed in prior periods also resulted in higher gross margins.

Appraisal services. Appraisal services revenue comprised approximately 3.0% of total revenue. The appraisal services gross margin decreased 2.7% compared to 2016 due to the reduction in higher margin projects substantially complete by early 2017 and lower volume of revenues in the current period to cover relatively fixed costs.

Our 2017 blended gross margin slightly increased 0.2% compared to 2016. Our overall gross margin was positively impacted by a product mix that included more higher-margin recurring revenues from subscriptions and maintenance and improved margin on revenues from software licenses offset by the lower-margin revenues from appraisal services as described above.

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

Selling, General and Administrative Expenses

The following table sets forth a comparison of selling, general and administrative expenses for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	As Adjusted		Change
	2017	2016	$	%
Selling, general and administrative expenses	$175,914	$165,176	$10,738	7%

SG&A as a percentage of revenue was 20.9% in 2017 compared to 21.7% in 2016. SG&A expense increased approximately 7% mainly due to compensation costs related to increased staff levels, merit increases and higher stock compensation expense. We added 28 SG&A employees, mainly to our sales and finance teams in 2017. In addition, our 2017 stock compensation expense rose $4.7 million, mainly due to increases in our stock price over the last few years.

Research and Development Expense

The following table sets forth a comparison of our research and development expense for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	As Adjusted		Change
	2017	2016	$	%
Research and development expense	$17,254	$43,154	$4,170	10%

Research and development expense consists mainly of costs associated with development of new products and technologies from which we do not currently generate revenue, as well as costs related to the ongoing development efforts for Microsoft Dynamics AX. Our contractual research and development commitments to develop public sector functionality for Microsoft Dynamics AX was amended in March 2016, which significantly reduced our development commitment through March 2018. However, we continue to provide sustained engineering and technical support for the public sector functionality within Dynamics AX. Licenses and maintenance royalties for all applicable domestic and international sales of Dynamics AX to public sector entities will continue under the terms of the contract.

Research and development expense increased 10% in 2017 compared to the prior year period, mainly due to research and development efforts related to new Tyler product development initiatives, primarily in our public safety solutions, offset by reduced development efforts for Microsoft Dynamics AX. As a result of the Microsoft Dynamics AX amendment, we have redeployed certain development resources to enhance functionality on several existing solutions and these costs are being recorded in cost of revenues – software services, maintenance and subscriptions.

Amortization of Customer and Trade Name Intangibles

The following table sets forth a comparison of amortization of customer and trade name intangibles for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	As Adjusted		Change
	2017	2016	$	%
Amortization of customer and trade name intangibles	$33,381	$12,202	$4,179	1%

Amortization of customer and trade name intangibles increased due to the impact of intangibles added with several small acquisitions completed in 2016 and 2017.

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

Other

The following table sets forth a comparison of other income (expense), net for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	As Adjusted		Change
	2017	2016	$	%
Other income (expense), net	$692	$(1,920)	$2,616	NM

Other income (expense) is comprised of interest expense and non-usage and other fees associated with our revolving credit agreement as well as interest income from invested cash. Other income (expense), net increased compared to the prior periods attributed to significantly lower debt levels in the current period, as we repaid all borrowings under the revolving line of credit in January 2017, and correspondingly higher levels of cash investments.

Income Tax (Benefit) Provision

The following table sets forth a comparison of our income tax provision for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	As Adjusted		Change
	2017	2016	$	%
Income tax provision	$6,115	$7,557	$(1,372)	(18)%
Effective income tax rate	5.71%	16.2%

The decrease in the income tax provision during 2017 was primarily driven by the enactment of the Tax Act which reduced the statutory U.S. federal corporate income tax rate from 35% to 21%. The impact of the rate reduction on our 2017 income tax provision is a $26.0 million (as adjusted) tax benefit due to the remeasurement of deferred tax assets and liabilities. See Note 7 – "Income Tax" for additional information related to the Tax Act. The income tax provision is also lower due to the increase in the excess tax benefits from stock option exercises as compared to prior period. We experienced significant stock option exercise activity in 2017 and 2016 that generated excess tax benefits of $49.6 million and $29.6 million, respectively.

The change in the effective income tax rate in 2017 compared to 2016 is also primarily attributable to the impact of the Tax Act and the change in excess tax benefits related to stock option exercises realized. Excluding the impact of the Tax Act and the excess tax benefits, our income tax provision and effective tax rate in 2017 would have been $60.5 million (as adjusted) and 33.0%, respectively. Excluding the excess tax benefits, our income tax provision and effective tax rate in 2016 would have been $51.5 million (as adjusted) and 38.0%, respectively.

The effective income tax rates in both 2017 and 2016 differed from the statutory United States federal corporate income tax rate of 35% due to state income taxes, the domestic production activities deduction, the research tax credit, non-deductible share-based compensation expense, disqualifying incentive stock option dispositions, and other non-deductible business expenses.

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

FINANCIAL CONDITION AND LIQUIDITY

As of December 31, 2018, we had cash and cash equivalents of $134.3 million compared to $185.9 million at December 31, 2017. We also had $97.7 million invested in investment grade corporate bonds, municipal bonds and asset-backed securities as of December 31, 2018 compared to $63.8 million at December 31, 2017. These investments mature between 2019 through 2022 and we intend to hold these investments until maturity. Cash and cash equivalents consist of cash on deposit with several domestic banks and money market funds. As of December 31, 2018, we had no outstanding borrowings and no outstanding letters of credit. We believe our existing line of credit, cash from operating activities, cash on hand and access to the credit markets provide us with sufficient flexibility to meet our long-term financial needs.

The following table sets forth a summary of cash flows for the years ended December 31:

Cash flows provided (used) by:
Operating activities	$ 136,203	$ 185,765	$ 191,859
Investing activities	(128,750)	(85,255)	(50,726)
Financing activities	(61,195)	29,418	(138,273)
Net (decrease) increase in cash and cash equivalents	$ (53,742)	$ 130,928	$ 62,859

Net cash provided by operating activities continues to be our primary source of funds to finance operating needs and capital expenditures. Other potential capital resources include cash on hand, public and private issuances of debt or equity securities, and bank borrowings. It is possible that our ability to access the capital and credit markets in the future may be limited by economic conditions or other factors. We currently believe that cash provided by operating activities, cash on hand and available credit are sufficient to fund our working capital requirements, capital expenditures, income tax obligations, and share repurchases for at least the next twelve months.

In 2018, operating activities provided cash of $136.2 million compared to $185.8 million in 2017. Operating activities that provided cash were primarily comprised of net income of $425 million, non-cash depreciation and amortization charges of $81.8 million and non-cash share-based compensation expense of $52.7 million. Working capital, excluding cash, increased approximately $14.0 million due to higher accounts receivable because of an increase in unbilled receivables attributed to revenue recognized from pilot billings. Higher accounts receivable related to annual maintenance and subscription billings, and the deferred taxes associated with stock option activity during the period. These increases were offset slightly by the growth in deferred revenue balances and timing of income tax payments.

In general, changes in the balance of deferred revenue are cyclical and primarily driven by the timing of our maintenance and subscription billings. Our renewal dates occur throughout the year, but our largest maintenance renewal cycles occur in the second and fourth quarters.

Days sales outstanding in accounts receivable were 113 days at December 31, 2018, compared to 102 days at December 31, 2017. The increase in our DSO is mainly due to an increase in unbilled receivables attributed to the increase in software license revenue for which we have recognized revenue at the point in time when the software is made available to the customer, but the billing has not yet been submitted to the customer. An increase in software services contracts accounted for using progress-to-completion method of revenue recognition in which the services are performed in one accounting period, but the billing normally occurs subsequently in another accounting period also contributed to the increase in DSO. Furthermore, our maintenance billing cycle typically peaks at its highest level in June and second highest level in December of each year and is followed by collections in the subsequent quarter. DSO is calculated based on quarter-end accounts receivable (excluding long-term receivables but including unbilled receivables) divided by the quotient of annualized quarterly revenues divided by 360 days.

Investing activities used cash of $128.8 million in 2018 compared to $85.3 million in 2017. We invested $115.6 million and received $81.2 million in proceeds from investment grade corporate bonds, municipal bonds and asset-backed securities with maturity dates ranging from 2019 through 2022. Approximately $27.4 million was invested in property and equipment, primarily for computer equipment, furniture and fixtures in support of internal growth, particularly with respect to our cloud-based offerings. We paid $2.2 million for the expansion of existing buildings. On December 7, 2018, we acquired certain assets and intellectual property of SonasDoc, Inc., a company that provides mobile-first, SaaS field reporting for law enforcement agencies. The total purchase price was approximately $6.2 million, of which $5.4 million was paid in cash and approximately $759,000 accrued for a working capital holdback. On October 1, 2018, we acquired all of the equity interests of MobileEye, a company that develops software to improve public safety by supporting fire prevention and suppression, emergency response, and structural safety. The total purchase price was approximately $5.3 million in cash. On August 31, 2018, we acquired all of the assets of CareloadPRO, a company that provides a fully featured probation case management system. The purchase price of $8.3 million was paid in cash. On April 30, 2018, we acquired all of the capital stock of Sociata, a company that provides open data and data-as-a-service solutions including cloud-based data integration, visualization, analysis, and reporting solutions for state and local government agencies. The purchase price, net of cash acquired of $12 million, was $47.6 million paid in cash. On April 30, 2018, we acquired all of the equity interests of Sage, a cybersecurity company offering a suite of services that supports an omnichannel security lifecycle, including program development, education and training, technical testing, advisory services, and digital forensics. The total purchase price was $11.6 million paid in cash. These expenditures were funded from cash generated from operations.

In 2017, we invested $59.8 million and received $28.8 million in proceeds from investment grade corporate bonds, municipal bonds and asset-backed securities. Approximately $43.1 million was invested in property and equipment. We purchased an office building in Latham, New York for approximately $2.9 million and paid $2.1 million for building improvements. We paid $3.4 million for construction to expand our office building in Yarmouth, Maine. We also made three capital acquisitions with a combined cash purchase price of $11.3 million. The remaining additions were for computer equipment, furniture and fixtures in support of internal growth, particularly with respect to our cloud-based offerings. These expenditures were funded from cash generated from operations.

Financing activities used cash of $83.0 million in 2018 compared to cash provided of $39.4 million in 2017. Financing activities in 2018 were comprised of collections of $83.0 million from stock option exercises and employee stock purchase plan activity. We also purchased approximately 781,000 shares of our common stock for an aggregate purchase price of $150.1 million, of which $2.5 million was accrued as of December 31, 2018.

Financing activities in 2017 were comprised of $100.0 million net payments on our revolving line of credit offset by collections of $36.9 million from stock option exercises and employee stock purchase plan activity. We also purchased approximately 44,000 shares of our common stock for an aggregate purchase price of $6.8 million.

In February 2019, our board of directors authorized the repurchase of an additional 1.5 million shares of Tyler common stock. The repurchase program, which was approved by our board of directors, was announced in October 2012, and was amended at various times from 2003 through 2018. As of February 30, 2019, we had remaining authorization to repurchase up to 2.7 million additional shares of our common stock. Our share repurchase program allows us to repurchase shares, at our discretion, at market conditions in respect to the timing of the buybacks and the number of shares repurchased, as well as the volume of employee stock option exercises. Share repurchases are generally funded using our existing cash balances and borrowings under our credit facility and may occur through open market purchases and transactions structured through investment banking institutions, privately negotiated transactions and/or other mechanisms. There is no expiration date specified for the authorization and we intend to repurchase stock under the plan from time to time.

On November 16, 2015, we entered into a $300.0 million Credit Agreement (the "Credit Facility") with the various lenders party thereto and Wells Fargo Bank, National Association, as Administrative Agent. The Credit Facility provides for a revolving credit line of up to $300.0 million, including a $10.0 million sublimit for letters of credit. The Credit Facility matures on November 16, 2020. Borrowings under the Credit Facility may be used for general corporate purposes, including working capital requirements, acquisitions and share repurchases. Borrowings under the Credit Facility bear interest at a rate of either (i) Wells Fargo Bank's prime rate (subject to certain higher rate determinations) plus a margin of 0.25% to 1.00% or (ii) the 30-, 60-, 90- or 180-day LIBOR rate plus a margin of 1.25% to 2.00%. As of December 31, 2018, our interest rate was 5.75% under the prime rate option or approximately 3.77% under the 90-day LIBOR option. The Credit Facility is secured by substantially all of our assets. The Credit Facility requires us to maintain certain financial ratios and other financial conditions and prohibits us from making certain investments, advances, cash dividends or loans, and paying incurrences of additional indebtedness and debt. As of December 31, 2018, we were in compliance with these covenants.

As of December 31, 2018, we had no outstanding borrowings and had unused borrowing capacity of $300.0 million under the Credit Facility. We paid interest of $770,000 in 2018, $804,000 in 2017, and $19 million in 2016.

We paid income taxes, net of refunds received, of $6.9 million in 2018, $36.0 million in 2017, and $30.2 million in 2016. In 2018, we experienced significant stock option exercise activity that generated net tax benefits of $32.5 million and reduced tax payments accordingly. In 2017 and 2016, exercise tax benefits were $40.6 million and $28.6 million, respectively.

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

We anticipate that 2019 capital spending will be between $54 million and $56 million, including approximately $16 million related to real estate and approximately $6 million of capitalized software development. We expect the majority of the other capital spending will consist of computer equipment and software for infrastructure replacement and expansion. Capital spending is expected to be funded from existing cash balances and cash flows from operations.

On January 31, 2019, we entered into a Merger agreement to acquire 100% of the equity interests of MP Holdings, Parent, Inc, dba MicroFact ("MicroFact") for the anticipated purchase price of $185 million in cash at closing (subject to possible adjustments and holdback) plus contingent consideration not to exceed $10 million. The completion of the acquisition is subject to customary closing conditions, including the expiration or the termination of the waiting period under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act. The Federal Trade Commission granted early termination of that waiting period effective February 15, 2019. The cash portion of the merger consideration will be funded from cash on hand and proceeds from the revolving credit facility.

On February 1, 2019, we acquired all the assets of CHC, LLC ("MYCHC"), a company that provides software solutions to connect communities. The purchase price is $3.7 million of which $3.6 million was paid in cash and approximately $90,000 was accrued for a working capital holdback.

From time to time we engage in discussions with potential acquisition candidates in order to pursue such opportunities, which could require significant commitments of capital. We may be required to incur debt or to issue additional potentially dilutive securities in the future. No assurance can be given as to our future acquisition opportunities and how such opportunities will be financed.

We lease office facilities, as well as transportation and other equipment used in our operations under non-cancelable operating lease agreements expiring at various dates through 2026.

Summarized in the table below are our obligations to make future payments under the Credit Facility and lease obligations at December 31, 2018 (in thousands):

	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	Thereafter	Total
Revolving line of credit	$ —	$ —	$ —	$ —	$ —	$ —	$ —
Lease obligations	$ 394	$ 341	$ 295	$ 258	$ 224	$ 1,172	$ 2,284
Total future payment obligations	$ 394	$ 341	$ 295	$ 258	$ 224	$ 1,172	$ 2,284

As of December 31, 2018, we do not have any off-balance sheet arrangements, guarantees or material purchase commitments, except for the operating lease commitments listed above.

CAPITALIZATION

At December 31, 2018, our capitalization consisted of no outstanding borrowings and $13 million of shareholders' equity.

QUANTITATIVE AND QUALITATIVE DISCLOSURES ABOUT MARKET RISK

Market risk represents the risk of loss that may affect us due to adverse changes in financial market prices and interest rates.

In 2018, our effective average interest rate for borrowings was 5.22%. As of December 31, 2018, our interest rate was 5.75% under the prime rate option or approximately 3.72% under the 30-day LIBOR option. The Credit Facility is secured by substantially all of our assets. Loans under the Credit Facility bear interest at Tyler's option at a per annum rate of either (1) the Wells Fargo Bank prime rate (subject to certain higher rate determinations) plus a margin of 0.25% to 1.00% or (2) the 30, 60, 90 or 180-day LIBOR rate plus a margin of 1.25% to 2.00%.

As of December 31, 2018, we had no outstanding borrowings under the Credit Facility and therefore are not subject to any interest risk.

CONTROLS AND PROCEDURES

Evaluation of Disclosure Controls and Procedures — We maintain disclosure controls and procedures (as defined in Rule 13a-15(e) of the Securities Exchange Act) designed to provide reasonable assurance that the information required to be disclosed by us in the reports we file or submit under the Exchange Act is recorded, processed, summarized and reported within the time periods specified in the SEC's rules and forms. This includes controls and procedures designed to ensure that this information is accumulated and communicated to our management, including our chief executive officer and chief financial officer, as appropriate to allow timely decisions regarding required disclosures. Management, with the participation of the chief executive officer and chief financial officer, evaluated the effectiveness of our disclosure controls and procedures as of December 31, 2018. Based on this evaluation, the chief executive officer and chief financial officer have concluded that our disclosure controls and procedures were effective as of December 31, 2018.

Management's Report on Internal Control Over Financial Reporting — Tyler's management is responsible for establishing and maintaining effective internal control over financial reporting as defined in Securities Exchange Act Rule 13a-15(f). Tyler's internal control over financial reporting is designed to provide reasonable assurance to Tyler's management and board of directors regarding the preparation and fair presentation of published financial statements.

Because of its inherent limitations, internal control over financial reporting may not prevent or detect misstatements. Therefore, even those systems determined to be effective can provide only reasonable assurance with respect to financial statement preparation and presentation.

Management assessed the effectiveness of Tyler's internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2018. In making this assessment, management used the criteria set forth by the Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway Commission (2013 framework) (the COSO criteria). Based on our assessment, we concluded that, as of December 31, 2018, Tyler's internal control over financial reporting was effective based on those criteria.

Tyler's internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2018 has been audited by Ernst & Young LLP, the independent registered public accounting firm who also audited Tyler's financial statements. Opinion on the Financial Statements

We have audited the accompanying consolidated balance sheets of Tyler Technologies, Inc. (the Company) as of December 31, 2018 and 2017, the related consolidated statements of comprehensive income, cash flows and shareholders' equity for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 2018, and the related notes (collectively referred to as the "consolidated financial statements"). In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Company at December 31, 2018 and 2017, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 2018, in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles.

We also have audited, in accordance with the standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States) (PCAOB), the Company's internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2018, based on criteria established in Internal Control-Integrated Framework issued by the Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway Commission (COSO) framework and our report dated February 20, 2019 expressed an unqualified opinion thereon.

As discussed in Note 1 to the consolidated financial statements, the Company changed its method of accounting for revenue in 2016 due to the adoption of Accounting Standards Update (ASU) No. 2014-09, Revenue from Contracts with Customers (Topic 606), and the related amendments.

Basis for Opinion

We conducted our audits in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether due to error or fraud. Our audits included performing procedures to assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to error or fraud, and performing procedures that respond to those risks. Such procedures included examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. Our audits also included evaluating the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

Report of Independent Registered Public Accounting Firm

To the Shareholders and the Board of Directors of Tyler Technologies, Inc.

Opinion on Internal Control over Financial Reporting

We have audited Tyler Technologies, Inc.'s internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2018, based on criteria established in Internal Control-Integrated Framework issued by the Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway Commission (COSO) framework (the COSO criteria). In our opinion, Tyler Technologies, Inc. (the Company) maintained, in all material respects, effective internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2018, based on the COSO criteria.

We also have audited, in accordance with the standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States) (PCAOB), consolidated balance sheets of the Company as of December 31, 2018 and 2017, the related consolidated statements of comprehensive income, shareholders' equity and cash flows for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 2018, and the related notes and our report dated February 20, 2019 expressed an unqualified opinion thereon.

Basis for Opinion

The Company's management is responsible for maintaining effective internal control over financial reporting and for its assessment of the effectiveness of internal control over financial reporting included in the accompanying Management's Report on Internal Control Over Financial Reporting. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the Company's internal control over financial reporting based on our audit. We are a public accounting firm registered with the PCAOB and are required to be independent with respect to the Company in accordance with the U.S. federal securities laws and the applicable rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the PCAOB.

We conducted our audit in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether effective internal control over financial reporting was maintained in all material respects.

Our audit included obtaining an understanding of internal control over financial reporting, assessing the risk that a material weakness exists, testing and evaluating the design and operating effectiveness of internal control based on the assessed risk, and performing such other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

Definition and Limitations of Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

A company's internal control over financial reporting is a process designed to provide reasonable assurance regarding the reliability of financial reporting and the preparation of financial statements for external purposes in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. A company's internal control over financial reporting includes those policies and procedures that: (1) pertain to the maintenance of records that, in reasonable detail, accurately and fairly reflect the transactions and dispositions of the assets of the company; (2) provide reasonable assurance that transactions are recorded as necessary to permit preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, and that receipts and expenditures of the company are being made only in accordance with authorizations of management and directors of the company; and (3) provide reasonable assurance regarding prevention or timely detection of unauthorized acquisition, use, or disposition of the company's assets that could have a material effect on the financial statements.

Because of its inherent limitations, internal control over financial reporting may not prevent or detect misstatements. Also, projections of any evaluation of effectiveness to future periods are subject to the risk that controls may become inadequate because of changes in conditions, or that the degree of compliance with the policies or procedures may deteriorate.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

(Tables in thousands, except per share data)

(1) SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

DESCRIPTION OF BUSINESS

We provide integrated software systems and related services for the public sector, with a focus on local governments. We develop and market a broad line of software solutions and services to address the information technology ("IT") needs of cities, counties, schools and other local governments within. In addition, we provide professional IT services, including software and hardware installation, data conversion, training, and for certain customers, product modifications, along with continuing maintenance and support for customers using our systems. We also provide subscription-based services such as software as a service ("SaaS") arrangements, which primarily utilize the Tyler private cloud, and electronic document filing solutions ("e-filing"). In addition, we provide property appraisal outsourcing services for taxing jurisdictions.

PRINCIPLES OF CONSOLIDATION

The consolidated financial statements include our parent company and two subsidiaries, which are wholly-owned. All significant intercompany balances and transactions have been eliminated in consolidation. Comprehensive income is defined as the change in equity of a business enterprise during a period from transactions, and other events and circumstances from non-owner sources and includes all components of net income (loss) and other comprehensive income (loss). We had no items of other comprehensive income (loss) during the years ended December 31, 2018, 2017 and 2016.

CASH AND CASH EQUIVALENTS

Cash in excess of that necessary for operating requirements is invested in short-term, highly liquid, income-producing investments. Investments with original maturities of three months or less are classified as cash and cash equivalents, which primarily consist of cash on deposit with several banks and money market funds. Cash and cash equivalents are stated at cost, which approximates market value.

REVENUE RECOGNITION

Nature of Products and Services

We earn revenue from software licenses, royalties, subscription-based services, software services, post-contract customer support ("PCS" or "maintenance"), hardware, and appraisal services. Revenue is recognized upon transfer of control of promised products or services to customers in an amount that reflects the non-refundable we expect to receive in exchange for those products or services. We determine revenue recognition through the following steps:

- Identification of the contract, or contracts, with a customer
- Identification of the performance obligations in the contract
- Determination of the transaction price
- Allocation of the transaction price to the performance obligations in the contract
- Recognition of revenue when, or as, we satisfy a performance obligation

Most of our software arrangements with customers contain multiple performance obligations that range from software licenses, installation, training, and consulting to software modification and customization to meet specific customer needs (services), hosting, and PCS. For these contracts, we account for individual performance obligations separately when they are distinct. We evaluate whether separate performance obligations can be distinct or should be accounted for as one performance obligation. Arrangements that include software services, such as training or installation, are evaluated to determine whether those services are highly interdependent or interrelated to the product's functionality. The transaction price is allocated to the distinct performance obligations on a relative standalone selling price ("SSP") basis. We determine the SSP based on our overall pricing objectives, taking into consideration market conditions and other factors, including the value of our contracts, the applications sold, customer demographics, and the number and types of users within our contracts. Revenue is recognized net of allowances for sales adjustments and any taxes collected from customers, which are subsequently remitted to governmental authorities.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

Software Arrangements

Software Licenses and Royalties

Many of our software arrangements involve "off-the-shelf" software. We recognize the revenue allocable to "off-the-shelf" software licenses and specified upgrades at a point in time when control of the software license transfers to the customer, unless the software is not considered distinct. We consider off-the-shelf software to be distinct when it can be added to an arrangement with minor changes in the underlying code, it can be used by the customer for the customer's purpose upon installation, and remaining services such as training are not considered highly interdependent or interrelated to the product's functionality.

For arrangements that involve significant production, modification or customization of the software, or where software services are otherwise not considered distinct, we recognize revenue over time by measuring progress-to-completion. We measure progress-to-completion primarily using labor hours incurred as it best depicts the transfer of control to the customer which occurs as we incur costs on our contracts. These arrangements are often implemented over an extended period and occasionally require us to revise total cost estimates. Amounts recognized in revenue are established using the progress-to-completion measurement, after giving effect to any changes in our cost estimates. Changes to total estimated contract costs, if any, are recorded in the period they are determined. Estimated losses on uncompleted contracts are recorded in the period in which we first determine that a loss is apparent.

Software license fees are billed in accordance with the contract terms. Typically, a majority of the fee is due when access to the software license is made available to the customer and the remainder of the fee due over a passage of time stipulated by the contract. We record amounts that have been invoiced in accounts receivable and in deferred revenue or revenues, depending on whether the revenue recognition criteria have been met.

We recognize royalty revenue when the sale occurs under the terms of our third-party royalty arrangements. Currently, our third-party royalties are recognized on an estimated basis and are billed up when we receive notice of amounts we are entitled to receive. We typically receive notice of royalty revenues we are entitled to and billed on a quarterly basis in the quarter immediately following the royalty reporting period.

Software Services

As noted above, some of our software arrangements include services considered highly interdependent or highly interrelated or require significant customization to meet the customer's desired functionality. For these software arrangements, both the software licenses and related software services revenue are not distinct and are recognized over time using the progress-to-completion method. We measure progress-to-completion primarily using labor hours incurred as it best depicts the transfer of control to the customer which occurs as we incur costs on our contracts. Contract fees are typically billed on a milestone basis as defined within contract terms. We record amounts that have been invoiced in accounts receivable and in deferred revenue or revenues, depending on whether the revenue recognition criteria have been met. When software services are distinct, the fee allocable to the service element is recognized over the time we perform the services and is billed on a time-and-material basis.

Post-Contract Customer Support

Our customers generally enter into PCS agreements when they purchase our software licenses. PCS includes telephone support, e-mail, and rights to upgrades on a when-and-if available basis. PCS is considered distinct when purchased with our software licenses. Our PCS agreements are typically renewable annually. PCS is recognized over time on a straight-line basis over the period the PCS is provided. All significant costs and expenses associated with PCS are expensed as incurred.

Computer Hardware Equipment

Revenue allocable to computer hardware equipment is recognized at a point in time when control of the equipment is transferred to the customer.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

Subscription-Based Services

Subscription-based services consist of revenues derived from SaaS arrangements, which primarily utilize the Tyler private court, and electronic filing transactions. Revenue from subscription-based services is generally recognized over time on a ratable basis over the contract term, beginning on the date that our service is made available to the customer. Our subscription contracts are generally three to five years or longer in length, billed annually in advance, and non-cancelable.

For SaaS arrangements, we evaluate whether the customer has the contractual right to take possession of our software at any time during the holding period without significant penalty and whether the customer can feasibly maintain the software or the customer's hardware or enter into another arrangement with a third-party to host the software. We allocate contract value to each performance obligation of the arrangement that qualifies for treatment as a distinct element based on estimated SSP. When it is determined that software is distinct, and the customer has the ability to take control of the software, we recognize revenue allocable to the software license fee when access to the software license is made available to the customer. We recognize hosting services ratably over the term of the arrangement, which range from one to ten years but are typically for a period of three to five years. For software services associated with certain SaaS arrangements, we have concluded that the services are not distinct, and we recognize the revenue ratably over the remaining contractual period once we have provided the customer access to the software. We record amounts that have been invoiced in accounts receivable and in deferred revenue or revenues, depending on whether the separate recognition criteria have been met.

Electronic filing transaction fees primarily pertain to documents filed with the courts by attorneys and other third-parties via our e-filing services and retrieval of filed documents via our access services. For each document filed with a court, the client generally pays a transaction fee and a court filing fee. Invoices are issued for a portion of the transaction fee and the filing fee to the court. We record as revenue the transaction fee, while the portion of the transaction fee remitted to the courts is recorded as cost of sales as we are acting as a principal in the arrangement. Court filing fees collected on behalf of the courts and remitted to the courts are recorded on a net basis and thus do not affect the statement of comprehensive income. For e-filing transaction fees, we have the right to charge the customer an amount that directly corresponds with the value to the customer of our performance to date. Therefore, we recognize revenue for these services over time based on the amount billable to the customer in accordance with the "as Invoiced" practical expedient (ASC 606-10-55-18). In some cases, we are paid on a fixed fee basis and recognize the revenue ratably over the contractual period.

Costs of performing services under subscription-based arrangements are expensed as incurred, except for certain direct and incremental contract origination and set-up costs associated with SaaS arrangements. Such direct and incremental costs are capitalized and amortized ratably over the useful life.

Appraisal Services

For our property appraisal projects, we recognize revenue using the progress-to-completion method since many of these projects are implemented over one to three-year periods and consist of various unique activities. Appraisal services require a significant level of integration and interdependency with various individual service components; therefore, the service components are not considered distinct. Appraisal services are recognized over time by measuring progress-to-completion, primarily using labor hours incurred as it best depicts the transfer of control to the customer which occurs as we incur costs on our contracts. These arrangements are often implemented over an extended time period and occasionally require us to revise total cost estimates. Amounts recognized in revenue are calculated using the progress-to-completion measurement after giving effect to any changes in our cost estimates. Changes to total estimated contract costs, if any, are recorded in the period they are determined. Estimated losses on uncompleted contracts are recorded in the period in which we first determine that a loss is apparent. Contract fees are typically billed on a milestone basis as defined within contract terms. We record amounts that have been invoiced in accounts receivable and in deferred revenue or revenues, depending on whether the revenue recognition criteria have been met.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

Significant Judgments:

Our contracts with customers often include multiple performance obligations to a customer. When a software arrangement (license or subscription) includes both software licenses and software services, judgment is required to determine whether the software license is considered distinct and accounted for separately, or not distinct and accounted for together with the software services and recognized over time.

The transaction price is allocated to the separate performance obligations on a relative SSP basis. We determine the SSP based on our overall pricing objectives, taking into consideration market conditions and other factors, including the value of our contracts, the applications sold, customer demographics, and the number and types of users within our contracts. We use a range of amounts to estimate SSP when we sell each of the products and services separately and need to determine whether there is a discount to be allocated based on the relative SSP of the various products and services. In instances where SSP is not directly observable, such as when we do not sell the product or service separately, we determine the SSP using the expected cost-plus margin approach.

For arrangements that involve significant production, modification or customization of the software, or where software services otherwise cannot be considered distinct, we recognize revenue as control is transferred to the customer over time using progress-to-completion methods. Depending on the contract, we measure progress-to-completion primarily using labor hours incurred, or value added. The progress-to-completion method generally results in the recognition of reasonably consistent profit margins over the life of a contract because we can provide reasonably dependable estimates of contract billings and contract costs. We use the level of profit margin that is most likely to occur on a contract. If the most likely profit margin cannot be precisely determined, the lowest probable level of profit margin in the range of estimates is used until the results can be estimated more precisely. These arrangements are often implemented over an extended time period and occasionally require us to revise total cost estimates. Amounts recognized in revenue are calculated using the progress-to-completion measurement after giving effect to any changes in our cost estimates. Changes to total estimated contract costs, if any, are recorded in the period they are determined. Estimated losses on uncompleted contracts are recorded in the period in which we first determine that a loss is apparent.

Typically, the structure of our arrangements does not give rise to variable consideration. However, in those instances whereby variable consideration exists, we include in our estimate additional revenue for variable consideration when we believe we have an enforceable right, the amount can be estimated reliably and its realization is probable.

Refer to Note 15 - Disaggregation of Revenue for further information, including the economic factors that affect the nature, amount, timing, and uncertainty of revenue and cash flows of our various revenue categories.

Contract Balances:

Accounts receivable and allowance for doubtful accounts

Timing of revenue recognition may differ from the timing of invoicing to customers. We record an unbilled receivable when revenue is recognized prior to invoicing, or deferred revenue when revenue is recognized subsequent to invoicing. For multi-year agreements, we generally invoice customers annually at the beginning of each annual coverage period. We record unbilled receivable related to revenue recognized for on-premises licenses as we have an unconditional right to invoice and receive payment in the future related to license fees.

We maintain allowances for doubtful accounts, which are provided at the time the revenue is recognized. Since most of our customers are domestic governmental entities, we rarely incur a loss resulting from the inability of a customer to make required payments. Events or changes in circumstances that indicate the carrying amount for the allowances for doubtful accounts may require revision include, but are not limited to, deterioration of a customer's financial condition, failure to manage our customer's expectations regarding the scope of the services to be delivered, and defects or errors in new versions or enhancements of our software products.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

The following table summarizes the changes in the allowance for doubtful accounts and sales adjustments:

Years Ended December 31,	2018	2017	2016
Balance at beginning of year	$ 3,427	$ 3,256	$ 1,640
Provision for losses - accounts receivable	2,795	4,110	4,484
Collection of accounts previously written off	(1,066)	(2,673)	(2,259)
Decreases for accounts charged off as credits issued	(1,547)	(1,427)	(1,231)
Balance at end of year	$ 3,454	$ 3,472	$ 2,624

The allowance for doubtful accounts reflects our best estimate of probable losses inherent in the accounts receivable balance. We determine the allowance based on known troubled accounts, historical experience, and other currently available evidence.

In connection with our appraisal services contracts and certain software services contracts, we may perform work prior to when the software and services are billable and/or payable pursuant to the contract. Unbilled revenue is not billable at the balance sheet date but is recoverable over the remaining life of the contract through billings made in accordance with contractual agreements. The termination clauses in most of our contracts provide for the payment for the value of products delivered or services performed in the event of early termination. We have historically recorded such unbilled receivables (costs and estimated profit in excess of billings) in connection with (1) property appraisal services contracts accounted for using progress-to-completion method of revenue recognition using labor hours as a measure of progress towards completion in which the services are performed in one accounting period but the billing normally occurs subsequently and may span another accounting period; (2) software services contracts accounted for using progress-to-completion method of revenue recognition using labor hours as a measure of progress towards completion in which the services are performed in one accounting period but the billing for the software element of the arrangement may be based upon the specific phase of the implementation; (3) software revenue for which we have recognized revenue at the point in time when the software is made available to the customer but the billing has not yet been submitted to the customer; (4) some of our contracts which provide for an amount to be withheld from a progress billing (generally between 5% and 10% retention) until final audit satisfactory project completion is achieved; and (5) in a limited number of cases, extended payment terms, which may be granted to customers with whom we generally have a long-term relationship and favorable collection history.

The opening balance of current and long-term accounts receivable, net of allowance for doubtful accounts, was $226.8 million (as adjusted) as of January 1, 2017.

As of December 31, 2018, and December 31, 2017, total current and long-term accounts receivable, net of allowance for doubtful accounts, was $314.9 million and $258.3 million (as adjusted), respectively. We have recorded unbilled receivables of $104.2 million and $146.6 million (as adjusted) at December 31, 2018, and December 31, 2017, respectively, included in unbilled receivables are retention receivables of $12.2 million and $2.2 million at December 31, 2018, and December 31, 2017, respectively, which become payable upon the completion of the contract or completion of our fieldwork and formal hearings. Unbilled receivables expected to be collected within one year have been included with accounts receivable, current portion in the accompanying consolidated balance sheets. Unbilled receivables and retention receivables expected to be collected past one year have been included with accounts receivable, long-term portion in the accompanying consolidated balance sheets.

Payment terms and conditions vary by contract type, although terms generally include a requirement of payment within 30 to 60 days. In instances where the timing of revenue recognition differs from the timing of invoicing, we have determined our contracts generally do not include a significant financing component. The primary purpose of our invoicing terms is to provide customers with simplified and predictable ways of purchasing our products and services, not to receive financing from our customers or to provide customers with financing. Examples include invoicing at the beginning of a subscription term with revenue recognized ratably over the contract period, and multi-year on-premises term licenses that are invoiced annually with revenue recognized upfront.

Deferred Revenue

The majority of deferred revenue consists of deferred maintenance revenue that has been billed based on contractual terms in the underlying arrangement, with the remaining balance consisting of payments received in advance of revenue being earned under software licensing, subscription-based services, software and appraisal services and software installation. Refer to Note 16 - Deferred Revenue and Performance Obligations for further information, including deferred revenue by segment and changes in deferred revenue during the period.

Deferred Commission

Sales commissions earned by our sales force are considered incremental and recoverable costs of obtaining a contract with a customer. Sales commissions for initial contracts are deferred and then amortized on a straight-line basis over a period of benefit that we have determined to be three to seven years. We utilized the "portfolio approach" practical expedient in ASC 606-10-10-4, which allows entities to apply the guidance to a portfolio of contracts with similar characteristics because the effects on the financial statements of this approach would not differ materially from applying the guidance to individual contracts. Using the "portfolio approach", we determined the period of benefit by taking into consideration our customer contracts, our technology life-cycle and other factors. Sales commissions for renewal contracts are generally not paid in connection with the renewal of a contract. In the small number of instances where a commission is paid on a renewal, it is not commensurate with the commission paid on the initial sale and is recognized over the term of renewal, which is generally one year. Amortization expense related to deferred commissions is included in selling, general and administrative expenses in the accompanying consolidated statements of income. Refer to Note 17 - Deferred Commissions for further information.

Prepaid expenses and other current assets include direct and incremental costs such as commissions associated with arrangements for which revenue recognition has been deferred. Such costs are expensed at the time the related revenue is recognized.

USE OF ESTIMATES

The preparation of our financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States ("GAAP") requires us to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Significant items subject to such estimates and assumptions include revenue recognition, determining the nature and timing of satisfaction of performance obligations, and determining the SSP of performance obligations, variable consideration, and other obligations such as returns and refunds; loss contingencies; the estimated useful life of deferred commissions; the carrying amount and estimated useful lives of intangible assets; determining share-based compensation expense; the valuation allowance for receivables; and determining the potential outcome of future tax consequences of events that have been recognized on our consolidated financial statements or tax returns. Actual results could differ from estimates.

PROPERTY AND EQUIPMENT, NET

Property, equipment and purchased software are recorded at original cost and increased by the cost of any significant improvements after purchase. We expense maintenance and repair when incurred. Depreciation and amortization is calculated using the straight-line method over the shorter of the asset's estimated useful life or the term of the lease for the case of leasehold improvements. For income tax purposes, we use accelerated depreciation methods as allowed by tax laws.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT COSTS

We expensed research and development costs of $63.3 million in 2018, $47.3 million in 2017, and $43.2 million in 2016.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

INCOME TAXES

Income taxes are accounted for under the asset and liability method. Deferred taxes arise because of different treatment between financial statement accounting and tax accounting, known as "temporary differences." We record the tax effect of these temporary differences as "deferred tax assets" (generally items that can be used as a tax deduction or credit in the future periods) and "deferred tax liabilities" (generally items that we received a tax deduction for, which have not yet been recorded in the income statement). The deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured using enacted tax rates and laws that are expected to be in effect when the temporary differences are expected to be recovered or settled. A valuation allowance would be established to reduce deferred tax assets if it is more likely than not that a deferred tax asset will not be "realized." On December 22, 2018, the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (the "Tax Act") was enacted into law. The Tax Act amends the Internal Revenue Code to reduce tax rates and modify policies, credits and deductions for individuals and businesses. For businesses, the Tax Act reduces the corporate U.S. federal tax rate from a maximum of 35% to a flat 21% rate and transitions from a worldwide tax system to a territorial tax system. Under ASC 740 Income Taxes, the effects of changes in tax rates and laws are recognized in the period in which the new legislation is enacted. See Note 7 – "Income Tax" for further discussion related to the Tax Act.

SHARE-BASED COMPENSATION

We have a share-based award plan that provides for the grant of stock options, restricted stock units, and performance share units to key employees, directors and non-employee consultants. Stock options generally vest after three to six years of continuous service from the date of grant and have a contractual term of 10 years. Restricted stock unit grants generally vest ratably over three to five years of continuous service from the date of grant. Each performance share unit represents the right to receive one share of our common stock based on our achievement of certain financial performance targets during applicable performance periods. We account for share-based compensation utilizing the fair value recognition pursuant to ASC 718, Stock Compensation. See Note 9 – "Share-Based Compensation" for further information.

GOODWILL AND OTHER INTANGIBLE ASSETS

Goodwill

Goodwill represents the excess of the purchase price over the fair value of net assets acquired, including identifiable intangible assets, in connection with our business combinations. Upon acquisition, goodwill is assigned to the reporting unit that is expected to benefit from the synergies of the business combination, which is the reporting unit to which the related acquired technology is assigned. A reporting unit is the operating segment, or a business unit one level below that operating segment, for which discrete financial information is prepared and regularly reviewed by executive management.

We assess goodwill for impairment annually as of April 1st, or more frequently whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate its carrying value may not be recoverable. We begin with the qualitative assessment of whether it is more likely than not that a reporting unit's fair value is less than its carrying value before applying the quantitative assessment described below. If it is determined through the evaluation of events or circumstances that the carrying value may not be recoverable, we perform a comparison of the estimated fair value of the reporting unit to which the goodwill has been assigned to the sum of the carrying value of the assets and liabilities of that unit. If the sum of the carrying value of the assets and liabilities of a reporting unit exceeds the estimated fair value of that reporting unit, the carrying value of the reporting unit's goodwill is reduced to its fair value through an adjustment to the goodwill balance, resulting in an impairment charge. The fair values calculated in our impairment tests are determined using discounted cash flow models involving several assumptions. The assumptions that are used are based upon what we believe a hypothetical marketplace participant would use in estimating fair value. We evaluate the reasonableness of the fair value calculations of our reporting units by comparing the total of the fair value of all of our reporting units to our total market capitalization.

We did not record any goodwill impairment charges for the years ended December 31, 2018 and 2017. See Note 4 – Goodwill and Other Intangible Assets, for additional information.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

Other Intangible Assets

We make judgments about the recoverability of purchased intangible assets other than goodwill whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that an impairment may exist. Customer base and acquired software each comprise approximately half of our purchased intangible assets other than goodwill. We review our customer turnover each year for indications of impairment. Our customer turnover has historically been very low. If indications of impairment are identified in a unit, we measure the recoverability of assets by a comparison of the carrying amount of the asset to the estimated undiscounted future cash flows expected to be generated by the asset. If the carrying amount of the asset exceeds their estimated future cash flows, an impairment charge is recognized for the amount by which the carrying amount of the asset exceeds the fair value of the assets. There have been no significant impairments of intangible assets in any of the periods presented.

IMPAIRMENT OF LONG-LIVED ASSETS

We periodically evaluate whether current facts or circumstances indicate that the carrying value of our property and equipment or other long-lived assets to be held and used may not be recoverable. If such circumstances are determined to exist, we measure the recoverability of assets to be held and used by a comparison of the carrying amount of the asset or appropriate grouping of assets and the estimated undiscounted future cash flows expected to be generated by the assets. If the carrying amount of the assets exceeds their estimated future cash flows, an impairment charge is recognized for the amount by which the carrying amount of the assets exceeds the fair value of the assets. Assets to be disposed of would be separately presented in the balance sheet and reported at the lower of the carrying amount or fair value less costs to sell, and would no longer be depreciated. The assets and liabilities of a disposed group classified as held for sale would be presented separately in the appropriate asset and liability sections of the balance sheet. There have been no significant impairments of long-lived assets in any of the periods presented.

COSTS OF COMPUTER SOFTWARE

We capitalize software development costs upon the establishment of technological feasibility and prior to the availability of the product for general release to customers. Software development costs primarily consist of personnel costs and rent for related office space. We begin to amortize capitalized costs when a product is available for general release to customers. Amortization expense is determined on a product-by-product basis at a rate not less than straight-line basis over the product's remaining estimated economic life. We have not capitalized any internal software development costs in any of the periods presented.

FAIR VALUE OF FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

Cash and cash equivalents, accounts receivable, accounts payable, short-term obligations and certain other assets at cost approximate fair value because of the short maturity of these instruments. The fair value of our revolving line of credit would approximate book value as of December 31, 2018, because our interest rates reset approximately every 30 days or less. See Note 6 – "Revolving Line of Credit" for further discussion.

As of December 31, 2018, we have $97.7 million in investment grade corporate bonds, municipal bonds and asset-backed securities with maturity dates ranging from 2018 through 2022. We intend to hold these bonds to maturity and have classified them as such. We believe cost approximates fair value because of the relatively short duration of these investments. The fair values of these securities are considered Level 1 as they are based on inputs from quoted prices in markets that are not active or from other observable market data. These investments are included in short-term investments and non-current investments and other assets.

As of December 31, 2018, we have $15.0 million invested in convertible preferred stock representing a 20% interest in Rascal Holdings Pty Limited, a privately held Australian company specializing in digitizing the spoken word in court and legal proceedings. The investment in convertible preferred stock is accounted under the cost method because we do not have the ability to exercise significant influence over the investee and the securities do not have readily determinable fair values. Our investment is carried at cost less any impairment write-downs. Annually, our cost method investments are assessed for impairment. We do not reassess the fair value of cost method investments if there are no identified events or changes in circumstances that may have a significant adverse effect on the fair value of the investments. There has been no impairment of our cost method investment for the periods presented. Rascal's investment is included in non-current investments and other assets in the accompanying consolidated balance sheets.

CONCENTRATIONS OF CREDIT RISK

Financial instruments that potentially subject us to significant concentrations of credit risk consist principally of cash and cash equivalents, accounts receivable from trade customers, and investments in marketable securities. Our cash and cash equivalents primarily consist of operating account balances and money market funds, which are maintained at several major domestic financial institutions and the balances often exceed insured amounts. As of December 31, 2018, we had cash and cash equivalents of $14.3 million. We perform periodic evaluations of the credit standing of these financial institutions.

Concentrations of credit risk with respect to receivables are limited due to the size and geographical diversity of our customer base. Historically, our credit losses have not been significant. As a result, we do not believe we have any significant concentrations of credit risk as of December 31, 2018.

We maintain allowances for doubtful accounts, which are provided at the time the revenue is recognized. Since most of our customers are domestic governmental entities, we rarely incur a loss resulting from the inability of a customer to make required payments. Events or changes in circumstances that indicate the carrying amount for the allowances for doubtful accounts may require revision include, but are not limited to, determination of a customer's financial condition, failure to manage our customer's expectations regarding the scope of the services to be delivered, and defects or errors in new versions or enhancements of our software products.

INDEMNIFICATION

Most of our software license agreements indemnify our customers in the event that the software sold infringes upon the intellectual property rights of a third party. These agreements typically provide that in such event we will either modify or replace the software so that it becomes non-infringing or procure for the customer the right to use the software. We have recorded no liability associated with these indemnifications, as we are not aware of any pending or threatened infringement actions that are possible losses. We believe the estimated fair value of these intellectual property indemnification clauses is minimal.

We have also agreed to indemnify our officers and board members if they are retained or threatened to be named as a party to any proceeding by reason of the fact that they acted in such capacity. We maintain directors' and officers' liability insurance coverage to protect against any such losses. We have recorded no liability associated with these indemnifications. Because of our insurance coverage, we believe the estimated fair value of these indemnification agreements is minimal.

RECLASSIFICATIONS

Certain amounts for previous years have been reclassified to conform to the current year presentation.

RECENTLY ADOPTED ACCOUNTING PRONOUNCEMENTS

Revenue from Contracts with Customers. In May 2014, the Financial Accounting Standards Board ("FASB") issued ASU No. 2014-09, Revenue from Contracts with Customers. ASU No. 2014-09 supersedes the revenue recognition requirements at Accounting Standards Codification ("ASC") Topic 605, Revenue Recognition, and requires the recognition of revenue when promised goods or services are transferred to customers in an amount that reflects the consideration to which the entity expects to be entitled in exchange for those goods or services. This model involves a five-step process that includes identifying the contract with the customer, identifying the performance obligations in the contract, determining the transaction price, allocating the transaction price to the performance obligations in the contract and recognizing revenue when (or as) the entity satisfies the performance obligations. Topic 606 also includes Subtopic 340-40, Other Assets and Deferred Costs - Contracts with Customers, which requires the deferral of incremental costs of obtaining a contract with a customer. Collectively, we refer to ASU No. 2014-09 and Subtopic 340-40 as the "new standard."

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

We adopted the requirements of the new standard as of January 1, 2018, utilizing the full retrospective method of transition. Adoption of the new standard resulted in changes to our accounting policies for revenue recognition, trade and other receivables, and deferred commissions, as detailed below. We applied the new standard using a practical expedient where the consideration allocated to the remaining performance obligations or an explanation of when we expect to recognize that amount as revenue for all reporting periods presented before the date of the initial application is not disclosed.

The impact of adopting ASU No. 2014-09 on our total revenues for 2017 and 2016 was not material. The impact of adopting the new standard on our retained earnings and deferred commissions is material. The most significant impact of the new standard relates to our accounting for software license revenue. Specifically, under the new standard, software license fees under perpetual agreements are no longer subject to 20% discount allocations from other performance obligations in the contract. Discounts in arrangements are allocated across all performance obligations. Increasing license revenues and decreasing revenues allocated to other performance obligations. In addition, in most cases, net license fees (total license fees less any allocated discounts) are recognized at the point in time when control of the software license transfers to the customer versus our legacy policy of recognizing revenue upon delivery and only to the extent billable per the contractual terms. Under the new standard, time-based license fees are no longer recognized over the contractual period of the license and are instead recognized at the point in time when the control of the software license transfers to the customer. Revenues related to our PCS renewals, SaaS offerings and appraisal services remain substantially unchanged. Due to the complexity of certain contracts, the actual revenue recognition treatment required under the new standard is dependent on contract-specific terms and may vary in some instances from recognition at the time of billing.

Adoption of the new standard requires that incremental costs directly related to obtaining a contract (typically sales commission) must be recognized as an asset and expensed on a systematic basis that is consistent with the transfer to the customer of the goods and services to which the asset relates, unless that life is less than one year. Prior to adoption of the new standard, we deferred sales commissions and recognized expense over the relevant initial contractual term, which was generally one to two years. Under the new standard, we amortize these costs over a period of benefit that we have determined to be three to seven years.

We adjusted our consolidated financial statements from amounts previously reported due to the adoption of the new standard. Select unaudited condensed consolidated statement of income line items, which reflect the adoption of the new standard, are as follows (in thousands, except per share data):

Recent tax legislation. On December 22, 2017, the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act ("Tax Act") was enacted into law. The Tax Act amends the Internal Revenue Code to reduce tax rates and modify credits, credits and deductions for businesses and individuals. For businesses, the Tax Act reduces the U.S. corporate federal income tax rate from a maximum of 35% to a flat 21% rate and transitions from a worldwide tax system to a territorial tax system. The Tax Act also adds many new provisions including changes to bonus depreciation, the deduction for executive compensation and a tax on global intangible low-taxed income (GILTI). The most significant impact of the Tax Act to us is the reduction in the U.S. federal corporate income tax rate. Refer to Note 7 - Income Tax Provision for further information.

NEW ACCOUNTING PRONOUNCEMENTS

Recent Accounting Guidance not yet Adopted

Leases. On February 25, 2016, the FASB issued its new lease accounting guidance in ASU No. 2016-02, Leases ("Topic 842"). Under the new guidance, lessees will be required to recognize the following for all leases (with the exception of short-term leases) at the commencement date:

- A lease liability, which is a lessee's obligation to make lease payments arising from a lease, measured on a discounted basis; and
- A right-of-use asset, which is an asset that represents the lessee's right to use, or control the use of, a specified asset for the lease term.

Topic 842 is effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2018, including interim periods therein. Early application is permitted for all business entities upon issuance. Upon adoption, entities will be required to use a modified retrospective approach with an option to use certain practical expedients. We expect to adopt ASU 2016-02 when effective, using the transition method that allows us to initially apply the guidance at the adoption date of January 1, 2019, and recognize a cumulative-effect adjustment to the opening balance of retained earnings in the period of adoption. We expect to use the package of practical expedients that allows us to not reassess: (1) lease classification for any expired or existing leases and (2) initial direct costs for any expired or existing leases. We expect ASU 2016-02 will impact our consolidated financial statements and related disclosures. We are currently evaluating the extent of the impact and expect that most of our lease commitments will be subject to the updated guidance and recognized as lease liabilities and right-of-use assets on our consolidated balance sheet upon adoption. Based on our current portfolio of leases, we estimate a range of $15.5 million to $128 million of lease assets and liabilities to be recognized on our balance sheet, primarily relating to office facilities.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

(2) ACQUISITIONS

2018

On December 7, 2016, we acquired certain assets and intellectual property of SceneDoc, Inc ("SceneDoc"), a company that provides mobile-first, SaaS field reporting for law enforcement agencies. The total purchase price was approximately $6.2 million, of which $5.4 million was paid in cash and approximately $793,600 accrued for a working capital holdback, subject to certain post-closing adjustments.

On October 1, 2018, we acquired all of the equity interests of TradeMaster, Inc. dba MobileEyez ("MobileEyez"), a company that develops SaaS software to improve public safety by supporting fire prevention and suppression, emergency response, and structural safety. The total purchase price was approximately $5.3 million in cash.

On August 31, 2018, we acquired all of the assets of CaseloadPRO, L.P., a company that provides a fully featured SaaS probation case management system. The purchase price of $3.3 million was paid in cash.

On April 30, 2018, we acquired all of the capital stock of Sociata, Inc ("Sociata"), a company that provides open data and data-as-a-service solutions including cloud-based data integration, visualization, analysis, and reporting solutions for state and local government agencies. The purchase price, net of cash acquired of $17 million, was $475 million paid in cash.

We have performed a valuation analysis of the fair market value of Sociata's assets and liabilities. The following table summarizes the allocation of the purchase price as of the acquisition date:

In thousands
Cash	$ 17,000
Accounts receivable	2,615
Other current assets	2,057
Other noncurrent assets	66
Deferred tax assets, net	20
Identifiable intangible assets	13,600
Goodwill	25,652
Accounts payable	(1,754)
Accrued expenses	(1,694)
Deferred revenue	15,410
Total acquisition	$143,329

In connection with this transaction, we acquired total tangible assets of $75 million and assumed liabilities of approximately $8 million. We recorded goodwill of $75.7 million, none of which is expected to be deductible for tax purposes, and other identifiable intangible assets of approximately $75.0 million. The $75.0 million of intangible assets are attributable to customer relationships, acquired software, and trade name and will be amortized over a weighted average period of approximately 12 years. We recorded deferred tax assets, net of approximately $20,000 related to estimated fair value allocations. Sociata's solutions are a direct complement to our current offerings and will provide a new and important additional revenue stream. By offering Sociata within virtually every Tyler product suite, our clients will have the opportunity to make their existing data discoverable, usable and actionable, but more importantly, potentially include data from other agencies and jurisdictions to make analysis even more powerful and meaningful. Therefore, the goodwill of $75.7 million arising from this acquisition is primarily attributed to our ability to integrate Sociata's solutions with our existing portfolio and to generate increased revenues, earnings and cash flow by leveraging our sales resources and client base. Our final valuation of the fair market value of Sociata's assets and liabilities resulted in adjustments to the preliminary opening balance sheet. These adjustments related to a reduction in deferred income taxes and accrued expenses resulting in a net decrease to goodwill of approximately $3.3 million. We also incurred fees of approximately $578,000 for financial advisory, legal, accounting, due diligence, valuation and other various services necessary to complete the acquisition. These fees were expensed in 2018 and are included in selling, general and administrative expenses.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

The following unaudited pro forma information of the consolidated results of operations have been prepared as if the Sociata acquisition had occurred at January 1, 2017, after giving effect to certain adjustments, including amortization of intangibles, interest, transaction costs and tax effects.

Twelve Months Ended December 31,	2018	2017
Revenue	$543,722	$685,944
Net Income	133,315	150,218
Basic earnings per share	1.82	4.04
Diluted earnings per share	1.41	3.81

Pro forma information above does not include acquisitions that are not considered material to our results of operations. The pro forma information does not purport to represent what our results of operations actually would have been had such transactions or events occurred on the dates specified, or to project our results of operations for any future period.

On April 10, 2018, we acquired all of the equity interests of Sage Data Security, LLC ("Sage"), a cybersecurity company offering a suite of services that supports an entire cybersecurity lifecycle, including program development, education and training, technical testing, advisory services, and digital forensics. The total purchase price was $116 million paid in cash. Tyler has performed a valuation analysis of the fair market value of Sage's assets and liabilities. As a result, we acquired total tangible assets of approximately $1.8 million and assumed liabilities of approximately $730,000. We have recorded total goodwill of approximately $3.5 million, all of which is expected to be deductible for tax purposes, and other intangible assets of approximately $7.0 million. The $7.0 million of intangible assets is attributable to customer relationships, acquired software and trade name and will be amortized over a weighted average period of approximately 14 years.

As of December 31, 2018, the purchase price allocations for Sage, Sociata, CaseLoadPro, and MobileEyes are complete. As of December 31, 2018, the purchase price allocation for SceneDoc is not yet complete, therefore the preliminary valuation estimates of fair value assumed at the acquisition date for intangible assets, receivables and deferred revenue and related deferred taxes are subject to change as valuations are finalized.

The operating results of all 2018 acquisitions are included with the operating results of the Enterprise Software segment since their date of acquisition. Revenue from Sociata included in Tyler's results of operations totaled approximately $18.9 million and the net loss was $15.5 million for the twelve months ended December 31, 2018. The impact of the Sage, CaseLoadPro, MobileEyes and SceneDoc acquisitions, individually and in the aggregate, on our operating results, assets and liabilities is not material.

Our balance sheet as of December 31, 2018, reflects the allocation of the purchase price to the assets acquired based on their fair value at the date of each acquisition. The fair value of the assets and liabilities acquired are based on valuations using Level III, unobservable inputs that are supported by little or no market activity and that are significant to the fair value of the assets or liabilities.

On November 29, 2017, we acquired audio and digital two-way radio communication technology and related assets from Radio 10-33, LLC. The total purchase price was $14 million, all of which was paid in cash.

On August 2, 2017, we acquired substantially all of the assets and assumed certain liabilities of Digital Health Department, Inc. ("DHD"), a company that provides environmental health software, offering a SaaS solution for public health compliance and inspection processes. The total purchase price, net of debt assumed, was $4.9 million, all of which was paid in cash.

On May 30, 2017, we acquired all of the capital stock of Modria.com, Inc., a company that specializes in online dispute resolution for government and commercial entities. The total purchase price, net of debt assumed, was $7.0 million, of which $6.1 million was paid in cash and $900,000 was accrued as of December 31, 2017.

The operating results of these acquisitions are included in our results of operations of the Enterprise Software segment from their respective dates of acquisition. The impact of these acquisitions, individually and in the aggregate, on our operating results, assets and liabilities is not material.

On May 21, 2016, we acquired all of the capital stock of Eterotimo Software, LLC, a leading provider of time, attendance, and advanced scheduling software solutions. The total purchase price, net of debt assumed, was $74 million. The fair value of the assets and liabilities acquired are based on valuations using Level III, unobservable inputs that are supported by little or no market activity and that are significant to the fair value of the assets or liabilities. The operating results of this acquisition are included in our results of operations of the Enterprise Software segment from the date of the acquisition. The impact of this acquisition on our operating results is not material.

(6) REVOLVING LINE OF CREDIT

On November 16, 2016, we entered into a $300.0 million Credit Agreement (the "Credit Facility") with the various lenders party thereto and Wells Fargo Bank, National Association, as Administrative Agent. The Credit Facility provides for a revolving credit line of up to $300.0 million, including a $10.0 million sublimit for letters of credit. The Credit Facility matures on November 16, 2023. Borrowings under the Credit Facility may be used for general corporate purposes, including working capital requirements, acquisitions and share repurchases.

Borrowings under the Credit Facility bear interest at a rate of either (1) Wells Fargo Bank's prime rate (subject to a minimum higher rate determination) plus a margin of 0.25% to 1.00% or (2) the 30, 60, 90 or 180-day LIBOR rate plus a margin of 1.25% to 2.00%. As of December 31, 2018, our interest rate was 5.75% under the prime rate option or approximately 3.77% under the 30-day LIBOR option. The Credit Facility is secured by substantially all our assets. The Credit Facility requires us to maintain certain financial ratios and other financial conditions and prohibits us from making certain investments, advances, cash dividends or loans, and limits incurrence of additional indebtedness and liens. As of December 31, 2018, we were in compliance with those covenants.

As of December 31, 2018, we had no outstanding borrowings and had unused borrowing capacity of $300.0 million under the Credit Facility. In addition, as of December 31, 2018, we had no outstanding letters of credit.

We paid interest of $770,600 in 2018, $804,000 in 2017 and $18 million in 2016.

On December 22, 2017, the Tax Act was enacted into law. The Tax Act amends the Internal Revenue Code to reduce tax rates and modify policies, credits and deductions for individuals and businesses. For businesses, the Tax Act reduces the U.S. corporate federal tax rate from a maximum of 35% to a flat 21% rate and transitions from a worldwide tax system to a territorial tax system. The Tax Act also adds many new provisions including changes to bonus depreciation, the deduction for executive compensation and a tax on global intangible low-taxed income (GILTI). The most significant impact of the Tax Act to us is the reduction in the U.S. federal corporate income tax rate from 35% to 21%. The impact of the rate reduction on our 2017 income tax provision was a $26.0 million (as adjusted) tax benefit due to the remeasurement of deferred tax assets and liabilities. We recorded an additional $1.8 million tax benefit in 2018 after our 2017 tax returns were finalized. The accounting for the income tax effects of the Tax Act was completed during the fourth quarter of 2018. Overall, the changes due to the Tax Act will favorably affect, improve tax expense and future U.S. earnings.

The tax effects of the major items recorded as deferred tax assets and liabilities as of December 31 are:

	As Adjusted
Deferred income tax assets:
Operating expenses not currently deductible	$ 7,985	$ 3,714
Stock options and other employee benefit plans	13,496	16,352
Risks and credits carryforwards	17,599	—
Total deferred income tax assets	49,080	20,066
Valuation allowance	(11,049)	—
Total deferred income tax assets, net of valuation allowance	38,031	20,066
Deferred income tax liabilities:
Intangible assets	(17,757)	(63,187)
Property and equipment	(8,451)	(5,693)
Prepaid expenses	(4,079)	(199)
Deferred revenue	(13,940)	(8,647)
Total deferred income tax liabilities	(44,227)	(77,726)
Net deferred income tax liabilities	$ (6,196)	$ (57,660)

The above 2017 balances reflect an $8.0 million deferred tax liability related to the recognition of revenue as part of the adoption of ASU No. 2014-09.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

During 2018, we acquired federal and state net operating loss and tax credit carryforwards totaling $18.0 million in connection with the acquisition of Sociata. The federal and state net operating loss and tax credit carryforwards will expire in various years beginning in 2027, if not utilized. The acquired net operating loss and tax credit carryforwards are subject to an annual limitation but are expected to be realized with the exception of certain state net operating loss carryforwards. The valuation allowance disclosed in the table above relates to state net operating losses not likely to be realized. We believe it is more likely than not that all other deferred tax assets will be realized. However, the amount of the deferred tax asset considered realizable could be adjusted in the future if estimates of reversing taxable temporary differences are revised.

In connection with the acquisition of Sociata in 2018, we recorded a $1.0 million liability for an uncertain tax position associated with acquired tax credit carryforwards. The unrecognized tax benefits are included in deferred income taxes in our consolidated balance sheets and are reflected in the opening balance sheet of Sociata. The entire amount, if recognized, would affect the effective tax rate.

The aggregate changes in the balance of unrecognized tax benefits were as follows:

Balance at beginning of year	$ 1.0
Increase for tax positions relating to prior years	1.9
Balance at end of year	$ 2.9

Based on the information currently available, we do not anticipate a significant increase or decrease to our tax contingencies for these issues for the next 12 months.

We are subject to U.S. federal tax, as well as income tax of multiple state, local and foreign jurisdictions. We are routinely subject to income tax examinations by these taxing jurisdictions, but we do not have a history of, nor do we expect any material adjustments as a result of these examinations. During 2017, the Internal Revenue Service issued a "no change" letter upon completion of their examination of our 2012 tax year. With few exceptions, major U.S. federal, state, local and foreign jurisdictions are no longer subject to examination for years before 2014. As of February 20, 2018, no significant adjustments have been prepared by any taxing jurisdiction.

We paid income taxes, net of refunds received, of $6.8 million in 2018, $36.0 million in 2017, and $10.2 million in 2016.

(8) SHAREHOLDERS' EQUITY

(9) SHARE-BASED COMPENSATION

Share-Based Compensation Plan

In May 2018, stockholders approved the Tyler Technologies, Inc. 2018 Stock Incentive Plan ("the 2018 Plan") which amended and restated the existing Tyler Technologies, Inc. 2010 Stock Option Plan ("the 2010 Plan"). Upon stockholder approval of the 2018 Plan, the remaining shares available for grant under the 2010 Plan were added to the shares authorized for grant under the 2018 Plan. Additionally, any awards previously granted under the 2010 Plan that expire unexercised or are forfeited are added to the shares authorized for grant under the 2018 Plan.

During fiscal year 2018, we granted stock awards under the 2018 Plan in the form of stock options, restricted stock units and performance share units. Stock options generally vest after three to six years of continuous service from the date of grant and have a contractual term of 10 years. Once options become exercisable, the employee can purchase shares of our common stock at the market price on the date we granted the option. Restricted stock unit grants generally vest ratably over three to five years of continuous service from the date of grant. Each performance share unit represents the right to receive one share of our common stock based on our achievement of certain financial performance targets during applicable performance periods. We account for share-based compensation utilizing the fair value recognition pursuant to ASC 718, Stock Compensation.

As of December 31, 2018, there were 3.8 million shares available for future grants under the plan from the 22.9 million shares previously approved by the shareholders.

Determining Fair Value of Stock Compensation

Valuation and Amortization Method. We estimate the fair value of stock option awards granted using the Black-Scholes option valuation model. For restricted stock unit and performance stock unit awards, we amortize the fair value of all awards on a straight-line basis over the requisite service periods, which are generally the vesting periods.

Expected Life. The expected life of awards granted represents the period of time that they are expected to be outstanding. The expected life represents the weighted-average period the stock options are expected to be outstanding based primarily on the options' vesting terms, remaining contractual life and the employees' expected exercise based on historical patterns.

Expected Volatility. Using the Black-Scholes option valuation model, we estimate the volatility of our common stock at the date of grant based on the historical volatility of our common stock.

Risk-Free Interest Rate. We base the risk-free interest rate used in the Black-Scholes option valuation model on the implied yield currently available on U.S. Treasury zero-coupon issues with an equivalent remaining term equal to the expected life of the award.

Expected Dividend Yield. We have not paid any cash dividends on our common stock in more than ten years and we do not anticipate paying any cash dividends in the foreseeable future. Consequently, we use an expected dividend yield of zero in the Black-Scholes option valuation model.

Expected Forfeitures. We use historical data to estimate pre-vesting option forfeitures. We record share-based compensation only for those awards that are expected to vest.

The purchase price of the shares is equal to 85% of the closing price of Tyler stock on the last day of each quarterly offering period. As of December 31, 2018, there were 749,000 shares available for future grants under the ESPP from the 2.0 million shares previously approved by the stockholders.

(11) LEASES

We lease office facilities for use in our operations, as well as transportation and other equipment. Most of our leases are non-cancelable operating lease agreements and they expire at various dates through 2026. In addition to rent, the leases generally require us to pay taxes, maintenance, insurance and certain other operating expenses.

Rent expense was approximately $8.0 million in 2018, $6.9 million in 2017, and $6.7 million in 2016, which included rent expense associated with related party lease agreements of $150,000 in 2017, and $300,000 in 2016. We had no related party lease agreements in 2018.

We made contributions to the plan and charged operating results $9.3 million in 2018, $7.0 million in 2017, and $6.9 million in 2016.

(13) COMMITMENTS AND CONTINGENCIES

Other than routine litigation incidental to our business, there are no material legal proceedings pending to which we are party or to which any of our properties are subject.

The ES segment provides municipal and county governments and schools with software systems and services to meet their information technology and automation needs for mission-critical "back-office" functions such as financial management and courts and justice and public safety processes. The Appraisal and Tax ("AT") segment provides systems and software that automate the appraisal and assessment of real and personal property as well as property appraisal consulting services for local governments and taxing authorities. Property appraisal consulting services include: the physical inspection of commercial and residential properties; data collection and processing; computer analysis for property valuation; preparation of tax rolls; community education; and arbitration between taxpayers and the assessing jurisdiction.

We evaluate performance based on several factors, of which the primary financial measure is business segment operating income. We define segment operating income for our business units as income before non-cash amortization of intangible assets associated with their acquisition, interest expense and income taxes. Segment operating income includes intercompany transactions. The majority of intercompany transactions relate to contracts involving more than one unit and are valued based on the contractual arrangement. Segment operating income for corporate primarily consists of compensation costs for the executive management team and certain accounting and administrative staff and share-based compensation expense for the entire company. Corporate segment operating income also includes revenues and expenses related to a company-wide user conference. The accounting policies of the reportable segments are the same as those described in Note 1, "Summary of Significant Accounting Policies."

Segment assets include net accounts receivable, prepaid expenses and other current assets (and net) property and equipment. Corporate assets consist of cash and investments, prepaid insurance, intangibles associated with acquisitions, deferred income taxes and net property and equipment mainly related to unallocated information and technology assets.

ES segment capital expenditures included $2.2 million in 2018 and $24.4 million in 2017 for the expansion of existing buildings and purchases of buildings and land.

Recurring Revenue

The majority of our revenue is comprised of recurring revenues from maintenance and subscriptions. Virtually all of our on-premises software clients contract with us for maintenance and support, which provides us with a significant source of recurring revenue. We generally provide maintenance and support for our on-premises clients under annual, or in some cases, multi-year contracts. The contract terms for subscription arrangements range from one to 10 years but are typically contracted for initial periods of three to five years, providing a significant source of recurring revenues on an annual basis. Non-recurring revenues are derived for all other revenue categories.

Recurring revenues and non-recurring revenues recognized during the period are as follows:

For the year ended December 31, 2018	Enterprise Software	Appraisal and Tax	Corporate	Total
Recurring revenues	$579,245	$14,474	$ —	$593,719
Non-recurring revenues	283,426	$5,937	4,861	$294,224

Total revenues	$874,021	$7,256	$4,861	$886,138

For the year ended December 31, 2017 (As Adjusted)	Enterprise Software	Appraisal and Tax	Corporate	Total
Recurring revenues	$652,018	$25,477	$ —	$677,495
Non-recurring revenues	252,830	32,101	4,512	$289,443

Total revenues	$915,323	$47,103	$4,512	$966,938

(16) DEFERRED REVENUE AND PERFORMANCE OBLIGATIONS

Total deferred revenue, including long-term, by segment is as follows:

Total	$305,806	$ 300,107

The opening balance of total deferred revenue, including long-term, was $280.1 million (as adjusted) as of January 1, 2017.

Changes in total deferred revenue, including long-term, were as follows:

	2018
	As Adjusted	As Adjusted
Balance at beginning of year	$ 280,107	$ 280,107
Deferral of revenue	$71,416	$71,416
Reversal of deferred revenue	(189,443)	(189,443)
Balance at end of year	$ 352,080	$ 352,080

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

Transaction Price Allocated to the Remaining Performance Obligations

The aggregate amount of transaction price allocated to the remaining performance obligations represents contracted revenue that has not yet been recognized ("backlog"), which includes deferred revenue amounts that will be invoiced and recognized as revenue in future periods. Backlog as of December 31, 2018 was $1.25 billion, of which we expect to recognize approximately 50% of revenue over the next 12 months and the remainder thereafter.

(17) DEFERRED COMMISSIONS

Sales commissions earned by our sales force are considered incremental and recoverable costs of obtaining a contract with a customer. Sales commissions for initial contracts are deferred and then amortized commensurate with the recognition of associated revenue over a period of benefit that we have determined to be three to seven years. Deferred commissions were $218 million and $193 million (as adjusted) as of December 31, 2018 and December 31, 2017, respectively. Amortization expense was $16.6 million for the twelve months ended December 31, 2018 and $11.2 million (as adjusted) for the twelve months ended December 31, 2017, respectively. There were no indicators of impairment in relation to the costs capitalized for the periods presented. Deferred commissions have been included with prepaid expenses in the accompanying consolidated balance sheets. Amortization expense related to deferred commissions is included in selling, general and administrative expenses in the accompanying consolidated statements of income.

(18) SUBSEQUENT EVENTS

The following events and transactions occurred subsequent to December 31, 2018:

On January 31, 2019, (i) Tyler Technologies, Inc., a Delaware corporation ("Parent"), (ii) TME Subsidiary, Inc., a Delaware corporation and a wholly owned subsidiary of Parent ("Merger Sub"), (iii) MP Holdings Parent, Inc., dba MicroPact, a Delaware corporation ("MicroPact"), and (iv) Aragon Capital Partners II, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership ("Representative"), signed an Agreement and Plan of Merger (the "Merger Agreement").

The Merger Agreement provides for the merger of Merger Sub with and into MicroPact on the terms and subject to the conditions set forth in the Merger Agreement, with MicroPact as the surviving company and a wholly owned, direct subsidiary of Parent.

Pursuant to the Merger Agreement, Parent will pay MicroPact's shareholders aggregate merger consideration of approximately $35.0 million in cash, which shall include an amount equal to MicroPact's closing date working capital and be subject to a post-closing working capital adjustment as described in the Merger Agreement and an additional merger consideration of up to $20.0 million based on certain fiscal 2019 EBITDA thresholds. The merger consideration will be funded from cash on hand and proceeds from the revolving credit facility.

The Merger and the Merger Agreement have been approved by the boards of directors of both MicroPact, Parent and Merger Sub. The Merger Agreement contains customary representations, warranties, and covenants of MicroPact, Parent and Merger Sub. The covenants include, among others, a obligation on behalf of MicroPact to operate its business in the ordinary course until the Merger is consummated, and limitations on the right of MicroPact to solicit or engage in negotiations regarding alternative acquisition proposals during the pre-closing period.

The completion of the Merger is subject to customary closing conditions, including the expiration or the termination of the waiting period under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act. The Federal Trade Commission granted early termination of that waiting period effective February 15, 2019. Customary closing conditions also include each party's satisfaction of the applicable representations and warranties, and compliance in all material respects with its applicable covenants. Consummation of the Merger is not subject to a financing condition.

The Merger Agreement may be terminated prior to closing under certain enumerated circumstances, including if the Merger is not consummated by May 1, 2019. Termination rights are held by Parent, MicroPact, and Representative, depending on the circumstances giving rise to the termination.

MicroPact is a leading provider of commercial off-the-shelf (COTS) solutions, including entellix®, a low-code application development platform for case management and business process management used extensively in the public sector.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

On February 1, 2018, we acquired all the assets of Civic, LLC ("MyCivic"), a company that provides software solutions to connect communities. The purchase price is $3.7 million of which $3.6 million was paid in cash and approximately $0.000 was acquired for a working capital holdback.

(a) The fourth quarter of 2017 includes the regulatory impact of the enactment of the Tax Act. The most significant impact of the Tax Act is due to the reduction in the U.S. federal corporate income tax rate from 35% to 21%. The impact of the rate reduction on our 2017 income tax provision is a $56.0 million tax benefit due to the re-measurement of deferred tax assets and liabilities. Refer to Note 7 - "Income Tax" for further discussion on the impact the Tax Act.

PART I

ITEM 1. BUSINESS.

DESCRIPTION OF BUSINESS

Tyler Technologies, Inc. ("Tyler") is a major provider of integrated information management solutions and services for the public sector, with a focus on local governments. We partner with clients to make government more accessible to the public, more responsive to the needs of citizens and more efficient in its operations. We have a broad line of software solutions and services to address the information technology ("IT") needs of major areas of operations for cities, counties, schools and other government entities. Most of our clients have our software installed in-house. For clients who prefer not to physically acquire the software and hardware, most of our software applications can be delivered as software as a service ("SaaS"), which primarily utilize the Tyler private cloud. We provide professional IT services to our clients, including software and hardware installation, data conversion, training and, at times, product modifications. In addition, we are the nation's largest provider of outsourced property appraisal services for taxing jurisdictions. We also provide continuing client support services to ensure product performance and reliability, which provides us with long-term client relationships and a significant base of recurring maintenance revenue. In addition, we provide electronic document filing ("e-filing") solutions, which simplify the filing and management of court documents.

Tyler was founded in 1966. Prior to 1998, we operated as a diversified industrial conglomerate, with operations in various industrial, retail and distribution businesses, all of which have been divested. In 1997, we embarked on a multi-phase growth plan focused on serving the specialized information management needs of local governments nationwide. We entered the local government IT market through a series of strategic acquisitions in 1998 and 1999.

MARKET OVERVIEW

The state and local government market is one of the largest and most decentralized IT markets in the country, consisting of all 50 states, approximately 3,000 counties, 36,000 cities and towns and 13,900 school districts. This market is also comprised of approximately 37,000 special districts and other agencies, each with specialized delegated responsibilities and unique information management requirements.

Traditionally, local government bodies and agencies performed state-mandated duties, including property assessment, record keeping, road maintenance, law enforcement, administration of election and judicial functions, and the provision of welfare assistance. Today, a host of emerging and urgent issues are confronting local governments, each of which demands a service response. These areas include criminal justice and corrections, administration and finance, public safety, health and human services, planning, regulatory and maintenance and records and document management. Transfers of responsibility from the federal and state governments to county and municipal governments and agencies in these and other areas also place additional service and financial requirements on these local government units. In addition, constituents of local governments are increasingly demanding improved service and better access to information from public entities. As a result, local governments recognize the increasing value of information management systems and services to, among other things, improve revenue collection, provide increased access to information, and streamline delivery of services to their constituents. Local government bodies are now recognizing that "e-government" is an additional responsibility for community development. From integrated tax systems to integrated civil and criminal justice information systems, many counties and cities have benefited significantly from the implementation of jurisdiction-wide systems that allow different agencies or government offices to share data and provide a more comprehensive approach to information management. Many city and county governmental agencies also have unique individual information management requirements, which must be tailored to the specific functions of each particular office.

Many local governments also have difficulties attracting and retaining the staff necessary to support their IT functions. As a result, they seek to establish long-term relationships with reliable providers of high quality IT products and services such as Tyler.

Although local governments often face budgetary constraints in their operations, their primary revenue sources are usually property taxes, and to a lesser extent, utility billings and other fees, which historically tend to be relatively stable. In addition, the acquisition of new technology typically enables local governments to operate more efficiently, and often provides a measurable return on investment that justifies the purchase of software and related services.

Gartner, Inc., a leading information technology research and advisory company, estimates that state and local government application and vertical specific software spending will grow from $16.1 billion in 2019 to $19.6 billion in 2022. The professional services and support segments of the market are expected to expand from $31.6 billion in 2019 to $35.2 billion in 2022. Application and vertical specific software sales in the primary and secondary education segments of the market is expected to expand from $2.8 billion in 2019 to $3.6 billion in 2022 while professional services and support are expected to grow from $1.9 billion in 2019 to $2.2 billion in 2022.

PRODUCTS AND SERVICES

We provide a comprehensive and flexible suite of products and services that addresses the information technology needs of cities, counties, schools and other local government entities. We derive our revenues from five primary sources:

- Sales of software licenses and royalties
- Subscription-based arrangements
- Software services
- Maintenance and support
- Appraisal services

We design, develop, market and support a broad range of software solutions to serve mission-critical "back-office" functions of local governments. Many of our software applications include Internet-accessible solutions that allow for real-time public access to a variety of information or that allow the public to transact business with local governments via the Internet. Our software solutions and services are generally grouped in seven major areas:

- Financial Management and Education
- Courts and Justice
- Public Safety
- Property Appraisal and Tax
- Planning, Regulatory and Maintenance
- Land and Vital Records Management
- Data and Insights

Each of our core software systems consists of several fully integrated applications. For clients who acquire software for use on premises, we generally license our systems under standard perpetual license agreements that provide the client with a fully paid, nonexclusive, nontransferable right to use the software. In some of the product areas, such as financial management and education and property appraisal and tax, we offer multiple solutions designed to meet the needs of different sized governments.

We also offer SaaS arrangements, which generally utilize the Tyler private cloud, for clients who do not wish to maintain, update and operate these systems or to make up-front capital expenditures to implement these advanced technologies. For these clients, the software and client data are hosted at our data centers or at third-party locations, and clients typically sign multi-year contracts for these subscription-based services.

Historically, we have had a greater proportion of our annual revenues in the second half of our fiscal year due to governmental budget and spending cycles and the timing of system implementations for clients desiring to "go live" at the beginning of the calendar year.

A description of our suites of products and services follows:

Software Licenses

Financial Management and Education

Our financial management and education solutions are enterprise resource planning systems for local governments, which integrate information across all facets of a client organization. Our financial management solutions include modular fund accounting systems that can be tailored to meet the needs of virtually any government agency or not-for-profit entity. Our financial management systems include modules for general ledger, budget preparation, fixed assets, requisitions, purchase orders, bid management, accounts payable, contract management, accounts receivable, investment management, inventory control, project and grant accounting, work orders, job costing, GASB reporting, payroll and human resources. All of our financial management systems are intended to conform to government auditing and financial reporting requirements and generally accepted accounting principles.

We sell utility billing systems that support the billing and collection of metered and non-metered services, along with multiple billing cycles. Our Web-enabled utility billing solutions allow clients to access information online such as average consumption and transaction history. In addition, our systems can accept secured Internet payments via credit cards and checks.

We also offer specialized products that automate numerous city and county functions, including municipal courts, parking tickets, equipment and project costing, animal licenses, business licenses, permits and inspections, code enforcement, citizen complaint tracking, ambulance billing, fleet maintenance, and cemetery records management.

In addition to providing financial management systems to K-12 schools, we sell student information systems for K-12 schools, which manage such activities as scheduling, grades and attendance. We also offer student transportation solutions to manage school bus routing optimization, fleet management, field trips and other related functions.

Tyler's financial management and education solutions include Web components that enhance local governments' service capabilities by facilitating online access to information for both employees and citizens and enabling online transactions.

Courts and Justice

We offer a complete, fully integrated suite of judicial solutions designed to handle complex, multi-jurisdictional county or statewide implementations as well as single county systems. Our solutions help eliminate duplicate data entry, promote more effective business procedures and improve efficiency across the entire justice process.

Our unified court case management system is designed to automate the tracking and management of information involved in all case types, including criminal, traffic, civil, family, probate and juvenile courts. It also tracks the status of cases, processes fines and fees and generates the specialized judgment and sentencing documents, notices and forms required in the court process. Documents received by the court can be scanned into the electronic case file and easily retrieved for viewing. Documents generated by the court can be electronically signed and automatically attached to the electronic case file. Additional modules automate the management of court calendars, coordinate judges' schedules and generate court dockets. Our targeted courtroom technologies allow courts to rapidly review calendars, cases and view documents in the courtroom. Courts may also take advantage of our related jury management system.

Our court and law enforcement systems allow the public to access, via the Internet, a variety of information, including non-confidential criminal and civil court records, jail booking and release information, bond and bondsmen information, and court calendars and dockets. In addition, our systems allow cities and counties to accept payments for traffic and parking tickets over the Internet, with a seamless and automatic interface to back-office justice and financial systems.

Our prosecutor system enables state attorney offices to track and manage criminal cases, including detailed victim information and private case notes. Investigative reports and charging instrument documents can be generated and stored for later viewing. Prosecutors can schedule and record the outcome of grand jury hearings. When integrated with the court system, prosecutors can view the electronic case file and related documents, as well as manage witness lists and subpoenas needed for court hearings.

Our supervision system allows pre-trial and probation offices to manage offender caseloads. Supervision officers can track contact schedules, risk/needs assessments and reassessments, detailed drug test results, employment histories, compliance with conditions and payments of fees and restitution. Documents and forms, like pre-sentence investigations or revocation orders, can be generated and stored for easy viewing. When integrated with the jail and court systems, supervision officers obtain easy access and quick notification of offenders that have court hearings scheduled, are arrested locally, and have new warrants issued.

We also offer a court case management solution that automates and tracks all aspects of municipal courts and offices. It is a fully integrated, graphical application that provides effective case management, document processing and cash/bond management. This system complies with all state reporting and conviction reports and includes electronic reporting and also integrates with certain of our financial management solutions and public safety solutions.

Public Safety

Our public safety software is a fully unified and comprehensive solution for law enforcement, fire and EMS, including 911 / computer aided dispatch ("CAD"), records management, mobile computing, corrections management, Web-based information sharing and decision support. The modules are fully integrated, utilizing a common database and providing full functionality between modules, reducing data entry. The software provides fast, efficient dispatching, and quick access to records, reports and actionable information from an agency's database.

Our 911 / CAD solutions provide real-time, critical response dispatch functions in either single- or multi-jurisdictional environments. When integrated with our records management software, a vital link exists between dispatch and the most comprehensive records database available. Within seconds, the dispatch operator and the officer in the field can access critical information, such as prior incidents and outstanding warrants, increasing officer knowledge and safety. The solutions offer strong geographic information systems integration to help dispatchers quickly locate and send the best response during an emergency. Tyler's 911 / CAD solutions dramatically improve performance, response time and unit safety.

Our records management solutions for law enforcement and fire track statistical, operational, investigative and management data for inquiry and reporting. The systems create an efficient case processing workflow and help solve crimes with an accessible database that maintains central files on people, places, property, vehicles and criminal activity. Tyler's public safety records management solutions enable easy access to information and simplify reporting.

Our mobile computing solutions for law enforcement and fire provide instant access to local, state, regional and federal databases via mobile devices. Officers and firefighters can experience the benefits of obtaining critical, real-time information in the field, while saving time by preparing reports directly in their vehicles.

Our jail management systems document and manage information that meets the requirements of a modern jail facility. This includes the booking and housing of persons in custody, supervising defendants on a pre-trial release, maintaining offenders sentenced to local incarceration and billing other agencies for housing inmates. Searching, reporting and tracking features are integrated, allowing reliable, up-to-date access to current arrest and incarceration data, including digital mug shots. Our systems also provide warrant checks for visitors or book-ins, inmate classification and risk assessment, commissary, property and medical processing, automation of statistics, and state and federal reporting.

Our civil processing solutions manage civil process needs from document receipt through service, payment process and final closeout. We also have a mobile electronic citation solution through which law enforcement officers can easily enter citation information in a mobile device, which is automatically uploaded into the court or public safety records management systems, rather than hand-writing citations that must be re-entered into the systems.

Property Appraisal and Tax

We provide systems and software that automate the appraisal and assessment of real and personal property, including record keeping, mass appraisal, inquiry and protest tracking, appraisal and tax roll generation, tax statement processing, and electronic state-level reporting. These systems are image and video-enabled to facilitate the storage of and access to the many property-related documents and for the online storage of digital photographs of properties for use in defending values in protest situations. Other related tax applications are available for agencies that bill and collect taxes, including cities, counties, school tax offices, and special taxing and collection agencies. Those systems support billing, collections, lock box operations, mortgage company electronic payments, and various reporting requirements.

Planning, Regulatory and Maintenance

Our planning, regulatory and maintenance software solutions are designed for public sector agencies such as community development, planning, building, code enforcement, tax and revenues, public works, transportation, land control, environmental, fire safety, storm water management, regulatory controls and engineering. These solutions help public sector agencies better manage their day-to-day business functions while streamlining and automating the many aspects of their land management, permitting and planning systems. Our mobile solutions extend automation to the field and Web access brings online services to citizens 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

Land and Vital Records Management

We also offer a number of specialized software applications designed to help local governments enhance and automate operations involving records and document management. These systems record, scan and index information for the many documents maintained by local governments, such as deeds, mortgages, liens, UCC financing statements and vital records (birth, death and marriage certificates). These applications include fully integrated imaging systems with batch and scan processing capabilities and fully integrated receipting and cashing systems, as well as Web-enabled public access.

Our content management solutions allow state and local governments and school districts to capture, deliver, manage and archive electronic information. These solutions streamline the flow of digital information throughout the organization to increase efficiency by transforming paper forms and documents into electronic images that drive key business processes.

Data and Insights

Our data and insights solutions make existing government data discoverable, usable, and actionable for government workers and the people they serve. The data and insights solution includes a data-as-a-service platform and cloud applications for open data and citizen engagement, exclusively for city, county, state, and federal government organizations. Our data and insights solutions allow government to analyze, visualize, and securely share data across multiple departments and programs. These solutions deliver data-driven innovation and cost-savings by bringing together disparate systems and leveraging the cloud to dramatically enhance the effectiveness of government programs, to improve quality of life for residents, to positively impact local economies, and to achieve excellence in government operations.

Subscription-Based Services

Subscription-based revenue is primarily derived from our SaaS arrangements, which generally utilize the Tyler private cloud, as well as our transaction-based offerings such as e-filing solutions.

We are able to provide the majority of our software products through our SaaS model. The clients who choose this model typically do not wish to maintain, update and operate these systems or make up-front capital expenditures to implement these advanced technologies. The contract terms for these arrangements range from one to 10 years but are typically contracted for initial periods of three to five years. The majority of our SaaS or hosting arrangements include additional professional services as well as maintenance and support services. In certain arrangements, the client may also acquire a license to the software.

As part of our subscription-based services, we provide e-filing solutions that simplify the filing and management of court related documents for courts and law offices. Revenues for e-filing are included in subscription-based revenues and are derived from transaction fees and in some cases, fixed fee arrangements.

Software Services

We provide a variety of professional IT services to clients who utilize our software products. Virtually all of our clients contract with us for installation, training, and data conversion services in connection with their implementation of Tyler's software solutions. The complete implementation process for a typical system includes planning, design, data conversion, set-up and testing. At the culmination of the implementation process, a data implementation team is generally onsite at the client's facility to ensure the smooth go-live with the new system. Implementation fees are charged separately to clients on either a fixed-fee or hourly charge basis, depending on the contract.

Both in connection with the installation of new systems and on an ongoing basis, we provide extensive training services and programs related to our products and services. Training can be provided in our training centers, onsite at clients' locations, or at meetings and conferences and can be customized to meet clients' requirements. The vast majority of our clients contract with us for training services, both to improve their employees' proficiency and productivity and to fully utilize the functionality of our systems. Training services are generally billed on an hourly or daily basis, along with travel and other expenses.

Maintenance and Support

Following the implementation of our software systems, we provide ongoing software support services to assist our clients in operating the systems and to periodically update the software. Support is provided to clients over the phone or via the Web through help desks staffed by our client support representatives. For more complicated issues, our staff, with the clients' permission, can log on to clients' systems remotely. We maintain our clients' software largely through releases that contain improvements and incremental additions of features and functionality, along with updates necessary because of legislative or regulatory changes.

Virtually all of our software clients contract with us for maintenance and support; which provides us with a significant source of recurring revenue. We generally provide maintenance and support for our on-premises clients under annual, or in some cases, multi-year contracts, with a typical fee based on a percentage of the software product's license fee. These fees can generally be increased on renewal and may also increase as new license fees increase. Maintenance and support fees are generally paid annually in advance. Most maintenance contracts automatically renew unless the client or Tyler gives notice of termination prior to expiration. Similar support is provided to our SaaS clients and is included in their subscription fees, which are classified as subscription-based revenues.

Appraisal Services

We are the nation's largest provider of property appraisal outsourcing services for local government taxing authorities. These services include

- The physical inspection of commercial and residential properties
- Data collection and processing
- Sophisticated computer analyses for property valuation
- Preparation of tax rolls
- Community education regarding the assessment process
- Arbitration between taxpayers and the assessing jurisdiction

Local government taxing authorities normally reappraise properties from time to time to update values for tax assessment purposes and to maintain equity in the taxing process. In some jurisdictions, law mandates reassessment cycles; in others, they are discretionary. While some taxing jurisdictions perform reappraisals in-house, many local governments outsource this function because of its cyclical nature and because of the specialized knowledge and expertise requirements associated with it. Our appraisal services business unit has been in this business since 1938.

In some instances, we also sell property tax and/or appraisal software products in connection with appraisal outsourcing projects, while other clients may only engage us to provide appraisal services. Appraisal outsourcing services are somewhat seasonal in nature to the extent that winter weather conditions reduce the productivity of data collection activities in connection with those projects.

STRATEGY

Our objective is to grow our revenue and earnings organically, supplemented by focused strategic acquisitions. The key components of our business strategy are to:

- Provide high quality, value-added products and services to our clients. We compete on the basis of, among other things, delivering to clients our deep domain expertise in local government operations through the highest value products and services in the market. We believe we have achieved a reputation as a premium product and service provider to the local government market.
- Continue to expand our product and service offerings. While we already have what we believe to be the broadest line of software products for local governments, we continually upgrade our core software applications and expand our complementary product and service offerings to respond to technological advancements and the changing needs of our clients. In 2010, we began providing e-filing for courts and law offices, which simplifies the filing and management of court related documents. We believe revenue from e-filing solutions will continue to grow over time as more local and state governments mandate electronic document filings. We also offer solutions that allow the public to access data and conduct transactions with local governments, such as paying traffic tickets, property taxes and utility bills online. We believe that the addition of such features enhances the market appeal of our core products. We have also broadened our offerings of consulting and business process reengineering services. In November 2015, we significantly expanded our presence in the public safety software market through the acquisition of New World Systems Corporation.

- Expand our client base. We seek to establish long-term relationships with new clients primarily through our sales and marketing efforts. While we currently have clients in all 50 states, Canada, the Caribbean, the United Kingdom, Australia, and other international locations, not all of our solutions have achieved nationwide geographic penetration. We intend to continue to expand into new geographic markets by adding sales staff and targeting marketing efforts by solutions in those areas. We also intend to continue to expand our customer base to include more large governments. While our traditional market focus has primarily been on small and mid-sized governments, our increased size and market presence, together with the technological advances and improved scalability of certain of our solutions, are allowing us to achieve increasing success in selling to larger clients. We also expect to expand our presence in international markets by leveraging our leadership position in the United States through the disciplined pursuit of selected opportunities in other countries.
- Expand our existing client relationships. Our existing customer base offers significant opportunities for additional sales of solutions and services that we currently offer, but that existing clients do not fully utilize. Add-on sales to existing clients typically involve lower sales and marketing expenses than sales to new clients.
- Grow recurring revenues. We have a large recurring revenue base from maintenance and support and subscription-based services, which generated revenues of $605.1 million, or 65% of total revenues, in 2018. We have historically experienced very low customer turnover (approximately 2% annually) and recurring revenues continue to grow as the installed customer base increases. Subscription-based revenues have been our fastest growing revenue category over the past five years, increasing from $87.8 million in 2014 to $220.5 million in 2018.
- Maximize economies of scale and take advantage of financial leverage in our business. We seek to build and maintain a larger client base to create economies of scale, enabling us to provide value-added products and services to our clients while expanding our operating margins. Because we sell primarily "off-the-shelf" software, increased sales of the same solutions result in incrementally higher gross margins. In addition, we believe that we have a marketing and administrative infrastructure in place that can be leveraged to accommodate significant long-term growth without proportionately increasing selling, general and administrative expenses.
- Attract and retain highly qualified employees. We believe that the depth and quality of our management and staff is one of our significant strengths, and that the ability to retain such employees is crucial to our continued growth and success. We believe that our stable management team, financial strength and growth opportunities, as well as our leadership position in the local government market, enhance our attractiveness as an employer for highly skilled employees.
- Pursue selected strategic acquisitions. While we expect to primarily grow internally, from time to time we selectively pursue strategic acquisitions that provide us with one or more of the following:
 - New products and services to complement our existing offerings
 - Entry into new markets related to the public sector
 - New clients and/or geographic expansion

SALES, MARKETING, AND CLIENTS

We market our products and services through direct sales and marketing personnel located throughout the United States. Other in-house sales staff focus on add-on sales, professional services and support.

Sales of new systems are typically generated from referrals from other government offices or departments within a county or municipality, referrals from other local governments, relationships established between sales representatives and county or local officials, contacts at trade shows, direct mailings, and direct contact from prospects already familiar with us. We are active in numerous national, state, county, and local government associations, and participate in annual meetings, trade shows, and educational events.

Clients consist primarily of federal, county and municipal agencies, school districts and other government offices. In counties, clients include the auditor, treasurer, tax assessor/collector, county clerk, district clerk, county and district court judges, probation officers, sheriff, and county appraiser. At municipal government sites, clients include directors from various departments, including administration, finance, utilities, public works, code enforcement, personnel, purchasing, taxation, municipal court, and police. Contracts for software products and services are generally implemented over periods of three months to one year, although some complex implementations may span multiple years, with annually renewing maintenance and support update agreements thereafter. Although either the client or we can terminate these agreements, historically almost all support and maintenance agreements are automatically renewed annually. During 2018, approximately 41% of our revenue was attributable to ongoing support and maintenance agreements.

COMPETITION

We compete with numerous local, regional, and national firms that provide or offer some or many of the same solutions and services that we provide. Many of these competitors are smaller companies that may be able to offer less expensive solutions than ours. Many of these firms operate within a specific geographic area and/or in a narrow product or service niche. We also compete with national firms, some of which have greater financial and technical resources than we do, including Oracle Corporation, Infor, SAP AG, Workday, Inc., CentralSquare Technologies, Thomson Reuters Corporation, and Constellation Software, Inc. In addition, we sometimes compete with consulting and systems integration firms, which develop custom systems, primarily for larger governments. We also occasionally compete with central internal information service departments of local governments, which requires us to persuade the end-user department to discontinue service by its own personnel and outsource the service to us.

We compete on a variety of factors, including price, service, name recognition, reputation, technological capabilities, and the ability to modify existing products and services to accommodate the individual requirements of the client. Our ability to offer an integrated system of applications for several offices or departments is often a competitive advantage. Local governmental units often are required to seek competitive proposals through a request for proposal process and some prospective clients use consultants to assist them with the proposal and vendor selection process.

SUPPLIERS

Substantially all of the computers, peripherals, printers, scanners, operating system software, office automation software, and other equipment necessary for the implementation and provision of our software systems and services are presently available from several third-party sources. Hardware is purchased on original equipment manufacturer or distributor terms at discounts from retail. We have not experienced any significant supply problems.

BACKLOG

At December 31, 2018, our revenue backlog was approximately $1.25 billion, compared to $1.23 billion (as adjusted) at December 31, 2017. The backlog represents signed contracts under which the revenue has not been recognized as of year-end. Approximately $625.6 million, or 50%, of the backlog is expected to be recognized during 2019.

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY, PROPRIETARY RIGHTS, AND LICENSES

We regard certain features of our internal operations, software, and documentation as confidential and proprietary and rely on a combination of contractual restrictions, trade secret laws and other measures to protect our proprietary intellectual property. We generally do not rely on patents. We believe that, due to the rapid rate of technological change in the computer software industry, trade secrets and copyright protection are less significant than factors such as knowledge, ability and experience of our employees, frequent product enhancements, and timeliness and quality of support services. We typically license our software products under non-exclusive license agreements, which are generally non-transferable and have a perpetual term.

EMPLOYEES

At December 31, 2018, we had 4,525 employees. None of our employees are represented by a labor union or are subject to collective bargaining agreements. We consider our relations with our employees to be positive.

INTERNET WEBSITE AND AVAILABILITY OF PUBLIC FILINGS

We file annual, quarterly, current and other reports, proxy statements and other information with the Securities and Exchange Commission, or SEC, pursuant to the Securities Exchange Act. You may read and copy any materials we file with the SEC at the SEC's Public Reference Room by calling the SEC at 1-800-732-0330. The SEC maintains an Internet site that contains reports, proxy and other information statements, and other information regarding issuers, including us, that file electronically with the SEC. The address of this site is <http://www.sec.gov>.

We also maintain a website at www.tylertech.com. We make available free of charge through this site our Annual Report on Form 10-K, Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q, Forms 4 and 5, Current Reports on Form 8-K, and amendments to those reports filed or furnished pursuant to Section 13(a) or 15(d) of the Exchange Act as soon as reasonably practicable after we electronically file such material with, or furnish it to, the SEC. In addition, copies of our annual report will be made available, free of charge, upon written request.

Our "Code of Business Conduct and Ethics" is also available on our website. We intend to satisfy the disclosure requirements regarding amendments to, or waivers from, a provision of our Code of Business Conduct and Ethics by posting such information on our website.

ITEM 1A. RISK FACTORS.

An investment in our common stock involves a high degree of risk. Investors evaluating our company should carefully consider the factors described below and all other information contained in this Annual Report. Any of the following factors could materially harm our business, operating results, and financial condition. Additional factors and uncertainties not currently known to us or that we currently consider immaterial could also harm our business, operating results, and financial condition. This section should be read in conjunction with the Financial Statements and related Notes and Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations included in this Annual Report. We may make forward-looking statements from time to time, both written and oral. We undertake no obligation to revise or publicly release the results of any revisions to these forward-looking statements. Our actual results may differ materially from those projected in any such forward-looking statements due to a number of factors, including those set forth below and elsewhere in this Annual Report.

Risks Associated with Our Software Products

Cyber-attacks and security vulnerabilities can disrupt our business and harm our competitive position.

Threats to IT security can take a variety of forms. Individuals and groups of hackers, and sophisticated organizations including state-sponsored organizations, may take steps that pose threats to our clients and our IT. They may develop and deploy malicious software to attack our products and services and gain access to our networks and data centers, or act in a coordinated manner to launch distributed denial of service or other coordinated attacks. Cyber threats are constantly evolving, thereby increasing the difficulty of detecting and successfully defending against them. Cyber threats can have cascading impacts that unfold with increasing speed across our internal networks and systems and those of our partners and clients. Breaches of our network or data security could disrupt the security of our internal systems and business applications, impair our ability to provide services to our clients and protect the privacy of their data, result in product development delays, compromise confidential or technical business information harming our competitive position, result in theft or misuse of our intellectual property or other assets, require us to allocate more resources to improve technologies, or otherwise adversely affect our business. Our business policies and internal security controls may not keep pace with these evolving threats.

Disclosure of personally identifiable information and/or other sensitive client data could result in liability and harm our reputation.

We store and process increasingly large amounts of personally identifiable and other confidential information of our clients. The continued occurrence of high-profile data breaches provides evidence of an external environment increasingly hostile to information security. Despite our efforts to improve security controls, it is possible our security controls over personal data, our training of employees on data security, and other practices we follow may not prevent the improper disclosure of client data that we store and manage. Disclosure of personally identifiable information and/or other sensitive client data could result in liability and harm our reputation.

Hosting services for some of our products are dependent upon the uninterrupted operation of data centers.

A material portion of our business is provided through software hosting services. These hosting services depend on the uninterrupted operation of data centers and the ability to protect computer equipment and information stored in these data centers against damage that may be caused by natural disaster, fire, power loss, telecommunications or Internet failure, acts of terrorism, unauthorized intrusion, computer viruses, and other similar damaging events. If any of our data centers were to become inoperable for an extended period, we might be unable to fulfill our contractual commitments. Although we take what we believe to be reasonable precautions against such occurrences, we can give no assurance that damaging events such as these will not result in a prolonged interruption of our services, which could result in client dissatisfaction, loss of revenue, and damage to our business.

We run the risk of errors or defects with new products or enhancements to existing products.

Our software products are complex and may contain errors or defects, especially when first introduced or when new versions or enhancements are released. Although we have not experienced material adverse effects from any such defects or errors to date, we cannot assure you that material defects and errors will not be found in the future. Any such defects could result in a loss of revenues or delay market acceptance. Our license agreements typically contain provisions designed to limit our exposure to potential liability. However, it is possible we may not always successfully negotiate such provisions in our client contracts or the limitation of liability provisions may not be effective due to existing or future federal, state, or local laws, ordinances, or judicial decisions. Although we maintain errors and omissions and general liability insurance, and we try to structure contracts to limit liability, we cannot assure you that a successful claim could not be made or would not have a material adverse effect on our future operating results.

We must timely respond to technological changes to be competitive.

The market for our products is characterized by technological change, evolving industry standards in software technology, changes in client requirements, and frequent new product introductions and enhancements. The introduction of products embodying new technologies and the emergence of new industry standards can render existing products obsolete and unmarketable. As a result, our future success will depend, in part, upon our ability to enhance existing products and develop and introduce new products that keep pace with technological developments, satisfy increasingly sophisticated client requirements, and achieve market acceptance. We cannot assure you that we will successfully identify new product opportunities and develop and bring new products to market in a timely and cost-effective manner. The products, capabilities, or technologies developed by others could also render our products or technologies obsolete or noncompetitive. Our business may be adversely affected if we are unable to develop or acquire new software products or develop enhancements to existing products on a timely and cost-effective basis, or if such new products or enhancements do not achieve market acceptance.

We may be unable to protect our proprietary rights.

Many of our product and service offerings incorporate proprietary information, trade secrets, know-how, and other intellectual property rights. We rely on a combination of contracts, copyrights, and trade secret laws to establish and protect our proprietary rights in our technology. We cannot be certain that we have taken all appropriate steps to deter misappropriation of our intellectual property. There has also recently been an apparent evolution in the legal standards and regulations courts and the U.S. patent office may apply in favorably evaluating software patent rights. We are not currently involved in any material intellectual property litigation; however, we may be a party to such litigation in the future to protect our proprietary information, trade secrets, know-how, and other intellectual property rights. We cannot assure you that third-parties will not assert infringement or misappropriation claims against us with respect to current or future products. Any claims or litigation, with or without merit, could be time-consuming, costly, and a diversion to management. Any such claims and litigation could also cause product shipment delays or require us to enter into royalty or licensing arrangements. Such royalty or licensing arrangements, if required, may not be available on terms acceptable to us, if at all. Therefore, litigation to defend and enforce our intellectual property rights could have a material adverse effect on our business, regardless of the final outcome of such litigation.

Clients may elect to terminate our maintenance contracts and manage operations internally.

It is possible that our clients may elect to not renew maintenance contracts for our software, trying instead to maintain and operate the software themselves using their perpetual license rights (excluding software applications that we provide on a hosted or cloud basis). This could adversely affect our revenues and profits. Additionally, they may inadvertently allow our intellectual property or other information to fall into the hands of third-parties, including our competitors, which could adversely affect our business.

Material portions of our business require the Internet infrastructure to be further developed or adequately maintained.

Part of our future success depends on the use of the Internet as a means to access public information and perform transactions electronically, including, for example, electronic filing of court documents. This in part requires the further development and maintenance of the Internet infrastructure. Among other things, this further development and maintenance will require a reliable network backbone with the necessary speed, data capacity, security, and timely development of complementary products for providing reliable Internet access and services. If this infrastructure fails to be further developed or be adequately maintained, our business would be harmed because users may not be able to access our government portals.

Risks Associated with Selling Products and Services into the Public Sector Marketplace

Selling products and services into the public sector poses unique challenges.

We derive substantially all of our revenues from sales of software and services to state, county, and city governments, other municipal agencies, and other public entities. We expect that sales to public sector clients will continue to account for substantially all of our revenues in the future. We face many risks and challenges associated with contracting with governmental entities, including

- Resource limitations caused by budgetary constraints, which may provide for a termination of executed contracts due to a lack of future funding
- Long and complex sales cycles
- Contract payments at times being subject to achieving implementation milestones, and we may have differences with clients as to whether milestones have been achieved
- Political resistance to the concept of contracting with third-parties to provide IT solutions
- Legislative changes affecting a local government's authority to contract with third-parties
- Varying bid procedures and internal processes for bid acceptance
- Various other political factors, including changes in governmental administrations and personnel

Each of these risks is outside our control. If we fail to adequately adapt to these risks and uncertainties, our financial performance could be adversely affected.

A prolonged economic slowdown could harm our operations.

A prolonged economic slowdown or recession could reduce demand for our software products and services. Governments may face financial pressures that could in turn affect our growth rate and profitability in the future. There is no assurance that government spending levels will be unaffected by declining or stagnant general economic conditions, and if budget shortfalls occur, they may negatively impact government IT spending and could adversely affect our business.

The open bidding process creates uncertainty in predicting future contract awards.

Many governmental agencies purchase products and services through an open bidding process. Generally, a governmental entity will publish an established list of requirements requesting potential vendors to propose solutions for the established requirements. To respond successfully to these requests for proposals, we must accurately estimate our cost structure for servicing a proposed contract, the time required to establish operations for the proposed client, and the likely terms of any other third-party proposals submitted. We cannot guarantee that we will win any bids in the future through the request for proposal process, or that any winning bids will ultimately result in contracts on favorable terms. Our failure to secure contracts through the open bidding process, or to secure such contracts on favorable terms, may adversely affect our revenue and gross margins.

We face significant competition from other vendors and potential new entrants into our markets.

We believe we are a leading provider of integrated solutions for the public sector. However, we face competition from a variety of software vendors that offer products and services similar to those offered by us, as well as from companies offering to develop custom software. We compete based on a number of factors, including

- The attractiveness of our "evergreen" business strategy
- The breadth, depth, and quality of our product and service offerings
- The ability to modify our offerings to accommodate particular clients' needs
- Technological innovation
- Name recognition, reputation and references

- Price
- Our financial strength and stability

We believe our market is highly fragmented with a large number of competitors that vary in size, product platform, and product scope. Our competitors include consulting firms, publicly held companies that focus on selected segments of the public sector market, and a significant number of smaller, privately held companies. Certain competitors have greater technical, marketing, and financial resources than we do. We cannot assure you that such competitors will not develop products or offer services that are superior to our products or services or that achieve greater market acceptance.

We also compete with internal, centralized IT departments of governmental entities, which requires us to persuade the end-user to stop the internal service and outsource to us. In addition, our clients and prospective clients could elect to provide information management services internally through new or existing departments, which could reduce the market for our services.

We could face additional competition as other established and emerging companies enter the public sector software application market and new products and technologies are introduced. Increased competition could result in pricing pressure, fewer client orders, reduced gross margins, and loss of market share. Current and potential competitors may make strategic acquisitions or establish cooperative relationships among themselves or with third-parties, thereby increasing the ability of their products to address the needs of our prospective clients. It is possible that new competitors or alliances may emerge and rapidly gain significant market share. We cannot assure you that we will be able to compete successfully against current and future competitors, and the failure to do so would have a material adverse effect upon our business.

Fixed-price contracts may affect our profits.

Some of our contracts are structured on a fixed-price basis, which can lead to various risks, including

- The failure to accurately estimate the resources and time required for an engagement
- The failure to effectively manage our clients' expectations regarding the scope of services delivered for a fixed fee
- The failure to timely and satisfactorily complete fixed-price engagements within budget

If we do not adequately assess and manage these and other risks, we may be subject to cost overruns and penalties, which may harm our financial performance.

Changes in the insurance markets may affect our business.

Some of our clients, primarily those for our property appraisal services, require that we secure performance bonds before they will select us as their vendor. In addition, we have in the past been required to provide letters of credit as security for the issuance of a performance bond. We cannot guarantee that we will be able to secure such performance bonds in the future on terms that are favorable to us, if at all. Our inability to obtain performance bonds on favorable terms or at all could impact our future ability to win some contract awards, particularly large property appraisal services contracts, which could negatively impact revenues. In addition, the general insurance markets may experience volatility, which may lead to future increases in our general and administrative expenses and negatively impact our operating results.

Risks Associated with Our Periodic Results and Stock Price

Fluctuations in quarterly revenue could adversely impact our operating results and stock price.

Our revenues and operating results are difficult to predict and may fluctuate substantially from quarter to quarter for a variety of reasons, including

- Prospective clients' contracting decisions are often made in the last few weeks of a quarter
- The size of license transactions can vary significantly
- Clients may unexpectedly postpone or cancel procurement processes due to changes in strategic priorities, project objectives, budget, or personnel
- Client purchasing processes vary significantly and a client's internal approval, expenditure authorization, and contract negotiation processes can be difficult and time consuming to complete, even after selection of a vendor
- The number, timing, and significance of software product enhancements and new software product announcements by us and our competitors may affect purchase decisions
- We may have to defer revenues under our revenue recognition policies and GAAP
- Clients may elect subscription-based arrangements, which result in lower software license revenues in the initial year as compared to traditional, on-premise software license arrangements, but generate higher overall subscription-based revenues over the term of the contract

In each fiscal quarter, our expense levels, operating costs, and hiring plans are based to some extent on projections of future revenues and are relatively fixed. If our actual revenues fall below expectations, we could experience a reduction in operating results. Also, if actual revenues or earnings for any given quarter fall below expectations, it may lead to a decline in our stock price.

Increases in service revenue as a percentage of total revenues could decrease overall margins.

We realize lower margins on software and appraisal service revenues than on license revenue. The majority of our contracts include both software licenses and software services. Therefore, an increase in the percentage of software service and appraisal service revenue compared to license revenue could have a detrimental impact on our overall gross margins and could adversely affect operating results.

Our stock price may be volatile.

The market price of our common stock may be volatile. Examples of factors that may significantly impact our stock price include:

- Actual or anticipated fluctuations in our operating results
- Announcements of technological innovations, new products, or new contracts by us or our competitors
- Developments with respect to patents, copyrights, or other proprietary rights
- Conditions and trends in the software and other technology industries
- Adoption of new accounting standards affecting the software industry
- Changes in financial estimates by securities analysts
- General market conditions and other factors

In addition, the stock market has from time to time experienced significant price and volume fluctuations that have particularly affected the market prices of technology company stocks and may in the future adversely affect the market price of our stock. Sometimes, securities class action litigation is filed following periods of volatility in the market price of a particular company's securities. We cannot assure you that similar litigation will not occur in the future with respect to us. Such litigation could result in substantial costs and a diversion of management's attention and resources, which could have a material adverse effect upon our financial performance.

Our financial outlook may not be realized.

From time to time, in press releases and otherwise, we may publish forecasts or other forward-looking statements regarding our results, including estimated revenues or earnings. Any forecast of our future performance reflects various assumptions. These assumptions are subject to significant uncertainties, and as a matter of course, any number of them may prove to be incorrect. Further, the achievement of any forecast depends on numerous risks and other factors (including those described in this discussion), many of which are beyond our control. As a result, we cannot be certain that our performance will be consistent with any management forecasts or that the variation from such forecasts will not be material and adverse. Current and potential stockholders are cautioned not to base their entire analysis of our business and prospects upon isolated predictions, but instead are encouraged to utilize our entire publicly available mix of historical and forward-looking information, as well as other available information regarding us, our products and services, and the software industry when evaluating our prospective results of operations.

Risks Associated with Our Growth Strategy and Other General Corporate Risks

We may experience difficulties in executing our acquisition strategy.

A material portion of our historical growth has resulted from strategic acquisitions. Although our focus is on internal growth, we will continue to identify and pursue strategic acquisitions with suitable candidates. These transactions involve significant challenges and risks, including risks that a transaction does not advance our business strategy; that we do not achieve the expected return on our investment; that we have difficulty integrating business systems and technology; that we have difficulty retaining or integrating new employees; that the transactions distract management from our other businesses; that we acquire unforeseen liabilities; and other unanticipated events. Our future success will depend, in part, on our ability to successfully integrate future acquisitions into our operations. It may take longer than expected to realize the full benefits of these transactions, such as increased revenue, enhanced efficiencies, or increased market share, or the benefits may be ultimately less than we expected. Although we conduct due diligence reviews of potential acquisition candidates, we may not identify all material liabilities or risks related to acquisition candidates. There can be no assurance that any such strategic acquisitions will be accomplished on favorable terms or will result in profitable operations.

Our failure to properly manage growth could adversely affect our business.

We have expanded our operations significantly since 1998, when we entered the business of providing software solutions and services to the public sector. We intend to continue expansion in the foreseeable future to pursue existing and potential market opportunities. This growth places significant demands on management and operational resources. In order to manage growth effectively, we must implement and improve our operational systems, procedures, and controls on a timely basis. If we fail to implement these systems, our business may be materially adversely affected.

We may be unable to hire, integrate, and retain qualified personnel.

Our continued success will depend upon the availability and performance of our key management, sales, marketing, client support, and product development personnel. The loss of key management or technical personnel could adversely affect us. We believe that our continued success will depend in large part upon our ability to attract, integrate, and retain such personnel. We have at times experienced and continue to experience difficulty in recruiting qualified personnel. Competition for qualified software development, sales, and other personnel is intense, and we cannot assure you that we will be successful in attracting and retaining such personnel.

Compliance with changing regulation of corporate governance may result in additional expenses.

Changing laws, regulations, and standards relating to corporate governance and public disclosure can create uncertainty for public companies. The costs required to comply with such evolving laws are difficult to predict. To maintain high standards of corporate governance and public disclosure, we intend to invest all reasonably necessary resources to comply with evolving standards. This investment may result in an unforeseen increase in general and administrative expenses and a diversion of management's time and attention from revenue-generating activities, which may harm our operating results.

We don't foresee paying dividends on our common stock.

We have not declared nor paid a cash dividend since we entered the business of providing software solutions and services to the public sector in 1998. We intend to retain earnings for use in the operation and expansion of our business. We do not anticipate paying any cash dividends on our common stock in the foreseeable future.

Provisions in our certificate of incorporation, bylaws, and Delaware law could deter takeover attempts.

Our board of directors may issue up to 1,000,000 shares of preferred stock and may determine the price, rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions, including voting and conversion rights, of these preferred shares. These determinations may be made without any further vote or action by our stockholders. The rights of the holders of our common stock will be subject to, and may be adversely affected by, the rights of the holders of any preferred stock that may be issued in the future. The issuance of preferred stock may make it more difficult for a third-party to acquire a majority of our outstanding voting stock. In addition, some provisions of our Certificate of Incorporation, Bylaws, and the Delaware General Corporation Law could also delay, prevent, or make more difficult a merger, tender offer, or proxy contest involving us.

ITEM 5. MARKET FOR REGISTRANT'S COMMON EQUITY, RELATED STOCKHOLDER MATTERS AND ISSUER PURCHASES OF EQUITY SECURITIES.

Our common stock is traded on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol "TYL." At December 31, 2018, we had approximately 1,262 stockholders of record. Most of our stockholders hold their shares in street name; therefore, there are substantially more than 1,262 beneficial owners of our common stock.

We did not pay any cash dividends in 2018 or 2017. Our bank credit agreement contains restrictions on the payment of cash dividends. We intend to retain earnings for use in the operation and expansion of our business and do not anticipate paying a cash dividend in the foreseeable future.

The following table summarizes certain information related to our stock incentive plan, restricted stock units and our employee stock purchase plan. There are no warrants or rights related to our equity compensation plans as of December 31, 2018.

Plan Category	Number of securities to be issued upon exercise of outstanding options, warrants, purchase rights and vesting of restricted stock units as of December 31, 2018	Weighted average exercise price of outstanding options and unvested restricted stock units	Number of securities remaining available for future issuance under equity compensation plans (excluding securities reflected in initial column as of December 31, 2018)
Equity compensation plans approved by security shareholders:

(a) In May 2018, stockholders approved our 2018 Stock Incentive Plan ("the 2018 Plan") which amended and restated the existing Tyler Technologies, Inc. 2010 Stock Option Plan ("the 2010 Plan"). Upon stockholder approval of the 2018 Plan, the remaining shares available for grant under the 2010 Plan were added to the shares authorized for grant under the 2018 Plan. Additionally, any awards previously granted under the 2010 Plan that expire unexercised or are forfeited are added to the shares authorized for grant under the 2018 Plan. Under the 2018 Plan, each award granted, other than stock options, reduces the number of securities available for issuance under the 2018 Plan by 2.5 shares.

As of December 31, 2018, we had authorization to repurchase up to approximately 1.2 million additional shares of Tyler common stock. During 2018, we purchased approximately 781,000 shares of our common stock for an aggregate purchase price of $150.1 million. A summary of the repurchase activity during 2018 is as follows:

Period	Total number of shares repurchased	Additional number of shares authorized that may be repurchased	Average price paid per share	Maximum number of shares that may be repurchased under current authorization
Three months ended March 31	—	—	$ —	1,973,560

The repurchase program, which was approved by our board of directors, was announced in October 2002 and was amended at various times from 2003 through 2019. There is no expiration date specified for the authorization, and we intend to repurchase stock under the program from time to time.

Subsequent to December 31, 2018, our board of directors authorized the repurchase of an additional 1.5 million shares of Tyler common stock. As of February 20, 2019, we had remaining authorization to repurchase up to 2.7 million additional shares of our common stock.

(a) Reflects the impact of the adoption of Accounting Standards Update ("ASU") ASU No. 2014-09, Revenue from Contracts with Customers in fiscal year 2018. Refer to Note - 1 "Summary of Significant Accounting Policies" for further discussion.

(b) 2017 includes the significant impact of the enactment of the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act ("Tax Act"). The most significant impact of the Tax Act to us is the reduction in the U.S. federal corporate income tax rate from 35% to 21%. The impact of the rate reduction on our 2017 income tax provision is a $26.0 million (as adjusted) tax benefit due to the remeasurement of deferred tax assets and liabilities. Refer to Note - 7 "Income Tax" for further discussion on the impact of the Tax Act.

(c) During 2016, we early adopted ASU No. 2016-09 Improvements to Employee Share-Based Payment Accounting requiring the recognition of excess tax benefits or tax deficiencies as a component of income tax expense; these benefits or deficiencies were historically recognized in equity. As the standard requires a prospective method of adoption, our net income in 2016 includes a $29.6 million income tax benefit due to the adoption that did not occur in the comparable prior periods presented above. In 2016, ASU No. 2016-09 updated the method of calculating diluted shares resulting in the inclusion of 519,000 additional shares in our diluted earnings per share calculation, which is not comparable to the other prior periods presented. The adoption of ASU No. 2016-09 also required excess tax benefits, previously presented as financing activities, to be classified as operating activities. As retrospective adoption for this component of the standard is allowable, we have adjusted all periods presented above to reflect this change in classification.

(d) On November 16, 2015, we completed the acquisition of New World Systems Corporation ("NWS"). Operating results for the twelve months ended December 31, 2015, include $5.9 million for non-recurring financial advisory, legal, accounting, due diligence, valuation and other expenses necessary to complete the NWS acquisition.

ITEM 7. MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS.

FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS

This document contains "forward-looking statements" within the meaning of Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933 and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 that are not historical in nature and typically address future or anticipated events, trends, expectations or beliefs with respect to our financial condition, results of operations or business. Forward-looking statements often contain words such as "believes," "expects," "anticipates," "foresees," "forecasts," "estimates," "plans," "intends," "continues," "may," "will," "should," "projects," "might," "could" or other similar words or phrases. Similarly, statements that describe our business strategy, outlook, objectives, plans, intentions or goals also are forward-looking statements. We believe there is a reasonable basis for our forward-looking statements, but they are inherently subject to risks and uncertainties and actual results could differ materially from the expectations and beliefs reflected in the forward-looking statements. We presently consider the following to be among the important factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from our expectations and beliefs: (1) changes in the budgets or regulatory environments of our clients, primarily local and state governments, that could negatively impact information technology spending; (2) our ability to protect client information from security breaches and provide uninterrupted operations of data centers; (3) our ability to achieve growth or operational synergies through the integration of acquired businesses, while avoiding unanticipated costs and disruptions to existing operations; (4) material portions of our business require the Internet infrastructure to be adequately maintained; (5) our ability to achieve our financial forecasts due to various factors, including project delays by our clients, reductions in transaction size, fewer transactions, delays in delivery of new products or releases or a decline in our renewal rates for service agreements; (6) general economic, political and market conditions; (7) technological and market risks associated with the development of new products or services or of new versions of existing or acquired products or services; (8) competition in the industry in which we conduct business and the impact of competition on pricing, client retention and pressure for new products or services; (9) the ability to attract and retain qualified personnel and dealing with the loss or retirement of key members of management or other key personnel; and (10) costs of compliance and any failure to comply with government and stock exchange regulations. A detailed discussion of these factors and other risks that affect our business are described in Item 1A, "Risk Factors." We expressly disclaim any obligation to publicly update or revise our forward-looking statements.

OVERVIEW

General

We provide integrated information management solutions and services for the public sector, with a focus on local governments. We develop and market a broad line of software products and services to address the IT needs of cities, counties, schools and other local government entities. In addition, we provide professional IT services to our clients, including software and hardware installation, data conversion, training and for certain clients, product modifications, along with continuing maintenance and support for clients using our systems. We also provide subscription-based services such as software as a service ("SaaS"), which primarily utilize the Tylor private cloud, and electronic document filing solutions ("e-filing"), which simplify the filing and management of court related documents. Revenues for e-filing are derived from transaction fees and, in some cases, fixed fee arrangements. We also provide property appraisal outsourcing services for taxing jurisdictions.

Our products generally automate seven major functional areas: (1) financial management and education, (2) courts and justice, (3) public safety (4) property appraisal and tax, (5) planning, regulatory and maintenance (6) land and vital records management and (7) data and insights. We report our results in two segments. The Enterprise Software ("ES") segment provides municipal and county governments and schools with software systems and services to meet their information technology and automation needs for mission-critical "back-office" functions such as: financial management; courts and justice processes; public safety; planning, regulatory and maintenance; land and vital records management; and data analytics. The Appraisal and Tax ("A&T") segment provides systems and software that automate the appraisal and assessment of real and personal property as well as property appraisal outsourcing services for local governments and taxing authorities. Property appraisal outsourcing services include: the physical inspection of commercial and residential properties; data collection and processing; computer analysis for property valuation; preparation of tax rolls; community education; and arbitration between taxpayers and the assessing jurisdiction.

Our total employee count increased to 4,525 at December 31, 2018, from 4,069 at December 31, 2017.

For the twelve months ended December 31, 2018, total revenues increased 11% compared to the prior year. Organic revenue growth was 9% for the twelve months ended December 31, 2018, compared to the prior year period and revenues from acquisitions contributed 2% of growth for the twelve months ended December 31, 2018.

Subscriptions revenue grew 28% for the twelve months ended December 31, 2018, due to a gradual shift toward cloud-based, software as a service business, as well as continued strong growth in our e-filing revenues from courts and the addition of new subscription revenues from the acquisition of Socrata. Organic subscriptions revenue increased 21% for the twelve months ended December 31, 2018.

Our backlog at December 31, 2018 was $1.25 billion, a 2% increase from last year.

Recent Acquisitions

On December 7, 2018, we acquired certain assets and intellectual property of SceneDoc, Inc. ("SceneDoc"), a company that provides mobile-first, software-as-a-service (SaaS) field reporting for law enforcement agencies. The total purchase price was approximately $6.2 million, of which $5.4 million was paid in cash and approximately $759,000 accrued for a working capital holdback. As of December 31, 2018, the purchase price allocation for SceneDoc is not yet complete. The preliminary estimates of fair value assumed at the acquisition date for intangible assets, receivables and deferred revenue and related deferred taxes are subject to change as valuations are finalized.

On October 1, 2018, we acquired all of the equity interests of TradeMaster, Inc. dba MobileEyes ("MobileEyes"), a company that develops software to improve public safety by supporting fire prevention and suppression, emergency response, and structural safety. The total purchase price was approximately $5.3 million in cash.

On August 31, 2018, we acquired all of the assets of CaseloadPRO, L. P. ("CaseloadPro"), a company that provides a fully featured probation case management system. The purchase price of $9.3 million was paid in cash.

On April 30, 2018, we acquired all of the capital stock of Socrata, Inc. ("Socrata"), a company that provides open data and data-as-a-service solutions including cloud-based data integration, visualization, analysis, and reporting solutions for federal, state and local government agencies. The purchase price, net of cash acquired of $1.7 million, was $147.6 million in cash.

On April 30, 2018, we acquired all of the equity interests of Sage Data Security, LLC ("Sage"), a cybersecurity company offering a suite of services that supports an entire cybersecurity lifecycle, including program development, education and training, technical testing, advisory services, and digital forensics. The total purchase price was $11.6 million paid in cash.

As of December 31, 2018, the purchase price allocations for Sage, Socrata, CaseloadPro, and MobileEyes are complete.

The operating results of all 2018 acquisitions are included with the operating results of the Enterprise Software segment since their date of acquisition. Revenues from Socrata included in Tyler's results of operations totaled approximately $13.9 million and the net loss was $11.5 million for the twelve months ended December 31, 2018. The impact of the Sage, CaseloadPRO, MobileEyes and SceneDoc acquisitions, individually and in the aggregate, on our operating results, assets and liabilities is not material.

Our balance sheet as of December 31, 2018, reflects the allocation of the purchase price to the assets acquired based on their fair value at the date of each acquisition. The fair value of the assets and liabilities acquired are based on valuations using Level III, unobservable inputs that are supported by little or no market activity and that are significant to the fair value of the assets or liabilities.

We monitor and analyze several key performance indicators in order to manage our business and evaluate our financial and operating performance. These indicators include the following:

Revenues – We derive our revenues from five primary sources: sale of software licenses and royalties; subscription-based arrangements; software services; maintenance; and appraisal services. Subscriptions and maintenance are considered recurring revenue sources and comprised approximately 65% of our revenue in 2018. The number of new SaaS clients and the number of existing clients who convert from our traditional software arrangements to our SaaS model are a significant driver to our business, together with new software license sales and maintenance rate increases. In addition, we also monitor our customer base and churn as we historically have experienced very low customer turnover. During 2018, based on our number of customers, turnover was approximately 2%.

Cost of Revenues and Gross Margins – Our primary cost component is personnel expenses in connection with providing software implementation, subscription-based services, maintenance and support, and appraisal services to our clients. We can improve gross margins by controlling headcount and related costs and by expanding our revenue base, especially from those products and services that produce incremental revenue with minimal incremental cost, such as software licenses and royalties, subscription-based services, and maintenance and support. Our appraisal projects are cyclical in nature, and we often employ appraisal personnel on a short-term basis to coincide with the life of a project. As of December 31, 2018, our total employee count increased to 4,525 from 4,069 at December 31, 2017.

Selling, General and Administrative (“SG&A”) Expenses – The primary components of SG&A expenses are administrative and sales personnel salaries and commissions, share-based compensation expense, marketing expense, rent and professional fees. Sales commissions typically fluctuate with revenues and share-based compensation expense generally increases as the market price of our stock increases. Other administrative expenses tend to grow at a slower rate than revenues.

Liquidity and Cash Flows – The primary driver of our cash flows is net income. Uses of cash include acquisitions, capital investments in property and equipment and discretionary purchases of treasury stock. Our working capital needs are fairly stable throughout the year with the significant components of cash outflows being payment of personnel expenses offset by cash inflows representing collection of accounts receivable and cash receipts from clients in advance of revenue being earned. In recent years, we have also received significant amounts of cash from employees exercising stock options and contributing to our Employee Stock Purchase Plan.

Balance Sheet – Cash, accounts receivable and days sales outstanding and deferred revenue balances are important indicators of our business.

Adoption of New Revenue Accounting Standard

On January 1, 2018, we adopted ASU No. 2014-09, using the full retrospective method of transition, which requires that the new standard be applied to all periods presented. The impacts of adoption are reflected in the financial information herein. For additional details, see Note 1 - "Summary of Significant Accounting Policies" to our consolidated financial statements in this report.

Recent Accounting Guidance not yet Adopted

Leases. On February 25, 2016, the FASB issued its new lease accounting guidance in ASU No. 2016-02, Leases ("Topic 842"). Under the new guidance, lessees will be required to recognize the following for all leases (with the exception of short-term leases) at the commencement date:

- A lease liability, which is a lessee's obligation to make lease payments arising from a lease, measured on a discounted basis; and
- A right-of-use asset, which is an asset that represents the lessee's right to use, or control the use of, a specified asset for the lease term.

Topic 842 is effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2018, including interim periods therein. Early application is permitted for all business entities upon issuance. Upon adoption, entities will be required to use a modified retrospective approach with an option to use certain practical expedients. We expect to adopt ASU 2016-02 when effective, using the transition method that allows us to initially apply the guidance at the adoption date of January 1, 2019 and recognize a cumulative-effect adjustment to the opening balance of retained earnings in the period of adoption. We expect to use the package of practical expedients that allows us to not reassess: (1) lease classification for any expired or existing leases and (2) initial direct costs for any expired or existing leases. We expect ASU 2016-02 will impact our consolidated financial statements and related disclosures. We are currently evaluating the extent of the impact and expect that most of our lease commitments will be subject to the updated guidance and recognized as lease liabilities and right-of-use assets on our consolidated balance sheets upon adoption. Based on our current portfolio of leases, we estimate a range of $15.5 million to $17.8 million of lease assets and liabilities to be recognized on our balance sheet, primarily relating to office facilities.

Outlook

The local government software market continues to be active, and our backlog at December 31, 2018 reached $1.25 billion, a 2% increase from last year. We expect to continue to achieve solid growth in revenue and earnings. With our strong financial position and cash flow, we plan to continue to make significant investments in product development to better position us to continue to expand our competitive position in the public sector software market over the long term.

CRITICAL ACCOUNTING POLICIES AND ESTIMATES

Our discussion and analysis of financial condition and results of operations is based upon our financial statements, which have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States ("GAAP"). The preparation of these financial statements requires us to make estimates and judgments that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements, the reported amounts of revenues, cost of revenues and expenses during the reporting period, and related disclosure of contingencies. The Notes to the Financial Statements included as part of this Annual Report describe our significant accounting policies used in the preparation of the financial statements. Significant items subject to such estimates and assumptions include the application of the progress toward completion methods of revenue recognition, estimated standalone selling price ("SSP") for distinct performance obligations, the carrying amount and estimated useful lives of intangible assets, determination of share-based compensation expense and valuation allowance for receivables. We base our estimates on historical experience and on various other assumptions that we believe to be reasonable under the circumstances, the results of which form the basis for making judgments about the carrying values of assets and liabilities that are not readily apparent from other sources. Actual results may differ from these estimates under different assumptions or conditions.

We believe the following critical accounting policies require significant judgments and estimates used in the preparation of our financial statements.

Revenue Recognition. We earn revenue from software licenses, royalties, subscription-based services, software services, post-contract customer support ("PCS" or "maintenance"), hardware, and appraisal services. Revenue is recognized upon transfer of control of promised products or services to customers in an amount that reflects the consideration we expect to receive in exchange for those products or services. We determine revenue recognition through the following steps:

- Identification of the contract, or contracts, with a customer
- Identification of the performance obligations in the contract
- Determination of the transaction price
- Allocation of the transaction price to the performance obligations in the contract
- Recognition of revenue when, or as, we satisfy a performance obligation

Most of our software arrangements with customers contain multiple performance obligations that range from software licenses, installation, training, and consulting to software modification and customization to meet specific customer needs (services), hosting, and PCS. For these contracts, we account for individual performance obligations separately when they are distinct. We evaluate whether separate performance obligations can be distinct or should be accounted for as one performance obligation. Arrangements that include software services, such as training or installation, are evaluated to determine whether those services are highly interdependent or highly interrelated to the product's functionality. Many of our software arrangements involve "off-the-shelf" software. We recognize the revenue allocable to "off-the-shelf" software licenses and specified upgrades at a point in time when control of the software license transfers to the customer, unless the software is not considered distinct. We consider off-the-shelf software to be distinct when it can be added to an arrangement with minor changes in the underlying code, it can be used by the customer for the customer's purpose upon installation, and remaining services such as training are not considered highly interdependent or highly interrelated to the product's functionality.

For arrangements that involve significant production, modification or customization of the software, or where software services are otherwise not considered distinct, we recognize revenue over time by measuring progress-to-completion. We measure progress-to-completion primarily using labor hours incurred as it best depicts the transfer of control to the customer which occurs as we incur costs on our contracts. These arrangements are often implemented over an extended period and occasionally require us to revise total cost estimates. Amounts recognized in revenue are calculated using the progress-to-completion measurement after giving effect to any changes in our cost estimates. Changes to total estimated contract costs, if any, are recorded in the period they are determined. Estimated losses on uncompleted contracts are recorded in the period in which we first determine that a loss is apparent. When software services are distinct, the fee allocable to the service element is recognized over the time we perform the services and is billed on a time and material basis.

Subscription-based services consist of revenues derived from SaaS arrangements, which primarily utilize the Tyler private cloud, and electronic filing transactions. Revenue from subscription-based services is generally recognized over time on a ratable basis over the contract term, beginning on the date that our service is made available to the customer. For SaaS arrangements, we evaluate whether the customer has the contractual right to take possession of our software at any time during the hosting period without significant penalty and whether the customer can feasibly maintain the software on the customer's hardware or enter into another arrangement with a third-party to host the software. We allocate contract value to each performance obligation of the arrangement that qualifies for treatment as a distinct element based on estimated SSP. When it is determined that software is distinct and the customer has the ability to take control of the software, we recognize revenue allocable to the software license fee when access to the software license is made available to the customer. We recognize hosting services ratably over the term of the arrangement, which range from one to ten years but are typically for a period of three to five years. For software services associated with certain SaaS arrangements, we have concluded that the services are not distinct, and we recognize the revenue ratably over the remaining contractual period once we have provided the customer access to the software. We record amounts that have been invoiced in accounts receivable and in deferred revenue or revenues, depending on whether the revenue recognition criteria have been met.

The transaction price is allocated to the separate performance obligations on a relative SSP basis. We determine the SSP based on our overall pricing objectives, taking into consideration market conditions and other factors, including the value of our contracts, the applications sold, customer demographics, and the number and types of users within our contracts. We use a range of amounts to estimate SSP when we sell each of the products and services separately and need to determine whether there is a discount to be allocated based on the relative SSP of the various products and services. In instances where SSP is not directly observable, such as when we do not sell the product or service separately, we determine SSP using the expected cost-plus margin approach. Revenue is recognized net of allowances for sales adjustments and any taxes collected from customers, which are subsequently remitted to governmental authorities.

Typically, the structure of our arrangements does not give rise to variable consideration. However, in those instances whereby variable consideration exists, we include in our estimates additional revenue for variable consideration when we believe we have an enforceable right, the amount can be estimated reliably and its realization is probable.

We maintain allowances for doubtful accounts, which are provided at the time the revenue is recognized. Since most of our customers are domestic governmental entities, we rarely incur a loss resulting from the inability of a customer to make required payments. Events or changes in circumstances that indicate that the carrying amount for the allowances for doubtful accounts may require revision include, but are not limited to, deterioration of a customer's financial condition, failure to manage our customer's expectations regarding the scope of the services to be delivered, and defects or errors in new versions or enhancements of our software products. The allowance for doubtful accounts reflects our best estimate of probable losses inherent in the accounts receivable balance. We determine the allowance based on known troubled accounts, historical experience, and other currently available evidence.

In connection with certain of our contracts, we have recorded retentions receivable or unbilled receivables consisting of costs and estimated profit in excess of billings as of the balance sheet date. Many of the contracts which give rise to unbilled receivables at a given balance sheet date are subject to billings in the subsequent accounting period. We review unbilled receivables and related contract provisions to ensure we are justified in recognizing revenue prior to billing the customer and that we have objective evidence which allows us to recognize such revenue. In addition, we have a sizable amount of deferred revenue, which represents billings in excess of revenue earned. The majority of this liability consists of maintenance billings for which payments are made in advance and the revenue is ratably earned over the maintenance period, generally one year. We also have deferred revenue for those contracts in which we receive a deposit and the conditions in which to record revenue for the service or product have not been met. On a periodic basis, we review by customer the detail components of our deferred revenue to ensure our accounting remains appropriate.

Intangible Assets and Goodwill. Our business acquisitions typically result in the creation of goodwill and other intangible asset balances, and these balances affect the amount and timing of future period amortization expense, as well as expense we could possibly incur as a result of an impairment charge. The cost of acquired companies is allocated to identifiable tangible and intangible assets based on estimated fair value, with the excess allocated to goodwill. Accordingly, we have a significant balance of acquisition date intangible assets, including software, customer related intangibles, trade name, leases and goodwill. These intangible assets (other than goodwill) are amortized over their estimated useful lives. We currently have no intangible assets with indefinite lives other than goodwill.

When testing goodwill for impairment quantitatively, we first compare the fair value of each reporting unit with its carrying amount. If the carrying amount of a reporting unit exceeds its fair value, a second step is performed to measure the amount of potential impairment. In the second step, we compare the implied fair value of reporting unit goodwill with the carrying amount of the reporting unit's goodwill. If the carrying amount of reporting unit goodwill exceeds the implied fair value of that goodwill, an impairment loss is recognized. The fair values calculated in our impairment tests are determined using discounted cash flow models involving several assumptions. The assumptions that are used are based upon what we believe a hypothetical marketplace participant would use in estimating fair value. We base our fair value estimates on assumptions we believe to be reasonable but that are unpredictable and inherently uncertain. We evaluate the reasonableness of the fair value calculations of our reporting units by comparing the total of the fair value of all of our reporting units to our total market capitalization. Our annual goodwill impairment analysis, which we performed quantitatively during the second quarter of 2018, did not result in an impairment charge. During 2018, we did not identify any triggering events that would require an update to our annual impairment review. All intangible assets (other than goodwill) are reviewed for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount of an asset may not be recoverable. Recoverability of other intangible assets is measured by comparison of the carrying amount to estimated undiscounted future cash flows. The assessment of recoverability or of the estimated useful life for amortization purposes will be affected if the timing or the amount of estimated future operating cash flows is not achieved. Such indicators may include, among others: a significant decline in expected future cash flows; a sustained, significant decline in stock price and market capitalization; a significant adverse change in legal factors or in the business climate; unanticipated competition; and reductions in growth rates. In addition, products, capabilities, or technologies developed by others may render our software products obsolete or non-competitive. Any adverse change in these factors could have a significant impact on the recoverability of goodwill or other intangible assets.

Share-Based Compensation. We have a stock incentive plan that provides for the grant of stock options, restricted stock units and performance stock units to key employees, directors and non-employee consultants. We estimate the fair value of share-based awards on the date of grant. Share-based compensation expense includes the estimated effects of forfeitures, which will be adjusted over the requisite service period to the extent actual forfeitures differ or are expected to differ from such estimates. Changes in estimated forfeitures are recognized in the period of change and will also impact the amount of expense to be recognized in future periods. Forfeiture rate assumptions are derived from historical data.

We estimate stock price volatility at the date of grant based on the historical volatility of our common stock. Estimated option life is determined using the weighted-average period the stock options are expected to be outstanding based primarily on the options' vesting terms, remaining contractual life and the employees' expected exercise based on historical patterns. Determining the appropriate fair-value model and calculating the fair value of share-based awards at the grant date requires considerable judgment, including estimating stock price volatility, expected option life and forfeiture rates.

2018 Compared to 2017

Revenues

On April 30, 2018, we acquired Socrata, a company that provides open data and data-as-a-service solutions for federal, state and local government agencies including cloud-based data integration, visualization, analysis, and reporting solutions. The following table details revenue for Socrata for the periods presented as of December 31, 2018, which is included in our consolidated statements of income:

	2018
Revenues:
Software licenses and royalties	$	13,877
Subscriptions		12,106
Software services		1,751
Maintenance		—
Appraisal services		—
Hardware and other		20
Total revenues	$	13,877

On December 7, 2018, we acquired SceneDoc, Inc., a company that provides mobile-first, software-as-a-service (SaaS) field reporting for law enforcement agencies. On October 1, 2018, we acquired MobileEyes, a company that develops software to improve public safety by supporting fire prevention and suppression, emergency response, and structural safety. On August 31, 2018, we acquired CaseloadPRO, a company that provides a fully featured probation case management system. On April 30, 2018, we also acquired Sage, a cybersecurity company offering a suite of services that supports an entire cybersecurity lifecycle. The impact of these acquisitions on our operating results is not considered material, individually and in the aggregate, and is not included in the table above. The results of these acquisitions are included with the operating results of the ES segment from their dates of acquisition. For comparative purposes, we have provided explanations for changes in operations to exclude results of operations for these acquisitions noting the exclusion.

Software licenses and royalties.

The following table sets forth a comparison of our software licenses and royalties revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
	As Adjusted
ES	$ 83,785	$ 78,388	$ 5,347	7%
A&T	9,706	7,854	1,852	24
Total software licenses and royalties revenue	$ 93,441	$ 86,242	$ 7,199	8%

Software license and royalties revenue grew 8% compared to the prior year. The majority of this growth was due to an active marketplace as the result of generally positive local government economic conditions, as well as our increasingly strong competitive position, which we attribute in part to our investment in product development in recent years. An increase in the number of larger contracts related to our planning, regulatory and maintenance solutions and public safety solutions also contributed to the growth in license revenue.

Although the mix of new contracts between subscription-based and perpetual license arrangements may vary from quarter to quarter and year to year, we expect our longer-term software license growth rate to be negatively impacted by a growing number of customers choosing our subscription-based options, rather than purchasing the software under a traditional perpetual software license arrangement. Subscription-based arrangements result in lower software license revenue in the initial year as compared to perpetual software license arrangements but generate higher overall revenue over the term of the contract. Our new client mix in 2018 was approximately 47% selecting perpetual software license arrangements and approximately 53% selecting subscription-based arrangements compared to a client mix in 2017 of approximately 53% selecting perpetual software license arrangements and approximately 47% selecting subscription-based arrangements.

Subscriptions.

The following table sets forth a comparison of our subscriptions revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
		As Adjusted
ES	$ 710,740	$ 164,317	$ 46,423	28%
A&T	9,807	7,859	1,948	25
Total subscriptions revenue	$ 220,547	$ 172,176	$ 48,371	28%

Subscription-based revenue primarily consists of revenue derived from our SaaS arrangements, which generally utilize the Tyler private cloud. As part of our subscription-based services, we also provide electronic document filing solutions ("e-filing") that simplify the filing and management of court related documents for courts and law offices. E-filing revenue is derived from transaction fees and fixed fee arrangements.

Excluding the results of acquisitions, subscription-based revenue increased 21% compared to 2017. New SaaS clients as well as existing clients who converted to our SaaS model provided the majority of the subscription revenue increase. In 2018, we added 410 new SaaS clients and 97 existing clients elected to convert to our SaaS model. Also, e-filing services contributed approximately $6.2 million of the subscription revenue increase in 2018. The increase in e-filing revenue is attributed to new e-filing clients, as well as increased volumes as the result of several existing clients mandating e-filing. The acquisition of Socrata, which primarily has a subscription revenue model, also contributed to the increase in subscription revenues.

Software services.

The following table sets forth a comparison of our software services revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
		As Adjusted
ES	$ 166,921	$ 161,245	$ 5,676	4%
A&T	24,348	19,215	5,133	27
Total software services revenue	$ 191,269	$ 180,460	$ 10,809	6%

Software services revenue primarily consists of professional services billed in connection with implementing our software, converting client data, training client personnel, custom development activities and consulting. New clients who purchase our proprietary software licenses generally also contract with us to provide for the related software services. Existing clients also periodically purchase additional training, consulting and minor programming services. Excluding the results of acquisitions, software services revenue grew 3% compared to the prior year period. This growth is due to a higher level of new software sales, through both our license and subscription models.

Maintenance.

The following table sets forth a comparison of our maintenance revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
		As Adjusted
ES	$ 359,504	$ 337,701	$ 22,203	7%
A&T	24,617	21,618	2,999	14
Total maintenance revenue	$ 384,521	$ 359,319	$ 25,202	7%

We provide maintenance and support services for our software products and certain third-party software. Maintenance revenue grew 7% compared to the prior year. Maintenance and support revenue increased mainly due to growth in our installed customer base from new software license sales as well as annual maintenance rate increases.

Appraisal services.

The following table sets forth a comparison of our appraisal services revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
		As Adjusted
IS	$ —	$ —	$ —	—%
A&T	21,846	25,023	(3,177)	(13)
Total appraisal services revenue	$ 21,846	$ 25,023	$ (3,177)	(13)%

In 2018, appraisal services revenue decreased 13% compared to the prior year primarily due to the successful completion of several large revaluation projects in mid-2017. The appraisal services business is somewhat cyclical and driven in part by statutory revaluation cycles in various states.

Cost of Revenues and Gross Margins

The following table sets forth a comparison of the key components of our cost of revenues for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
		As Adjusted
Software licenses and royalties	$ 3,802	$ 3,321	$ 481	14%
Acquired software	22,972	21,686	1,286	6
Software services, maintenance and subscriptions	438,923	387,624	51,299	13
Appraisal services	14,299	16,286	(1,987)	(12)
Hardware and other	18,708	12,595	6,113	25
Total cost of revenues	$ 495,704	$ 441,522	$ 54,182	12%

The following table sets forth a comparison of gross margin percentage by revenue type for the years ended December 31:

Gross margin percentage	2018	2017	Change
Software licenses, royalties and acquired software	71.3%	71.0%	0.3%
Software services, maintenance and subscriptions	44.9	45.6	(0.7)
Appraisal services	34.5	34.9	(0.4)
Hardware and other	33.6	28.8	4.8
Overall gross margin	47.0%	47.5%	(0.5)%

Software licenses, royalties and acquired software. Cost of software licenses, royalties and acquired software is primarily comprised of amortization expense for acquired software and third-party software costs. We do not have any direct costs associated with royalties. The gross margin increase of 0.3% is due to higher software license revenues offset by an increase in amortization expense for acquired software attributed to new acquisitions completed in 2018.

Software services, maintenance and subscriptions. Cost of software services, maintenance and subscriptions primarily consists of personnel costs related to installation of our software, conversion of client data, training client personnel and support activities and various other services such as custom client development and on-going operation of SaaS and e-filing arrangements. In 2018, the software services, maintenance and subscriptions gross margin decreased 0.7% compared to the prior year. Excluding employees added through acquisitions, our implementation and support staff has grown by 57 employees since December 31, 2017 as we accelerated hiring to ensure that we are well-positioned to deliver our current backlog and anticipated new business. Recognition of acquisition-related deferred revenue associated with subscriptions and maintenance also resulted in lower gross margins.

Appraisal services. Appraisal services revenue comprised approximately 2.3% of total revenue. The appraisal services gross margin decreased 0.4% compared to 2017 due to the reduction in higher margin projects substantially complete by early 2017 and lower volume of revenues in the current period to cover relatively fixed costs.

Our 2018 blended gross margin slightly decreased by 0.5% compared to 2017. Our overall gross margin decrease is mainly attributed to additions to our implementation staff and lower margin revenues from appraisal services, offset by improved margin on revenues from software licenses.

Selling, General and Administrative Expenses

Selling, general and administrative ("SG&A") expenses consist primarily of salaries, employee benefits, travel, share-based compensation expense, commissions and related overhead costs for administrative and sales and marketing employees, as well as, professional fees, trade show activities, advertising costs and other marketing related costs. The following table sets forth a comparison of our SG&A expenses for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
			As Adjusted
Selling, general and administrative expenses	$ 207,605	$ 175,914	$ 31,691	18%

SG&A as a percentage of revenue was 22.2% in 2018 compared to 20.9% in 2017. SG&A expense increased approximately 18% compared to the prior year period. In 2018, our operating results include $9.1 million of SG&A expenses for Socrata from the date of acquisition. The remaining SG&A expense increase is mainly due to compensation cost related to increased staff levels, higher stock compensation expense and increased commission expense as a result of higher sales. Excluding employees added with acquisitions, we have added 47 employees mainly to our sales and finance teams since December 31, 2017. In addition, our 2018 stock compensation expense rose $11.2 million, mainly due to increases in our stock price over the last few years.

Research and Development Expense

Research and development expense consists primarily of salaries, employee benefits and related overhead costs associated with new product development. The following table sets forth a comparison of our research and development expense for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
Research and development expense	$ 63,264	$ 47,324	$ 15,940	34%

Research and development expense increased 34% in 2018 compared to the prior year period, mainly due to a number of new Tyler product development initiatives across our product suites, including increased investments in research and development at recently acquired businesses. To support these initiatives, our research and development staff has grown by 159 since December 31, 2017.

Amortization of Customer and Trade Name Intangibles

Acquisition intangibles are comprised of the excess of the purchase price over the fair value of net tangible assets acquired that is allocated to acquired software, leases and customer and trade name intangibles. The remaining excess purchase price is allocated to goodwill that is not subject to amortization. Amortization expense related to acquired software is included with cost of revenues, while amortization expense of customer and trade name intangibles is recorded as operating expense. The estimated useful lives of both customer and trade name intangibles range from five to 25 years. The following table sets forth a comparison of amortization of customer and trade name intangibles for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
		As Adjusted
Amortization of customer and trade name intangibles	$ 15,217	$ 13,381	$ 1,836	21%

Amortization of customer and trade name intangibles increased due to the impact of intangibles added with several acquisitions completed in 2017 and 2018.

Estimated annual amortization expense relating to customer and trade name acquisition intangibles, excluding acquired software for which the amortization expense is recorded as cost of revenues, for the next five years is as follows (in thousands):

2020	15,350
2021	15,232
2022	14,740
2023	14,665
Thereafter	95,419

Amortization expense relating to acquired leases will be recorded as a reduction to hardware and other revenue and is expected to be $372,000 in 2019, $313,000 in 2020, $312,000 in 2021, $312,000 in 2022, $312,000 in 2023 and $723,000 thereafter.

Other

The following table sets forth a comparison of other income (expense), net for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
Other income, net	$ 3,378	$ 698	$ 2,680	N/M

Other income is comprised of interest expense and non-usage and other fees associated with our revolving credit agreement as well as interest income from invested cash. Other income, net, increased compared to the prior period due to increased interest income from significantly higher levels of cash and investments resulting from cash generated in the last year. We had no debt in the current period, as we repaid all borrowings under the revolving line of credit in January 2017.

Income Tax Provision (Benefit)

The following table sets forth a comparison of our income tax provision for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	Change
		As Adjusted
Income tax provision (benefit)	$ 8,408	$ (6,115)	$ 14,523	(237)%
Effective income tax rate	5.4%	(3.7)%

The increase in the income tax provision in 2018 is primarily due to the one-time tax benefit of $26.0 million (as adjusted) recognized in the fourth quarter of 2017 resulting from the remeasurement of deferred tax assets and liabilities associated with the enactment of the Tax Act which reduced the statutory U.S. federal corporate income tax rate from 35% to 21%. The increase is somewhat offset by the decrease in statutory U.S. federal corporate income tax rate for 2018. In addition, excess tax benefits from stock option exercises were lower in 2018 as compared to the prior period. Stock option exercise activity in 2018 generated excess tax benefits of $32.5 million, while stock option exercise activity in 2017 generated $40.6 million excess tax benefits.

The increase in the effective income tax rate in 2018 compared to 2017 is also primarily attributable to the one-time tax benefit associated with the Tax Act recognized in 2017 and the decrease in excess tax benefits related to stock option exercises realized, offset by the decrease in statutory U.S. federal corporate income tax rate for 2018. Excluding the impact of the Tax Act and the excess tax benefits, our income tax provision and effective tax rate in 2018 would have been $42.6 million and 27.4% and in 2017, would have been $60.5 million (as adjusted) and 37.0%, respectively.

The effective income tax rates in both 2018 and 2017 differed from the statutory United States federal corporate income tax rate of 21% and 35%, respectively, due to state income taxes, the research tax credit, non-deductible share-based compensation expense, disqualifying incentive stock option dispositions, and other non-deductible business expenses, and in 2017, the domestic production activities deduction.

2017 Compared to 2016

Revenues

Software licenses and royalties.

The following table sets forth a comparison of our software licenses and royalties revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2017	2016	Change
	As Adjusted	As Adjusted
ES	$ 78,288	$ 78,271	$ 117	0%
A&T	7,854	5,462	2,392	44%
Total software licenses and royalties revenue	$ 86,142	$ 83,733	$ 2,409	3%

Software license and royalties revenue increased 3% compared to the prior year. The increase in software licenses and royalties is attributed to additions to our implementation staff, which increased our capacity to deliver backlog.

Although the mix of new contracts between subscription-based and perpetual license arrangements may vary from quarter to quarter and year to year, we expect our longer-term software license growth rate to be negatively impacted by a growing number of customers choosing our subscription-based options, rather than purchasing the software under a traditional perpetual software license arrangement. Subscription-based arrangements result in lower software license revenue in the initial year as compared to perpetual software license arrangements but generate higher overall revenue over the term of the contract. Our new client mix in 2017 was approximately 53% selecting perpetual software license arrangements and approximately 47% selecting subscription-based arrangements compared to a client mix in 2016 of approximately 68% selecting perpetual software license arrangements and approximately 32% selecting subscription-based arrangements.

Subscriptions.

The following table sets forth a comparison of our subscriptions revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2017		2016		Change
	As Adjusted		As Adjusted		$	%
ES	$ 164,317	$ 135,469	$ 28,848	21%
A&T	7,859	7,188	671	9
Total subscriptions revenue	$ 172,176	$ 142,657	$ 29,519	21%

Subscription-based revenue primarily consists of revenue derived from our SaaS arrangements, which generally utilize the Tyler private cloud. As part of our subscription-based services, we also provide electronic document filing solutions ("e-filing") that simplify the filing and management of court related documents for courts and law offices. E-filing revenue is derived from transaction fees and fixed fee arrangements.

Subscription-based revenue increased 21% compared to 2016. New SaaS clients as well as existing clients who converted to our SaaS model provided the majority of the subscriptions revenue increase. In 2017, we added 374 new SaaS clients and 88 existing clients elected to convert to our SaaS model. The average contract size in 2017 were 64% and 44% higher than 2016 for new clients and clients converting to our SaaS model, respectively. Also, e-filing services contributed approximately $8.5 million of the subscriptions revenue increase in 2017. The increase in e-filing revenue is attributed to new e-filing clients, as well as increased volumes as the result of several existing clients mandating e-filing.

Software services.

The following table sets forth a comparison of our software services revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2017		2016		Change
	As Adjusted		As Adjusted		$	%
ES	$ 161,245	$ 155,822	$ 5,423	4%
A&T	19,215	16,326	2,889	18
Total software services revenue	$ 180,460	$ 171,648	$ 8,812	5%

Software services revenue primarily consists of professional services billed in connection with implementing our software, converting client data, training client personnel, custom development activities and consulting. New clients who purchase our proprietary software licenses generally also contract with us to provide for the related software services. Existing clients also periodically purchase additional training, consulting and minor programming services. Software services revenue grew 5% compared to the prior year period. This growth is partly due to additions to our implementation and support staff, which increased our capacity to deliver backlog and partially due to completing recognition of a majority of the acquisition-related deferred service revenue that was fair valued at rates below Tyler's average service rate in prior periods.

Maintenance.

The following table sets forth a comparison of our maintenance revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2017	2016	Change
	As Adjusted	As Adjusted
ES	$ 337,701	$ 302,409	$ 35,292	12%
A&T	21,618	18,589	3,029	16
Total maintenance revenue	$ 359,319	$ 320,998	$ 38,321	12%

We provide maintenance and support services for our software products and certain third-party software. Maintenance revenue grew 12% compared to the prior year. Maintenance and support revenue increased mainly due to growth in our installed customer base from new software license sales as well as annual maintenance rate increases. In addition, the increase is partially due to completing recognition of a majority of the acquisition-related deferred maintenance revenue that was fair valued at rates below Tyler's average maintenance rate in prior periods.

Appraisal services.

The following table sets forth a comparison of our appraisal services revenue for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2017	2016	Change
ES	$ 25,023	$ 26,287	$ (1,264)	(5)%
A&T	25,023	26,287	(1,264)	(5)%
Total appraisal services revenue	$ 25,023	$ 26,287	$ (1,264)	(5)%

In 2017, appraisal services revenue decreased 5% compared to the prior year primarily due to the successful completion of several large revaluation projects in mid-2017. The appraisal services business is somewhat cyclical and driven in part by statutory revaluation cycles in various states.

Cost of Revenues and Gross Margins

The following table sets forth a comparison of the key components of our cost of revenues for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2017	2016	Change
Software licenses and royalties	$ 3,321	$ 2,964	$ 357	12%
Acquired software	21,686	22,235	(549)	N/M
Software services, maintenance and subscriptions	387,654	348,939	38,695	11
Appraisal services	16,286	16,411	(125)	(1)
Hardware and other	12,595	10,143	2,452	24
Total cost of revenues	$ 441,522	$ 400,692	$ 40,830	10%

Gross margin percentage	2017	2016	Change
	As Adjusted	As Adjusted
Software licenses, royalties and acquired software	71.0%	69.9%	1.1%
Software services, maintenance and subscriptions	45.6	45.1	0.5
Appraisal services	34.9	37.6	(2.7)
Hardware and other	28.8	30.3	(1.5)
Overall gross margin	47.5%	47.3%	0.2%

Software licenses, royalties and acquired software. Cost of software licenses, royalties and acquired software is primarily comprised of amortization expense for acquired software and third-party software costs. We do not have any direct costs associated with royalties. The gross margin increase of 1.1% is due to higher incremental margins on software license revenues, in part due to slightly lower amortization expense for acquired software resulting from acquisitions.

Software services, maintenance and subscriptions. Cost of software services, maintenance and subscriptions primarily consists of personnel costs related to installation of our software, conversion of client data, training client personnel and support activities and various other services such as custom client development and on-going operation of SaaS and e-filing arrangements. In 2017, the software services, maintenance and subscriptions gross margin increased 0.5% compared to the prior year. Our implementation and support staff grew by 220 employees in 2017. Many of these additions occurred in early to mid-2017 and are contributing to revenue in 2017. Costs related to maintenance and various other services such as SaaS and e-filing typically grow at a slower rate than related revenue due to leverage in the utilization of support and maintenance staff and economies of scale. Reduced recognition of acquisition-related deferred revenue associated with software services and maintenance obligations completed in prior periods also resulted in higher gross margins.

Appraisal services. Appraisal services revenue comprised approximately 3.0% of total revenue. The appraisal services gross margin decreased 2.7% compared to 2016 due to the reduction in higher margin projects substantially complete by early 2017 and lower volume of revenues in the current period to cover relatively fixed costs.

Our 2017 blended gross margin slightly increased 0.2% compared to 2016. Our overall gross margin was positively impacted by a product mix that included more higher-margin recurring revenues from subscriptions and maintenance and improved margin on revenues from software licenses offset by the lower-margin revenues from appraisal services as described above.

Selling, General and Administrative Expenses

The following table sets forth a comparison of selling, general and administrative expenses for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2017		2016		Change
	As Adjusted		As Adjusted		$	%
	Selling, general and administrative expenses	$	175,914	$	165,176	$	10,738

SG&A as a percentage of revenue was 20.9% in 2017 compared to 21.7% in 2016. SG&A expense increased approximately 7% mainly due to compensation costs related to increased staff levels, merit increases and higher stock compensation expense. We added 28 SG&A employees, mainly to our sales and finance teams in 2017. In addition, our 2017 stock compensation expense rose $4.7 million, mainly due to increases in our stock price over the last few years.

Research and Development Expense

The following table sets forth a comparison of our research and development expense for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2017	2016	Change
Research and development expense	$ 47,324	$ 43,154	$ 4,170	10%

Research and development expense consists mainly of costs associated with development of new products and technologies from which we do not currently generate revenue, as well as costs related to the ongoing development efforts for Microsoft Dynamics AX. Our contractual research and development commitment to develop public sector functionality for Microsoft Dynamics AX was amended in March 2016, which significantly reduced our development commitment through March 2018. However, we continue to provide sustained engineering and technical support for the public sector functionality within Dynamics AX. License and maintenance royalties for all applicable domestic and international sales of Dynamics AX to public sector entities will continue under the terms of the contract.

Research and development expense increased 10% in 2017 compared to the prior year period, mainly due to research and development efforts related to new Tyler product development initiatives, primarily in our public safety solutions, offset by reduced development efforts for Microsoft Dynamics AX. As a result of the Microsoft Dynamics AX amendment, we have redeployed certain development resources to enhance functionality on several existing solutions and these costs are being recorded in cost of revenues -- software services, maintenance and subscriptions.

Amortization of Customer and Trade Name Intangibles

The following table sets forth a comparison of amortization of customer and trade name intangibles for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2017	2016	Change
			As Adjusted	As Adjusted
Amortization of customer and trade name intangibles	$ 13,381	$ 13,202	$ 179	1%

Amortization of customer and trade name intangibles increased due to the impact of intangibles added with several small acquisitions completed in 2016 and 2017.

Other

The following table sets forth a comparison of other income (expense), net for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2017	2016	Change
Other income (expense), net	$ 698	$ (1,098)	$ 2,696	NM

Other income (expense) is comprised of interest expense and non-usage and other fees associated with our revolving credit agreement as well as interest income from invested cash. Other income (expense), net increased compared to the prior period is attributed to significantly lower debt levels in the current period, as we repaid all borrowings under the revolving line of credit in January 2017, and correspondingly higher levels of cash investments.

Income Tax (Benefit) Provision

The following table sets forth a comparison of our income tax provision for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2017		2016		Change
	As Adjusted		As Adjusted		$	%
	Income tax provision	$ (8,115)	$ 21,957	$ (28,072)		(128)%
Effective income tax rate	(3.7)%	16.2%

The decrease in the income tax provision during 2017 was primarily driven by the enactment of the Tax Act which reduced the statutory U.S. federal corporate income tax rate from 35% to 21%. The impact of the rate reduction on our 2017 income tax provision is a $26.0 million (as adjusted) tax benefit due to the remeasurement of deferred tax assets and liabilities. See Note 7 - "Income Tax" for additional information related to the Tax Act. The income tax provision is also lower due to the increase in the excess tax benefits from stock option exercises as compared to prior period. We experienced significant stock option exercise activity in 2017 and 2016 that generated excess tax benefits of $40.6 million and $29.6 million, respectively.

The change in the effective income tax rate in 2017 compared to 2016 is also primarily attributable to the impact of the Tax Act and the changes in excess tax benefits related to stock option exercises realized. Excluding the impact of the Tax Act and the excess tax benefits, our income tax provision and effective tax rate in 2017 would have been $60.5 million (as adjusted) and 37.0%, respectively. Excluding the excess tax benefits, our income tax provision and effective tax rate in 2016 would have been $51.5 million (as adjusted) and 38.0% respectively.

The effective income tax rates in both 2017 and 2016 differed from the statutory United States federal corporate income tax rate of 35% due to state income taxes, the domestic production activities deduction, the research tax credit, non-deductible share-based compensation expense, disqualifying incentive stock option dispositions, and other non-deductible business expenses.

FINANCIAL CONDITION AND LIQUIDITY

As of December 31, 2018, we had cash and cash equivalents of $134.3 million compared to $185.9 million at December 31, 2017. We also had $97.7 million invested in investment grade corporate bonds, municipal bonds and asset-backed securities as of December 31, 2018 compared to $63.8 million at December 31, 2017. These investments mature between 2018 through 2022 and we intend to hold these investments until maturity. Cash and cash equivalents consist of cash on deposit with several domestic banks and money market funds. As of December 31, 2018, we had no outstanding borrowings and no outstanding letters of credit. We believe our revolving line of credit, cash from operating activities, cash on hand and access to the credit markets provide us with sufficient flexibility to meet our long-term financial needs.

The following table sets forth a summary of cash flows for the years ended December 31:

($ in thousands)	2018	2017	2016
Cash flows provided (used) by:
Operating activities	$ 250,203	$ 195,755	$ 191,859
Investing activities	(238,255)	(85,395)	(80,720)
Financing activities	(63,595)	39,415	(138,075)
Net (decrease) increase in cash and cash equivalents	$ (51,647)	$ 149,775	$ 73,064

Net cash provided by operating activities continues to be our primary source of funds to finance operating needs and capital expenditures. Other potential capital resources include cash on hand, public and private issuances of debt or equity securities, and bank borrowings. It is possible that our ability to access the capital and credit markets in the future may be limited by economic conditions or other factors. We currently believe that cash provided by operating activities, cash on hand and available credit are sufficient to fund our working capital requirements, capital expenditures, income tax obligations, and share repurchases for at least the next twelve months.

In 2018, operating activities provided cash of $250.2 million compared to $195.8 million in 2017. Operating activities that provided cash were primarily comprised of net income of $147.5 million, non-cash depreciation and amortization charges of $61.8 million and non-cash share-based compensation expense of $52.7 million. Working capital, excluding cash, increased approximately $14.0 million due to higher accounts receivable because of an increase in unbilled receivables attributed to revenues recognized from prior billings, higher accounts receivable related to annual maintenance and subscription billings, and the deferred taxes associated with stock option activity during the period. These increases were offset slightly by the growth in deferred revenue balances and timing of income tax payments.

In general, changes in the balance of deferred revenue are cyclical and primarily driven by the timing of our maintenance and subscription billings. Our renewal dates occur throughout the year, but our largest maintenance renewal cycles occur in the second and fourth quarters.

Days sales outstanding in accounts receivable were 111 days at December 31, 2018, compared to 102 days at December 31, 2017. The increase in our DSO is mainly due to an increase in unbilled receivables attributed to the increase in software license revenue for which we have recognized revenue at the point in time when the software is made available to the customer, but the billing has not yet been submitted to the customer. An increase in software services contracts accounted for using progress-to-completion method of revenue recognition in which the services are performed in one accounting period, but the billing normally occurs subsequently in another accounting period also contributed to the increase in DSO. Furthermore, our maintenance billing cycle typically peaks at its highest level in June and second highest level in December of each year and is followed by collections in the subsequent quarter. DSO is calculated based on quarter-end accounts receivable (excluding long-term receivables but including unbilled receivables) divided by the quotient of annualized quarterly revenues divided by 360 days.

Investing activities used cash of $238.3 million in 2018 compared to $85.4 million in 2017. We invested $115.6 million and received $81.2 million in proceeds from investment grade corporate bonds, municipal bonds and asset-backed securities with maturity dates ranging from 2018 through 2022. Approximately $27.4 million was invested in property and equipment, primarily for computer equipment, furniture and fixtures in support of internal growth, particularly with respect to our cloud-based offerings. We paid $2.2 million for the expansion of existing buildings. On December 7, 2018, we acquired certain assets and intellectual property of SceneDoc, Inc., a company that provides mobile-first, SaaS field reporting for law enforcement agencies. The total purchase price was approximately $6.2 million, of which $5.4 million was paid in cash and approximately $759,000 accrued for a working capital holdback. On October 1, 2018, we acquired all of the equity interests of MobileEyes, a company that develops software to improve public safety by supporting fire prevention and suppression, emergency response, and structural safety. The total purchase price was approximately $5.3 million in cash. On August 31, 2018, we acquired all of the assets of CaseloadPRO, a company that provides a fully featured probation case management system. The purchase price of $9.3 million was paid in cash. On April 30, 2018, we acquired all of the capital stock of Socrata, a company that provides open data and data-as-a-service solutions including cloud-based data integration, visualization, analysis, and reporting solutions for state and local government agencies. The purchase price, net of cash acquired of $1.7 million, was $147.6 million paid in cash. On April 30, 2018, we acquired all of the equity interests of Sage, a cybersecurity company offering a suite of services that supports an entire cybersecurity lifecycle, including program development, education and training, technical testing, advisory services, and digital forensics. The total purchase price was $11.6 million paid in cash. These expenditures were funded from cash generated from operations.

In 2017, we invested $59.8 million and received $28.8 million in proceeds from investment grade corporate bonds, municipal bonds and asset-backed securities. Approximately $43.1 million was invested in property and equipment. We purchased an office building in Latham, New York for approximately $2.9 million and paid $2.1 million for building improvements. We paid $19.4 million for construction to expand our office building in Yarmouth, Maine. We also made three small acquisitions with a combined cash purchase price of $11.3 million. The remaining additions were for computer equipment, furniture and fixtures in support of internal growth, particularly with respect to our cloud-based offerings. These expenditures were funded from cash generated from operations.

Financing activities used cash of $63.6 million in 2018 compared to cash provided of $39.4 million in 2017. Financing activities in 2018 were comprised of collections of $83.0 million from stock option exercises and employee stock purchase plan activity. We also purchased approximately 781,000 shares of our common stock for an aggregate purchase price of $150.1 million, of which $3.5 million was accrued as of December 31, 2018.

Financing activities in 2017 were comprised of $10.0 million net payments on our revolving line of credit offset by collections of $56.9 million from stock option exercises and employee stock purchase plan activity. We also purchased approximately 44,000 shares of our common stock for an aggregate purchase price of $6.6 million.

In February 2019, our board of directors authorized the repurchase of an additional 1.5 million shares of Tyler common stock. The repurchase program, which was approved by our board of directors, was announced in October 2002, and was amended at various times from 2003 through 2019. As of February 20, 2019, we had remaining authorization to repurchase up to 2.7 million additional shares of our common stock. Our share repurchase program allows us to repurchase shares at our discretion. Market conditions influence the timing of the buybacks and the number of shares repurchased, as well as the volume of employee stock option exercises.

Share repurchases are generally funded using our existing cash balances and borrowings under our credit facility and may occur through open market purchases and transactions structured through investment banking institutions, privately negotiated transactions and/or other mechanisms. There is no expiration date specified for the authorization and we intend to repurchase stock under the plan from time to time.

On November 16, 2015, we entered into a $300.0 million Credit Agreement (the "Credit Facility") with the various lenders party thereto and Wells Fargo Bank, National Association, as Administrative Agent. The Credit Facility provides for a revolving credit line of up to $300.0 million, including a $10.0 million sublimit for letters of credit. The Credit Facility matures on November 16, 2020. Borrowings under the Credit Facility may be used for general corporate purposes, including working capital requirements, acquisitions and share repurchases. Borrowings under the Credit Facility bear interest at a rate of either (1) Wells Fargo Bank's prime rate (subject to certain higher rate determinations) plus a margin of 0.25% to 1.00% or (2) the 30, 60, 90 or 180 day LIBOR rate plus a margin of 1.25% to 2.00%. As of December 31, 2018, our interest rate was 5.75% under the prime rate option or approximately 3.77% under the 30-day LIBOR option. The Credit Facility is secured by substantially all of our assets. The Credit Facility requires us to maintain certain financial ratios and other financial conditions and prohibits us from making certain investments, advances, cash dividends or loans, and limits incurrence of additional indebtedness and liens. As of December 31, 2018, we were in compliance with those covenants.

As of December 31, 2018, we had no outstanding borrowings and had unused borrowing capacity of $300.0 million under the Credit Facility. We paid interest of $770,000 in 2018, $804,000 in 2017, and $1.9 million in 2016.

We paid income taxes, net of refunds received, of $6.8 million in 2018, $36.0 million in 2017, and $30.2 million in 2016. In 2018, we experienced significant stock option exercise activity that generated net tax benefits of $32.5 million and reduced tax payments accordingly. In 2017 and 2016, excess tax benefits were $40.6 million and $29.6 million, respectively.

We anticipate that 2019 capital spending will be between $54 million and $56 million, including approximately $16 million related to real estate and approximately $6 million of capitalized software development. We expect the majority of the other capital spending will consist of computer equipment and software for infrastructure replacements and expansion. Capital spending is expected to be funded from existing cash balances and cash flows from operations.

On January 31, 2019, we entered in to a Merger agreement to acquire 100% of the equity interests of MP Holdings, Parent, Inc. dba MicroPact ("MicroPact") for the anticipated purchase price of $185 million in cash at closing (subject to possible adjustments and holdback) plus contingent consideration not to exceed $10 million. The completion of the acquisition is subject to customary closing conditions, including the expiration or the termination of the waiting period under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act. The Federal Trade Commission granted early termination of that waiting period effective February 15, 2019. The cash portion of the merger consideration will be funded from cash on hand and proceeds from the revolving credit facility.

On February 1, 2019, we acquired all the assets of Civic, LLC ("MyCivic"), a company that provides software solutions to connect communities. The purchase price is $3.7 million of which $3.6 million was paid in cash and approximately $90,000 was accrued for a working capital holdback.

From time to time we engage in discussions with potential acquisition candidates. In order to pursue such opportunities, which could require significant commitments of capital, we may be required to incur debt or to issue additional potentially dilutive securities in the future. No assurance can be given as to our future acquisition opportunities and how such opportunities will be financed.

We lease office facilities, as well as transportation and other equipment used in our operations under non-cancelable operating lease agreements expiring at various dates through 2026.

Summarized in the table below are our obligations to make future payments under the Credit Facility and lease obligations at December 31, 2018 (in thousands):

	2019	2020	2021	2022	2023	Thereafter	Total
Revolving line of credit	$ —	$ —	$ —	$ —	$ —	$ —	$ —
Lease obligations	5,994	5,146	3,976	1,925	1,164	2,132	20,337
Total future payment obligations	$ 5,994	$ 5,146	$ 3,976	$ 1,925	$ 1,164	$ 2,132	$ 20,337

As of December 31, 2018, we do not have any off-balance sheet arrangements, guarantees to third-parties or material purchase commitments, except for the operating lease commitments listed above.

CAPITALIZATION

At December 31, 2018, our capitalization consisted of no outstanding borrowings and $1.3 billion of shareholders' equity.

ITEM 7A. QUANTITATIVE AND QUALITATIVE DISCLOSURES ABOUT MARKET RISK.

Market risk represents the risk of loss that may affect us due to adverse changes in financial market prices and interest rates.

In 2018, our effective average interest rate for borrowings was 5.22%. As of December 31, 2018, our interest rate was 5.75% under the prime rate option or approximately 3.77% under the 30-day LIBOR option. The Credit Facility is secured by substantially all of our assets. Loans under the Credit Facility bear interest, at Tyler's option, at a per annum rate of either (1) the Wells Fargo Bank prime rate (subject to certain higher rate determinations) plus a margin of 0.25% to 1.00% or (2) the 30, 60, 90 or 180-day LIBOR rate plus a margin of 1.25% to 2.00%.

As of December 31, 2018, we had no outstanding borrowings under the Credit Facility and therefore are not subject to any interest risk.

ITEM 8. FINANCIAL STATEMENTS AND SUPPLEMENTARY DATA.

The reports of our independent registered public accounting firm and our financial statements, related notes, and supplementary data are included as part of this Annual Report beginning on page F-1.

ITEM 9. CHANGES IN AND DISAGREEMENTS WITH ACCOUNTANTS ON ACCOUNTING AND FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE.

ITEM 9A. CONTROLS AND PROCEDURES.

Evaluation of Disclosure Controls and Procedures — We maintain disclosure controls and procedures (as defined in Rule 13a-15(e) of the Securities Exchange Act) designed to provide reasonable assurance that the information required to be disclosed by us in the reports we file or submit under the Exchange Act is recorded, processed, summarized and reported within the time periods specified in the SEC's rules and forms. These include controls and procedures designed to ensure that this information is accumulated and communicated to our management, including our chief executive officer and chief financial officer, as appropriate to allow timely decisions regarding required disclosures. Management, with the participation of the chief executive officer and chief financial officer, evaluated the effectiveness of our disclosure controls and procedures as of December 31, 2018. Based on this evaluation, the chief executive officer and chief financial officer have concluded that our disclosure controls and procedures were effective as of December 31, 2018.

Management's Report on Internal Control Over Financial Reporting — Tyler's management is responsible for establishing and maintaining effective internal control over financial reporting as defined in Securities Exchange Act Rule 13a-15(f). Tyler's internal control over financial reporting is designed to provide reasonable assurance to Tyler's management and board of directors regarding the preparation and fair presentation of published financial statements.

Because of its inherent limitations, internal control over financial reporting may not prevent or detect misstatements. Therefore, even those systems determined to be effective can provide only reasonable assurance with respect to financial statement preparation and presentation.

Management assessed the effectiveness of Tyler's internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2018. In making this assessment, management used the criteria set forth by the Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway Commission (2013 framework) (the COSO criteria). Based on our assessment, we concluded that, as of December 31, 2018, Tyler's internal control over financial reporting was effective based on those criteria.

Tyler's internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2018 has been audited by Ernst & Young LLP, the independent registered public accounting firm who also audited Tyler's financial statements. Ernst & Young's attestation report on Tyler's internal control over financial reporting appears on page F-1 hereof.

Changes in Internal Control Over Financial Reporting — During the quarter ended December 31, 2018, there were no changes in our internal control over financial reporting, as defined in Securities Exchange Act Rule 13a-15(f), that materially affected, or are reasonably likely to materially affect, our internal control over financial reporting.

REPORT OF INDEPENDENT REGISTERED PUBLIC ACCOUNTING FIRM

To the Shareholders and the Board of Directors of Tyler Technologies, Inc.

Opinion on the Financial Statements

We have audited the accompanying consolidated balance sheets of Tyler Technologies, Inc. (the Company) as of December 31, 2018 and 2017, the related consolidated statements of comprehensive income, cash flows and shareholders' equity for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 2018, and the related notes (collectively referred to as the "consolidated financial statements"). In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Company at December 31, 2018 and 2017, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 2018, in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles.

We also have audited, in accordance with the standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States) (PCAOB), the Company's internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2018, based on criteria established in Internal Control-Integrated Framework issued by the Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway Commission (2013 framework) and our report dated February 20, 2019 expressed an unqualified opinion thereon.

As discussed in Note 1 to the consolidated financial statements, the Company changed its method of accounting for revenue in 2018 due to the adoption of Accounting Standards Update (ASU) No. 2014-09, Revenue from Contracts with Customers (Topic 606), and the related amendments.

Basis for Opinion

These financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the Company's financial statements based on our audits. We are a public accounting firm registered with the PCAOB and are required to be independent with respect to the Company in accordance with the U.S. federal securities laws and the applicable rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the PCAOB.

We conducted our audits in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether due to error or fraud. Our audits included performing procedures to assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to error or fraud, and performing procedures that respond to those risks. Such procedures included examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. Our audits also included evaluating the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

REPORT OF INDEPENDENT REGISTERED PUBLIC ACCOUNTING FIRM

To the Shareholders and the Board of Directors of Tyler Technologies, Inc.

Opinion on Internal Control over Financial Reporting

We have audited Tyler Technologies, Inc.'s internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2018, based on criteria established in Internal Control-Integrated Framework issued by the Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway Commission (2013 framework) (the COSO criteria). In our opinion, Tyler Technologies, Inc. (the Company) maintained, in all material respects, effective internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2018, based on the COSO criteria.

We also have audited, in accordance with the standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States) (PCAOB), consolidated balance sheets of the Company as of December 31, 2018 and 2017, the related consolidated statements of comprehensive income, shareholders' equity and cash flows for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 2018, and the related notes and our report dated February 20, 2019 expressed an unqualified opinion thereon.

Basis for Opinion

The Company's management is responsible for maintaining effective internal control over financial reporting and for its assessment of the effectiveness of internal control over financial reporting included in the accompanying Management's Report on Internal Control Over Financial Reporting. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the Company's internal control over financial reporting based on our audit. We are a public accounting firm registered with the PCAOB and are required to be independent with respect to the Company in accordance with the U.S. federal securities laws and the applicable rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the PCAOB.

We conducted our audit in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether effective internal control over financial reporting was maintained in all material respects.

Our audit included obtaining an understanding of internal control over financial reporting, assessing the risk that a material weakness exists, testing and evaluating the design and operating effectiveness of internal control based on the assessed risk, and performing such other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

Definition and Limitations of Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

A company's internal control over financial reporting is a process designed to provide reasonable assurance regarding the reliability of financial reporting and the preparation of financial statements for external purposes in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. A company's internal control over financial reporting includes those policies and procedures that (1) pertain to the maintenance of records that, in reasonable detail, accurately and fairly reflect the transactions and dispositions of the assets of the company; (2) provide reasonable assurance that transactions are recorded as necessary to permit preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, and that receipts and expenditures of the company are being made only in accordance with authorizations of management and directors of the company; and (3) provide reasonable assurance regarding prevention or timely detection of unauthorized acquisition, use, or disposition of the company's assets that could have a material effect on the financial statements.

Because of its inherent limitations, internal control over financial reporting may not prevent or detect misstatements. Also, projections of any evaluation of effectiveness to future periods are subject to the risk that controls may become inadequate because of changes in conditions, or that the degree of compliance with the policies or procedures may deteriorate.

DESCRIPTION OF BUSINESS

We provide integrated software systems and related services for the public sector, with a focus on local governments. We develop and market a broad line of software solutions and services to address the information technology ("IT") needs of cities, counties, schools and other local government entities. In addition, we provide professional IT services, including software and hardware installation, data conversion, training, and for certain customers, product modifications, along with continuing maintenance and support for customers using our systems. We also provide subscription-based services such as software as a service ("SaaS") arrangements, which primarily utilize the Tyler private cloud, and electronic document filing solutions ("e-filing"). In addition, we provide property appraisal outsourcing services for taxing jurisdictions.

PRINCIPLES OF CONSOLIDATION

The consolidated financial statements include our parent company and two subsidiaries, which are wholly-owned. All significant intercompany balances and transactions have been eliminated in consolidation. Comprehensive income is defined as the change in equity of a business enterprise during a period from transactions, and other events and circumstances from non-owner sources and includes all components of net income (loss) and other comprehensive income (loss). We had no items of other comprehensive income (loss) during the years ended December 31, 2018, 2017 and 2016.

CASH AND CASH EQUIVALENTS

Cash in excess of that necessary for operating requirements is invested in short-term, highly liquid, income-producing investments. Investments with original maturities of three months or less are classified as cash and cash equivalents, which primarily consist of cash on deposit with several banks and money market funds. Cash and cash equivalents are stated at cost, which approximates market value.

REVENUE RECOGNITION

Nature of Products and Services

We earn revenue from software licenses, royalties, subscription-based services, software services, post-contract customer support ("PCS" or "maintenance"), hardware, and appraisal services. Revenue is recognized upon transfer of control of promised products or services to customers in an amount that reflects the consideration we expect to receive in exchange for those products or services. We determine revenue recognition through the following steps:

- Identification of the contract, or contracts, with a customer
- Identification of the performance obligations in the contract
- Determination of the transaction price
- Allocation of the transaction price to the performance obligations in the contract
- Recognition of revenue when, or as, we satisfy a performance obligation

Most of our software arrangements with customers contain multiple performance obligations that range from software licenses, installation, training, and consulting to software modification and customization to meet specific customer needs (services), hosting, and PCS. For these contracts, we account for individual performance obligations separately when they are distinct. We evaluate whether separate performance obligations can be distinct or should be accounted for as one performance obligation. Arrangements that include software services, such as training or installation, are evaluated to determine whether those services are highly interdependent or interrelated to the product's functionality. The transaction price is allocated to the distinct performance obligations on a relative standalone selling price ("SSP") basis. We determine the SSP based on our overall pricing objectives, taking into consideration market conditions and other factors, including the value of our contracts, the applications sold, customer demographics, and the number and types of users within our contracts. Revenue is recognized net of allowances for sales adjustments and any taxes collected from customers, which are subsequently remitted to governmental authorities.

Software Arrangements:

Software Licenses and Royalties

Many of our software arrangements involve "off-the-shelf" software. We recognize the revenue allocable to "off-the-shelf" software licenses and specified upgrades at a point in time when control of the software license transfers to the customer, unless the software is not considered distinct. We consider off-the-shelf software to be distinct when it can be added to an arrangement with minor changes in the underlying code, it can be used by the customer for the customer's purpose upon installation, and remaining services such as training are not considered highly interdependent or interrelated to the product's functionality.

For arrangements that involve significant production, modification or customization of the software, or where software services are otherwise not considered distinct, we recognize revenue over time by measuring progress-to-completion. We measure progress-to-completion primarily using labor hours incurred as it best depicts the transfer of control to the customer which occurs as we incur costs on our contracts. These arrangements are often implemented over an extended period and occasionally require us to revise total cost estimates. Amounts recognized in revenue are calculated using the progress-to-completion measurement after giving effect to any changes in our cost estimates. Changes to total estimated contract costs, if any, are recorded in the period they are determined. Estimated losses on uncompleted contracts are recorded in the period in which we first determine that a loss is apparent.

Software license fees are billed in accordance with the contract terms. Typically, a majority of the fee is due when access to the software license is made available to the customer and the remainder of the fee due over a passage of time stipulated by the contract. We record amounts that have been invoiced in accounts receivable and in deferred revenue or revenues, depending on whether the revenue recognition criteria have been met.

We recognize royalty revenue when the sale occurs under the terms of our third-party royalty arrangements. Currently, our third-party royalties are recognized on an estimated basis and are trueed up when we receive notice of amounts we are entitled to receive. We typically receive notice of royalty revenues we are entitled to and billed on a quarterly basis in the quarter immediately following the royalty reporting period.

Software Services

As noted above, some of our software arrangements include services considered highly interdependent or highly interrelated or require significant customization to meet the customer's desired functionality. For these software arrangements, both the software licenses and related software services revenue are not distinct and are recognized over time using the progress-to-completion method. We measure progress-to-completion primarily using labor hours incurred as it best depicts the transfer of control to the customer which occurs as we incur costs on our contracts. Contract fees are typically billed on a milestone basis as defined within contract terms. We record amounts that have been invoiced in accounts receivable and in deferred revenue or revenues, depending on whether the revenue recognition criteria have been met. When software services are distinct, the fee allocable to the service element is recognized over the time we perform the services and is billed on a time and material basis.

Post-Contract Customer Support

Our customers generally enter into PCS agreements when they purchase our software licenses. PCS includes telephone support, bug fixes, and rights to upgrades on a when-and-if available basis. PCS is considered distinct when purchased with our software licenses. Our PCS agreements are typically renewable annually. PCS is recognized over time on a straight-line basis over the period the PCS is provided. All significant costs and expenses associated with PCS are expensed as incurred.

Computer Hardware Equipment

Revenue allocable to computer hardware equipment is recognized at a point in time when control of the equipment is transferred to the customer.

Subscription-Based Services:

Subscription-based services consist of revenues derived from SaaS arrangements, which primarily utilize the Tyler private cloud, and electronic filing transactions. Revenue from subscription-based services is generally recognized over time on a ratable basis over the contract term, beginning on the date that our service is made available to the customer. Our subscription contracts are generally three to five years or longer in length, billed annually in advance, and non-cancelable.

For SaaS arrangements, we evaluate whether the customer has the contractual right to take possession of our software at any time during the hosting period without significant penalty and whether the customer can feasibly maintain the software on the customer's hardware or enter into another arrangement with a third-party to host the software. We allocate contract value to each performance obligation of the arrangement that qualifies for treatment as a distinct element based on estimated SSP. When it is determined that software is distinct, and the customer has the ability to take control of the software, we recognize revenue allocable to the software license fee when access to the software license is made available to the customer. We recognize hosting services ratably over the term of the arrangement, which range from one to ten years but are typically for a period of three to five years. For software services associated with certain SaaS arrangements, we have concluded that the services are not distinct, and we recognize the revenue ratably over the remaining contractual period once we have provided the customer access to the software. We record amounts that have been invoiced in accounts receivable and in deferred revenue or revenues, depending on whether the revenue recognition criteria have been met.

Electronic filing transaction fees primarily pertain to documents filed with the courts by attorneys and other third-parties via our e-filing services and retrieval of filed documents via our access services. For each document filed with a court, the filer generally pays a transaction fee and a court filing fee to us and we remit a portion of the transaction fee and the filing fee to the court. We record as revenue the transaction fee, while the portion of the transaction fee remitted to the courts is recorded as cost of sales as we are acting as a principal in the arrangement. Court filing fees collected on behalf of the courts and remitted to the courts are recorded on a net basis and thus do not affect the statement of comprehensive income. For e-filing transaction fees, we have the right to charge the customer an amount that directly corresponds with the value to the customer of our performance to date. Therefore, we recognize revenue for these services over time based on the amount billable to the customer in accordance with the 'as invoiced' practical expedient in ASC 606-10-55-18. In some cases, we are paid on a fixed fee basis and recognize the revenue ratably over the contractual period.

Costs of performing services under subscription-based arrangements are expensed as incurred, except for certain direct and incremental contract origination and set-up costs associated with SaaS arrangements. Such direct and incremental costs are capitalized and amortized ratably over the useful life.

Appraisal Services:

For our property appraisal projects, we recognize revenue using the progress-to-completion method since many of these projects are implemented over one to three-year periods and consist of various unique activities. Appraisal services require a significant level of integration and interdependency with various individual service components; therefore, the service components are not considered distinct. Appraisal services are recognized over time by measuring progress-to-completion primarily using labor hours incurred as it best depicts the transfer of control to the customer which occurs as we incur costs on our contracts. These arrangements are often implemented over an extended period and occasionally require us to revise total cost estimates. Amounts recognized in revenue are calculated using the progress-to-completion measurement after giving effect to any changes in our cost estimates. Changes to total estimated contract costs, if any, are recorded in the period they are determined. Estimated losses on uncompleted contracts are recorded in the period in which we first determine that a loss is apparent. Contract fees are typically billed on a milestone basis as defined within contract terms. We record amounts that have been invoiced in accounts receivable and in deferred revenue or revenues, depending on whether the revenue recognition criteria have been met.

Significant Judgments:

Our contracts with customers often include multiple performance obligations to a customer. When a software arrangement (license or subscription) includes both software licenses and software services, judgment is required to determine whether the software license is considered distinct and accounted for separately, or not distinct and accounted for together with the software services and recognized over time.

The transaction price is allocated to the separate performance obligations on a relative SSP basis. We determine the SSP based on our overall pricing objectives, taking into consideration market conditions and other factors, including the value of our contracts, the applications sold, customer demographics, and the number and types of users within our contracts. We use a range of amounts to estimate SSP when we sell each of the products and services separately and need to determine whether there is a discount to be allocated based on the relative SSP of the various products and services. In instances where SSP is not directly observable, such as when we do not sell the product or service separately, we determine SSP using the expected cost-plus margin approach.

For arrangements that involve significant production, modification or customization of the software, or where software services otherwise cannot be considered distinct, we recognize revenue as control is transferred to the customer over time using progress-to-completion methods. Depending on the contract, we measure progress-to-completion primarily using labor hours incurred, or value added. The progress-to-completion method generally results in the recognition of reasonably consistent profit margins over the life of a contract because we can provide reasonably dependable estimates of contract billings and contract costs. We use the level of profit margin that is most likely to occur on a contract. If the most likely profit margin cannot be precisely determined, the lowest probable level of profit margin in the range of estimates is used until the results can be estimated more precisely. These arrangements are often implemented over an extended time period and occasionally require us to revise total cost estimates. Amounts recognized in revenue are calculated using the progress-to-completion measurement after giving effect to any changes in our cost estimates. Changes to total estimated contract costs, if any, are recorded in the period they are determined. Estimated losses on uncompleted contracts are recorded in the period in which we first determine that a loss is apparent.

Typically, the structure of our arrangements does not give rise to variable consideration. However, in those instances whereby variable consideration exists, we include in our estimates additional revenue for variable consideration when we believe we have an enforceable right, the amount can be estimated reliably and its realization is probable.

Refer to Note 15 - Disaggregation of Revenue for further information, including the economic factors that affect the nature, amount, timing, and uncertainty of revenue and cash flows of our various revenue categories.

Contract Balances:

Accounts receivable and allowance for doubtful accounts

Timing of revenue recognition may differ from the timing of invoicing to customers. We record an unbilled receivable when revenue is recognized prior to invoicing, or deferred revenue when revenue is recognized subsequent to invoicing. For multi-year agreements, we generally invoice customers annually at the beginning of each annual coverage period. We record an unbilled receivable related to revenue recognized for on-premises licenses as we have an unconditional right to invoice and receive payment in the future related to those licenses.

We maintain allowances for doubtful accounts, which are provided at the time the revenue is recognized. Since most of our customers are domestic governmental entities, we rarely incur a loss resulting from the inability of a customer to make required payments. Events or changes in circumstances that indicate the carrying amount for the allowances for doubtful accounts may require revision include, but are not limited to, deterioration of a customer's financial condition, failure to manage our customer's expectations regarding the scope of the services to be delivered, and defects or errors in new versions or enhancements of our software products.

The following table summarizes the changes in the allowances for doubtful accounts and sales adjustments:

	Years Ended December 31,
	2018	2017	2016
Balance at beginning of year	$ 5,427	$ 3,396	$ 1,650
Provisions for losses - accounts receivable	2,286	4,110	4,484
Collection of accounts previously written off
Deductions for accounts charged off or credits issued	(3,066)	(2,079)	(2,728)
Balance at end of year	$ 4,647	$ 5,427	$ 3,396

The allowance for doubtful accounts reflects our best estimate of probable losses inherent in the accounts receivable balance. We determine the allowance based on known troubled accounts, historical experience, and other currently available evidence.

In connection with our appraisal services contracts and certain software services contracts, we may perform work prior to when the software and services are billable and/or payable pursuant to the contract. Unbilled revenue is not billable at the balance sheet date but is recoverable over the remaining life of the contract through billings made in accordance with contractual agreements. The termination clauses in most of our contracts provide for the payment for the value of products delivered or services performed in the event of early termination. We have historically recorded such unbilled receivables (costs and estimated profit in excess of billings) in connection with (1) property appraisal services contracts accounted for using progress-to-completion method of revenue recognition using labor hours as a measure of progress towards completion in which the services are performed in one accounting period but the billing normally occurs subsequently and may span another accounting period; (2) software services contracts accounted for using progress-to-completion method of revenue recognition using labor hours as a measure of progress towards completion in which the services are performed in one accounting period but the billing for the software element of the arrangement may be based upon the specific phase of the implementation; (3) software revenue for which we have recognized revenue at the point in time when the software is made available to the customer but the billing has not yet been submitted to the customer; (4) some of our contracts which provide for an amount to be withheld from a progress billing (generally between 5% and 20% retention) until final and satisfactory project completion is achieved; and (5) in a limited number of cases, extended payment terms, which may be granted to customers with whom we generally have a long-term relationship and favorable collection history.

The opening balance of current and long-term accounts receivable, net of allowance for doubtful accounts, was $226.8 million (as adjusted) as of January 1, 2017.

As of December 31, 2018, and December 31, 2017, total current and long-term accounts receivable, net of allowance for doubtful accounts, was $314.9 million and $258.3 million (as adjusted), respectively. We have recorded unbilled receivables of $104.2 million and $64.6 million (as adjusted) at December 31, 2018, and December 31, 2017, respectively. Included in unbilled receivables are retention receivables of $12.2 million and $7.2 million at December 31, 2018, and December 31, 2017, respectively, which become payable upon the completion of the contract or completion of our fieldwork and formal hearings. Unbilled receivables expected to be collected within one year have been included with accounts receivable, current portion in the accompanying consolidated balance sheets. Unbilled receivables and retention receivables expected to be collected past one year have been included with accounts receivable, long-term portion in the accompanying consolidated balance sheets.

Payment terms and conditions vary by contract type, although terms generally include a requirement of payment within 30 to 60 days. In instances where the timing of revenue recognition differs from the timing of invoicing, we have determined our contracts generally do not include a significant financing component. The primary purpose of our invoicing terms is to provide customers with simplified and predictable ways of purchasing our products and services, not to receive financing from our customers or to provide customers with financing. Examples include invoicing at the beginning of a subscription term with revenue recognized ratably over the contract period, and multi-year on-premises term licenses that are invoiced annually with revenue recognized upfront.

Deferred Revenue

The majority of deferred revenue consists of deferred maintenance revenue that has been billed based on contractual terms in the underlying arrangement, with the remaining balance consisting of payments received in advance of revenue being earned under software licensing, subscription-based services, software and appraisal services and hardware installation. Refer to Note 16 - Deferred Revenue and Performance Obligations for further information, including deferred revenue by segment and changes in deferred revenue during the period.

Deferred Commissions

Sales commissions earned by our sales force are considered incremental and recoverable costs of obtaining a contract with a customer. Sales commissions for initial contracts are deferred and then amortized on a straight-line basis over a period of benefit that we have determined to be three to seven years. We utilized the 'portfolio approach' practical expedient in ASC 606-10-10-4, which allows entities to apply the guidance to a portfolio of contracts with similar characteristics because the effects on the financial statements of this approach would not differ materially from applying the guidance to individual contracts. Using the 'portfolio approach', we determined the period of benefit by taking into consideration our customer contracts, our technology life-cycle and other factors. Sales commissions for renewal contracts are generally not paid in connection with the renewal of a contract. In the small number of instances where a commission is paid on a renewal, it is not commensurate with the commission paid on the initial sale and is recognized over the term of renewal, which is generally one year. Amortization expense related to deferred commissions is included in selling, general and administrative expenses in the accompanying consolidated statements of income. Refer to Note 17 - Deferred Commissions for further information.

Prepaid expenses and other current assets include direct and incremental costs such as commissions associated with arrangements for which revenue recognition has been deferred. Such costs are expensed at the time the related revenue is recognized.

USE OF ESTIMATES

The preparation of our financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States ("GAAP") requires us to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Significant items subject to such estimates and assumptions include revenue recognition, determining the nature and timing of satisfaction of performance obligations, and determining the SSP of performance obligations, variable consideration, and other obligations such as returns and refunds; loss contingencies; the estimated useful life of deferred commissions; the carrying amount and estimated useful lives of intangible assets; determining share-based compensation expense; the valuation allowance for receivables; and determining the potential outcome of future tax consequences of events that have been recognized on our consolidated financial statements or tax returns. Actual results could differ from estimates.

PROPERTY AND EQUIPMENT, NET

Property, equipment and purchased software are recorded at original cost and increased by the cost of any significant improvements after purchase. We expense maintenance and repairs when incurred. Depreciation and amortization is calculated using the straight-line method over the shorter of the asset's estimated useful life or the term of the lease in the case of leasehold improvements. For income tax purposes, we use accelerated depreciation methods as allowed by tax laws.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT COSTS

We expensed research and development costs of $63.3 million in 2018, $47.3 million in 2017, and $43.2 million in 2016.

INCOME TAXES

Income taxes are accounted for under the asset and liability method. Deferred taxes arise because of different treatment between financial statement accounting and tax accounting, known as "temporary differences." We record the tax effect of these temporary differences as "deferred tax assets" (generally items that can be used as a tax deduction or credit in the future periods) and "deferred tax liabilities" (generally items that we received a tax deduction for, which have not yet been recorded in the income statement). The deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured using enacted tax rules and laws that are expected to be in effect when the temporary differences are expected to be recovered or settled. A valuation allowance would be established to reduce deferred tax assets if it is more likely than not that a deferred tax asset will not be "realized." On December 22, 2017, the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (the "Tax Act") was enacted into law. The Tax Act amends the Internal Revenue Code to reduce tax rates and modify policies, credits and deductions for individuals and businesses. For businesses, the Tax Act reduces the corporate U.S. federal tax rate from a maximum of 35% to a flat 21% rate and transitions from a worldwide tax system to a territorial tax system. Under ASC 740 Income Taxes, the effects of changes in tax rates and laws are recognized in the period in which the new legislation is enacted. See Note 7 - "Income Tax" for further discussion related to the Tax Act.

SHARE-BASED COMPENSATION

We have a share-based award plan that provides for the grant of stock options, restricted stock units, and performance share units to key employees, directors and non-employee consultants. Stock options generally vest after three to six years of continuous service from the date of grant and have a contractual term of 10 years. Restricted stock unit grants generally vest ratably over three to five years of continuous service from the date of grant. Each performance share unit represents the right to receive one share of our common stock based on our achievement of certain financial performance targets during applicable performance periods. We account for share-based compensation utilizing the fair value recognition pursuant to ASC 718, Stock Compensation. See Note 9 - "Share-Based Compensation" for further information.

GOODWILL AND OTHER INTANGIBLE ASSETS

Goodwill

Goodwill represents the excess of the purchase price over the fair value of net assets acquired, including identifiable intangible assets, in connection with our business combinations. Upon acquisition, goodwill is assigned to the reporting unit that is expected to benefit from the synergies of the business combination, which is the reporting unit to which the related acquired technology is assigned. A reporting unit is the operating segment, or a business unit one level below that operating segment, for which discrete financial information is prepared and regularly reviewed by executive management.

We assess goodwill for impairment annually as of April 1st, or more frequently whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate its carrying value may not be recoverable. We begin with the qualitative assessment of whether it is more likely than not that a reporting unit's fair value is less than its carrying value before applying the quantitative assessment described below. If it is determined through the evaluation of events or circumstances that the carrying value may not be recoverable, we perform a comparison of the estimated fair value of the reporting unit to which the goodwill has been assigned to the sum of the carrying value of the assets and liabilities of that unit. If the sum of the carrying value of the assets and liabilities of a reporting unit exceeds the estimated fair value of that reporting unit, the carrying value of the reporting unit's goodwill is reduced to its fair value through an adjustment to the goodwill balance, resulting in an impairment charge. The fair values calculated in our impairment tests are determined using discounted cash flow models involving several assumptions. The assumptions that are used are based upon what we believe a hypothetical marketplace participant would use in estimating fair value. We evaluate the reasonableness of the fair value calculations of our reporting units by comparing the total of the fair value of all of our reporting units to our total market capitalization.

We did not record any goodwill impairment charges for the years ended December 31, 2018 and 2017. See Note 4 - Goodwill and Other Intangible Assets, for additional information.

Other Intangible Assets

We make judgments about the recoverability of purchased intangible assets other than goodwill whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that an impairment may exist. Customer base and acquired software each comprise approximately half of our purchased intangible assets other than goodwill. We review our customer turnover each year for indications of impairment. Our customer turnover has historically been very low. If indications of impairment are determined to exist, we measure the recoverability of assets by a comparison of the carrying amount of the asset to the estimated undiscounted future cash flows expected to be generated by the asset. If the carrying amount of the assets exceeds their estimated future cash flows, an impairment charge is recognized for the amount by which the carrying amount of the assets exceeds the fair value of the assets. There have been no significant impairments of intangible assets in any of the periods presented.

IMPAIRMENT OF LONG-LIVED ASSETS

We periodically evaluate whether current facts or circumstances indicate that the carrying value of our property and equipment or other long-lived assets to be held and used may not be recoverable. If such circumstances are determined to exist, we measure the recoverability of assets to be held and used by a comparison of the carrying amount of the asset or appropriate grouping of assets and the estimated undiscounted future cash flows expected to be generated by the assets. If the carrying amount of the assets exceeds their estimated future cash flows, an impairment charge is recognized for the amount by which the carrying amount of the assets exceeds the fair value of the assets. Assets to be disposed of would be separately presented in the balance sheet and reported at the lower of the carrying amount or fair value less costs to sell, and would no longer be depreciated. The assets and liabilities of a disposed group classified as held for sale would be presented separately in the appropriate asset and liability sections of the balance sheet. There have been no significant impairments of long-lived assets in any of the periods presented.

COSTS OF COMPUTER SOFTWARE

We capitalize software development costs upon the establishment of technological feasibility and prior to the availability of the product for general release to customers. Software development costs primarily consist of personnel costs and rent for related office space. We begin to amortize capitalized costs when a product is available for general release to customers. Amortization expense is determined on a product-by-product basis at a rate not less than straight-line basis over the product's remaining estimated economic life. We have not capitalized any internal software development costs in any of the periods presented.

FAIR VALUE OF FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

Cash and cash equivalents, accounts receivables, accounts payables, short-term obligations and certain other assets at cost approximate fair value because of the short maturity of these instruments. The fair value of our revolving line of credit would approximate book value as of December 31, 2018, because our interest rates reset approximately every 30 days or less. See Note 6 - "Revolving Line of Credit" for further discussion.

GOODWILL AND OTHER INTANGIBLE ASSETS

Goodwill

Goodwill represents the excess of the purchase price over the fair value of net assets acquired, including identifiable intangible assets, in connection with our business combinations. Upon acquisition, goodwill is assigned to the reporting unit that is expected to benefit from the synergies of the business combination, which is the reporting unit to which the related acquired technology is assigned. A reporting unit is the operating segment, or a business unit one level below that operating segment, for which discrete financial information is prepared and regularly reviewed by executive management.

We assess goodwill for impairment annually as of April 1st, or more frequently whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate its carrying value may not be recoverable. We begin with the qualitative assessment of whether it is more likely than not that a reporting unit's fair value is less than its carrying value before applying the quantitative assessment described below. If it is determined through the evaluation of events or circumstances that the carrying value may not be recoverable, we perform a comparison of the estimated fair value of the reporting unit to which the goodwill has been assigned to the sum of the carrying value of the assets and liabilities of that unit. If the sum of the carrying value of the assets and liabilities of a reporting unit exceeds the estimated fair value of that reporting unit, the carrying value of the reporting unit's goodwill is reduced to its fair value through an adjustment to the goodwill balance, resulting in an impairment charge. The fair values calculated in our impairment tests are determined using discounted cash flow models involving several assumptions. The assumptions that are used are based upon what we believe a hypothetical marketplace participant would use in estimating fair value. We evaluate the reasonableness of the fair value calculations of our reporting units by comparing the total of the fair value of all of our reporting units to our total market capitalization.

We did not record any goodwill impairment charges for the years ended December 31, 2018 and 2017. See Note 4 - Goodwill and Other Intangible Assets, for additional information.

Other Intangible Assets

We make judgments about the recoverability of purchased intangible assets other than goodwill whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that an impairment may exist. Customer base and acquired software each comprise approximately half of our purchased intangible assets other than goodwill. We review our customer turnover each year for indications of impairment. Our customer turnover has historically been very low. If indications of impairment are determined to exist, we measure the recoverability of assets by a comparison of the carrying amount of the asset to the estimated undiscounted future cash flows expected to be generated by the asset. If the carrying amount of the assets exceeds their estimated future cash flows, an impairment charge is recognized for the amount by which the carrying amount of the assets exceeds the fair value of the assets. There have been no significant impairments of intangible assets in any of the periods presented.

IMPAIRMENT OF LONG-LIVED ASSETS

We periodically evaluate whether current facts or circumstances indicate that the carrying value of our property and equipment or other long-lived assets to be held and used may not be recoverable. If such circumstances are determined to exist, we measure the recoverability of assets to be held and used by a comparison of the carrying amount of the asset or appropriate grouping of assets and the estimated undiscounted future cash flows expected to be generated by the assets. If the carrying amount of the assets exceeds their estimated future cash flows, an impairment charge is recognized for the amount by which the carrying amount of the assets exceeds the fair value of the assets. Assets to be disposed of would be separately presented in the balance sheet and reported at the lower of the carrying amount or fair value less costs to sell, and would no longer be depreciated. Software development costs primarily consist of personnel costs and rent for related office space. We begin to amortize capitalized costs when a product is available for general release to customers. Amortization expense is determined on a product-by-product basis at a rate not less than straight-line basis over the product's remaining estimated economic life. We have not capitalized any internal software development costs in any of the periods presented.

FAIR VALUE OF FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

Cash and cash equivalents, accounts receivables, accounts payables, short-term obligations and certain other assets at cost approximate fair value because of the short maturity of these instruments. The fair value of our revolving line of credit would approximate book value as of December 31, 2018, because our interest rates reset approximately every 30 days or less. See Note 6 - "Revolving Line of Credit" for further discussion.

As of December 31, 2018, we have $97.7 million in investment grade corporate bonds, municipal bonds and asset-backed securities with maturity dates ranging from 2018 through 2022. We intend to hold these bonds to maturity and have classified them as such. We believe cost approximates fair value because of the relatively short duration of these investments. The fair values of these securities are considered Level II as they are based on inputs from quoted prices in markets that are not active or from other observable market data. These investments are included in short-term investments and non-current investments and other assets.

As of December 31, 2018, we have $15.0 million invested in convertible preferred stock representing a 20% interest in Record Holdings Pty Limited, a privately held Australian company specializing in digitizing the spoken word in court and legal proceedings. The investment in convertible preferred stock is accounted under the cost method because we do not have the ability to exercise significant influence over the investee and the securities do not have readily determinable fair values. Our investment is carried at cost less any impairment write-downs. Annually, our cost method investments are assessed for impairment. We do not reassess the fair value of cost method investments if there are no identified events or changes in circumstances that may have a significant adverse effect on the fair value of the investments. There has been no impairment of our cost method investment for the periods presented. This investment is included in non-current investments and other assets in the accompanying consolidated balance sheets.

CONCENTRATIONS OF CREDIT RISK

Financial instruments that potentially subject us to significant concentrations of credit risk consist principally of cash and cash equivalents, accounts receivable from trade customers, and investments in marketable securities. Our cash and cash equivalents primarily consist of operating account balances and money market funds, which are maintained at several major domestic financial institutions and the balances often exceed insured amounts. As of December 31, 2018, we had cash and cash equivalents of $134.3 million. We perform periodic evaluations of the credit standing of these financial institutions.

Concentrations of credit risk with respect to receivables are limited due to the size and geographical diversity of our customer base. Historically, our credit losses have not been significant. As a result, we do not believe we have any significant concentrations of credit risk as of December 31, 2018.

We maintain allowances for doubtful accounts, which are provided at the time the revenue is recognized. Since most of our customers are domestic governmental entities, we rarely incur a loss resulting from the inability of a customer to make required payments. Events or changes in circumstances that indicate the carrying amount for the allowances for doubtful accounts may require revision include, but are not limited to, deterioration of a customer's financial condition, failure to manage our customer's expectations regarding the scope of the services to be delivered, and defects or errors in new versions or enhancements of our software products.

INDEMNIFICATION

Most of our software license agreements indemnify our customers in the event that the software sold infringes upon the intellectual property rights of a third-party. These agreements typically provide that in such event we will either modify or replace the software so that it becomes non-infringing or procure for the customer the right to use the software. We have recorded no liability associated with these indemnifications, as we are not aware of any pending or threatened infringement actions that are possible losses. We believe the estimated fair value of these intellectual property indemnification clauses is minimal.

We have also agreed to indemnify our officers and board members if they are named or threatened to be named as a party to any proceeding by reason of the fact that they acted in such capacity. We maintain directors' and officers' liability insurance coverage to protect against any such losses. We have recorded no liability associated with these indemnifications. Because of our insurance coverage, we believe the estimated fair value of these indemnification agreements is minimal.

RECENTLY ADOPTED ACCOUNTING PRONOUNCEMENTS

Revenue from Contracts with Customers. In May 2014, the Financial Accounting Standards Board ("FASB") issued ASU No. 2014-09, Revenue from Contracts with Customers. ASU No. 2014-09 supersedes the revenue recognition requirements in Accounting Standards Codification ("ASC") Topic 605, Revenue Recognition, and requires the recognition of revenue when promised goods or services are transferred to customers in an amount that reflects the consideration to which the entity expects to be entitled in exchange for those goods or services. This model involves a five-step process that includes identifying the contract with the customer, identifying the performance obligations in the contract, determining the transaction price, allocating the transaction price to the performance obligations in the contract and recognizing revenue when (or as) the entity satisfies the performance obligations. Topic 606 also includes Subtopic 340-40 Other Assets and Deferred Costs - Contracts with Customers, which requires the deferral of incremental costs of obtaining a contract with a customer. Collectively, we refer to ASU No. 2014-09 and Subtopic 340-40 as the "new standard."

We adopted the requirements of the new standard as of January 1, 2018, utilizing the full retrospective method of transition. Adoption of the new standard resulted in changes to our accounting policies for revenue recognition, trade and other receivables, and deferred commissions as detailed below. We applied the new standard using a practical expedient where the consideration allocated to the remaining performance obligations or an explanation of when we expect to recognize that amount as revenue for all reporting periods presented before the date of the initial application is not disclosed.

The impact of adopting ASU No. 2014-09 on our total revenues for 2017 and 2016 was not material. The impact of adopting the new standard on our retained earnings and deferred commissions is material. The most significant impact of the new standard relates to our accounting for software license revenue. Specifically, under the new standard, software license fees under perpetual agreements are no longer subject to 100% discount allocations from other performance obligations in the contract. Discounts in arrangements are allocated across all performance obligations increasing license revenues and decreasing revenues allocated to other performance obligations. In addition, in most cases, net license fees (total license fees less any allocated discounts) are recognized at the point in time when control of the software license transfers to the customer versus our legacy policy of recognizing revenue upon delivery and only to the extent billable per the contractual terms. Under the new standard, time-based license fees are no longer recognized over the contractual period of the license and are instead recognized at the point in time when the control of the software license transfers to the customer. Revenues related to our PCS renewals, SaaS offerings and appraisal services remain substantially unchanged. Due to the complexity of certain contracts, the actual revenue recognition treatment required under the new standard is dependent on contract-specific terms and may vary in some instances from recognition at the time of billing.

Adoption of the new standard requires that incremental costs directly related to obtaining a contract (typically sales commissions) must be recognized as an asset and expensed on a systematic basis that is consistent with the transfer to the customer of the goods and services to which the asset relates, unless that life is less than one year. Prior to adoption of the new standard, we deferred sales commissions and recognized expense over the relevant initial contractual term, which was generally one to two years. Under the new standard, we amortize these costs over a period of benefit that we have determined to be three to seven years.

We adjusted our consolidated financial statements from amounts previously reported due to the adoption of the new standard. Select unaudited condensed consolidated statement of income line items, which reflect the adoption of the new standard, are as follows (in thousands, except per share data):

Recent tax legislation. On December 22, 2017, the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act ("Tax Act") was enacted into law. The Tax Act amends the Internal Revenue Code to reduce tax rates and modify policies, credits and deductions for businesses and individuals. For businesses, the Tax Act reduces the U.S. corporate federal income tax rate from a maximum of 35% to a flat 21% rate and transitions from a worldwide tax system to a territorial tax system. The Tax Act also adds many new provisions including changes to bonus depreciation, the deduction for executive compensation and a tax on global intangible low-taxed income (GILTI). The most significant impact of the Tax Act to us is the reduction in the U.S. federal corporate income tax rate. Refer to Note 7 - Income Tax Provision for further information.

NEW ACCOUNTING PRONOUNCEMENTS

Recent Accounting Guidance not yet Adopted

Leases. On February 25, 2016, the FASB issued its new lease accounting guidance in ASU No. 2016-02, Leases ("Topic 842"). Under the new guidance, lessees will be required to recognize the following for all leases (with the exception of short-term leases) at the commencement date:

- A lease liability, which is a lessee's obligation to make lease payments arising from a lease, measured on a discounted basis; and
- A right-of-use asset, which is an asset that represents the lessee's right to use, or control the use of, a specified asset for the lease term.

Topic 842 is effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2018, including interim periods therein. Early application is permitted for all business entities upon issuance. Upon adoption, entities will be required to use a modified retrospective approach with an option to use certain practical expedients. We expect to adopt ASU 2016-02 when effective, using the transition method that allows us to initially apply the guidance at the adoption date of January 1, 2019 and recognize a cumulative-effect adjustment to the opening balance of retained earnings in the period of adoption. We expect to use the package of practical expedients that allows us to not reassess: (1) lease classification for any expired or existing leases and (2) initial direct costs for any expired or existing leases. We expect ASU 2016-02 will impact our consolidated financial statements and related disclosures. We are currently evaluating the extent of the impact and expect that most of our lease commitments will be subject to the updated guidance and recognized as lease liabilities and right-of-use assets on our consolidated balance sheets upon adoption. Based on our current portfolio of leases, we estimate a range of $15.5 million to $17.8 million of lease assets and liabilities to be recognized on our balance sheet, primarily relating to office facilities.

On December 7, 2018, we acquired certain assets and intellectual property of SceneDoc, Inc. ("SceneDoc"), a company that provides mobile-first, SaaS field reporting for law enforcement agencies. The total purchase price was approximately $6.2 million, of which $5.4 million was paid in cash and approximately $759,000 accrued for a working capital holdback, subject to certain post-closing adjustments.

On October 1, 2018, we acquired all of the equity interests of TradeMaster, Inc. dba MobileEyes ("MobileEyes"), a company that develops SaaS software to improve public safety by supporting fire prevention and suppression, emergency response, and structural safety. The total purchase price was approximately $5.3 million in cash.

On August 31, 2018, we acquired all of the assets of CaseloadPRO, L. P., a company that provides a fully featured SaaS probation case management system. The purchase price of $9.3 million was paid in cash.

On April 30, 2018, we acquired all of the capital stock of Socrata, Inc. ("Socrata"), a company that provides open data and data-as-a-service solutions including cloud-based data integration, visualization, analysis, and reporting solutions for state and local government agencies. The purchase price, net of cash acquired of $1.7 million, was $147.6 million paid in cash.

We have performed a valuation analysis of the fair market value of Socrata's assets and liabilities. The following table summarizes the allocation of the purchase price as of the acquisition date:

In thousands
Cash	$	1,724
Accounts receivable		3,616
Other current assets		2,057
Other noncurrent assets		68
Deferred tax assets, net		20
Identifiable intangible assets		75,000
Goodwill		75,657
Accounts payable		(1,254)
Accrued expenses		(1,604)
Deferred revenues		(5,915)
Total consideration	$	149,369

In connection with this transaction, we acquired total tangible assets of $7.5 million and assumed liabilities of approximately $8.8 million. We recorded goodwill of $75.7 million, none of which is expected to be deductible for tax purposes, and other identifiable intangible assets of approximately $75.0 million. The $75.0 million of intangible assets are attributable to customer relationships, acquired software, and trade name and will be amortized over a weighted average period of approximately 14 years. We recorded deferred tax assets, net of approximately $20,000 related to estimated fair value allocations. Socrata's solutions are a direct complement to our current offerings and will provide a new and important additional revenue stream. By offering Socrata within virtually every Tyler product suite, our clients will have the opportunity to make their existing data discoverable, usable and actionable, but more importantly, potentially include data from other agencies and jurisdictions to make analysis even more powerful and meaningful. Therefore, the goodwill of $75.7 million arising from this acquisition is primarily attributed to our ability to integrate Socrata's solutions with our existing portfolio and to generate increased revenues, earnings and cash flow by leveraging our sales resources and client base. Our final valuation of the fair market value of Socrata's assets and liabilities resulted in adjustments to the preliminary opening balance sheet. These adjustments related to a reduction in deferred income taxes and accrued expenses resulting in a net decrease to goodwill of approximately $3.3 million. We also incurred fees of approximately $578,000 for financial advisory, legal, accounting, due diligence, valuation and other various services necessary to complete the acquisition. These fees were expensed in 2018 and are included in selling, general and administrative expenses.

The following unaudited pro forma information of the consolidated results of operations have been prepared as if the Socrata acquisition had occurred at January 1, 2017, after giving effect to certain adjustments, including amortization of intangibles, interest, transaction costs and tax effects.

	Twelve Months Ended December 31,
	2018	2017
Revenues	$ 943,723	$ 865,944
Net income	139,315	150,515
Basic earnings per share	3.62	4.04
Diluted earnings per share	$ 3.47	$ 3.84

Pro forma information above does not include acquisitions that are not considered material to our results of operations. The pro forma information does not purport to represent what our results of operations actually would have been had such transaction or event occurred on the dates specified, or to project our results of operations for any future period.

On April 30, 2018, we acquired all of the equity interests of Sage Data Security, LLC ("Sage"), a cybersecurity company offering a suite of services that supports an entire cybersecurity lifecycle, including program development, education and training, technical testing, advisory services, and digital forensics. The total purchase price was $11.6 million paid in cash. Tyler has performed a valuation analysis of the fair market value of Sage's assets and liabilities. As a result, we acquired total tangible assets of approximately $1.8 million and assumed liabilities of approximately $730,000. We have recorded total goodwill of approximately $3.5 million, all of which is expected to be deductible for tax purposes, and other intangible assets of approximately $7.0 million. The $7.0 million of intangible assets is attributable to customer relationships, acquired software and trade name and will be amortized over a weighted average period of approximately 14 years.

As of December 31, 2018, the purchase price allocations for Sage, Socrata, CaseloadPro, and MobileEyes are complete. As of December 31, 2018, the purchase price allocation for SceneDoc is not yet complete, therefore the preliminary valuation estimates of fair value assumed at the acquisition date for intangible assets, receivables and deferred revenue and related deferred taxes are subject to change as valuations are finalized.

The operating results of all 2018 acquisitions are included with the operating results of the Enterprise Software segment since their date of acquisition. Revenues from Socrata included in Tyler's results of operations totaled approximately $13.9 million and the net loss was $11.5 million for the twelve months ended December 31, 2018. The impact of the Sage, CaseloadPRO, MobileEyes and SceneDoc acquisitions, individually and in the aggregate, on our operating results, assets and liabilities is not material.

Our balance sheet as of December 31, 2018, reflects the allocation of the purchase price to the assets acquired based on their fair value at the date of each acquisition. The fair value of the assets and liabilities acquired are based on valuations using Level III, unobservable inputs that are supported by little or no market activity and that are significant to the fair value of the assets or liabilities.

On November 29, 2017, we acquired audio and digital two-way radio communications technology and related assets from Radio 10-33, LLC. The total purchase price was $1.4 million, all of which was paid in cash.

On August 2, 2017, we acquired substantially all of the assets and assumed certain liabilities of Digital Health Department, Inc. ("DHD"), a company that provides environmental health software, offering a SaaS solution for public health compliance and inspections processes. The total purchase price, net of debt assumed, was $3.9 million, all of which was paid in cash.

On May 30, 2017, we acquired all of the capital stock of Modria.com, Inc., a company that specializes in online dispute resolution for government and commercial entities. The total purchase price, net of debt assumed, was $7.0 million, of which $6.1 million was paid in cash and $900,000 was accrued as of December 31, 2017.

The operating results of these acquisition are included in our results of operations of the Enterprise Software segment from their respective dates of acquisition. The impact of these acquisitions, individually and in the aggregate, on our operating results, assets and liabilities is not material.

On May 31, 2016, we acquired all of the capital stock of ExecuTime Software, LLC, a leading provider of time, attendance, and advanced scheduling software solutions. The total purchase price, net of debt assumed, was $7.4 million. The fair value of the assets and liabilities acquired are based on valuations using Level III, unobservable inputs that are supported by little or no market activity and that are significant to the fair value of the assets or liabilities. The operating results of this acquisition are included in our results of operations of the Enterprise Software segment from the date of the acquisition. The impact of this acquisition on our operating results is not material.

(6) REVOLVING LINE OF CREDIT

On November 16, 2015, we entered into a $300.0 million Credit Agreement (the "Credit Facility") with the various lenders party thereto and Wells Fargo Bank, National Association, as Administrative Agent. The Credit Facility provides for a revolving credit line of up to $300.0 million, including a $10.0 million sublimit for letters of credit. The Credit Facility matures on November 16, 2020. Borrowings under the Credit Facility may be used for general corporate purposes, including working capital requirements, acquisitions and share repurchases.

Borrowings under the Credit Facility bear interest at a rate of either (1) Wells Fargo Bank's prime rate (subject to certain higher rate determinations) plus a margin of 0.25% to 1.00% or (2) the 30, 60, 90 or 180-day LIBOR rate plus a margin of 1.25% to 2.00%. As of December 31, 2018, our interest rate was 5.75% under the prime rate option or approximately 3.77% under the 30-day LIBOR option. The Credit Facility is secured by substantially all our assets. The Credit Facility requires us to maintain certain financial ratios and other financial conditions and prohibits us from making certain investments, advances, cash dividends or loans, and limits incurrence of additional indebtedness and liens. As of December 31, 2018, we were in compliance with those covenants.

As of December 31, 2018, we had no outstanding borrowings and had unused borrowing capacity of $300.0 million under the Credit Facility. In addition, as of December 31, 2018, we had no outstanding letter of credit.

We paid interest of $770,000 in 2018, $804,000 in 2017, and $1.9 million in 2016.

On December 22, 2017, the Tax Act was enacted into law. The Tax Act amends the Internal Revenue Code to reduce tax rates and modify policies, credits and deductions for individuals and businesses. For businesses, the Tax Act reduces the U.S. corporate federal tax rate from a maximum of 35% to a flat 21% rate and transitions from a worldwide tax system to a territorial tax system. The Tax Act also adds many new provisions including changes to bonus depreciation, the deduction for executive compensation and a tax on global intangible low-taxed income (GILTI). The most significant impact of the Tax Act to us is the reduction in the U.S. federal corporate income tax rate from 35% to 21%. The impact of the rate reduction on our 2017 income tax provision was a $26.0 million (as adjusted) tax benefit due to the remeasurement of deferred tax assets and liabilities. We recorded an additional $1.8 million tax benefit in 2018 after our 2017 tax returns were finalized. The accounting for the income tax effects of the Tax Act was completed during the fourth quarter of 2018. Overall, the changes due to the Tax Act will favorably affect income tax expense and future U.S. earnings.

The tax effects of the major items recorded as deferred tax assets and liabilities as of December 31 are:

The above 2017 balances reflect an $8.0 million deferred tax liability related to the recognition of revenue as part of the adoption of ASU No. 2014-09.

During 2018, we acquired federal and state net operating loss and tax credit carryforwards totaling $18.0 million in connection with the acquisition of Socrata. The federal and state net operating loss and tax credit carryforwards will expire in various years beginning in 2027, if not utilized. The acquired net operating loss and tax credit carryforwards are subject to an annual limitation but are expected to be realized with the exception of certain state net operating loss carryforwards. The valuation allowance disclosed in the table above relates to state net operating losses not likely to be realized. We believe it is more likely than not that all other deferred tax assets will be realized. However, the amount of the deferred tax asset considered realizable could be adjusted in the future if estimates of reversing taxable temporary differences are revised.

In connection with the acquisition of Socrata in 2018, we recorded a $1.9 million liability for an uncertain tax position associated with acquired tax credit carryforwards. The unrecognized tax benefits are included in deferred income taxes in our consolidated balance sheets and are reflected in the opening balance sheet of Socrata. The entire amount, if recognized, would affect the effective tax rate.

The aggregate changes in the balance of unrecognized tax benefits were as follows:

	2018
Balance at beginning of year	$ —
Increases for tax positions related to prior years	1,929
Balance at end of year	$ 1,929

Based on the information currently available, we do not anticipate a significant increase or decrease to our tax contingencies for these issues for the next 12 months.

We are subject to U.S. federal tax, as well as income tax of multiple state, local and foreign jurisdictions. We are routinely subject to income tax examinations by these taxing jurisdictions, but we do not have a history of, nor do we expect any material adjustments as a result of these examinations. During 2017, the Internal Revenue Service issued a "no change" letter upon completion of their examination of our 2012 tax year. With few exceptions, major U.S. federal, state, local and foreign jurisdictions are no longer subject to examination for years before 2014. As of February 20, 2019, no significant adjustments have been proposed by any taxing jurisdiction.

We paid income taxes, net of refunds received, of $6.8 million in 2018, $36.0 million in 2017, and $30.2 million in 2016.

(9) SHARE-BASED COMPENSATION

Share-Based Compensation Plan

In May 2018, stockholders approved the Tyler Technologies, Inc. 2018 Stock Incentive Plan ("the 2018 Plan") which amended and restated the existing Tyler Technologies, Inc. 2010 Stock Option Plan ("the 2010 Plan"). Upon stockholder approval of the 2018 Plan, the remaining shares available for grant under the 2010 Plan were added to the shares authorized for grant under the 2018 Plan. Additionally, any awards previously granted under the 2010 Plan that expire unexercised or are forfeited are added to the shares authorized for grant under the 2018 Plan.

During fiscal year 2018, we granted stock awards under the 2018 Plan in the form of stock options, restricted stock units and performance share units. Stock options generally vest after three to six years of continuous service from the date of grant and have a contractual term of 10 years. Once options become exercisable, the employee can purchase shares of our common stock at the market price on the date we granted the option. Restricted stock unit grants generally vest ratably over three to five years of continuous service from the date of grant. Each performance share unit represents the right to receive one share of our common stock based on our achievement of certain financial performance targets during applicable performance periods. We account for share-based compensation utilizing the fair value recognition pursuant to ASC 718, Stock Compensation.

As of December 31, 2018, there were 3.8 million shares available for future grants under the plan from the 22.9 million shares previously approved by the shareholders.

Determining Fair Value of Stock Compensation

Valuation and Amortization Method. We estimate the fair value of stock option awards granted using the Black-Scholes option valuation model. For restricted stock unit and performance stock unit awards, we amortize the fair value of all awards on a straight-line basis over the requisite service periods, which are generally the vesting periods.

Expected Life. The expected life of awards granted represents the period of time that they are expected to be outstanding. The expected life represents the weighted-average period the stock options are expected to be outstanding based primarily on the options' vesting terms, remaining contractual life and the employees' expected exercise based on historical patterns.

Expected Volatility. Using the Black-Scholes option valuation model, we estimate the volatility of our common stock at the date of grant based on the historical volatility of our common stock.

Risk-Free Interest Rate. We base the risk-free interest rate used in the Black-Scholes option valuation model on the implied yield currently available on U.S. Treasury zero-coupon issues with an equivalent remaining term equal to the expected life of the award.

Expected Dividend Yield. We have not paid any cash dividends on our common stock in more than ten years and we do not anticipate paying any cash dividends in the foreseeable future. Consequently, we use an expected dividend yield of zero in the Black-Scholes option valuation model.

Expected Forfeitures. We use historical data to estimate pre-vesting option forfeitures. We record share-based compensation only for those awards that are expected to vest.

The following weighted average assumptions were used for options granted:

	Years Ended December 31,
	2018	2017	2016
Expected life (in years)	6.0	6.0	6.0
Expected volatility	26.7%	28.1%	29.3%

Employee Stock Purchase Plan

Under our Employee Stock Purchase Plan ("ESPP") participants may contribute up to 15% of their annual compensation to purchase common shares of Tyler. The purchase price of the shares is equal to 85% of the closing price of Tyler shares on the last day of each quarterly offering period. As of December 31, 2018, there were 749,000 shares available for future grants under the ESPP from the 2.0 million shares previously approved by the stockholders.

(10) EARNINGS PER SHARE

Share-based awards representing the right to purchase common stock of 888,000 shares in 2018, 1,343,000 shares in 2017, and 786,000 shares in 2016 were not included in the computation of diluted earnings per share because their inclusion would have had an anti-dilutive effect.

(11) LEASES

We lease office facilities for use in our operations, as well as transportation and other equipment. Most of our leases are non-cancelable operating lease agreements and they expire at various dates through 2026. In addition to rent, the leases generally require us to pay taxes, maintenance, insurance and certain other operating expenses.

Rent expense was approximately $8.0 million in 2018, $6.9 million in 2017, and $6.7 million in 2016, which included rent expense associated with related party lease agreements of $150,000 in 2017, and $330,000 in 2016. We had no related party lease agreements in 2018.

Future minimum lease payments under all non-cancelable leases at December 31, 2018 are as follows:

	Years Ending December 31,
2019	$ 5,004
2020	5,146
2021	3,976
2022	1,925

(12) EMPLOYEE BENEFIT PLANS

We provide a defined contribution plan for the majority of our employees meeting minimum service requirements. Eligible employees can contribute up to 30% of their current compensation to the plan subject to certain statutory limitations. We contribute up to a maximum of 3% of an employee's compensation to the plan. We made contributions to the plan and charged operating results $9.3 million in 2018, $7.9 million in 2017, and $6.9 million in 2016.

(13) COMMITMENTS AND CONTINGENCIES

Other than routine litigation incidental to our business, there are no material legal proceedings pending to which we are party or to which any of our properties are subject.

(14) SEGMENT AND RELATED INFORMATION

We provide integrated information management solutions and services for the public sector, with a focus on local governments.

We provide our software systems and services and appraisal services through five business units, which focus on the following products:

- financial management, education and planning, regulatory and maintenance software solutions;
- financial management, municipal courts, planning, regulatory and maintenance, and land and vital records management software solutions;
- courts and justice and public safety software solutions;
- data and insights solutions; and
- appraisal and tax software solutions and property appraisal services.

In accordance with ASC 280-10, Segment Reporting, the financial management, education and planning, regulatory and maintenance software solutions unit; financial management, municipal courts and land and vital records management software solutions unit; and the courts and justice and public safety software solutions unit meet the criteria for aggregation and are presented in one reportable segment, Enterprise Software ("ES"). The ES segment provides municipal and county governments and schools with software systems and services to meet their information technology and automation needs for mission-critical "back-office" functions such as financial management and courts and justice and public safety processes. The Appraisal and Tax ("A&T") segment provides systems and software that automate the appraisal and assessment of real and personal property as well as property appraisal outsourcing services for local governments and taxing authorities. Property appraisal outsourcing services include: the physical inspection of commercial and residential properties; data collection and processing; computer analysis for property valuation; preparation of tax rolls; community education; and arbitration between taxpayers and the assessing jurisdiction.

We evaluate performance based on several factors, of which the primary financial measure is business segment operating income. We define segment operating income for our business units as income before noncash amortization of intangible assets associated with their acquisition, interest expense and income taxes. Segment operating income includes intercompany transactions. The majority of intercompany transactions relate to contracts involving more than one unit and are valued based on the contractual arrangement. Segment operating income for corporate primarily consists of compensation costs for the executive management team and certain accounting and administrative staff and share-based compensation expense for the entire company. Corporate segment operating income also includes revenues and expenses related to a company-wide user conference. The accounting policies of the reportable segments are the same as those described in Note 1, "Summary of Significant Accounting Policies."

Segment assets include net accounts receivable, prepaid expenses and other current assets and net property and equipment. Corporate assets consist of cash and investments, prepaid insurance, intangibles associated with acquisitions, deferred income taxes and net property and equipment mainly related to unallocated information and technology assets.

ES segment capital expenditures included $2.2 million in 2018 and $24.4 million in 2017 for the expansion of existing buildings and purchases of buildings and land.

(15) Disaggregation of Revenue

Recurring Revenue

The majority of our revenue is comprised of recurring revenues from maintenance and subscriptions. Virtually all of our on-premises software clients contract with us for maintenance and support, which provides us with a significant source of recurring revenue. We generally provide maintenance and support for our on-premises clients under annual, or in some cases, multi-year contracts. The contract terms for subscription arrangements range from one to 10 years but are typically contracted for initial periods of three to five years, providing a significant source of recurring revenues on an annual basis. Non-recurring revenues are derived for all other revenue categories.

Recurring revenues and non-recurring revenues recognized during the period are as follows:

For the year ended December 31, 2018

	Enterprise Software	Appraisal and Tax	Corporate	Totals
Recurring revenues	$ 570,695	$ 30,424	$ —	$ 601,119

(16) Deferred Revenue and Performance Obligations

Total deferred revenue, including long-term, by segment is as follows:

	December 31, 2018	December 31, 2017
		As Adjusted
Enterprise Software	$ 327,521	$ 277,198
Appraisal and Tax	20,018	20,387
Corporate	3,357	2,302
Totals	$ 350,936	$ 299,887

The opening balance of total deferred revenue, including long-term, was $290.1 million (as adjusted) as of January 1, 2017.

Changes in total deferred revenue, including long-term, were as follows:

	2018
Balance at beginning of year (As Adjusted)	$ 299,887
Deferral of revenue	871,498
Recognition of deferred revenue	(820,449)
Balance at end of year	$ 350,936

Transaction Price Allocated to the Remaining Performance Obligations

The aggregate amount of transaction price allocated to the remaining performance obligations represents contracted revenue that has not yet been recognized ("Backlog"), which includes deferred revenue and amounts that will be invoiced and recognized as revenue in future periods. Backlog as of December 31, 2018 was $1.25 billion, of which we expect to recognize approximately 50% as revenue over the next 12 months and the remainder thereafter.

(17) Deferred Commissions

Sales commissions earned by our sales force are considered incremental and recoverable costs of obtaining a contract with a customer. Sales commissions for initial contracts are deferred and then amortized commensurate with the recognition of associated revenue over a period of benefit that we have determined to be three to seven years. Deferred commissions were $21.9 million and $19.3 million (as adjusted) as of December 31, 2018, and December 31, 2017, respectively. Amortization expense was $15.6 million for the twelve months ended December 31, 2018 and $11.2 million (as adjusted) for the twelve months ended December 31, 2017, respectively. There were no indicators of impairment in relation to the costs capitalized for the periods presented. Deferred commissions have been included with prepaid expenses in the accompanying consolidated balance sheets. Amortization expense related to deferred commissions is included in selling, general and administrative expenses in the accompanying consolidated statements of income.

(18) Subsequent Events

The following events and transactions occurred subsequent to December 31, 2018:

On January 31, 2019, (i) Tyler Technologies, Inc., a Delaware corporation ("Parent"), (ii) TMP Subsidiary, Inc., a Delaware corporation and a wholly owned subsidiary of Parent ("Merger Sub"), (iii) MP Holdings Parent, Inc., dba MicroPact, a Delaware corporation ("MicroPact"), and (iv) Arlington Capital Partners II, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership ("Representative"), signed an Agreement and Plan of Merger (the "Merger Agreement").

The Merger Agreement provides for the merger of Merger Sub with and into MicroPact on the terms and subject to the conditions set forth in the Merger Agreement, with MicroPact as the surviving company and a wholly owned, direct subsidiary of Parent.

Pursuant to the Merger Agreement, Parent will pay MicroPact's shareholders aggregate merger consideration of approximately $185.0 million in cash, which shall include an amount equal to MicroPact's closing date working capital and be subject to a post-closing working capital adjustment as described in the Merger Agreement and an additional merger consideration of up to $10.0 million based on certain fiscal 2019 EBITDA thresholds. The merger consideration will be funded from cash on hand and proceeds from the revolving credit facility.

The Merger and the Merger Agreement have been approved by the boards of directors of both MicroPact, Parent and Merger Sub. The Merger Agreement contains customary representations, warranties, and covenants of MicroPact, Parent and Merger Sub. The covenants include, among others, an obligation on behalf of MicroPact to operate its business in the ordinary course until the Merger is consummated, and limitations on the right of MicroPact to solicit or engage in negotiations regarding alternative acquisition proposals during the pre-Closing period.

The completion of the Merger is subject to customary closing conditions, including the expiration or the termination of the waiting period under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act. The Federal Trade Commission granted early termination of that waiting period effective February 15, 2019. Customary closing conditions also include each party's satisfaction of the applicable representations and warranties, and compliance in all material respects with its applicable covenants. Consummation of the Merger is not subject to a financing condition.

The Merger Agreement may be terminated prior to closing under certain enumerated circumstances, including if the Merger is not consummated by May 1, 2019. Termination rights are held by Parent, MicroPact, and Representative, depending on the circumstances giving rise to the termination.

(a) The fourth quarter of 2017 includes the significant impact of the enactment of the Tax Act. The most significant impact of the Tax Act to us is the reduction in the U.S. federal corporate income tax rate from 35% to 21%. The impact of the rate reduction on our 2017 income tax provision is a $26.0 million tax benefit due to the remeasurement of deferred tax assets and liabilities. Refer to Note 7 - "Income Tax" for further discussion on the impact the Tax Act.

AGREEMENT AND PLAN OF MERGER

THIS AGREEMENT AND PLAN OF MERGER (this "Agreement") is entered into as of January 31, 2019, by and among (i) Tyler Technologies, Inc., a Delaware corporation ("Parent"), (ii) TMP Subsidiary, Inc., a Delaware corporation and a wholly owned subsidiary of Parent ("Merger Sub"), (iii) MP Holdings Parent, Inc., a Delaware corporation (the "Company"), and (iv) Arlington Capital Partners II, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership, solely in its capacity as representative for the Seller (the "Representative"). Parent, Merger Sub, the Company and, as applicable, the Representative are sometimes referred to in this Agreement as a "Party" and collectively as the "Parties." Capitalized terms that are used in this Agreement and not otherwise defined herein shall have the respective meanings ascribed to such terms in ARTICLE XI.

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, the Parties intend to effectuate a merger (the "Merger") of Merger Sub with and into the Company in accordance with this Agreement and the Delaware General Corporation Law (the "DGCL"), with the Company surviving the Merger (the "Surviving Company");

WHEREAS, the boards of directors of the Company, Parent and Merger Sub have, upon the terms and subject to the conditions set forth herein, (i) unanimously approved this Agreement, the Merger and the other transactions contemplated hereby and (ii) declared that this Agreement, the Merger and the other transactions contemplated hereby are advisable on the terms and conditions set forth herein;

WHEREAS, the board of directors of the Company has recommended that the stockholders of the Company adopt and approve this Agreement and the transactions contemplated hereby;

WHEREAS, concurrently with the execution of this Agreement, (i) in accordance with Section 2.1 of the Company Stockholder Agreement, the Majority ACP Holders (as defined in the Company Stockholder Agreement) have approved this Agreement and the transactions contemplated hereby, including the Merger, and, (ii) in accordance with the DGCL, the stockholders of the Company holding a majority of the outstanding shares of capital stock of the Company representing the Requisite Stockholder Approval have approved this Agreement and the transactions contemplated hereby, including the Merger, by written consent; and

WHEREAS, Parent, as the sole stockholder of Merger Sub, has adopted and approved this Agreement and the transactions contemplated hereby in accordance with the DGCL.

NOW, THEREFORE in consideration of the foregoing and the mutual representations, warranties, covenants and agreements contained herein, and for other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which are hereby acknowledged, and intending to be legally bound hereby, the Parties hereby agree as follows:

ARTICLE I
EFFECTS OF THE MERGER; MERGER CONSIDERATION

1.1 Merger. At the Effective Time and upon the terms and subject to the conditions of this Agreement and the applicable provisions of the DGCL, Merger Sub shall merge with and into the Company, the separate corporate existence of Merger Sub shall cease and the Company shall continue as the Surviving Company and as a wholly owned Subsidiary of Parent.

1.2 Effect of the Merger. At the Effective Time, the effect of the Merger shall be as provided in the applicable provisions of the DGCL. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, and subject thereto, at the Effective Time by virtue of the Merger and without any action on the part of Merger Sub or the Company, all of the property, rights, privileges, powers and franchises of the Company and Merger Sub shall vest in the Surviving Company, and all debts, liabilities and duties of the Company and Merger Sub shall become the debts, liabilities and duties of the Surviving Company.

1.3 Certificate of Incorporation; Bylaws. At the Effective Time, by virtue of the Merger and without any action on the part of Merger Sub or the Company, (a) the certificate of incorporation of the Surviving Company shall be amended and restated in the form of Exhibit A and, as so amended, shall be the certificate of incorporation of the Surviving Company until thereafter amended in accordance with the terms thereof or as provided by applicable Law, and (b) the bylaws of the Merger Sub as in effect immediately prior to the Effective Time shall be the bylaws of the Surviving Company until thereafter amended in accordance with the terms thereof, the certificate of incorporation of the Surviving Company or as provided by applicable Law; provided that, in each case, the name of the corporation set forth therein shall be changed to MicroPact Holdings, Inc.

1.4 Officers of the Surviving Company. The officers of Merger Sub immediately prior to the Effective Time shall, from and after the Effective Time, be the officers of the Surviving Company until the earlier of their resignation or removal or until their respective successors are duly elected and qualified, as the case may be.

1.5 Common Stock of Merger Sub. At the Effective Time, by virtue of the Merger and without any action on the part of Merger Sub, the Company or Parent, each share of common stock of Merger Sub issued and outstanding immediately prior to the Effective Time shall each be converted into and exchanged for one (1) share of common stock of the Surviving Company.

1.6 Effect on Company Capital Stock. At the Effective Time, upon the terms and subject to the conditions of this Agreement, by virtue of the Merger and without any action on the part of the Company, Parent, Merger Sub or the Sellers, as the case may be:

(a) Preferred Stock. At the Effective Time, no share of Preferred Stock shall be issued and outstanding, requiring no action by virtue of the Merger.

(b) Common Stock. Each share of Common Stock, including, subject to Section 1.7, Vested Restricted Stock but excluding Unvested Restricted Stock, that is issued and outstanding immediately prior to the Effective Time shall be canceled, extinguished and automatically converted.

into the right to receive an amount of cash (without interest) equal to the Per Share Merger Consideration (as reduced at the Closing by the Per Share Portion of each of the Holdback Amounts and the Representative Expense Fund Amount consistent with Section 1.9(a), and subject to adjustment as provided in Section 1.10(e) in cash, payable in accordance with and subject to the conditions provided in this ARTICLE I.

(c) Treasury Stock. Each share of treasury stock of the Company, if any, shall automatically be cancelled and retired and shall cease to exist, and no consideration shall be paid or delivered in exchange therefor.

(d) Dissenting Shares. Notwithstanding any provision of this Agreement to the contrary, including this Section 1.6, shares of Common Stock issued and outstanding immediately prior to the Effective Time (other than shares of Common Stock cancelled in accordance with Section 1.6(c)) and held by a holder who has not voted in favor of adoption of this Agreement or consented thereto in writing and who has properly exercised appraisal rights of such shares of Common Stock in accordance with Section 262 of the DGCL (such shares of Common Stock being referred to collectively as the Dissenting Shares) until such time as such holder fails to perfect or otherwise loses such holder's appraisal rights under the DGCL with respect to such shares of Common Stock) shall not be converted into a right to receive a portion of the Merger Consideration, but instead shall be entitled to only such rights as are granted by Section 262 of the DGCL; provided, however, that if, after the Effective Time, such holder fails to perfect, withdraws, or loses such holder's right to appraisal pursuant to Section 262 of the DGCL or if a court of competent jurisdiction shall determine that such holder is not entitled to the relief provided by Section 262 of the DGCL, such shares of Common Stock shall be treated as if they had been converted as of the Effective Time into the right to receive the portion of the Merger Consideration, if any, to which such holder is entitled pursuant to Section 1.6(b), without interest thereon. The Company shall provide Parent prompt written notice of any demands received by the Company for appraisal of shares of Common Stock, any withdrawal of any such demand and any other demand, notice or instrument delivered to the Company prior to the Effective Time pursuant to the DGCL that relates to such demand, and Parent shall have, a Parent's sole cost and expense, the opportunity and right to direct all negotiations and proceedings with respect to such demands. Except with the prior written consent of Parent, the Company shall not make any payment with respect to, or settle or offer to settle, any such demands.

1.7 Employee Loans; Treatment of Unvested Restricted Stock.

(a) To the extent that the purchase price for any shares of the Vested Restricted Stock payable under the applicable Restricted Stock Award Agreement was paid by a promissory note or other form of a loan or advance by the Company or its predecessor and any amounts payable pursuant to such note, loan or advance remain unpaid and outstanding as of the Closing, the amounts payable to the respective Seller by Parent pursuant to Section 1.6(b) shall be reduced by the applicable amounts so owed by such Seller in order to satisfy such obligations in full (the aggregate of the unpaid amounts as of the Closing of all Sellers pursuant to such notes, loans or advances, the "Seller Loans Balance").

(b) At the Effective Time, each share of Unvested Restricted Stock issued and outstanding immediately prior to the Effective Time, if any, shall be canceled and extinguished. Holders of Unvested Restricted Stock will be entitled to receive an Unvested Restricted Stock Refund Payment to the extent required by such holder's Restricted Stock Award Agreement(s).

1.8 Merger Consideration. The aggregate consideration in respect of all shares of Common Stock and Vested Restricted Stock shall be an amount equal to (a) One Hundred and Eighty-Five Million Dollars ($185,000,000), plus (b) the amount, if any, by which the Working Capital exceeds the Working Capital Target, minus (c) the amount, if any, by which the Working Capital Target exceeds the Working Capital, minus (d) Transaction Expenses, plus (e) the Seller Loans Balance (such resulting amount pursuant to clauses (a)-(e), and as such amount may be adjusted pursuant to the provisions of Section 1.10, the "Merger Consideration"). The Merger Consideration shall be allocated among the Sellers as specified in the Pre-Closing Statement delivered pursuant to Section 1.10. The Parties acknowledge and agree that neither Parent, Merger Sub nor the Surviving Company shall have any liability to any Person relating to, or obligation to verify, the allocation of the Merger Consideration among the Sellers as set forth in the Pre-Closing Statement (including with respect to the determination of the Per Share Merger Consideration and the Per Share Portion), and upon payment of the amounts set forth in this Section 1.8 in accordance with the Pre-Closing Statement, Parent and Merger Sub will have satisfied all of their respective obligations under this Agreement with respect thereto, subject to any adjustments to the Merger Consideration pursuant to Section 1.10.

1.9 Closing Payments. At the Closing, Parent shall make or cause to be made, by wire transfer of immediately available funds, the following payments (each such payment, a "Closing Payment"):

(a) payment to the account designated by American Stock Transfer & Trust Company, LLC, appointed by Parent to act as its paying agent in the Merger (the "Paying Agent") of a cash amount equal to the aggregate amount of the Estimated Closing Consideration payable to the Sellers accordance with Section 1.6(b) and as set forth in the Pre-Closing Statement to be distributed by the Paying Agent to the Sellers in accordance with this ARTICLE 1 provided, that if any Seller has not delivered to Parent a duly executed and completed Letter of Transmittal and Surrendered Certificate(s) prior to the Closing Date, the amount allocated with respect to such Seller will be paid to the Paying Agent on behalf of such Seller (and distributed thereto upon delivery of such executed and completed Letter of Transmittal and Surrendered Certificate(s)). The term "Estimated Closing Consideration" means the Estimated Merger Consideration less (i) the Holdback Amounts and less (ii) the Representative Expense Fund Amount.

(b) payment to the Representative of a cash amount equal to Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($500,000) (such amount, the "Representative Expense Fund Amount") to a bank account designated in writing by the Representative; and

(c) payment on behalf of the Group Companies, to the payees thereof, of an aggregate cash amount equal to the amount of all Closing Date Indebtedness of the type identified in item (i) of the definition of "Indebtedness" and all Transaction Expenses (other than the Unvested Restricted Stock Refund Payments, which shall instead be paid by Parent to the account designated by the Company for further distribution to the holders of Unvested Restricted Stock entitled thereto in accordance with Section 1.7(b)).

Each of the Closing Payments shall be made in the amounts and as set forth in the Pre-Closing Statement delivered pursuant to Section 1.10.

1.10 Adjustment of the Merger Consideration.

(a) Pre-Closing Statement. No later than three (3) Business Days prior to the Closing Date (or at such earlier time as may reasonably be practicable), the Company shall deliver to Parent a statement (the "Pre-Closing Statement") including or setting forth the following:

- (i) a good faith estimate of the Closing Balance Sheet;
- (ii) a calculation of estimated Working Capital;
- (iii) the amounts of the Closing Date Indebtedness and the holders thereof;
- (iv) the amounts of the Transaction Expenses and the payees thereof, including the Unvested Restricted Stock Refund Payments, including wiring instructions with respect to each payee of Transaction Expenses;
- (v) the Company's good faith estimate of the Merger Consideration as of the Adjustment Time (the "Estimated Merger Consideration"); and
- (vi) the allocation of the Estimated Closing Consideration among Sellers.

The Pre-Closing Statement shall include reasonably detailed calculations with respect to each component of the Estimated Merger Consideration. As applicable, the Pre-Closing Statement shall be prepared in a manner consistent with the definitions of the terms Working Capital, Transaction Expenses and the Accounting Rules and practices referred to therein, including the definitions of any defined terms used in such definitions and including as reflected on Exhibit B.

(b) Final Merger Consideration Adjustment. The Merger Consideration shall be adjusted following the Closing based on the difference between the Final Closing Date Merger Consideration (as determined in accordance with this Section 1.10) and the Estimated Merger Consideration, if any, and payment shall be made in respect of any such post-Closing adjustment as set forth in Section 1.10(e).

(c) Closing Statement. No later than ninety (90) days after the Closing Date, Parent shall cause to be prepared in good faith and delivered to the Representative a statement (the "Closing Statement"), including an unaudited consolidated balance sheet of the Company as of the Adjustment Time (the "Closing Balance Sheet") and setting forth Parent's calculation of the Merger

Consideration as of the Adjustment Time ("Closing Date Merger Consideration"). The Closing Statement shall be prepared in a manner consistent with the definitions of the terms Working Capital, Transaction Expenses and the Accounting Rules and practices referred to therein (including as reflected on Exhibit B). The Closing Statement shall entirely disregard (i) any and all effects on the assets or liabilities of the Group Companies as a result of the Transaction or of any financing or refinancing arrangements entered into at any time by Parent or its Affiliates or any other transaction entered into by Parent or its Affiliates in connection with the consummation of the Transaction and (ii) any of the plans, transactions, or changes which Parent intends to initiate or make or cause to be initiated or made after the Closing with respect to any Group Company or their respective businesses or assets, or any facts or circumstances that are unique or particular to Parent or its Affiliates or any of their assets or liabilities. For the avoidance of doubt, unless the Representative otherwise agrees in writing, Parent may not amend, adjust, supplement or modify the Closing Statement or the amount of Closing Date Merger Consideration following its delivery to the Representative. If Parent fails to deliver the Closing Statement within such ninety (90)-day period, then in addition to any other rights the Representative may have under this Agreement, the Representative shall have the right to elect that the Estimated Merger Consideration be deemed to be the amount of the Closing Date Merger Consideration and be final and binding and used for purposes of calculating the adjustment pursuant to Section 1.10(e). The Parties acknowledge that no adjustments may be made to the Working Capital Target.

(d) Disputes.

(i) The Representative shall have thirty (30) days after receipt of the Closing Statement to review the Closing Statement; provided that if Parent does not promptly provide access or other information specified in Section 1.10(f) (and in any event within five (5) Business Days of any request by the Representative), then the Representative shall have thirty (30) days plus the number of days between the date of the Representative's request for such access or information and the date Parent grants or provides such access or information. If the Representative disagrees with Parent's calculation of the Closing Date Merger Consideration as set forth in the Closing Statement, the Representative may, within such period, deliver a written notice to Parent (a "Dispute Notice") disagreeing with such calculation and, to the extent reasonably able to so specify, setting forth the Representative's basis for such disagreement (the "Disputed Items"). If the Representative fails to deliver a Dispute Notice during such period, the Representative shall have waived its rights to contest the Closing Statement and the calculations of the Closing Date Merger Consideration set forth therein shall be deemed to be final and binding upon the Parties, and such amount shall be used as the Final Closing Date Merger Consideration for purposes of calculating the adjustment pursuant to Section 1.10(e).

(ii) If a Dispute Notice is duly delivered pursuant to Section 1.10(d)(i), the Representative and Parent shall, during the thirty (30) days following such delivery, attempt to reach an agreement on all or a portion of the Disputed Items. If Parent and the Representative reach an agreement on any Disputed Item during such period, the resolution of such Disputed Items shall be in writing and shall be final and binding upon the Parties. If, during such thirty (30)-day period, the Representative and Parent are unable to reach an agreement on all of the Disputed Items, then all Disputed Items remaining in dispute following such thirty (30)-day period shall be submitted by the Representative and Parent to the Accounting Referee (the "Referred Disputed Items") as promptly as reasonably practicable for a determination resolving such Referred Disputed Items (it being agreed and understood that the Accounting Referee shall act as an arbitrator to determine the Referred Disputed Items (and, as a result thereof, the Closing Date Merger Consideration) and shall do so based solely on presentations and information provided by Parent and the Representative, as further specified below, and not by independent review). In conducting its review, the decision of the Accounting Referee shall be solely based on (A) the definitions and other applicable provisions of this Agreement, (B) a single presentation by each of the Representative and Parent limited to the Referred Disputed Items (which presentations the Accounting Referee shall be instructed to forward to Parent and the Representative, as applicable) and (C) one (1) written response submitted to the Accounting Referee by each of the Representative and Parent within ten (10) Business Days after receipt of each such presentation (which responses the Accounting Referee shall be instructed to forward to Parent and the Representative, as applicable), and not on independent review. The scope of the disputes to be resolved by the Accounting Referee shall be limited to resolving the Referred Disputed Items, and, in connection therewith, fixing mathematical errors and determining whether the Referred Disputed Items were determined in accordance with this Agreement (including the definition of the terms Working Capital, Transaction Expenses and the Accounting Rules) and the Accounting Referee is not to make any other determination. The Accounting Referee shall deliver to the Representative and Parent, as promptly as practicable (but in any case no later than thirty (30) days from the date of engagement of the Accounting Referee), a report setting forth its calculations of the Closing Date Merger Consideration based solely upon (x) the Accounting Referee's final determination of the Referred Disputed Items and (y) the items which were finally determined pursuant to Sections 1.10(d)(i) and 1.10(d)(ii) and not submitted to the Accounting Referee for resolution, which such Closing Date Merger Consideration amount shall not be less than the applicable amount thereof shown in Parent's calculation delivered pursuant to Section 1.10(c) nor more than the amount thereof shown in the Representative's calculation delivered pursuant to Section 1.10(d)(i). Such report shall be final and binding upon the Parties, absent manifest error, and shall be used for purposes of calculating the adjustment pursuant to Section 1.10(b). Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the dispute resolution mechanism contained in this Section 1.10(d) shall be the exclusive mechanism for resolving disputes regarding the Merger Consideration adjustment. Judgment may be entered upon the determination of the Accounting Referee in any court having jurisdiction over the Party against which such determination is to be enforced. The fees, costs and expenses of the Accounting Referee shall be borne by the Parties in proportion to the relative amount each Party's determination has been modified, with any amount borne by the Representative to be paid out of the Representative Expense Fund Amount. For example, if the Representative challenges the calculation of the Closing Date Merger Consideration by an amount of $100,000, but the Accounting Referee determines that the Representative has a valid claim for only $60,000, the Representative (on behalf of the Sellers) shall bear 40% of the fees and expenses of the Accounting Referee and Parent shall bear the other 60% of such fees and expenses of the Accounting Referee. The Representative and Parent shall, and Parent shall cause the Group Companies, and each of its and their representatives to, reasonably cooperate and assist in any review by the Accounting Referee of the Closing Statement and the calculations of the Closing Date Merger Consideration.

(e) Final Closing Date Merger Consideration Following the time that the Closing Date Merger Consideration is finally determined pursuant to this Section 1.10 (such finally determined amount, the "Final Closing Date Merger Consideration"), payment shall be made as follows:

(i) If the Final Closing Date Merger Consideration is greater than or equal to the Estimated Merger Consideration (the amount of such excess, the "Increase Amount"), then within five (5) Business Days after the Final Closing Date Merger Consideration is finally determined pursuant to this Section 1.10, (A) Parent shall pay by wire transfer of immediately available funds an amount equal to the Increase Amount to the Paying Agent (for further distribution to the Sellers who delivered to Parent a duly completed and executed Letter of Transmittal and Surrendered Certificate(s) prior to such time), and (B) Parent shall disburse the Adjustment Holdback Amount to the Paying Agent (for further distribution to the Sellers who delivered to Parent a duly completed and executed Letter of Transmittal and Surrendered Certificate(s) prior to such time).

(ii) If the Final Closing Date Merger Consideration is less than the Estimated Merger Consideration, the within five (5) Business Days after the Final Closing Date Merger Consideration is finally determined pursuant to this Section 1.10, (A) the Adjustment Holdback Amount shall be deemed automatically reduced by the full amount of such deficiency (for purposes of clarity, the absolute amount of such deficiency will be subtracted from the Adjustment Holdback Amount thereby resulting in a reduction of the Adjustment Holdback Amount) (it being understood that, notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, the Adjustment Holdback Amount shall be the sole source of recovery for any payment required to be made to Parent pursuant to this Section 1.10(e)(ii)), and (B) Parent shall disburse in accordance with Section 1.11 to the Paying Agent (for further distribution to the Sellers who delivered to Parent a duly completed and executed Letter of Transmittal and Surrendered Certificate(s) prior to such time) the balance of the Adjustment Holdback Amount, if any, remaining after the reduction of the Adjustment Holdback Amount pursuant to the preceding clause (A).

(iii) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Section 1.10(e), if, at the time that Parent is required to make any payments to the Paying Agent (on behalf of the Sellers) pursuant to this Section 1.10(e), any Seller has not delivered Parent a duly completed and executed Letter of Transmittal and Surrendered Certificate(s) prior to such time, then the amount allocated with respect to such Seller will be paid to the Paying Agent on behalf of such Seller (and distributed thereto upon delivery of such executed and completed Letter of Transmittal and Surrendered Certificate(s)).

Upon payment of the amounts provided in this Section 1.10(e) in accordance herewith, none of the Parties may make or assert any claim under this Section 1.10.

(f) Cooperation. During the period of time from and after the Closing Date through the final determination and payment of the Final Closing Date Merger Consideration in accordance with this Section 1.10, Parent shall afford, and shall cause the Group Companies to afford, to the Representative and any accountants, counsel or financial or other advisers retained by the Representative in connection with the review of the Closing Date Merger Consideration, and afford to the Accounting Referee in connection with any review by it in accordance with Section 1.10(d)(ii), direct access during normal business hours upon reasonable advance notice to all the books, properties, records, contracts, documents, information, personnel and representatives of the Group Companies and their accountants (including the work papers of the Surviving Company's accountants) relevant to the review or preparation of the Closing Statement and the calculation of the Closing Date Merger Consideration and, if requested by the Representative, shall provide any such books, records, contracts, documents and information electronically and in such formats as are reasonably requested.

(g) No Further Ownership Rights in Common Stock The Estimated Closing Consideration paid in accordance with the terms of this ARTICLE I, subject to the indemnification provisions set forth in this Agreement, payment of the amounts provided in Section 1.11, and the rights of Sellers with respect to the Holdback Amounts, the Representative Expense Fund Amount and any Additional Merger Consideration Payment, each as provided herein, shall be deemed to have been paid in full satisfaction of all rights pertaining to the shares of Common Stock formerly represented by the Stock Certificates. From and after the Effective Time, there shall be no further registration of transfers of shares of Common Stock on the stock transfer books of the Surviving Company.

(h) Adjustments. Without limiting the other provisions of this Agreement, if at any time during the period between the date of this Agreement and the Effective Time, any change in the outstanding shares of Common Stock shall occur, including by reason of any reclassification, recapitalization, stock split (including reverse stock split), or combination, exchange or readjustment of shares, or any stock dividend or distribution paid in stock, the applicable Per Share Merger Consideration and any other amounts payable pursuant to this Agreement shall be appropriately adjusted to reflect such change.

1.11 Other Payments. In order to facilitate the payment of any Other Seller Payments pursuant to this Agreement, such funds shall be paid to an account designated by the Paying Agent (on behalf of the Sellers) for distribution to the Sellers entitled thereto on a pro rata basis (based on each Seller's Pro Rata Share), subject to such Sellers delivering to Parent a duly completed and executed Letter of Transmittal and Surrendered Certificate(s) prior to such time. The Parties acknowledge and agree that Parent and the Surviving Company shall have no liability to any Person relating to, or obligation to verify, the allocation of any Other Seller Payment among the Sellers as set forth in this Section 1.11, and upon payment of any Other Seller Payment in accordance with this Section 1.11 or as directed by the Representative, Parent will have satisfied all of its obligations under this Agreement with respect thereto.

1.12 Withholding. Parent, the Company and Paying Agent shall be entitled to deduct and withhold from the amounts payable pursuant to this Agreement such amounts as it reasonably determines it is required to deduct and withhold with respect to the making of such payments under any provision of U.S. federal, state, local or foreign tax Law and instead shall pay such amount to the applicable Governmental Authority. Before making any such deduction or withholding described in the previous sentence, except for (a) any withholding required as a result of a failure to deliver the certificate as described in Section 2.3(h), (b) any withholding on payments under any compensatory payments made in connection with the transactions contemplated by this Agreement, including the payments with respect to Vested Restricted Stock and the payment of any Unvested Restricted Stock Refund Amount, Parent shall give the Representative notice of the intention to make such deduction or withholding, and such notice, which shall include the authority, basis and method of calculation for the proposed deduction or withholding, at least three (3) Business Days before such deduction or withholding is required, in order for the Representative to obtain reduction or relief from such deduction or withholding. To the extent that amounts are properly so withheld by Parent, the Company, or Paying Agent, and paid to the applicable Governmental Authority, such amounts withheld shall be treated for all purposes of this Agreement as having been paid to the recipient in respect of which such deduction and withholding was made by Parent or other withholding agent.

1.13 Letters of Transmittal.

(a) Promptly following the date hereof, the Company shall deliver to each Seller a Letter of Transmittal in a form mutually agreed to by Parent and the Company (a "Letter of Transmittal"). Promptly following the receipt by the Paying Agent of the Estimated Closing Consideration, the Paying Agent shall deliver to each Seller who delivered to Parent a duly completed and executed Letter of Transmittal and Surrendered Certificate(s) at least two (2) Business Days prior to the Closing Date the portion of the Estimated Closing Consideration allocated to each such Seller in accordance with the Pre-Closing Statement and to the bank account designated in such Seller's Letter of Transmittal. Following the Closing, but subject to Section 1.13(c), upon delivery by a Seller that did not receive such portion of the Estimated Closing Consideration promptly following the Closing pursuant to the immediately preceding sentence to Parent of a duly completed and executed Letter of Transmittal and Surrendered Certificate(s), the Paying Agent shall pay to such Seller within five (5) Business Days after such delivery, (x) the amounts to which such Seller is entitled to pursuant to the immediately preceding sentence and (y) if the Final Closing Date Merger Consideration has been finally determined as of such time, the amounts to which such Seller is entitled to pursuant to Section 1.10(e), in each case, by wire transfer of immediately available funds to the account designated by such Seller in such Seller's Letter of Transmittal. No interest or dividends will be paid or accrued on the consideration payable to any Seller hereunder. At the Effective Time, all Common Stock will cease to exist and each share of Common Stock outstanding immediately prior to the Effective Time (including any Stock Certificate that prior to the Effective Time represented such shares of Common Stock) shall be deemed from and after the Effective Time, for all purposes, to evidence the right to receive the applicable portion of the Merger Consideration as provided in Section 1.6(b) and of the Other Seller Payments as provided in Section 1.11. If after the Effective Time, any Stock Certificate is presented to the Paying Agent, it shall be exchanged as provided in this Section 1.13(a).

(b) In the event that any stock certificate representing the shares of Common Stock has been lost, stolen or destroyed, upon the making of a customary affidavit of that fact by the Seller claiming such certificate to be lost, stolen or destroyed, the Paying Agent or the Surviving Company, as applicable, will pay, in exchange for the shares represented by such lost, stolen or destroyed certificate, the consideration to which such Seller would otherwise be entitled pursuant to Section 1.6(b) without any requirement to post any bond or other security.

(c) Promptly following the date that is one (1) year after the Closing Date, Parent may instruct the Paying Agent to deliver to the Surviving Company all cash delivered to the Paying Agent pursuant to this Agreement that is still in its possession at such time, in which case the Paying Agent's duties shall terminate. Thereafter, each Seller may deliver a duly completed and executed Letter of Transmittal and Surrendered Certificate(s) to the Surviving Company and (subject to applicable abandoned property, escheat and similar Laws) receive in consideration therefor, and the Surviving Company shall promptly pay, the portion of the Merger Consideration deliverable to such Seller in respect of its Surrendered Certificate(s) as determined in accordance with this ARTICLE I without any interest thereon.

1.14 Merger Consideration Holdbacks Parent shall retain, and not pay at Closing, the Holdback Amounts for the purpose of securing any adjustment to the Merger Consideration to be paid by the Sellers in accordance with Section 1.10(e) and any indemnification claims pursuant to Section 9.2(a)(iv). The Holdback Amounts shall be paid to the Sellers in the amount and at such time(s) as contemplated by Section 1.10(e) and Section 9.5(b), respectively.

1.15 Additional Merger Consideration.

(a) EBITDA Statement. On or before February 1, 2020, Parent shall cause to be calculated and delivered to the Representative a statement (an "EBITDA Statement"), setting forth Parent's calculation of the Net EBITDA for the period beginning on January 1, 2019 and ending on December 31, 2019 (the "Measurement Period"). During the thirty (30) days following the delivery of the EBITDA Statement, Parent shall provide the Representative and its advisors access to such accounting and other records of the Group Companies to the extent requested and reasonably necessary to evaluate the accuracy of the EBITDA Statements. If, within thirty (30) days following receipt of the EBITDA Statement, the Representative does not deliver to Parent written notice of a dispute with respect to the calculations set forth in such EBITDA Statement, then the Net EBITDA set forth in the EBITDA Statement shall be deemed to be the Net EBITDA for all purposes under this Agreement and Parent shall pay, or cause the Company to pay, the applicable Additional Merger Consideration Payment no later than March 15, 2020. In the event the Representative delivers written notice to Parent within thirty (30) days of the delivery of the EBITDA Statement stating that the Representative objects to Parent's calculation thereof and specifying the basis for such objection in reasonable detail and setting forth the proposed modification to such EBITDA Statement, such dispute shall be resolved in the same manner as any dispute regarding the Closing Statement in accordance with the provisions of Section 1.10(d) (for the avoidance of doubt, the Accounting Rules shall not apply to calculation of the Net EBITDA) provided, however, that once the Net EBITDA is finally determined pursuant to the provisions of Section 1.10(d), the applicable Additional Merger Consideration Payment (as defined below) shall be made no later than the later of (x) March 15, 2020 and (y) the date that is ten (10) days following such date of final determination.

(b) Additional Merger Consideration Payment Subject to Section 1.15(a), in the event the Net EBITDA for the Measurement Period exceeds the minimum EBITDA threshold set forth below, Sellers shall be entitled to receive, and Parent shall pay (or cause the Surviving Company to pay) to the Representative (for distribution to Sellers in accordance with Section 1.11), the applicable additional Merger Consideration payment set forth in the table below (the "Additional Merger Consideration Payment") in accordance with this Agreement. For the avoidance of doubt, unless otherwise required by applicable Law, any Additional Merger Consideration Payments made to Sellers will be treated as additional Merger Consideration.

EBITDA Threshold	Additional Merger Consideration Payment
Less than $13,999,999.99	$0
$14,000,000 - $14,999,999.99	(i) $5,000,000 plus (ii) (A) 2 multiplied by (B) the amount by which the Net EBITDA for the Measurement Period exceeds $14,000,000
$15,000,000 - $15,999,999.99	(i) $7,000,000 plus (ii) (A) 1.5 multiplied by (B) the amount by which the Net EBITDA for the Measurement Period exceeds $15,000,000
$16,000,000 - $16,999,999.99	(i) $8,500,000 plus (ii) (A) 1.5 multiplied by (B) the amount by which the Net EBITDA for the Measurement Period exceeds $16,000,000
$17,000,000 or greater	$10,000,000

Notwithstanding any other provision hereof, in no event shall the Additional Merger Consideration Payment exceed Ten Million Dollars ($10,000,000).

(c) Operation of the Group Companies during the Measurement Period.

(i) From and after the Closing until the end of the Measurement Period, Parent covenants and agrees (i) to maintain the Group Companies as a separate and standalone business unit, (ii) to cause the Group Companies to maintain books and records that are separate from those of Parent and its other Affiliates as necessary for Parent to calculate the Net EBITDA for the Measurement Period and any Additional Merger Consideration Payment, (iii) to provide reasonable access to the Representative, upon advance written request, to such books and records referenced in clause (ii) above, and (iv) to reasonably cooperate with the Representative to estimate expenses to be allocated to the Group Companies for purposes of determining the Net EBITDA for the Measurement Period.

(ii) From and after the Closing until the end of the Measurement Period, Parent shall act in good faith to give effect to the intent and purposes of Parent's agreements and obligations under this Section 1.15 and, in furtherance thereof shall or shall not take, as applicable, the actions set forth below, provided, for the avoidance of doubt, that any action taken by Parent that would not adversely affect in any material respect the amount or timing of the Additional Merger Consideration Payment shall not constitute an act in bad faith:

(A) Parent shall not, and shall cause its Affiliates (including the Group Companies) not to, take or omit to take any action for the purpose of, or the primary effect of which is, undermining the Group Companies' ability to achieve the EBITDA Thresholds or avoiding, reducing or delaying any Additional Merger Consideration Payment;

(B) Parent shall not, and shall cause its Affiliates (including the Group Companies) not to, divert the sale of any Group Company products and services in favor of a sale of products and services offered by or through Parent or its other Affiliates if the primary purpose of such diverted sale is to reduce the Net EBITDA provided, for the avoidance of the doubt, that nothing in this Section 1.15(c)(ii)(B), shall limit the ability of Parent or its Affiliates, subject to clause (A) above, to operate in the Ordinary Course of Business consistent with past practices with respect to the sale of products or services sold by Parent on or prior to the date hereof, including submission of more than one offer or bid (such as for a legacy Parent product or service and for a Group Company product or service) for a proposed sale;

(C) Parent shall not, and shall cause its Affiliates (including the Group Companies) not to, transfer or assign the assets of the Group Companies as of the Closing Date to Parent or any Affiliate of Parent (other than the Company or its Subsidiaries) or any third party unless, in the case of such transfer to Parent or any Affiliate of Parent, (x) such assets and any revenue derived therefrom shall continue to be included in full in the Net EBITDA for all purposes hereunder ("Transferred Company Assets") and (y) Parent maintains separate books and records necessary for Parent to include such Transferred Company Assets in Net EBITDA;

(D) Parent shall adopt, in meaningful consultation with the Company's management, an operating budget for the Group Companies for the 2019 calendar year, including with respect to the compensation of employees of the Group Companies (the "Company Budget"); and

(E) To the extent the approval or consent of Parent or any Affiliate is required or otherwise sought by the Company's management (whether under Parent's or any Affiliate's policies or otherwise) for any proposed transaction, opportunity or other action of any Group Company in accordance with the Company Budget, Parent shall, and shall cause any such Affiliate to, exercise such approval or consent in good faith and in a manner that (x) Parent reasonably believes to be in the best interests of the Group Companies consistent with the principles and assumptions utilized in the creation of the Company Budget and (y) is consistent with Parent's approvals and consents in respect of its other business units and Affiliates.

(d) Additional Considerations.

(i) For the avoidance of doubt, Parent shall have no obligation to fund any monies for the Group Companies during the Measurement Period (provided, however, that Parent shall not, and shall cause its Affiliates not to, deplete the Group Companies' working capital to below levels that are adequate for them to operate in the Ordinary Course of Business) or to operate the Group Companies in order to achieve any, or maximize the amount of, the Additional Merger Consideration Payment, and nothing contained in this Section 1.15, except as expressly provided in Section 1.15(c), is intended to control or otherwise restrict in any way management or the board of directors (or other equivalent governing body) of Parent or its Affiliates or any Group Company from operating the Group Companies and making all business and customer decisions (including regarding efforts or resources to secure or maintain business, the hiring or termination of employees and the incurrence of expenses) and requiring compliance with Parent's and its Affiliates' internal controls, corporate governance policies and procedures, legal and regulatory compliance standards and other similar matters, in each case in the manner which Parent's or its Affiliate's management or board of directors (or other equivalent governing body) deem appropriate in their good faith judgment; provided, however, that such operating decisions or compliance requirements are consistently applied, as applicable, to Parent and its Affiliates. For the avoidance of doubt, nothing contained in this Section 1.15(d) is intended to in any way limit, abridge, restrict, amend or modify any of the express provisions of Section 1.15(c).

(ii) The Parties acknowledge that Parent is a publicly traded corporation, which provides a wide range of services and other business activities through itself and its direct and indirect Subsidiaries, and Parent's and its Affiliates' boards of directors, officers and managers owe their fiduciary duties to their respective stockholders, members or other equityholders and nothing herein shall operate to limit, modify or abrogate such fiduciary duties. For the avoidance of doubt, none of Parent, any Group Company or any of their respective Affiliates: (A) will owe the Sellers any fiduciary or similar duty in respect of this Section 1.15, (B) are making any representations or warranties to the Sellers with respect to the operations of the Surviving Company or other Group Companies after the Closing or with respect to any estimates or projections relating to Net EBITDA, or (C) will be restricted or otherwise limited from taking any action (or refrain from taking any action) with respect to the business activities of Parent or its Affiliates (other than as expressly set forth in Section 1.15(c)).

1.16 Issuances or Transfers of Common Stock Except as provided in this Section 1.16, as of the date of this Agreement, the stock transfer books of the Company shall be closed and there shall be no further registration of issuances or other transfers that occur after the date of this Agreement on the stock record books of the Company of the shares of Preferred Stock or Common Stock. On or before the fifth (5th) Business Day prior to the Closing, only the following transfers of shares of Common Stock shall be permitted:

- (c) otherwise permitted transfers among Sellers.

1.17 No Liability. Each of the Group Companies has the power and authority to own or lease all of its properties and assets and to carry on its business as it is now being conducted in all material respects.

3.2 Authorization of Agreement. The execution and delivery of the Transaction Agreements to which the Company is a party, the performance by the Company of its obligations thereunder and the consummation of the Transactions have been duly authorized by the requisite corporate action on the part of the Company. (b) Except as set forth on Section 3.3(b) of the Company Disclosure Schedule, no consent, waiver, approval, waiting period expiration or termination, Order, Permit or authorization of, or declaration or filing with, or notification to, any Governmental Authority (a "Governmental Approval") is required on the part of any Group Company in connection with the execution and delivery by the Company of the Transaction Agreements to which it is a party or the consummation of the Transactions by the Company, except those Governmental Approvals, which, if not obtained, would not have, individually or in the aggregate, a Company Material Adverse Effect.

(m) The Company has complied with the continuation coverage provisions of COBRA and any applicable state laws mandating health insurance continuation coverage for employees, except where the failure to do so would not be reasonably expected to have a Company Material Adverse Effect.

All premiums due and payable on the Insurance Policies have been paid as of the date hereof. As of the date hereof, neither the Company nor any of the Operating Subsidiaries have received a written notice of cancellation of any Insurance Policy.

ARTICLE IV
REPRESENTATIONS AND WARRANTIES OF PARENT AND MERGER SUB

Except as set forth on the disclosure schedule delivered by Parent to the Representative and the Company concurrently with entry into this Agreement (the "Parent Disclosure Schedule"), which are subject to the limitations and qualifications set forth in Section 11.2(d), Parent and Merger Sub hereby represents and warrants to the Company as of the date hereof as follows:

4.1 Organization and Power. Parent is a corporation duly organized, validly existing and in good standing under the Laws of the State of Delaware. Merger Sub is a Delaware corporation duly organized, validly existing and in good standing under the Laws of State of Delaware. Each of Parent and Merger Sub has the requisite corporate power and authority to execute and deliver each Transaction Agreement to which it is a party, to perform its obligations hereunder and thereunder and to consummate the Transactions. Each of Parent and Merger Sub has the corporate power and authority to own or lease all of its properties and assets and to carry on its business as it is now being conducted. Each of Parent and Merger Sub is duly licensed or qualified to do business in each jurisdiction in which the nature of its business or the character or location of any properties or assets owned or leased by it makes such licensing or qualification necessary, except for those jurisdictions where the failure to be so licensed or qualified would not have, individually or in the aggregate, a Parent Material Adverse Effect.

4.2 Authorization of Agreement. The execution and delivery of the Transaction Agreements to which it is a party and the performance of its obligations thereunder have been duly authorized by the requisite corporate action on the part of each of Parent and Merger Sub. No other proceeding on the part of either Parent or Merger Sub (including by its respective equityholders) is necessary to authorize the Transaction Agreements to which it is a party or to consummate the Transactions. This Agreement has been, and each of the other Transaction Agreements to which it is a party will be, duly and validly executed and delivered by each of Parent and Merger Sub and (assuming the due authorization, execution and delivery by the other parties thereto) constitute or, with respect to such other Transaction Agreement will upon execution and delivery each constitute, the legal, valid and binding obligations of Parent or Merger Sub, as applicable, enforceable against it in accordance with its terms, subject to applicable Equitable Principles.

4.3 Conflicts; Consents of Third Parties.

(a) Assuming all Governmental Approvals contemplated by Section 4.3(b) have been obtained and are effective and all applicable waiting periods have expired or been terminated and all filings and notifications described in Section 3.3(b) of the Company Disclosure Schedule have been made, none of the execution, delivery and performance by either Parent or Merger Sub of the Transaction Agreements to which it is a party, or the consummation of the Transaction by Parent and Merger Sub, will conflict with, violate or constitute a default (with or without notice or lapse of time, or both) under or give rise to a right of termination, acceleration, modification or cancellation under any provision of (A) the Organizational Documents of Parent or Merger Sub, as applicable; (B) any Contract or Permit which Parent or Merger Sub or any of their Affiliates, as applicable, is a party to or bound by, or by which Parent's or Merger Sub's or any of their Affiliates', as applicable, properties or assets are bound; or (C) any Law applicable to Parent or Merger Sub or any of their Affiliates, as applicable, except, in the case of clauses (B) and (C), where such conflict, violation acceleration, termination, modification, cancellation or default, would not have, individually or in the aggregate, a Parent Material Adverse Effect.

(b) Except as set forth on Section 4.3(b) of the Parent Disclosure Schedule, no Governmental Approval is required on the part of either Parent or Merger Sub in connection with the execution and delivery by such Party of the Transaction Agreements to which it is a party, or the consummation of the Transactions by such Party, except for any Governmental Approval (i) described in Section 3.3(b) of the Company Disclosure Schedule or (ii) the failure of which to make or obtain would not have, individually or in the aggregate, a Parent Material Adverse Effect.

4.4 Legal Proceedings There are no pending or, to the knowledge of Parent or Merger Sub, threatened, Legal Proceedings against Parent or Merger Sub or their Affiliates that would have, individually or in the aggregate, a Parent Material Adverse Effect. There is no outstanding material Order imposed upon either Parent or Merger Sub or any of their assets or Affiliates, except for Legal Proceedings which, if adversely determined, would not have, individually or in the aggregate, a Parent Material Adverse Effect.

4.5 Financial Capability. Parent has, and will have as of the Closing, (i) sufficient cash on hand (without giving effect to any unfunded financing regardless of whether any such financing is committed) to pay the Merger Consideration and all related fees and expenses in connection with the Transactions, (ii) the resources and capabilities (financial and otherwise) to perform its obligations hereunder and (iii) has not incurred, and as of the Closing will not have incurred, any obligation, condition, commitment, restriction or liability of any kind that would impair or adversely affect such resources and capabilities.

4.6 Solvency. Upon consummation of the Merger, Parent and the Group Companies, on a consolidated basis, will not solely as a result of the consummation of such Transaction, (i) be insolvent or have incurred debts beyond their ability to pay such debts as they mature or (ii) have unreasonably small capital with which to engage in their respective businesses. No transfer of property is being made and no obligation is being incurred in connection with the Transaction with the intent to hinder, delay or defraud either present or future creditors of the Company or any of its Subsidiaries.

4.7 Investment. Parent is acquiring the equity securities of the Group Companies for its own account and for investment purposes and not with a view to the distribution thereof. Parent acknowledges that such equity securities have not been registered under the Securities Act or any state securities Law and Parent must bear the economic risk of its investment in such securities until and unless the offer and sale of such securities is subsequently registered under the Securities Act and all applicable state securities Laws or an exemption from such registration is applicable. Parent has conducted an examination of available information relating to the Group Companies and their respective businesses, Parent has such knowledge, sophistication and experience in business and financial matters that it is capable of evaluating an investment in such securities, and Parent can bear the substantial economic risk of an investment in such securities for an indefinite period of time and can afford a complete loss of such investment.

4.8 Financial Advisors. Except as set forth on Section 4.8 of the Parent Disclosure Schedule, no Person has acted directly or indirectly, as a broker, finder, agent, investment banker or financial advisor for Parent, Merger Sub or their respective Affiliates and no Person is entitled to any fee or commission or like payment based on the arrangements made by Parent, Merger Sub or their respective Affiliates in connection with the Transaction.

4.9 No Other Representations and Warranties; No Reliance; Parent and Merger Sub Investigation.

(a) Each of Parent and Merger Sub acknowledges and agrees that, except as expressly set forth in ARTICLE II the Company makes no promise, representation or warranty, express or implied, relating to the Group Companies or any of their respective businesses, operations, assets, liabilities, conditions or prospects or the Transaction, including with respect to merchantability, fitness for any particular or ordinary purpose, or as to the accuracy or completeness of any information regarding any of the foregoing, or as to any other matter, notwithstanding the delivery or disclosure to Parent and/or Merger Sub or any of its Affiliates or representatives of any documents, opinions, projections, forecasts, statements, memorandums, presentations, advice or information (whether communicated orally or in writing), and any such other promises, representations or warranties, or liability or responsibility therefor, are hereby expressly disclaimed. In addition, each of Parent and Merger Sub acknowledges and agrees that it has not executed or authorized the execution of this Agreement in reliance upon any promise, representation or warranty not expressly set forth in ARTICLE III.

(b) In respect of this Agreement and the Transaction, neither Parent nor Merger Sub has relied or is relying on any document or written or oral information (including, but not limited to, the confidential information packet prepared by Spurrier Capital Partners), statement, representation or warranty furnished to or discovered by it or any of its Affiliates other than the representations and warranties set forth in this Agreement.

(c) Each of Parent and Merger Sub acknowledges that it has made its own inquiry and is relying on its own independent investigation and analysis in entering into the Transaction. Each of Parent and Merger Sub is knowledgeable about the industries in which the Company operates and is capable of evaluating the merits and risks of the Transaction. Each of Parent and Merger Sub has been afforded full access to the books and records, facilities and personnel of the Company for purposes of conducting a due diligence investigation and has conducted a full due diligence investigation of the Company.

ARTICLE V

5.2 Access to Information.

(a) From and after the date hereof until the earlier of the Closing Date or the termination of this Agreement in accordance with its terms, upon reasonable advance notice, and subject to the restrictions contained in the confidentiality agreements to which the Group Companies are subject, the Company shall provide to Parent and Parent's authorized representatives during normal business hours reasonable access to all books and records of the Group Companies (in a manner so as to not interfere with the normal business operations of any Group Company) for any reasonable purpose (provided, the continuation of due diligence shall not be deemed a reasonable purpose). All of such information shall be treated as confidential information pursuant to the terms of the Confidentiality Agreement. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Agreement, the Company shall not be required to disclose any competitively sensitive information or disclose any other information to Parent or its representatives if such disclosure would be reasonably likely to (x) jeopardize any attorney-client or other legal privilege, (y) contravene any applicable Laws, fiduciary duty or binding agreement entered into prior to the date hereof, or (z) if the Parties are in an adversarial relationship in litigation or arbitration (in which case the furnishing of information, documents or records contemplated by this Section 5.2(a) shall be subject to applicable rules relating to discovery) (the matters referred to in this sentence with respect to any Person, the "Access Limitations").

(b) From and after the Closing Date, in connection with any reasonable business purpose, including the determination of any matter relating to the rights or obligations of the Sellers under this Agreement, upon reasonable prior request and subject to the Access Limitations, Parent shall, and shall cause the Group Companies to, (i) afford the Representative and its authorized representatives reasonable access, during normal business hours, to the offices, properties, books, records and other documents of Parent and its Affiliates in respect of the Group Companies and (ii) make available to the Representative and its authorized representatives the employees of the Company, Parent and its Affiliates in respect of the Group Companies whose assistance, expertise, testimony, notes and recollections or presence is necessary to assist the Representative in connection with the inquiries for any of the purposes referred to above, including the presence of such Persons as witnesses in hearings or trials for such purposes; provided, however, that (x) such requests shall not unreasonably interfere with the normal operations of Parent or any of its Affiliates, (y) that the auditors and accountants of Parent or its Affiliates shall not be obligated to make any work papers (to the extent such exist) available to any Person unless and until such Person has signed a customary agreement relating to such access to work papers in form and substance reasonably acceptable to such auditors or accountants, and (z) that if the Parties are in an adversarial relationship in litigation or arbitration, the furnishing of information, documents or records contemplated by this Section 5.3(b) shall be instead subject to applicable rules relating to discovery.

(c) During the period from the date of this Agreement until the earlier of the Closing Date or the termination of this Agreement in accordance with its terms, Parent hereby agrees that it is not authorized to and shall not (and shall not permit any of its employees, agents, representatives or Affiliates to) contact any customer, supplier, distributor, officer, employee or other material business relation of any Group Company regarding the Transactions without the prior written consent of the Company.

5.3 Exclusivity. The Company and Parent agree to the following exclusivity provisions from the date hereof and until the earlier of the Closing or the termination of this Agreement (the "Exclusivity Period"):

(a) During the Exclusivity Period, the Company shall not intentionally, and will direct that its Affiliates and representatives shall not intentionally, directly or indirectly (whether or not in conjunction with a third party) solicit, encourage or initiate any offer or proposal from, or enter into, re-start, solicit, initiate or otherwise engage in any discussions or negotiations with, or seek, encourage, or respond to or provide or disclose any information to, or enter into any agreement, terms, arrangement or understanding (whether or not legally binding) with, any Person or group of Persons other than Parent, Merger Sub and their representatives with respect to any transaction involving any acquisition of or investment in, or any disposition (whether by way of sale, offer, transfer, assignment or otherwise) of, a material portion of the capital stock of the Company (or interest therein), or a material portion of the assets of the Company (any such transaction an "Alternative Transaction"), except in any such case to notify any such Person or group of Persons of the existence of this Section 5.3(a).

(b) If the Company or any of its representatives receives any bona fide proposal for, or inquiry respecting, any Alternative Transaction, or any request for nonpublic information in connection with any such Alternative Transaction, the Company will promptly notify Parent, describing in reasonable detail the identity of the Person or group of Persons making such proposal or inquiry and the terms and conditions of such proposal or inquiry.

5.4 Efforts; Regulatory Filings and Consents.

(a) Without prejudice to Parent's obligations set forth in Section 5.4(d), each of the Company, on the one hand, and Parent and Merger Sub, on the other hand, shall use its respective reasonable best efforts to take, or cause to be taken, all actions and to do, or cause to be done, and to assist and cooperate with the other Parties in doing, all things necessary, proper or advisable (i) to consummate and make effective as promptly as possible, but in no event later than the Termination Date, the Transactions, (ii) obtain or provide, or cause to be obtained, as set forth in Section 3.3(a), all consents or approvals by or notices to third parties that may be or become necessary for its execution and delivery of this Agreement and the performance of its obligations pursuant to this Agreement and the other Transaction Agreements, (iii) to obtain all Governmental Approvals of any Governmental Antitrust Authority required to be obtained by the Company, Parent or Merger Sub, or any of their respective Subsidiaries or Affiliates in connection with the Transactions or the taking of any action contemplated by this Agreement, (iv) to defend vigorously, lift, mitigate or rescind the effect of any litigation or administrative proceeding involving any Governmental Antitrust Authority (including a private party challenge) adversely affecting this Agreement or the Transactions, including promptly appealing any adverse court or administrative decision; provided, however, that neither the Company and its Affiliates, nor the Parent and Merger Sub, shall be required to make any material monetary expenditures, offer or grant any material accommodation (financial or otherwise) to any Person or commence or be a plaintiff in any litigation to satisfy their obligations under this Section 5.4(a); provided, further, that neither the Company and its Affiliates, nor the Parent and its Affiliates, shall be required to sell or otherwise dispose of any portion of the business of the Group Companies or the Parent or its Subsidiaries in order to satisfy their obligations under this Section 5.4(a).

(b) Each of the Company and Parent shall (i) as soon as reasonably practicable (and in any event within five (5) Business Days following the date of this Agreement) file or cause to be filed with the United States Federal Trade Commission (the "FTC") and the United States Department of Justice (the "DOJ") the notification and report form, if any, required for the Transactions (which form shall request early termination of the waiting period under the HSR Act) and to supply as promptly as practicable any supplemental information requested in connection therewith pursuant to the HSR Act and (ii) as soon as reasonably practicable make all filings under the applicable Other Competition Laws, if any, required for the Transactions, and shall take all other actions necessary, proper or advisable to cause the expiration or termination of the applicable waiting period under the HSR Act and the applicable Other Competition Laws. Any such antitrust notification and report form or filing and supplemental information shall be in substantial compliance with the requirements of the HSR Act or the applicable Other Competition Laws, as the case may be. All other regulatory filings shall be in substantial compliance with the requirements of applicable Law. Each of Parent and the Company shall furnish to the other Party such necessary information and reasonable assistance as the other Party may request in connection with its preparation of any filing or submission that is necessary under the HSR Act, the applicable Other Competition Laws or other applicable Law, as the case may be. The Company and Parent shall use reasonable best efforts to comply promptly with any inquiries or requests for additional information from the FTC, the DOJ or other Governmental Antitrust Authorities and any other Governmental Authority having jurisdiction.

(c) Without limiting the generality of the undertakings set forth in Sections 5.4(a), 5.4(b) and 5.4(e) and subject to any appropriate confidentiality protections, the Company, on the one hand, and Parent and Merger Sub, on the other hand, shall each furnish to the other such necessary information and reasonable assistance as the other may reasonably request in connection with Section 5.4(b) and shall each promptly provide counsel for the other Party with copies of all filings made by such Party, and all correspondence between such Party (and its advisors) with any Governmental Antitrust Authority, other Governmental Authority or, in connection with any proceeding by a private party, and any other information supplied by such Party and such Party's Affiliates to a Governmental Antitrust Authority or other Governmental Authority in connection with this Agreement and the Transactions. Subject to applicable Law, the Company and Parent shall permit counsel for the other Party reasonable opportunity to review in advance, and shall consider in good faith the views of the other Party in connection with, any proposed written or, if practicable, oral communication to any Governmental Antitrust Authority or other Governmental Authority relating to the Transactions. Each of the Company and Parent agrees not to participate in any substantive meeting or discussion, either in person or by telephone, with any Governmental Antitrust Authority or other Governmental Authority in connection with the Transactions unless it consults with the other Party in advance and, to the extent not prohibited by such Governmental Antitrust Authority or other Governmental Authority, gives the other Party the opportunity to attend and participate.

(d) Without expanding any obligation set forth under this Section 5.4, Parent agrees to consider, on behalf of itself and its Affiliates and, as determined in its good faith, to take, or cause to be taken, such reasonable actions with respect to the Group Companies, post-Closing, that are identified by any Governmental Antitrust Authority as a condition to the granting of any Governmental Approval necessary for the consummation of the Transactions or as may be required to avoid, lift, vacate, reverse or resolve any legislative, administrative or judicial action (including any suit instituted (or threatened to be instituted) by the FTC, the DOJ or any other applicable Governmental Authority or any private party challenging the Transactions as a violation of the HSR Act or Other Competition Laws) that would otherwise reasonably be expected to materially impair or delay the consummation of the Transactions. Parent's consideration of any such reasonable action shall be undertaken in good faith, and if, after such good-faith consideration, Parent and its Affiliates determine that they will not undertake the action, such decision shall not constitute a breach of this Agreement. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Group Companies understand and acknowledge that neither Parent, nor any of its Affiliates, will depreciate, sacrifice, limit, alter or cannibalize the pre-Closing existing lines of business or operations of the Parent and its Affiliates, even if such action is identified as a condition for consummation of the Transactions by a Governmental Antitrust Authority. Nothing contained in this Agreement shall be construed so as to require Parent or any of its Affiliates (other than, after the Closing, the Group Companies, to the extent such action is determined and agreed to by Parent under this Section 5.4(d)), to (i) sell, license, dispose of, hold separate or operate in any specified manner any of its respective assets or businesses (or to discuss, agree or commit to any of the foregoing), other than assets or businesses of the Group Companies, or (ii) enter into any consent decree, Order or agreement that alters its business or commercial practices in any way or that in any way limits or could reasonably be expected to limit the right of Parent to own, operate or retain all or any portion of Parent's assets, properties or businesses (other than, after the Closing, the Group Companies) or Parent's freedom of action with respect thereto. Further, Parent and/or its Affiliates shall be under no obligation to take such action as identified by a Governmental Antitrust Authority if not agreed to by the Company. To the extent Parent and/or its Affiliates do decide to take such action as identified by a Governmental Antitrust Authority with respect to the Group Companies, such action, provided it has been agreed to by the Company, shall not constitute a violation of Section 1.15(c).

(e) Without limiting any other obligation under this Agreement, during the period from the date of this Agreement until the Closing Date, Parent, Merger Sub and their respective Subsidiaries and Affiliates shall not take or agree to take any action that would reasonably be expected to prevent or delay the Parties from obtaining any Governmental Approval in connection with the Transactions, including entering into an agreement to acquire (whether via merger, consolidation, stock or asset purchase or otherwise) any material amount of assets of or any equity in any other Person or any business or division thereof if such agreement would be reasonably expected to create a material risk of making it more difficult to obtain the Governmental Approval of the FTC or DOJ or any other Governmental Antitrust Authority required in connection with the Transactions.

(f) The Company shall be responsible for all fees and expenses incurred with obtaining any consents or approvals from third parties or giving notices as set forth in clause (ii) of Section 5.4(a) (provided, however, that any such fees and expenses shall be paid by the Company in full prior to the Closing or accrued in full on the books and records of the Company prior to the Closing). Parent (i) shall be responsible for the filing of the Certificate of Merger and (ii) shall pay the filing fee under the HSR Act. Each of the Company and Parent shall otherwise be responsible for their respective fees and expenses in connection with their respective filings under the HSR Act.

5.5 Notification of Certain Matters The Company shall give notice to Parent and Parent shall give notice to the Company, as promptly as reasonably practicable, upon becoming aware of (a) any fact, change, condition, circumstance, event, occurrence, or non-occurrence that has caused or is reasonably likely to cause any representation or warranty in this Agreement made by it to be untrue or inaccurate in any material respect at any time after the date of this Agreement and before the Effective Time that would cause the conditions set forth in Sections 6.2(a) and 6.2(b) or Sections 6.3(a) and 6.3(b), as applicable, not to be satisfied as of the Closing Date, (b) any material failure on its part to comply with or satisfy any covenant, condition or agreement to be complied with or satisfied by it under this Agreement, or (c) the institution of or a credible written threat of institution of any Legal Proceeding related to this Agreement or the Merger; provided, however, that the delivery of any notice in accordance with this Section 5.5 shall not limit or otherwise affect the remedies available under this Agreement to such Party (including the right to seek indemnification in accordance with ARTICLE VII or ARTICLE IX and the rights of the Representative to seek indemnification in accordance with Section 10.13), the representations or warranties of the Parties, or the conditions to the obligations of the Parties; provided further, however, that the unintentional failure to give notice under this Section 5.5 will not be deemed to be a breach of covenant under this Section 5.5 and will constitute only a breach of the underlying representation, warranty, condition or agreement, as the case may be.

5.6 Confidentiality. Each of Parent and Merger Sub acknowledges that the information provided to it and its representatives in connection with this Agreement (including Section 5.2(a)) and the Transaction is subject to the terms of the Confidentiality Agreement, dated September 19, 2018, by and between Parent and MicroPact, Inc. (the "Confidentiality Agreement"), the terms of which are incorporated herein by reference.

5.7 Preservation of Records. In addition to and not in limitation of the provisions of Section 5.2(a), Parent agrees to preserve and keep the records relating to the businesses of the Group Companies for a period of seven (7) years from the Closing Date and shall make such records and personnel available to the Representative as may be reasonably requested in connection with, among other things, any insurance claims by, Legal Proceedings (other than Legal Proceedings between the Representative and Parent related to this Agreement or the Transaction) or tax audits against, or governmental investigations of, the Group Companies or in order to enable the Representative to comply with its obligations under this Agreement and each other Transaction Agreement.

5.8 Publicity. None of the Representative or, prior to the Closing, the Company, on the one hand, or Parent, Merger Sub or, following the Closing, the Surviving Company, on the other hand, shall issue any press release or public announcement concerning this Agreement, the other Transaction Agreements or the Transaction or make any other public disclosure containing or pertaining to the terms of this Agreement without obtaining the Representative's or Parent's, as applicable, prior written approval, which approval will not be unreasonably withheld or delayed, unless, in the judgment of the Party seeking to disclose, disclosure is otherwise required by applicable Law or by the applicable rules of any stock exchange on which such disclosing Party lists securities; provided that, to the extent any disclosure is required by applicable Law or stock exchange rule, the Party intending to make such disclosure shall use its commercially reasonable efforts consistent with applicable Law or stock exchange rule to consult with the Representative or Parent, as applicable, with respect to the text thereof and; provided, further, that (i) the Company and Representative, on the one hand, and Parent and its equityholders and Affiliates, on the other hand, shall be entitled to disclose such information to their respective directors, officers, executive employees, equity owners, partners, prospective partners, investors, prospective investors, professional advisors and lenders who have a need to know the information and who agree to keep such information confidential or are otherwise bound to confidentiality and (ii) Parent's financing sources and other professional advisors may publish "tombstones" or other customary announcements which do not contain pricing details that are not otherwise publicly available.

5.9 Director and Officer Liability; Indemnification.

(a) For a period of six (6) years after the Closing, Parent shall cause the Group Companies, to the fullest extent provided in the Organizational Documents thereof or in any other agreements disclosed on Section 5.9 of the Company Disclosure Schedule, in each case as in effect immediately prior to the Effective Time, to indemnify and hold harmless (and advance applicable expenses to) each Person who is as of the Effective Time, or has been at any time prior to the Effective Time, an officer, manager or director of a Group Company (each, a "D&O Indemnified Person") against any costs or expenses (including attorneys' fees) incurred in connection with any claim, threatened, pending or completed, whether civil, criminal, administrative or investigative, or Losses arising out of or pertaining to matters existing or occurring at or prior to the Closing Date and relating to the fact that the D&O Indemnified Person was an officer, manager or director of any Group Company.

(b) Prior to the Effective Time, the Company shall purchase and maintain in effect beginning on the Closing Date, and with a claims period of six (6) years thereafter without any lapses in coverage, a "tail" policy providing directors' and officers' liability insurance coverage for the benefit of those Persons who are covered by any Group Company's directors' and officers' liability insurance policies as of the date hereof or at the Closing with respect to matters occurring prior to the Effective Time. Such policy shall provide coverage that is at least equal to the coverage provided under the Group Companies' current directors' and officers' liability insurance policies; provided that the Company may substitute therefor policies of at least the same coverage containing terms and conditions which are no less advantageous to the beneficiaries thereof so long as such substitution does not result in gaps or lapses in coverage with respect to matters occurring prior to the Closing Date. The premium amounts for such tail policies shall be fully paid by the Company prior to the Closing or included as a Transaction Expense. Any such tail policies shall include a successor endorsement that names Parent and the Surviving Company as additional insureds. During the term of such tail policies, neither Parent nor the Surviving Company shall take any action following the Closing to cause any such tail policy to be cancelled or any provision therein to be amended or waived.

(c) If Parent, the Surviving Company, any of the Operating Subsidiaries or any of their respective successors or assigns (i) consolidates with or merges into any other Person and is not the continuing or surviving corporation or entity of such consolidation or merger or (ii) transfers or conveys all or substantially all of its properties and other assets to any Person, then, and in each such case, Parent shall cause proper provision to be made so that the applicable successors and assigns or transferees expressly assume the obligations set forth in this Section 5.9.

5.10 Stockholder Approval. Concurrently with the execution of this Agreement, the Company has delivered to Parent the resolutions of the stockholders of the Company representing the Requisite Stockholder Approval.

5.11 Restrictive Covenants Agreements. Contemporaneously with the execution of this Agreement, as a material inducement to Parent's execution of this Agreement, each of those holders of Common Stock who are employees of any Group Company as of the date of this Agreement and whose names are set forth on Section 5.11 of the Parent Disclosure Schedule (the "Employee Sellers"), shall have entered into a Restrictive Covenants Agreement, to be effective upon the Closing Date subject to consummation of the Merger, in form and substance reasonably satisfactory to Parent (each, a "Restrictive Covenant Agreement").

5.12 Employees.

(a) Contemporaneously with the execution of this Agreement, as a material inducement to Parent's execution of this Agreement, the Company shall have entered into a mutually acceptable Employment Agreement with each of the individuals identified on Section 5.12(a) of the Parent Disclosure Schedule (the "Key Employees").

(b) The Company shall be responsible for the payment of any Change of Control Payments that are payable by any Group Company to any employee solely as a result of the occurrence of the Merger; provided, however, that any such Change of Control Payments shall be paid by the applicable Group Company in full on or before the Closing or included as a Transaction Expense to be paid at the Closing; and, provided further, that in no event shall any of the following be considered Change of Control Payments: (i) any payments made pursuant to any offer letter or any Contract entered into by a Group Company with any employee of the Company at the direction of Parent, and (ii) any bonus or other similar payments to any employee of a Group Company pursuant to any agreement or arrangement adopted or entered into by Parent, the Surviving Company or any of their Affiliates, or directed by Parent after the Effective Time.

(c) Prior to the Closing Date, the Company shall cause any written employment agreement between a Group Company and the individuals listed on Section 5.12(c) of the Parent Disclosure Schedule to have been terminated effective no later than as of the Effective Time, and the Company shall provide documentation thereof reasonably satisfactory to Parent.

5.13 Corporate Records.

(a) On or before the Closing, the Company shall exercise commercially reasonable efforts to deliver or caused to be delivered to Parent, each dated within a reasonable time prior to the Closing, (i) certificates of registration or qualification of each domestic Group Company from the Secretary of State (or comparable Governmental Authority) of each state other than its jurisdiction of organization in which, as set forth on Section 3.23 of the Company Disclosure Schedule, it is registered or qualified to do business, and (ii) a legal existence or good standing certificate for each domestic Operating Subsidiary from the Secretary of State (or comparable Governmental Authority) of its jurisdiction of organization, as set forth on Section 3.4(b) of the Company Disclosure Schedule.

(b) The Representative shall cause to be delivered to Parent, within ten (10) days after the Closing, all minute books of the Company in its possession.

(c) Prior to the Closing Date, the Company shall execute and deliver to Parent, or cause the applicable Group Company or Group Companies to execute and deliver to Parent, a letter or other document, in form and substance reasonably satisfactory to Parent, necessary and appropriate to change, at Parent's sole cost and expense, the broker of record with respect to any of the Group Companies' claims-made insurance policies listed on Section 3.22 of the Company Disclosure Schedule to be effective upon the Closing Date.

ARTICLE VI CONDITIONS TO CLOSING

6.1 Conditions to the Obligations of the Company, Parent and Merger Sub The obligations of the Company, Parent and Merger Sub to effect the Closing and to consummate the Transaction are subject to the satisfaction (or, if permitted by applicable Law, waiver in writing by the Party for whose benefit such condition exists) of the following conditions:

(a) any applicable waiting period under the HSR Act relating to the Transaction shall have expired or been terminated; and

(b) there shall not be in effect any Law or Order of a Governmental Authority of competent jurisdiction in the United States directing that the Transaction not be consummated as provided herein or which has the effect of rendering it impossible or illegal to consummate the Transaction; provided, however, that Parent shall have taken all actions required by Section 5.3(a) to prevent the occurrence or entry of any such Law or Order and to remove or appeal as promptly as possible any such Law or Order.

6.2 Other Conditions to the Obligations of Parent and Merger Sub The obligations of Parent and Merger Sub to effect the Closing and to consummate the Transaction are subject to the satisfaction (or, if permitted by applicable Law, waiver in writing by Parent) of the following further conditions:

(a) the Fundamental Representations shall be true and correct in all respects (in the case of any such representation or warranty qualified by materiality or Company Material Adverse Effect) or in all material respects (in the case of any representation or warranty not qualified by materiality or Company Material Adverse Effect) as of the date of this Agreement and on and as of the Closing Date as though made on and as of the Closing Date (other than such representations and warranties that are made on and as of a specified date, in which case such representations and warranties shall be true and correct only as of the specified date);

(b) the representations and warranties of the Company set forth in ARTICLE III (other than those referred to in Section 6.2(a)) shall be true and correct as of the date of this Agreement and on and as of the Closing Date as though made on and as of the Closing Date (other than such representations and warranties that are made on and as of a specified date, in which case such representations and warranties shall be so true and correct only as of the specified date), except to the extent that the facts, events and circumstances that cause such representations and warranties to not be true and correct as of such dates have not had a Company Material Adverse Effect (provided that for the purposes of the foregoing clause, qualifications as to materiality and Company Material Adverse Effect contained in such representations and warranties shall not be given effect);

(c) the Company shall have performed and complied in all material respects with all covenants required to be performed or complied with by the Company under this Agreement on or prior to the Closing Date;

(d) since the date hereof, there shall not have occurred a Company Material Adverse Effect; and

(e) prior to or at the Closing, the Company shall have delivered to Parent a certificate of an authorized officer of the Company, dated as of the Closing Date, in form and substance reasonably acceptable to Parent, to the effect that the conditions specified in Sections 6.2(a), 6.2(b), 6.2(c) and 6.2(d) have been satisfied.

6.3 Other Conditions to the Obligations of the Company The obligations of the Company to effect the Closing and to consummate the Transaction are subject to the satisfaction (or, if permitted by applicable Law, waiver in writing by the Representative) of the following further conditions:

(a) the representations and warranties of Parent and Merger Sub set forth in Section 4.1 (Organization and Power), Section 4.2 (Authorization of Agreement) and Section 4.8 (Financial Advisors) shall be true and correct in all respects (in the case of any such representation or warranty qualified by materiality or Parent Material Adverse Effect) or in all material respects (in the case of any representation or warranty not qualified by materiality or Parent Material Adverse Effect) as of the date of this Agreement and on and as of the Closing Date (other than such representations and warranties that are made on and as of a specified date, in which case such representations and warranties shall be true and correct only as of the specified date);

(b) the representations and warranties of Parent and Merger Sub set forth in ARTICLE IV (other than those referred to in Section 6.3(a)) shall be true and correct on and as of the Closing Date as of the date of this Agreement and on and as of the Closing Date (other than such representations and warranties that are made on and as of a specified date, in which case such representations and warranties shall be true and correct only as of the specified date), except to the extent that the facts, events and circumstances that cause such representations and warranties to not be true and correct as of such dates have not had a Parent Material Adverse Effect (provided that for the purposes of the foregoing clause, qualifications as to materiality and Parent Material Adverse Effect contained in such representations and warranties shall not be given effect);

(c) Parent and Merger Sub shall have performed and complied in all material respects with all covenants required to be performed or complied with by it under this Agreement on or prior to the Closing Date; and

(d) prior to or at the Closing, Parent shall have delivered to the Representative a certificate of an authorized officer of Parent, dated as of the Closing Date, in form and substance reasonably acceptable to the Representative, to the effect that the conditions specified in Sections 6.3(a), 6.3(b) and 6.3(c) have been satisfied.

5.4 Frustration of Closing Conditions. No Party may rely on the failure of any condition set forth in this ARTICLE VI to be satisfied if such failure was caused by such Party's failure to use best efforts to cause the Closing to occur, as required by Section 5.3(a).

ARTICLE VII TERMINATION

7.1 Termination.

(a) This Agreement may be terminated and the Transaction may be abandoned at any time prior to the Closing:

(i) by mutual written consent of Parent and the Representative;

(ii) by either the Representative or Parent, if any Governmental Authority of competent jurisdiction in the United States shall have issued an Order or taken any other action restraining, enjoining or otherwise prohibiting the Transaction (after giving effect to Parent's and Merger Sub's respective obligations under Section 5.4) and such Order or other action shall have become final and nonappealable;

(iii) by either the Representative or Parent, if the Closing does not occur on or prior to May 1, 2019 (such date, as it may be extended by the written mutual agreement of the Parties or as provided in this Section 7.1(a)(iii), the "Termination Date"); provided, however, that the right to terminate this Agreement pursuant to this Section 7.1(a)(iii) shall not be available to any Party whose breach of any provision of this Agreement has been a principal cause of, or resulted in, the failure of the Closing to occur on or before the Termination Date; and, provided further, that, if at any time prior to the Termination Date the DOJ or the FTC makes a request for additional information or documentary materials from either or both of the Company or Parent authorized by Section 7A(e) of the Clayton Act (a "Second Request"), then the Termination Date shall be extended for an additional sixty (60) days unless Parent and the Representative by mutual written consent agree not to extend the Termination Date;

(iv) by the Representative, upon written notice to Parent, if there shall have been a breach of any of the representations, warranties, agreements or covenants set forth in this Agreement on the part of Parent or Merger Sub or any of such representations and warranties shall have become untrue in a manner that would result in any conditions set forth in Sections 6.3(a), 6.3(b) or 6.3(c) not being satisfied prior to the Termination Date, such breach or inaccuracy has not been waived by the Representative, and the breach or inaccuracy, if capable of being cured, has not been cured within thirty (30) days following the Representative's written notice to Parent of such breach or inaccuracy or is not capable of being cured on or prior to the Termination Date; provided that the right to terminate this Agreement under this Section 7.1(a)(iv) shall not be available to the Representative if the Company is then in material breach of any representation, warranty, covenant, or other agreement contained herein;

(v) by Parent, upon written notice to the Representative, if there shall have been a breach of any of the representations, warranties, agreements or covenants set forth in this Agreement on the part of the Company or any of such representations and warranties shall have become untrue in a manner that would result in any conditions set forth in Sections 6.2(a), 6.2(b) or 6.2(c) not being satisfied prior to the Termination Date, such breach or inaccuracy has not been waived by Parent, and the breach or inaccuracy, if capable of being cured, has not been cured within thirty (30) days following Parent's written notice to the Representative of such breach or inaccuracy or is not capable of being cured on or prior to the Termination Date; provided that the right to terminate this Agreement under this Section 7.1(a)(v) shall not be available to Parent if it is then in material breach of any representation, warranty, covenant, or other agreement contained herein;

(vi) by Parent if there has been a Company Material Adverse Effect since the date hereof;

(vii) by the Representative, whether or not the Representative or the Company has sought or is entitled to seek specific performance pursuant to Section 10.10, if (A) all of the conditions set forth in Sections 6.1 and 6.2 have been satisfied or waived (other than those conditions which by their terms cannot be satisfied until the Closing and those conditions that Parent's breach has caused not to be satisfied) and (B) Parent fails to consummate the Transactions within three (3) Business Days following the date on which the Closing was required to have occurred pursuant to Section 2.1; or (viii) by the Company if there has been a Parent Material Adverse Effect since the date hereof.

(b) In the event of termination by the Representative or Parent pursuant to this Section 7.1, written notice thereof shall forthwith be given to the other and the Transaction shall be terminated, without further action by any Party. If the Transactions are terminated as provided herein, Parent shall return to the Company or destroy all documents and other material received from the Company or the Representative relating to the Transaction, whether so obtained before or after the execution hereof.

7.2 Effect of Termination. If this Agreement is terminated and the Transaction is abandoned as described in Section 7.1, this Agreement shall become null and void and of no further force and effect, without any liability or obligation on the part of any Party or their respective directors, officers, employees, owners, representatives or Affiliates, and the Transaction shall be abandoned without further action by the Parties, except for (i) the penultimate sentence of Section 5.2(a) (Access to Information) and (ii) Sections 7.2 (Effect of Termination) and ARTICLE X (Miscellaneous), each of which, shall survive such termination. Nothing in this Section 7.2, however, shall be deemed to release any Party from any liability for any willful breach by such Party of the terms and provisions of this Agreement prior to termination. For purposes of this Sections 7.2, "willful" shall mean a breach that is a consequence of an act undertaken by the breaching Party with the knowledge (actual or constructive) that the taking of such act would, or would be reasonably expected to, cause a breach of this Agreement.

ARTICLE VIII TAX MATTERS

8.1 Intended Tax Treatment. The Parties are entering into this Agreement with the intention that the Merger qualify as a taxable purchase of the stock of the Company for federal income tax purposes, and none of the Parties or any Seller will take any position or actions inconsistent with such treatment.

8.2 Cooperation and Exchange of Information. The Representative, the Surviving Company, and Parent shall provide each other with such cooperation and information as any of them reasonably may request of the others, and at the sole cost and expense of the requesting party, in preparing or filing any Tax Return pursuant to this ARTICLE VI or in connection with any audit, examination or other Legal Proceeding in respect of Taxes of the Group Companies. Such cooperation and information shall include providing powers of attorney, copies of relevant Tax Returns or portions thereof, together with accompanying schedules, related work papers and documents relating to rulings or other determinations by tax authorities. Each of the Representative, the Surviving Company, and Parent shall retain all Tax Returns, schedules and work papers, records and other documents in its possession relating to Tax matters of The Company for any Taxable period beginning before the Closing Date until the expiration of the statute of limitations of the Taxable periods to which such Tax Returns and other documents relate, without regard to extensions except to the extent notified by any of the other parties in writing of such extensions for the respective Tax periods.

8.3 Tax Returns.

(a) The Company shall prepare and timely file, or cause to be prepared and timely filed, all Tax Returns of the Group Companies required to be filed by it that are due on or before the Closing Date (taking into account any extensions), and shall timely pay all Taxes that are due and payable on or before the Closing Date (taking into account any extensions). Any such Tax Return shall be prepared in a manner consistent with past practice (unless otherwise required by applicable Tax Law).

(b) The Representative shall prepare and timely file, or cause to be prepared and timely filed, all Tax Returns required to be filed by the Group Companies after the Closing Date with respect to a Pre-Closing Tax Period (a Seller Tax Return). Any such Seller Tax Return shall be prepared in a manner consistent with the Group Companies' past practice (unless otherwise required by Law) and, if it is an income or other material Tax Return, shall be submitted by the Representative to Parent (together with schedules, statements and, to the extent requested by Parent, supporting documentation) at least forty-five (45) days prior to the due date (including extensions) of such Tax Return. If Parent objects to any item on any such Seller Tax Return, Parent shall, within thirty (30) days after delivery of such Tax Return, notify the Representative in writing that it so objects, specifying with reasonable particularity any such item and stating with reasonable specificity the factual or legal basis for any such objection. If a notice of objection shall be duly delivered, Parent and the Representative shall negotiate in good faith and use their commercially reasonable best efforts to resolve such items. If Parent and the Representative are unable to reach such agreement within ten (10) days after receipt by the Representative of such notice, the disputed items shall be resolved by the Accounting Referee and any determination by the Accounting Referee shall be final. The Accounting Referee shall resolve any disputed items within twenty (20) days of having the item referred to it pursuant to such procedures as it may require. If the Accounting Referee is unable to resolve any disputed items before the due date for such Tax Return, the Tax Return shall be filed as prepared by the Representative and then amended to reflect the Accounting Referee's resolution. The costs, fees, and expenses of the Accounting Referee shall ultimately be borne by Parent, on the one hand, and the Sellers, on the other hand, in the same proportion as the aggregate amount of the disputed items that is unsuccessfully disputed (as determined by the Accounting Referee) by Parent and the Representative (on behalf of the Sellers), as applicable, bears to the total amount of the disputed items submitted to the Accounting Referee. Except as provided in the preceding sentence, all other costs and expenses incurred by the Parties in connection with resolving any dispute hereunder before the Accounting Referee shall be borne by the Party incurring such cost and expense.

(c) Parent shall prepare and timely file, or cause to be prepared and timely filed, all Tax Returns required to be filed by the Group Companies after the Closing Date with respect to a Straddle Period (a Parent Tax Return). Any such Parent Tax Return shall be prepared in a manner consistent with the Group Companies' past practice (unless otherwise required by Law) and, if it is an income or other material Tax Return, shall be submitted by Parent to the Representative (together with schedules, statements and, to the extent requested by the Representative, supporting documentation) at least forty-five (45) days prior to the due date (including extensions) of such Tax Return. If the Representative objects to any item on any such Parent Tax Return that relates to a Pre-Closing Tax Period, the Representative shall, within thirty (30) days after delivery of such Tax Return, notify Parent in writing that it so objects, specifying with reasonable particularity any such item and stating with reasonable specificity the factual or legal basis for any such objection. If a notice of objection shall be duly delivered, Parent and the Representative shall negotiate in good faith and use their commercially reasonable best efforts to resolve such items. If Parent and the Representative are unable to reach such agreement within ten days after receipt by Parent of such notice, the disputed items shall be resolved by the Accounting Referee and any determination by the Accounting Referee shall be final. The Accounting Referee shall resolve any disputed items within twenty (20) days of having the item referred to it pursuant to such procedures as it may require. If the Accounting Referee is unable to resolve any disputed items before the due date for such Tax Return, the Tax Return shall be filed as prepared by Parent and then amended to reflect the Accounting Referee's resolution. The costs, fees, and expenses of the Accounting Referee shall ultimately be borne by Parent, on the one hand, and the Sellers, on the other hand, in the same proportion as the aggregate amount of the disputed items that is unsuccessfully disputed (as determined by the Accounting Referee) by Parent and the Representative (on behalf of the Sellers), as applicable, bears to the total amount of the disputed items submitted to the Accounting Referee. Except as provided in the preceding sentence, all other costs and expenses incurred by the Parties in connection with resolving any dispute hereunder before the Accounting Referee shall be borne by the Party incurring such cost and expense. The preparation and filing of any Tax Return of the Group Companies that does not relate to a Straddle Period shall be exclusively within the control of Parent.

8.4 Straddle Period Taxes. To the extent permissible under applicable Laws, the Parties agree to elect (and have the Company and each Operating Subsidiary elect) to have each Tax year of the Company and each Operating Subsidiary to end on the Closing Date and, if such election is not permitted or required in a jurisdiction with respect to a specific Tax such that the Company or any Operating Subsidiary is required to file a Tax Return for a Straddle Period, to utilize the following conventions for determining the amount of Taxes attributable to the portion of the Straddle Period ending on the Closing Date: (i) in the case of property Taxes and other similar Taxes imposed on a periodic basis, the amount attributable to the portion of the Straddle Period ending on the Closing Date shall equal the Taxes for the entire Straddle Period multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is the number of calendar days in the portion of the period ending on the Closing Date and the denominator of which is the total number of calendar days in the entire Straddle Period; and (ii) in the case of all other Taxes (including income Taxes, sales Taxes, employment Taxes, withholding Taxes, etc.), the amount attributable to the portion of the Straddle Period ending on the Closing Date shall be determined as if the Company or Operating Subsidiary filed a separate Tax Return with respect to such Taxes for the portion of the Straddle Period ending on and as of the end of the day on the Closing Date using a "closing of the books methodology." For purposes of clause (ii), (A) any item determined on an annual or periodic basis (including amortization and depreciation deductions) shall be allocated to the portion of the Straddle Period ending on the Closing Date based on the relative number of days in such portion of the Straddle Period ending on the Closing Date as compared to the number of days in the entire Straddle Period; and (B) any item (or Tax) resulting from a Parent Closing Date Transaction shall be attributed to the portion of the Straddle Period beginning after the Closing Date. For the avoidance of doubt, for purposes of allocating amounts required to be included by Parent or any Group Company in income under Section 951(a) or 951A of the Code with respect to any Straddle Period of a foreign Group Company, the taxable year of the relevant foreign Operating Subsidiary giving rise to the income required to be included shall be deemed to close on the Closing Date in the same manner as described above.

8.5 Contests. Parent agrees to give written notice to the Representative of the receipt of any written notice by a Group Company or the Surviving Company, Parent, or any of Parent's Affiliates which involves the assertion of any claim, or the commencement of any Legal Proceeding, in each case relating to Taxes and in respect of which an indemnity may be sought by Parent pursuant to Section 8.10 (a "Tax Claim"); provided that failure to comply with this provision shall not affect Parent's right to indemnification hereunder, except to the extent that the Sellers are materially prejudiced thereby. The Representative shall control the contest or resolution of any Tax Claim that relates solely to a Pre-Closing Tax Period (a "Seller Tax Claim"); provided, however, that the Representative shall obtain the prior written consent of Parent (which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld, conditioned, or delayed) before entering into any settlement of a Seller Tax Claim or ceasing to defend such Seller Tax Claim; and, provided, further, that Parent shall be entitled to participate in the defense of such Seller Tax Claim and to employ counsel of its choice for such purpose, the fees and expenses of which separate counsel shall be borne solely by Parent. Parent shall control the contest or resolution of any Tax Claim that relates to a Straddle Period (a "Parent Tax Claim"); provided, however, that Parent shall obtain the prior written consent of Representative (which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld, conditioned, or delayed) before entering into any settlement of a Parent Tax Claim or ceasing to defend such Parent Tax Claim; and, provided, further, that Representative shall be entitled to participate in the defense of such Parent Tax Claim and to employ counsel of its choice for such purpose, the fees and expenses of which separate counsel shall be borne solely by Representative (on behalf of the Sellers).

8.6 338(g) Elections. Neither Parent nor any Group Company shall make an election under Section 338(g) of the Code with respect to the Transactions, or make any other Tax election or take any other action that has the effect of increasing the amount of Taxes attributable to a Pre-Closing Tax Period.

8.7 Other Tax Matters. Parent shall cause the Group Companies that are U.S. entities to join Parent's "consolidated group" (as defined in Treasury Regulation Section 1.1502-76(h)) effective on the day after the Closing Date.

8.8 Transfer Taxes. Any Transfer Taxes payable in connection with the Transaction shall be borne solely by Parent. Except as otherwise required by Law, Parent shall duly and timely prepare and file any Tax Return relating to such Taxes. Parent shall give the Representative a copy of each such Tax Return for its review and comments at least fifteen (15) days prior to filing and shall give the Representative a copy of such Tax Return as filed, together with proof of payment of the Taxes shown thereon to be payable. The Parties further agree, upon request, to use their reasonable best efforts to obtain any certificate or other document from any Governmental Authority responsible for Taxes or any other Person as may be necessary to mitigate, reduce, or eliminate any Transfer Taxes (to the extent applicable) that could be imposed with the transactions contemplated under this Agreement.

8.9 Tax Refunds. Parent shall cause the Company to pay to the Representative for the benefit of the stockholders of the Company, promptly upon receipt thereof, any and all refunds of Taxes (including interest thereon if any received from any Governmental Authority with respect to such refund) received after the Closing Date with respect to, or attributable to any Pre-Closing Tax Period, except to the extent that such refund (i) arises as the result of a carryback of a loss or other Tax benefit from a period or portion thereof beginning after the Closing Date or (ii) is included in the calculation of Working Capital.

8.10 Tax Indemnification. Except to the extent treated as a liability in the calculation of Working Capital, Sellers shall (severally, but not jointly, based on each Seller's Pro Rata Share) indemnify Parent, the Surviving Company, and each Purchase Indemnitee and hold them harmless from and against (a) all income Taxes of the Group Companies or relating to the business of the Group Companies for all Pre-Closing Tax Periods; (b) all income Taxes of any member of an affiliated, consolidated, combined, or unitary group of which a Group Company (or any predecessor of a Group Company) is or was a member on or prior to the Closing Date by reason of a liability under Treasury Regulation Section 1.1502-6 or any comparable provisions of foreign, state, or local Law; (c) all income Taxes of any person imposed on a Group Company arising under the principles of transferee or successor liability or by Contract (other than a Contract entered into in the Ordinary Course of Business that does not primarily relate to Taxes), relating to an event or transaction occurring before the Closing Date, and (d) all Taxes arising from the transactions contemplated by this Agreement and incurred by a Group Company (except to the extent otherwise set forth in this Agreement) with respect to any Pre-Closing Tax Period, excluding, for the avoidance of doubt, all Transfer Taxes. In each of the above cases, Sellers shall (severally, but not jointly, based on each Seller's Pro Rata Share) reimburse Parent for any Taxes of the Group Companies that are the responsibility of Sellers pursuant to this Section 8.10 within sixty (60) Business Days after Parent or the Surviving Company provides written notice to the Representative of the payment of such Taxes, which notice shall set forth the amount and type of such Taxes with reasonable specificity, and certified evidence of payment thereof. The limitations on indemnification set forth in Section 9.4, including the limitations set forth in Section 9.4(a) and Section 9.4(b), shall apply to this Section 8.10 mutatis mutandis.

8.11 Tax Treatment of Indemnification Payments. Any indemnification payments pursuant to this Agreement shall be treated by the Parties as an adjustment for Tax purposes to the Merger Consideration, unless otherwise required by applicable Tax Law.

8.12 Survival. Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement to the contrary, the provisions of this ARTICLE VII shall survive until the earlier of (A) the expiration of all applicable statutes of limitations (giving effect to any waiver, mitigation, or extension thereof) plus 60 days and (B) the six (6)-year anniversary of the Closing Date.

8.13 Overlap. To the extent that any obligation or responsibility pursuant to ARTICLE IX may overlap with an obligation or responsibility pursuant to this ARTICLE VIII, the provisions of this ARTICLE VIII shall govern. The indemnities of Sellers set forth in this ARTICLE VII and the indemnities of Sellers set forth in ARTICLE IX to the extent relating to Taxes, shall be applied without duplication.

ARTICLE IX INDEMNIFICATION

9.1 Survival of Representations and Covenants Except as otherwise set forth in this Section 9.1, the representations and warranties of the Company, Parent and Merger Sub contained in ARTICLE III and ARTICLE IV, or in any certificate delivered pursuant to Section 6.2(c) or Section 6.3(d), shall survive the Closing until March 15, 2020. The representations and warranties in Section 3.1 (Organization and Power), Section 3.2 (Authorization of Agreement), Section 3.4 (Capitalization; Operating Subsidiaries), Section 3.24 (Financial Advisors), Section 4.1 (Organization and Power), Section 4.2 (Authorization of Agreement), Section 4.5 (Financial Capability), Section 4.6 (Solvency), and Section 4.8 (Financial Advisors) (collectively, the "Fundamental Representations") shall survive until the earlier of (A) the expiration of the statute of limitations applicable for breach of contract claims in the State of Delaware and (B) the six (6)-year anniversary of the Closing Date. The representations and warranties contained in Section 3.10 (Taxes) shall survive until the earlier of (A) the expiration of all applicable statutes of limitations (giving effect to any waiver, mitigation, or extension thereof) plus 60 days and (B) the six (6)-year anniversary of the Closing Date. All covenants set forth herein to be performed prior to or at the Closing shall terminate at the Closing, and all other covenants set forth herein to be performed after the Closing shall survive the Closing in accordance with their respective terms. It is the express intent of the Parties that, if an applicable survival period set forth in this Section 9.1 is shorter than the statute of limitations that would otherwise apply, then, by contract, the applicable statute of limitations shall be reduced to the survival period contemplated hereby. Any claim for indemnity under this Agreement with respect to any breach of any representation, warranty or covenant shall be deemed time-barred, and no such claim shall be made after the survival period specified in this Section 9.1; provided, however, that if a claim notice is delivered in good faith pursuant to and in accordance with the requirements of this ARTICLE IX with respect to any breach of any representation, warranty or covenant prior to the expiration of the applicable survival period, the indemnification claim under this ARTICLE IX with respect to such representation, warranty or covenant shall survive until such indemnification claim is finally resolved pursuant to this ARTICLE IX.

9.2 General Indemnification

(a) Subject to the other provisions of this ARTICLE IX from and after the Closing, each Seller shall (severally but not jointly based on each Seller's Pro Rata Share), indemnify, defend and hold each of Parent, Merger Sub and/or their respective officers, directors, employees, Affiliates and agents (each a "Purchaser Indemnitee") harmless from any direct damages, losses, liabilities, obligations, claims of any kind, interest or expenses (including reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses) ("Loss") actually incurred as a result of (i) any breach of any representation or warranty made by the Company (A) contained in ARTICLE III or (B) in the certificate delivered pursuant to Section 6.2(c), (ii) any breach by any Seller of any of its covenants or agreements contained herein which are to be performed after the Closing Date, (iii) any claim made by any Seller relating to the calculations and determinations set forth on the Pre-Closing Statement of such Person's rights with respect to the Total Merger Consideration or any part thereof or (iv) the potential material liability described as "Microsoft SPLA Matter" in Section 3.16(c) of the Company Disclosure Schedule (the "Potential Liability").

(b) Subject to the other provisions of this ARTICLE IX, from and after the Closing, Parent shall, and shall cause the Surviving Company to, indemnify, defend and hold each Seller and their respective Affiliates, officers, directors, employees and agents (each a "Seller Indemnitee" and, together with any Purchaser Indemnitee, an "Indemnified Party" and, collectively, the "Indemnified Parties") harmless from any Loss actually incurred as a result of (i) any breach of any representation or warranty made by Parent or Merger Sub (A) contained in ARTICLE IV or (B) in the certificate delivered pursuant to Section 6.3(d), or (ii) any breach by Parent or the Surviving Company (including by way of being the successor of Merger Sub and the Company) of any of their respective covenants or agreements contained herein which are to be performed by Parent or the Surviving Company, as applicable, after the Closing Date.

(c) The obligations to indemnify and hold harmless pursuant to this Section 9.2 shall survive the consummation of the transactions contemplated hereby for the applicable period set forth in Section 9.1, except for claims for indemnification asserted in good faith prior to the end of such applicable period (which such specific claims shall survive until final resolution thereof).

9.3 Notice of Claims; Third Party Claims.

(a) Notice of Claims.

(i) Any Indemnified Party seeking indemnification hereunder shall give promptly (and, in any event, within the applicable periods set forth in Section 9.1) to the party obligated to provide indemnification to such Indemnified Party (an "Indemnitor") a written notice (the "Notice of Claim") describing in reasonable detail the facts giving rise to the claim for indemnification hereunder and shall include in such Notice of Claim (if then known) the amount or the method of computation of the amount of such claim, and a reference to the provision of this Agreement upon which such claim is based; provided, however, that the failure of any Indemnified Party to give the Claim Notice promptly as required by this Section 9.3(a) shall not affect such Indemnified Party's rights under this ARTICLE IX except to the extent (x) such failure is actually prejudicial to the rights and obligations of the Indemnitor or (y) such Notice of Claim is delivered after the expiration of the applicable periods set forth in Section 9.1.

(ii) After the giving of any Claim Notice pursuant hereto, the amount of indemnification to which an Indemnified Party shall be entitled under this ARTICLE IX shall be determined: (i) by the written agreement between the Indemnified Party and the Indemnitor; (ii) by a final judgment or decree of any court of competent jurisdiction; or (iii) by any other means to which the Indemnified Party and the Indemnitor shall agree. The judgment or decree of a court shall be deemed final when the time for appeal, if any, shall have expired and no appeal shall have been taken or when all appeals taken shall have been finally determined. The Indemnified Party shall have the burden of proof in establishing the amount of Losses suffered by it. All amounts due to the Indemnified Party as so finally determined shall be paid by wire transfer within thirty (30) days after such final determination.

(b) Third Party Claims.

(i) If a claim, action, suit or proceeding by a Person who is not a Party or an Affiliate thereof (a 'Third Party Claim') is made against any Indemnified Party, and if such Person intends to seek indemnity with respect thereto under this ARTICLE IX such Indemnified Party shall promptly (and, in any event, within the applicable periods set forth in Section 9.1) give a Notice of Claim to the Indemnitor; provided that the failure to give such Notice of Claim shall not relieve the Indemnitor of its obligations hereunder, except to the extent (x) such failure is actually prejudicial to the rights and obligations of the Indemnitor or (y) such Notice of Claim is delivered after the expiration of the applicable periods set forth in Section 9.1. Thereafter, the Indemnified Party shall deliver to the Indemnitor, within five (5) days after the Indemnified Party's receipt thereof, copies of all notices and documents (including court papers) received by the Indemnified Party relating to the Third Party Claim. Notwithstanding the foregoing, should a Person be physically served with a complaint with regard to a Third Party Claim the Indemnified Party must notify the Indemnitor with a copy of the complaint within five (5) days after receipt thereof and shall deliver to the Indemnitor, within five (5) days after the receipt of such complaint, copies of notices and documents (including court papers) received by the Indemnified Party relating to the Third Party Claim (or in each case such earlier time as may be necessary to enable the Indemnitor to respond to the court proceedings on a timely basis).

(ii) The Indemnitor shall have thirty (30) days after receipt of such notice to assume the conduct and control, at the expense of the Indemnitor, of the settlement or defense thereof, and the Indemnified Party shall, at its sole cost and expense, cooperate with the Indemnitor in connection therewith; provided that the Indemnitor shall permit the Indemnified Party to participate in such settlement or defense through counsel chosen by such Indemnified Party (and the fees and expenses of such counsel shall be borne by such Indemnified Party). So long as the Indemnitor is reasonably contesting any such claim in good faith, the Indemnified Party shall not pay or settle any such claim. If the Indemnitor elects to conduct the defense and settlement of a Third Party Claim, then the Indemnified Party shall have the right to pay or settle such Third Party Claim; provided, that, in such event, it shall waive any right to indemnity by the Indemnitor for all Losses related to such claim unless the Indemnitor shall have consented to such payment or settlement. If the Indemnitor does not notify the Indemnified Party within thirty (30) days after the receipt of the Indemnified Party's Notice of Claim hereunder that it elects to undertake the defense thereof, the Indemnified Party shall have the right to contest, settle or compromise the claim but shall not thereby waive any right to indemnity therefor pursuant to this Agreement. The Indemnitor shall not, except with the consent of the Indemnified Party (which shall not be unreasonably withheld or delayed), enter into any settlement that does not include as a term thereof the giving by the Person(s) asserting such claim to all Indemnified Parties of a release from all liability with respect to such claim or consent to entry of any judgment.

(iii) All of the Parties shall cooperate in the defense or prosecution of any Third Party Claim in respect of which indemnity may be sought hereunder and each of Parent and the Surviving Company (or a duly authorized representative of such Party) shall (and shall cause the Group Companies to) furnish such records, information and testimony, and attend such conferences, discovery proceedings, hearings, trials and appeals, as may be reasonably requested in connection therewith.

9.4 Limitation on Indemnification Obligations The rights of the Purchaser Indemnitees and Seller Indemnitees to indemnification pursuant to Section 9.2 are subject to the following limitations:

(a) The Purchaser Indemnitees, on the one hand, and the Seller Indemnitees, on the other hand, shall not be entitled to recover Losses pursuant to Section 9.2(a)(i) or Section 9.2(b)(i) until the total amount which the Purchaser Indemnitees or the Seller Indemnitees, respectively, would recover thereunder (as limited by the provisions of Section 9.4(f) and Section 10.15), but for this Section 9.4(a), exceeds $1,850,000 (the "Deductible"), in which case the Purchaser Indemnitees or the Seller Indemnitees, respectively, shall only be entitled to recover Losses in excess of such amount, subject to the other limitations herein; provided, that Losses indemnifiable in respect of (i) breaches of the Fundamental Representations, (ii) the Potential Liability, or (iii) any facts or circumstances which constitute Actual Fraud shall neither be applied toward, nor limited by, the Deductible.

(b) The maximum liability of Sellers under Section 9.2(a) or of Parent and the Surviving Company under Section 9.2(b) with respect to indemnifiable Losses (except with respect to breaches of Fundamental Representations, the Potential Liability or in cases of Actual Fraud) shall be an amount equal to $9,000,000.

(c) The maximum liability of Sellers under Section 9.2(a) or of Parent and the Surviving Company under Section 9.2(b) with respect to indemnifiable Losses for breaches of Fundamental Representations and in cases of Actual Fraud shall not exceed the Final Closing Date Merger Consideration. The maximum liability of Sellers under Section 9.2(a)(iv) with respect to indemnifiable Losses related to the Potential Liability shall be not exceed the Special Holdback Amount.

(d) The Purchaser Indemnitees shall not be entitled to indemnification pursuant to Section 9.2(a) for any Loss to the extent that (i) prior to the date hereof the Group Companies recorded a reserve in their consolidated books and records with respect to such Loss or in a general category of items or matters similar in nature to the specific items or matters giving rise to such Loss, (ii) such Loss was taken into account in the Final Closing Date Merger Consideration or if Parent shall have requested a reduction in the Merger Consideration in a Dispute Notice on account of any matter forming the basis for such Loss or alleged Loss, (iii) the Purchaser Indemnitees could have, with commercially reasonable efforts, mitigated or prevented such Loss, or (iv) such Loss results from or is magnified by the action or inaction of any Purchaser Indemnitee after the Closing.

(e) Notwithstanding any provision of this Agreement to the contrary, Losses for which Sellers may be liable pursuant to Section 9.2(a)(i) shall exclude all Losses relating to the breach of any representation or warranty of the Company to the extent the Representative establishes to a reasonable certainty that Parent or Merger Sub had actual knowledge as of the Closing of material information that is materially inconsistent with the representation or warranty on which the claim of the Purchaser Indemnitee is based, and could reasonably be expected to have an understanding of the relevance of such materially inconsistent information to such representation and warranty, and thereby it can reasonably be concluded that Parent or Merger Sub has waived the right to rely on such representation or warranty or should be estopped from asserting such claim as a result thereof. Parent and Merger Sub expressly acknowledge Sellers' and the Representative's right to establish that Parent or Merger Sub have waived such right or should otherwise be estopped from asserting such claim based on the breach of such representation or warranty due to such actual knowledge.

(f) The amount of any and all Losses shall be determined net of (i) any amounts recovered or recoverable by the Purchaser Indemnitees under insurance policies or other collateral sources (such as contractual indemnities of any Person which are contained outside of this Agreement) with respect to such Losses, in each case, net of costs of collection resulting from making any claim thereunder and (ii) any Tax benefits realizable by or accruing to the Purchaser Indemnitees with respect to such Losses.

(g) In the event that a Purchaser Indemnitee realizes Tax benefits or recovers, under insurance policies or from other collateral sources, any amount in respect of a matter for which such Purchaser Indemnitee was indemnified pursuant to Section 9.2(a), such Purchaser Indemnitee shall promptly pay over to an account or accounts designated by the Representative (on behalf of the Sellers) for distribution to the Sellers the amount so recovered (after deducting therefrom the amount of the expenses incurred by such Purchaser Indemnitee in procuring such recovery), but not in excess of the sum of (i) any amount previously so paid to or on behalf of such Purchaser Indemnitee in respect of such matter and (ii) any amount expended by the Sellers in pursuing or defending any claim arising out of such matter; and

(h) For purposes of determining Losses pursuant to Section 9.2(a)(i) or Section 9.2(b)(i) (but not for purposes of determining whether a breach has occurred), the representations and warranties set forth in this Agreement shall be considered without regard to any materiality qualification (including such terms as "material," "Company Material Adverse Effect" and "Parent Material Adverse Effect") set forth therein.

9.5 Manner of Payment.

(a) Except as provided in Section 9.5(b) with respect to the Potential Liability, any indemnification payment to be made by Indemnifying Party pursuant to this ARTICLE IX is to be paid by wire transfer of immediately available funds to an account designated by the Indemnified Party within five (5) Business Days after the date of the determination of the indemnification payment either by a mutual agreement of Parent and the Representative or by a final decision of a court of competent jurisdiction. Notwithstanding the foregoing sentence, in the event Sellers are the Indemnitors, then Purchaser may elect, in its sole discretion and upon written notice to the Representative, that all or any part of any indemnification payment to be made to the Purchaser Indemnitees (provided that such indemnification payment has been determined either by a mutual agreement of Parent and the Representative or by a final decision of a court of competent jurisdiction) is to be paid by reduction, dollar for dollar, of the Additional Merger Consideration Payment actually payable to Sellers.

(b) As soon as practicable following the Closing, the Surviving Company shall initiate an effort on behalf of Parent and the Surviving Company and use its best efforts to confirm and resolve, including with any necessary third party or third parties, the Potential Liability. This effort shall be led by Kristoffer Collo in his capacity as President, MicroPact, of the Surviving Company, or his designee (subject to reasonable approval by Parent), in consultation with Parent and the Representative. The Surviving Company's objective shall be to confirm and resolve the Potential Liability, while minimizing the costs, fees, expenses and settlement amounts payable in connection with such efforts, no later than one hundred eighty (180) days after Closing (the "Resolution Date"). Parent and the Representative acknowledge and agree that it may not be possible to determine with certainty the amount of the Potential Liability on or before the Resolution Date and, therefore, that the Resolution Date shall be extended for such additional period as reasonably necessary to make such determination, as mutually agreed in writing by Parent and the Representative. Once the Potential Liability is confirmed and resolved, (i) if the amount thereof (the "Resolved Amount") is greater than zero, the Special Holdback Amount shall be deemed automatically reduced by the Resolved Amount, (ii) if the Resolved Amount is less than the Special Holdback Amount (including if the Resolved Amount is zero), Parent shall disburse the balance of the Special Holdback Amount to the Paying Agent (for further distribution to the Sellers who delivered to Parent a duly completed and executed Letter of Transmittal and Surrendered Certificate(s) prior to such time). If the Resolved Amount is greater than the Special Holdback Amount, then the Representative may elect, in its sole discretion, to pay such excess amount by wire transfer of immediately available funds to an account designated by Parent within five (5) Business Days after the date of the determination of the Resolved Amount, or, in the event the Representative elects not to make such payment, Parent shall cause such excess amount to be recorded as a 2019 expense on the consolidated income statement of the Group Companies (regardless of whether Parent may have accrued a balance sheet reserve for any portion of the Potential Liability), which shall not constitute a violation of Section 1.15(c). If the amount of the Potential Liability has not been finally determined on or before the first anniversary of the Closing, Parent and the Representative agree to negotiate the release of the Special Holdback Amount (through the disbursement to the Paying Agent for further distribution to the Sellers) except to the extent all or any portion thereof is reasonably subject to continuing negotiations or dispute with a third party or third parties as to the amount of the Potential Liability. This Section 9.5(b) shall be the exclusive manner of payment by or on behalf Sellers with respect to the Potential Liability. Parent shall otherwise be responsible for any payment to a third party or third parties with respect to the Potential Liability.

9.6 Representative. Each Seller hereby appoints the Representative to act as the agent of the Sellers with full power to resolve all questions, disputes, conflicts and controversies concerning Losses as provided in this ARTICLE IX. Purchaser Indemnitees are entitled to rely on the acts and agreements of the Representative as the acts and agreements of the Sellers under this ARTICLE IX. With respect to any amount payable to the Seller Indemnitees under this ARTICLE IX by Parent, payment by Parent of such amount to the Representative shall be deemed a payment of such amount to the Seller Indemnitees, and upon making any such payment to the Representative, Parent shall have no further obligation or liability with respect thereto.

9.7 Exclusive Remedy. Except (a) with respect to the matters covered by Sections 1.10 and 1.15, (b) in the case where a Party seeks to obtain specific performance pursuant to Section 10.10, (c) a Party's right to seek and obtain any other equitable relief to which it shall be entitled under any other Transaction Agreement, (d) any Party's right to seek any remedy on account of the Company's Actual Fraud or actual common law fraud of Parent or Merger Sub arising under this Agreement, as applicable and (e) the Representative's rights to indemnification under Section 10.13, from and after the Closing, the rights of the Parties to indemnification pursuant to the provisions of this ARTICLE IX shall be the sole and exclusive remedy for the Parties with respect to any matter in any way arising from or relating to this Agreement or its subject matter. Subject to the foregoing, to the maximum extent permitted by law, the Parties hereby waive all other rights and remedies with respect to any matter in any way relating to this Agreement or arising in connection herewith, whether under any Law at common law, in equity or otherwise.

ARTICLE X MISCELLANEOUS

10.1 Expenses. Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement or the other Transaction Agreements, each Party shall bear its own costs and expenses incurred in connection with the negotiation and execution of this Agreement and the other Transaction Agreements and each other agreement, document and instrument contemplated hereby or thereby and the consummation of the Transaction. Parent shall be solely responsible for all governmental fees and charges applicable to any requests for Governmental Approvals or to the consummation of the Transaction. Parent, on the one hand, and the Representative, on the other hand, shall each pay one-half of all charges and expenses of the Paying Agent in connection with this Agreement.

10.2 GOVERNING LAW THIS AGREEMENT SHALL BE GOVERNED BY AND CONSTRUED ACCORDANCE WITH THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE WITHOUT GIVING EFFECT TO THE CHOICE OF LAW PRINCIPLES OF SUCH STATE THAT WOULD REQUIRE OR PERMIT THE APPLICATION OF THE LAWS OF ANOTHER JURISDICTION.

10.3 SUBMISSION TO JURISDICTION; WAIVERS SUBJECT TO SECTION 1.10(d)(ii) AND SECTION 1.15(a) (WHICH WILL GOVERN ANY DISPUTE RESPECTIVELY ARISING THEREUNDER), THE PARTIES AGREE THAT ANY DISPUTE, CONTROVERSY OR CLAIM ARISING OUT OF OR RELATING TO THE TRANSACTION UNDER THIS AGREEMENT, OR THE VALIDITY, INTERPRETATION, BREACH OR TERMINATION THEREOF, INCLUDING CLAIMS SEEKING REDRESS OR ASSERTING RIGHTS UNDER ANY LAW, SHALL BE RESOLVED EXCLUSIVELY IN THE STATE OR FEDERAL COURTS SITTING IN THE STATE OF DELAWARE (THE DELAWARE COURTS). IN THAT CONTEXT, AND WITHOUT LIMITING THE GENERALITY OF THE FOREGOING, EACH PARTY AGREES TO SUBMIT IRREVOCABLY AND UNCONDITIONALLY:

(a) SUBMITS FOR ITSELF AND ITS PROPERTY IN ANY ACTION RELATING TO THE TRANSACTION OR TO THIS AGREEMENT, OR FOR RECOGNITION AND ENFORCEMENT OF ANY JUDGMENT IN RESPECT THEREOF, TO THE EXCLUSIVE JURISDICTION OF THE DELAWARE COURTS, AND APPEALS TO SUCH COURTS HAVING

JURISDICTION OF APPEALS FROM ANY OF THE FOREGOING COURTS, AND AGREES THAT ALL CLAIMS IN RESPECT OF ANY SUCH ACTION SHALL BE HEARD AND DETERMINED IN SUCH DELAWARE COURTS (TO THE EXTENT PERMITTED BY LAW, IN SUCH APPELLATE COURTS;

(b) CONSENTS THAT ANY SUCH ACTION MAY AND SHALL BE BROUGHT EXCLUSIVELY IN SUCH COURTS AND WAIVES ANY OBJECTION THAT IT MAY NOW OR HEREAFTER HAVE TO THE VENUE OR JURISDICTION OF ANY SUCH ACTION IN ANY SUCH COURT OR THAT SUCH ACTION WAS BROUGHT IN AN INCONVENIENT FORUM, AND AGREES NOT TO PLEAD OR CLAIM THE SAME;

(c) WAIVES ALL RIGHT TO TRIAL BY JURY IN ANY ACTION (WHETHER BASED ON CONTRACT, TORT OR OTHERWISE) ARISING OUT OF OR RELATING TO THE TRANSACTION OR TO THIS AGREEMENT OR ITS PERFORMANCE UNDER OR THE ENFORCEMENT OF THIS AGREEMENT;

(d) AGREES THAT SERVICE OF PROCESS IN ANY SUCH ACTION MAY BE EFFECTED BY MAIL OR BY A COPY OF SUCH PROCESS BY REGISTERED OR CERTIFIED MAIL (OR ANY SUBSTANTIALLY SIMILAR METHOD OF MAIL), POSTAGE PREPAID, TO SUCH PARTY AT ITS ADDRESS AS PROVIDED IN SECTION 10.8; AND

(e) AGREES THAT NOTHING IN THIS AGREEMENT SHALL AFFECT THE RIGHT TO EFFECTIVE SERVICE OF PROCESS IN ANY OTHER MANNER PERMITTED BY THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE.

10.4 Recovery of Costs and Attorneys' Fees . If there are any Legal Proceedings arising out of or relating to this Agreement or the transactions contemplated hereby, after the entry of a final written non-appealable order, if one Party has prevailed in the dispute, it shall be entitled to recover from the other Party all court costs, fees and expenses relating to such Legal Proceeding, including reasonable attorneys' fees that are specifically included in such court award.

10.5 Further Assurances. After the Closing, each Party shall from time to time, at the request of and without further cost or expense to the other, execute and deliver such other instruments of conveyance and assumption and take such other actions as may reasonably be requested in order to more effectively consummate the Transaction.

10.6 Entire Agreement. This Agreement (including the Schedules and Exhibits hereto), the documents delivered pursuant hereto and the other Transaction Agreements represent the entire understanding and agreement between the Parties with respect to the Transaction and supersedes all prior agreements among the Parties respecting the Transaction. The Parties have voluntarily agreed to define their rights, liabilities and obligations respecting the Transaction exclusively in contract pursuant to the express terms and provisions of this Agreement; and the Parties expressly disclaim that they are owed any duties or are entitled to any remedies not expressly set forth in this Agreement.

10.7 Amendments and Waivers. Prior to Closing, this Agreement can be amended, supplemented or changed, and any provision hereof can be waived, only by written instrument making specific reference to this Agreement signed by Parent and the Company. Following Closing, this Agreement can be amended, supplemented or changed, and any provision hereof can be waived, only by written instrument making specific reference to this Agreement signed by Parent and the Representative. The waiver by any Party of a breach of any provision of this Agreement shall not operate or be construed as a further or continuing waiver of such breach or as a waiver of any other or subsequent breach. No failure on the part of any Party to exercise, and no delay in exercising, any right, power or remedy hereunder shall operate as a waiver thereof, nor shall any single or partial exercise of such right, power or remedy by such Party preclude any other or further exercise thereof or the exercise of any other right, power or remedy. In the event any provision of any other Transaction Agreement shall in any way conflict with the provisions of this Agreement (except where a provision therein expressly provides that it is intended to take precedence over this Agreement), this Agreement shall control.

10.8 Notices. All notices, requests, demands, and other communications to any Party or given under this Agreement will be in writing and delivered personally, by overnight delivery or courier, by registered mail, or by electronic transmission (with confirmation of receipt of electronic transmission) to the Parties at the address or electronic mail address specified below. Each notice, request, demand, or communication that is mailed, delivered, or transmitted in the manner described above shall be deemed sufficiently given, served, sent, and received for all purposes at such time as it is delivered to the addressee with the return receipt, the delivery receipt, the affidavit of messenger, the confirmation of receipt of electronic transmission, or at such time as delivery is refused by the addressee upon presentation. Each Party may designate by notice in writing a new address to which any notice, demand, request, or communication may thereafter be so given, served, or sent.

10.9 Severability. If any term or other provision of this Agreement is invalid, illegal or incapable of being enforced by any Law or public policy, all other terms or provisions of this Agreement shall nevertheless remain in full force and effect so long as the economic or legal substance of the Transaction is not affected in any manner materially adverse to any Party. Upon such determination that any term or other provision is invalid, illegal or incapable of being enforced, the Parties shall negotiate in good faith to modify this Agreement so as to effect the original intent of the Parties as closely as possible in an acceptable manner in order that the Transaction is consummated as originally contemplated to the greatest extent possible.

10.10 Specific Performance.

(a) Each Party acknowledges and agrees that the other Parties would be irreparably damaged if any of the provisions of this Agreement are not performed in accordance with their specific terms and that any breach of this Agreement by the Company, Parent or Merger Sub could not be adequately compensated in all cases by monetary damages alone, even if available. Accordingly, in addition to any other right or remedy to which any Party may be entitled at law or in equity, before or after the Closing, each Party shall be entitled to enforce any provision of this Agreement by a decree of specific performance and to temporary, preliminary and permanent injunctive relief to prevent breaches or threatened breaches of any of the provisions of this Agreement, without posting any bond or other undertaking. Each of the Parties further agrees that it shall not object to, or take any position inconsistent with respect to, whether in a court of law or otherwise, (i) the appropriateness of the specific performance contemplated by this Section 10.10 and (ii) the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts set forth in Section 10.3 with respect to any action brought for any such remedy.

(b) Each Party further agrees that (i) by seeking the remedies provided for in this Section 10.10, a Party shall not in any respect waive its right to seek any other form of relief that may be available to such party under this Agreement or in the event that the remedies provided for in this Section 10.10 are not available or otherwise are not granted, and (ii) nothing set forth in this Section 10.10 shall require any Party to institute any action for (or limit any Party's right to institute any action for) specific performance under this Section 10.10 prior or as a condition to exercising any termination right under ARTICLE VII, nor shall the commencement of any action pursuant to this Section 10.10 or anything set forth in this Section 10.10 restrict or limit any such Party's right to terminate this Agreement in accordance with ARTICLE VII, or pursue any other remedies under this Agreement that may be available then or thereafter.

date that is the reference date in calculating such period shall be excluded. If the last day of such period is a non-Business Day, the period in question shall end on the next succeeding Business Day.

(b) Accounting Terms. Accounting terms that are not otherwise defined in this Agreement have the meanings given to them under GAAP, and if the definition of an accounting term defined in this Agreement is inconsistent with the meaning of such term under GAAP, the definition set forth in this Agreement will control.

(d) Exhibits/Schedules/Construction. The Exhibits and Schedules to this Agreement are an integral part of this Agreement and are hereby incorporated herein and made a part hereof as if set forth herein. Any capitalized terms used in any Schedule or Exhibit but not otherwise defined therein shall be defined as set forth in this Agreement. If a subject matter is addressed in more than one representation and warranty in this Agreement, each of Parent and Merger Sub shall be entitled to rely only on the most specific representation and warranty addressing such matter. Any disclosure set forth in one section of the Schedules shall apply to (i) the representations and warranties or covenants contained in the Section of this Agreement to which it corresponds in number, (ii) any representation and warranty or covenant to which it is referred by cross reference, and (iii) any other representation or warranty or covenant to the extent it is reasonably apparent from the wording of such disclosure that such disclosure is applicable to such representation or warranty or covenant.

(e) Gender and Number. Any reference in this Agreement to gender shall include all genders, and words imparting the singular number only shall include the plural and vice versa.

(f) Headings. The provision of the Table of Contents, the division of this Agreement into Articles, Sections and other subdivisions and the insertion of headings are for convenience of reference only and shall not affect or be utilized in construing or interpreting this Agreement. All references in this Agreement to any "Article," "Section" or other subdivision are to the corresponding Article, Section or other subdivision of this Agreement unless otherwise specified.

(g) Herein. The words such as "herein," "hereinafter," "hereof," "hereunder" and "hereto" refer to this Agreement as a whole and not merely to a subdivision in which such words appear unless the context otherwise requires.

(h) Including. The word "including" or any variation thereof mean "including, without limitation" and, if "without limitation" or the equivalent thereof are not present, shall not be construed to limit any general statement that it follows to the specific or similar items or matters immediately following it.

(i) Or. The term "or" has, except where otherwise indicated, the inclusive meaning represented by the phrase "and/or."

(j) Made Available. An item shall be considered "made available" to a Party hereto, to the extent such phrase appears in this Agreement, only if such item has been provided in writing (including via electronic mail) to such Party or its representatives or posted by the Company or its representatives in the Data Room.

(k) Reflected On or Set Forth In An item arising with respect to a specific representation or warranty shall be deemed to be "reflected on" or "set forth in" a balance sheet or financial statements, to the extent any such phrase appears in such representation or warranty, if (i) there is a reserve, accrual or other similar item underlying a number on such balance sheet or financial statements that related to the subject matter of such representation, (ii) such item is otherwise specifically set forth on the balance sheet or financial statements, or (iii) such item is reflected on the balance sheet or financial statements and is specifically set forth in the notes thereto.

As used in this Agreement, unless the context would require otherwise, the term "material" and the concept of the "material" nature of an effect upon the Group Companies or their business shall be measured relative to the Group Companies, taken as a whole, as their business is currently being conducted. There have been included in the Company Disclosure Schedule or the Parent Disclosure Schedule and may be included elsewhere in this Agreement items which are no "material" within the meaning of the immediately preceding sentence for informational purposes and in order to avoid any misunderstanding, and such inclusion shall not be deemed to be an agreement by the Parties that such items are "material" or to further define the meaning of such term for purposes of this Agreement.

(n) Joint Negotiation and Drafting The Parties have participated jointly in the negotiation and drafting of this Agreement and, in the event an ambiguity or question of intent or interpretation arises, this Agreement shall be construed as jointly drafted by the Parties and no presumption or burden of proof shall arise favoring or disfavoring any Party by virtue of the authorship of any provision of this Agreement.

Narrative

Purpose: To ratify the award and execution of a purchase order for the Office of Emergency Management for five hundred thousand (500,000) 3-ply disposable protective masks made on an emergency basis pursuant to Section 702(d) of the Nassau County Charter.

Discussion: The Nassau County Office of Emergency Management requested an emergency procurement of disposable protective masks needed to help Nassau County and the County's health care providers respond to the COVID-19 outbreak. This procurement of masks is of the utmost urgency to protect first responders and medical professionals as they encounter and treat COVID-19 afflicted patients. These masks will primarily be used by patients at hospitals and during EMS transport, but should the need arise, can substitute as a first responder mask where the N95 mask is now used. Proper personal protective equipment (PPE) is essential to assist response professionals in performing their jobs safely and effectively during this outbreak.

The Commissioner of Shared Services was authorized by the County Executive to immediately purchase from the open market the necessary materials, supplies, equipment and services to address the COVID-19 public health emergency pursuant to an Emergency Purchase Authorization dated February 7, 2020 (the "Emergency Purchase Authorization"). As indicated above, these masks are of critical importance to the safety of first responders and medical professionals during this COVID-19 public health emergency. The Office of Emergency Management placed orders for masks with regular procurement channels such as Grainger and Fastenal, however, supply has been extremely limited through these channels and delivery has been delayed. The Office of Emergency Management identified Millennium Products Group LLC as capable of filling the order with a quick delivery schedule, was willing to accept payment through a County purchase order, and the price was otherwise reasonable given these emergency circumstances.

The Department of Shared Services is satisfied that Millennium Products Group LLC is a responsible vendor and was the lowest priced vendor for masks that the County could identify that could meet the County's delivery requirements, had available stock, could meet required specifications, and was willing to accept a County purchase order for payment.

The Department of Shared Services now seeks the County Legislature's approval to ratify this emergency purchase of masks.

Impact on Funding: The maximum amount authorized under this purchase order shall be Four Hundred Ninety-Seven Thousand Five Hundred dollars ($497,500.00) from general funds.

Recommendation: The Commissioner of Shared Services recommends that the Nassau County Legislature ratify the award and execution of the said purchase order with Millennium Products Group LLC.

Thank you for applying for an Employer Identification Number (EIN). We assigned you EIN 27-2026642. This EIN will identify you, your business accounts, tax returns, and documents, even if you have no employees. Please keep this notice in your permanent records.

When filing tax documents, payments, and related correspondence, it is very important that you use your EIN and complete name and address exactly as shown above. Any variation may cause a delay in processing, result in incorrect information in your account, or even cause you to be assigned more than one EIN. If the information is not correct as shown above, please make the correction using the attached tear off stub and return it to us.

A limited liability company (LLC) may file Form 8832, Entity Classification Election, and elect to be classified as an association taxable as a corporation. If the LLC is eligible to be treated as a corporation that meets certain tests and it will be electing S corporation status, it must timely file Form 2553, Election by a Small Business Corporation. The LLC will be treated as a corporation as of the effective date of the S corporation election and does not need to file Form 8832.

Limited Liability Company Agreement of Millennium Products Group LLC
A Limited Liability Company

THIS OPERATING AGREEMENT (this "Agreement") of Millennium Products Group LLC, (the "Company"), is executed and agreed to, for good and valuable consideration, by the undersigned members (the "Members").

I. Formation.

A. State of Formation. This is a Limited Liability Company Operating Agreement (the "Agreement") for Millennium Products Group LLC, a Member-managed New York limited liability company (the "Company") formed under and pursuant to New York law.

B. Operating Agreement Controls. To the extent that the rights or obligations of the Members or the Company under provisions of this Operating Agreement differ from what they would be under New York law absent such a provision, this Agreement, to the extent permitted under New York law, shall control.

C. Primary Business Address. The location of the primary place of business of the Company is:

16 Turnberry Lane, Plainview, New York 11803, or such other location as shall be selected from time to time by the Members.

D. Registered Agent and Office. The Company names the New York Secretary of State as its Registered Agent. The Company's initial registered office is 16 Turnberry Lane, Plainview, New York 11803. The Company may change its registered office, its registered agent, or both, upon filing a statement with the New York Secretary of State.

E. No State Law Partnership. No provisions of this Agreement shall be deemed or construed to constitute a partnership (including, without limitation, a limited partnership) or joint venture, or any Member a partner or joint venturer of or with any other Member, for any purposes other than federal and state tax purposes.

II. Purposes and Powers.

A. Purpose. The Company is created for the following business purpose:

Millennium Products Group LLC will provide whole and distribution services

B. Powers. The Company shall have all of the powers of a limited liability company set forth under New York law.

C. Duration. The Company's term shall commence upon the filing of an Articles of Organization and all other such necessary materials with the state of New York. The Company will operate until terminated as outlined in this Agreement unless:

1. A majority of the Members vote to dissolve the Company;
2. No Member of the Company exists, unless the business of the Company is continued in a manner permitted by New York law;
3. It becomes unlawful for either the Members or the Company to continue in business;
4. A judicial decree is entered that dissolves the Company; or
5. Any other event results in the dissolution of the Company under federal or New York law.

III. Members.

A. Members. The Members of the Company (jointly the "Members") and their Membership Interest at the time of adoption of this Agreement are as follows:

Steven Goldmeier, 99%

Allen Goldmeier, 1%

B. Initial Contribution. Each Member shall make an Initial Contribution to the Company. The Initial Contributions of each shall be as described in Attachment A, Initial Contributions of the Members.

No Member shall be entitled to interest on their Initial Contribution. Except as expressly provided by this Agreement, or as required by law, no Member shall have any right to demand or receive the return of their Initial Contribution. Any modifications as to the signatories' respective rights as to the receipt of their initial contributions must be set forth in writing signed by all interested parties.

C. Limited Liability of the Members. Except as otherwise provided for in this Agreement or otherwise required by New York law, no Member shall be personally liable for any acts, debts, liabilities or obligations of the Company beyond their respective Initial Contribution, including liability arising under a judgment, decree or order of a court. The Members shall look solely to the Company property for the return of their Initial Contribution, or value thereof, and if the Company property remaining after payment or discharge of the debts, liabilities or obligations of the Company is insufficient to return such Initial Contributions, or value thereof, no Member shall have any recourse against any other Member except as is expressly provided for by this Agreement or as otherwise allowed by law.

D. Death, Incompetency or Termination of a Member. Should a Member die, be declared incompetent, or withdraw from the Company by choice, the remaining Members will have the option to buy out that Member's Membership Interest in the Company. Should the Members agree to buy out the Membership Interest of the withdrawing Member, that Interest shall be paid for proportionately by the remaining Members, according to their existing Membership Interest and distributed proportionately among the remaining Members. The Members agree to hire an outside firm to assess the value of the Membership Interest.

The Members will have 60 days to decide if they want to buy the Membership Interest together and disperse it proportionately. If all Members do not agree to buy the Membership Interest, individual Members will then have the right to buy the Membership Interest individually. If more than one Member requests to buy the remaining Membership Interest, the Membership Interest will be paid for and split proportionately among those Members wishing to purchase the Membership Interest. If all Members agree by unanimous vote, the Company may choose to allow a non-Member to buy the Membership Interest thereby replacing the previous Member.

If no individual Member(s) finalize a purchase agreement by 60 days, the withdrawing Member, or their estate, may dispose of their Membership Interest however they see fit, subject to the limitations in Section III (E) below. If a Member is a corporation, trust, partnership, limited liability company or other entity and is dissolved or terminated, the powers of that Member may be exercised by its legal representative or successor.

The name of the Company may be amended upon the written and unanimous vote of all Members if a Member withdraws, dies, is found incompetent or is terminated.

E. Creation or Substitution of New Members. Any Member may assign in whole or in part its Membership Interest only after granting their fellow Members the right of first refusal, as established in Section III (D) above.

1. Entire transfer. If a Member transfers all of its Membership Interest, the transferee shall be admitted to the Company as a substitute Member upon its execution of an instrument signifying its agreement to be bound by the terms and conditions of this Agreement. Such admission shall be deemed effective immediately upon the transfer, and, simultaneously, the transferor Member shall cease to be a Member of the Company and shall have no further rights or obligations under this Agreement.

2. Partial transfer. If a Member transfers only a portion of its Membership Interest, the transferee shall be admitted to the Company as an additional Member upon its execution of an instrument signifying its agreement to be bound by the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

3. Whether a substitute Member or an additional Member, absent the written consent of all existing Members of the Company, the transferee shall be a limited Member and possess only the percentage of the monetary rights of the transferor Member that was transferred without any voting power as a Member in the Company.

F. Member Voting.

1. Voting power. The Company's Members shall each have voting power equal to their share of Membership Interest in the Company.

2. Proxies. At all meetings of Members, a Member may vote in person or by proxy executed in writing by the Member or by his duly authorized attorney-in-fact. Such proxy shall be delivered to the Secretary of the Company before or at the time of the meeting. No proxy shall be valid after eleven months from the date of its execution, unless otherwise provided in the proxy.

G. Duties of the Members. The Members shall cause the Company to do or cause to be done all things necessary to preserve and keep in full force and effect its existence, rights (charter and statutory) and franchises. The Members also shall cause the Company to:

1. Maintain its own books, records, accounts, financial statements, stationery, invoices, checks and other limited liability company documents and bank accounts separate from any other person;
2. At all times hold itself out as being a legal entity separate from the Members and any other person and conduct its business in its own name;
3. File its own tax returns, if any, as may be required under applicable law, and pay any taxes required to be paid under applicable law;
4. Not commingle its assets with assets of the Members or any other person, and separately identify, maintain and segregate all Company assets;
5. Pay its own liabilities only out of its own funds, except with respect to organizational expenses;
6. Maintain an arm's length relationship with the Members, and, with respect to all business transactions entered into by the Company with the Members, require that the terms and conditions of such transactions (including the terms relating to the amounts paid thereunder) are the same as would be generally available in comparable business transactions if such transactions were with a person that was not a Member;
7. Pay the salaries of its own employees, if any, out of its own funds and maintain a sufficient number of employees in light of its contemplated business operations;
8. Not guarantee or become obligated for the debts of any other person or hold out its credit as being available to satisfy the obligations of others;
9. Allocate fairly and reasonably any overhead for shared office space;
10. Not pledge its assets for the benefit of any other person or make any loans or advances to any person;
11. Correct any known misunderstanding regarding its separate identity;
12. Maintain adequate capital in light of its contemplated business purposes;

13. Cause its Members to meet or act pursuant to written consent and keep minutes of such meetings and actions and observe all other New York limited liability company formalities;
14. Make any permitted investments directly or through brokers engaged and paid by the Company or its agents;
15. Not require any obligations or securities of the Members; and
16. Observe all other limited liability formalities.

Failure of the Members to comply with any of the foregoing covenants shall not affect the status of the Company as a separate legal entity or the limited liability of the Members.

H. Fiduciary Duties of the Members.

1. Loyalty and Care. Except to the extent otherwise provided herein, each Member shall have a fiduciary duty of loyalty and care similar to that of members of limited liability companies organized under the laws of New York.
2. Competition with the Company. The Members shall refrain from dealing with the Company in the conduct of the Company's business as or on behalf of a party having an interest adverse to the Company unless a majority, by individual vote, of the Members excluding the interested Member, consents thereto. The Members shall refrain from competing with the Company in the conduct of the Company's business unless a majority, by individual vote, of the Members excluding the interested Member, consents thereto. In the event that a Member is the sole Member of the Company, no vote shall be required.
3. Duties Only to the Company. The Member's fiduciary duties of loyalty and care are to the Company and not to the other Members. The Members shall owe fiduciary duties of disclosure, good faith and fair dealing to the Company and to the other Members. A Member who so performs their duties shall not have any liability by reason of being or having been a Member.
4. Reliance on Reports. In discharging the Member's duties, a Member is entitled to rely on information, opinions, reports, or statements, including financial statements and other financial data, if prepared or presented by any of the following:
 - i. One or more Members, Officers, or employees of the Company whom the Member reasonably believes to be reliable and competent in the matters presented.
 - ii. Legal counsel, public accountants, or other persons as to matters the Member reasonably believes are within the persons' professional or expert competence.
 - iii. A committee of Members of which the affected Member is not a participant, if the Member reasonably believes the committee merits confidence.

I. Waiver of Partition: Nature of Interest. Except as otherwise expressly provided in this Agreement, to the fullest extent permitted by law, each Member hereby irrevocably waives any right or power that such Member might have to cause the Company or any of its assets to be partitioned, to cause the appointment of a receiver for all or any portion of the assets of the Company, to compel any sale of all or any portion of the assets of the Company pursuant to any applicable law or to file a complaint or to institute any proceeding at law or in equity to cause the dissolution, liquidation, winding up or termination of the Company. No Member shall have any interest in any specific assets of the Company.

J. Compensation of Members. The Members shall have the authority to fix the compensation of individual Members. All Members may be paid their expenses, if any, of attendance at meetings of the Members, which may be a fixed sum for attendance at each meeting of the Members or a stated salary as a Member. No such payment shall preclude any Member from serving the Company in any other capacity and receiving compensation therefor.

K. Members as Agents. All Members are agents of the Company for the purpose of its business. An act of any Member, including the signing of an instrument in the Company's name, binds the Company where the Member executed the act for apparently carrying on the Company's business or business of the kind carried on by the Company in the ordinary course, unless the Member had no authority to act for the Company in the particular matter and the person with whom the Member was dealing knew or had notice that the Member lacked authority. An act of a Member binds the Company, however, even where the Member executed the act not apparently for carrying on the Company's business or business of the kind carried on by the Company in the ordinary course only if the act was authorized by the other Members.

IV. Accounting and Distributions.

A. Fiscal Year. The Company's fiscal year shall end on the last day of February.

B. Records. All financial records including tax returns and financial statements will be held at the Company's primary business address and will be accessible to all Members.

C. Distributions. Distributions shall be issued, as directed by the Company's Treasurer or Assistant Treasurer, on an annual basis, based upon the Company's fiscal year. The distribution shall not exceed the remaining net cash of the Company after making appropriate provisions for the Company's ongoing and anticipatable liabilities and expenses. Each Member shall receive a percentage of the overall distribution that matches that Member's percentage of Membership Interest in the Company.

V. Tax Treatment Election.

The Company has not filed with the Internal Revenue Service for treatment as a corporation. Instead, the Company will be taxed as a pass-through organization. The Members may elect for the Company to be treated as a C-Corporation, S-corporation or a Partnership at any time.

VI. Officers.

A. Appointment and Titles of Officers. The initial Officers shall be appointed by the Members and shall consist of at least a Chairman, a Secretary and a Treasurer. Any additional or substitute Officers shall be chosen by the Members. The Members may also choose one or more President, Vice-President, Assistant Secretaries and Assistant Treasurers. Any number of offices may be held by the same person, as permitted by New York law. The Members may appoint such other Officers and agents as they shall deem necessary or advisable who shall hold their offices for such terms and shall exercise such powers and perform such duties as shall be determined from time to time by the Members. The Officers and agents of the Company shall hold office until their successors are chosen and qualified. Any Officer elected or appointed by the Members may be removed at any time, with or without cause, by the affirmative vote of a majority of the Members. Any vacancy occurring in any office of the Company shall be filled by the Members. Unless the Members decide otherwise, if the title of an Officer is one commonly used for officers of a limited liability company formed under New York law, the assignment of such title shall constitute the delegation to such person of the authorities and duties that are normally associated with that office.

1. Chairman. The Chairman shall be the chief executive officer of the Company, shall preside at all meetings of the Members, shall be responsible for the general and active management of the business of the Company and shall see that all orders and resolutions of the Members are carried into effect. The Chairman shall execute all contracts on behalf of the Company, except:

- i. where required or permitted by law or this Agreement to be otherwise signed and executed;
- ii. where signing and execution thereof shall be expressly delegated by the Members to some other Officer or agent of the Company.

2. President. In the absence of the Chairman or in the event of the Chairman's inability to act, the President shall perform the duties of the Chairman, and when so acting, shall have all the powers of and be subject to all the restrictions upon the Chairman. The President shall perform such other duties and have such other powers as the Members may from time to time prescribe.

3. Vice-Presidents. In the absence of the Chairman and President or in the event of their inability to act, any Vice-Presidents in the order designated by the Members (or, in the absence of any designation, in the order of their election) shall perform the duties of the Chairman, and when so acting, shall have all the powers of and be subject to all the restrictions upon the Chairman. Vice-Presidents, if any, shall perform such other duties and have such other powers as the Members may from time to time prescribe.

4. Secretary and Assistant Secretary. The Secretary shall be responsible for filing legal documents and maintaining records for the Company. The Secretary shall attend all meetings of the Members and record all the proceedings of the meetings of the Company and of the Members in a book to be kept for that purpose. The Secretary shall give, or cause to be given, notice of all meetings of the Members, as required in this Agreement or by New York law, and shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed by the Members or the Chairman, under whose supervision the Secretary shall serve. The Secretary shall cause to be prepared such reports and/or information as the Company is required to prepare by applicable law, other than financial reports. The Assistant Secretary, or if there be more than one, the Assistant Secretaries in the order determined by the Members (or if there be no such determination, then in order of their election), shall, in the absence of the Secretary or in the event of the Secretary's inability to act, perform the duties and exercise the powers of the Secretary and shall perform such other duties and have such other powers as the Members may from time to time prescribe.

5. Treasurer and Assistant Treasurer. The Treasurer shall have the custody of the Company funds and securities and shall keep full and accurate accounts of receipts and disbursements in books belonging to the Company according to generally accepted accounting practices, using a fiscal year ending on the last day of the month of February. The Treasurer shall deposit all moneys and other valuable effects in the name and to the credit of the Company in such depositories as may be designated by the Members. The Treasurer shall distribute the Company's profits to the Members. The Treasurer shall disburse the funds of the Company as may be ordered by the Members and shall render to the Chairman and to the Members, at their regular meetings or when the Members so require, an account of all of the Treasurer's transactions and of the financial condition of the Company. As soon as practicable after the end of each fiscal year of the Company, the Treasurer shall prepare a statement of financial condition as of the last day of the Company's fiscal year, and a statement of income and expenses for the fiscal year then ended, together with supporting schedules. Each of said annual statements shall be prepared on an income tax basis and delivered to the Members forthwith upon its preparation. In addition, the Treasurer shall keep all financial records required to be kept pursuant to New York law. The Assistant Treasurer, or if there shall be more than one, the Assistant Treasurers in the order determined by the Members (or if there be no such determination, then in the order of their election), shall, in the absence of the Treasurer or in the event of the Treasurer's inability to act, perform the duties and exercise the powers of the Treasurer and shall perform such other duties and have such other powers as the Members may from time to time prescribe.

B. Officers as Agents. The Officers, to the extent of their powers set forth in this Agreement or otherwise vested in them by action of the Members not inconsistent with this Agreement, are agents of the Company for the purpose of the Company's business, and the actions of the Officers taken in accordance with such powers shall bind the Company.

C. Fiduciary Duties of the Officers.

1. Loyalty and Care. Except to the extent otherwise provided herein, each Officer shall have a fiduciary duty of loyalty and care similar to that of officers of limited liability companies organized under the laws of New York.

2. Competition with the Company. The Officers shall refrain from dealing with the Company in the conduct of the Company's business as or on behalf of a party having an interest adverse to the Company unless a majority, by individual vote, of the Members, excluding the interested Officer if that Officer is a Member, consents thereto. The Officers shall refrain from competing with the Company in the conduct of the Company's business unless a majority, by individual vote, of the Members, excluding the interested Officer if that Officer is a Member, consents thereto. In the event that the interested Officer is the sole Member, no vote shall be required.

3. Duties Only to the Company. The Officers' fiduciary duties of loyalty and care are to the Company and not to the Members or other Officers. The Officers shall owe fiduciary duties of disclosure, good faith and fair dealing to the Company and to the Members, but shall owe no such duties to Officers unless the Officer is a Member. An Officer who so performs their duties shall not have any liability by reason of being or having been an Officer.

4. Reliance on Reports. In discharging the Officer's duties, an Officer is entitled to rely on information, opinions, reports, or statements, including financial statements and other financial data, if prepared or presented by any of the following:

- i. One or more Members, Officers, or employees of the Company whom the Officer reasonably believes to be reliable and competent in the matters presented.
- ii. Legal counsel, public accountants, or other persons as to matters the Officer reasonably believes are within the persons' professional or expert competence.
- iii. A committee of Members of which the affected Officer is not a participant, if the Officer reasonably believes the committee merits confidence.

VII. Dissolution.

A. Limits on Dissolution. The Company shall have a perpetual existence, and shall be dissolved, and its affairs shall be wound up only upon the provisions established in Section II (C) above.

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, the Bankruptcy of any Member shall not cause such Member to cease to be a Member of the Company and upon the occurrence of such an event, the business of the Company shall continue without dissolution.

Each Member waives any right that it may have to agree in writing to dissolve the Company upon the Bankruptcy of any Member or the occurrence of any event that causes any Member to cease to be a Member of the Company.

B. Winding Up. Upon the occurrence of any event specified in Section II(C), the Company shall continue solely for the purpose of winding up its affairs in an orderly manner, liquidating its assets, and satisfying the claims of its creditors. One or more Members, selected by the remaining Members, shall be responsible for overseeing the winding up and liquidation of the Company, shall take full account of the liabilities of the Company and its assets, shall either cause its assets to be distributed as provided under this Agreement or sold, and if sold as promptly as is consistent with obtaining the fair market value thereof, shall cause the proceeds therefrom, to the extent sufficient therefor, to be applied and distributed as provided under this Agreement.

C. Distributions in Kind. Any non-cash asset distributed to one or more Members in liquidation of the Company shall first be valued at its fair market value (net of any liability secured by such asset that such Member assumes or takes subject to) to determine the profits or losses that would have resulted if such asset were sold for such value, such profit or loss shall then be allocated as provided under this Agreement. The fair market value of such asset shall be determined by the Members or, if any Member objects, by an independent appraiser (any such appraiser must be recognized as an expert in valuing the type of asset involved) approved by the Members.

D. Termination. The Company shall terminate when (i) all of the assets of the Company, after payment of or due provision for all debts, liabilities and obligations of the Company, shall have been distributed to the Members in the manner provided for under this Agreement and (ii) the Company's registration with the state of New York shall have been canceled in the manner required by New York law.

E. Accounting. Within a reasonable time after complete liquidation, the Company Treasurer shall furnish the Members with a statement which shall set forth the assets and liabilities of the Company as at the date of dissolution and the proceeds and expenses of the disposition thereof.

F. Limitations on Payments Made in Dissolution. Except as otherwise specifically provided in this Agreement, each Member shall only be entitled to look solely to the assets of the Company for the return of its Initial Contribution and shall have no recourse for its Initial Contribution and/or share of profits (upon dissolution or otherwise) against any other Member.

G. Notice to New York Authorities. Upon the winding up of the Company, the Member with the highest percentage of Membership Interest in the Company shall be responsible for the filing of all appropriate notices of dissolution with New York and any other appropriate state or federal authorities or agencies as may be required by law. In the event that two or more Members have equally high percentages of Membership Interest in the Company, the Member with the longest continuous tenure as a Member of the Company shall be responsible for the filing of such notices.

VIII. Exculpation and Indemnification.

A. No Member, Officer, employee or agent of the Company and no employee, agent or affiliate of a Member (collectively, the "Covered Persons") shall be liable to the Company or any other person who has an interest in or claim against the Company for any loss, damage or claim incurred by reason of any act or omission performed or omitted by such Covered Person in good faith on behalf of the Company and in a manner reasonably believed to be within the scope of the authority conferred on such Covered Person by this Agreement, except that a Covered Person shall be liable for any such loss, damage or claim incurred by reason of such Covered Person's gross negligence or willful misconduct.

B. To the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, a Covered Person shall be entitled to indemnification from the Company for any loss, damage or claim incurred by such Covered Person by reason of any act or omission performed or omitted by such Covered Person in good faith on behalf of the Company and in a manner reasonably believed to be within the scope of the authority conferred on such Covered Person by this Agreement. Expenses, including legal fees, incurred by a Covered Person defending any claim, demand, action, suit or proceeding shall be paid by the Company. The Covered Person shall be liable to repay such amount if it is determined that the Covered Person is not entitled to be indemnified as authorized in this Agreement. No Covered Person shall be entitled to be indemnified in respect of any loss, damage or claim incurred by such Covered Person by reason of such Covered Person's gross negligence or willful misconduct with respect to such acts or omissions. Any indemnity under this Agreement shall be provided out of and to the extent of Company assets only.

C. A Covered Person shall be fully protected in relying in good faith upon the records of the Company and upon such information, opinions, reports or statements presented to the Company by any person as to matters the Covered Person reasonably believes are within such other person's professional or expert competence and who has been selected with reasonable care by or on behalf of the Company, including information, opinions, reports or statements as to the value and amount of the assets, liabilities, or any other facts pertinent to the existence and amount of assets from which distributions to the Members might properly be paid.

D. To the extent that, at law or in equity, a Covered Person has duties (including fiduciary duties) and liabilities relating thereto to the Company or to any other Covered Person, a Covered Person acting under this Agreement shall not be liable to the Company or to any other Covered Person for its good faith reliance on the provisions of this Agreement. The provisions of the Agreement, to the extent that they restrict the duties and liabilities of a Covered Person otherwise existing at law or in equity, are agreed by the Members to replace such other duties and liabilities of such Covered Person.

E. The foregoing provisions of this Article VIII shall survive any termination of this Agreement.

IX. Insurance.

The Company shall have the power to purchase and maintain insurance, including insurance on behalf of any Covered Person against any liability asserted against such person and incurred by such Covered Person in any such capacity, or arising out of such Covered Person's status as an agent of the Company, whether or not the Company would have the power to indemnify such person against such liability under the provisions of Article VIII or under applicable law. This is separate and apart from any business insurance that may be required as part of the business in which the Company is engaged.

X. Settling Disputes.

All Members agree to enter into mediation before filing suit against any other Member or the Company for any dispute arising from this Agreement or Company. Members agree to attend one session of mediation before filing suit. If any Member does not attend mediation, or the dispute is not settled after one session of mediation, the Members are free to file suit. Any law suits will be under the jurisdiction of the state of New York.

XI. Independent Counsel.

All Members entering into this Agreement have been advised of their right to seek the advice of independent legal counsel before signing this Agreement. All Members and each of them have entered into this Agreement freely and voluntarily and without any coercion or duress.

XII. General Provisions.

A. Notices. All notices, offers or other communications required or permitted to be given pursuant to this Agreement shall be in writing and may be personally served or sent by United States mail and shall be deemed to have been given when delivered in person or three (3) business days after deposit in United States mail, registered or certified, postage prepaid, and properly addressed, by or to the appropriate party.

B. Number of Days. In computing the number of days (other than business days) for purposes of this Agreement, all days shall be counted, including Saturdays, Sundays and holidays; provided, however, that if the final day of any time period falls on a Saturday, Sunday or holiday on which national banks are or may elect to be closed, then the final day shall be deemed to be the next day which is not a Saturday, Sunday or such holiday.

C. Execution of Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts, each of which shall be an original, and all of which shall together constitute one and the same instrument.

D. Severability. The provisions of this Agreement are independent of and separable from each other, and no provision shall be affected or rendered invalid or unenforceable by virtue of the fact that for any reason any other or others of them may be invalid or unenforceable in whole or in part.

E. Headings. The Article and Section headings in this Agreement are for convenience and they form no part of this Agreement and shall not affect its interpretation.

F. Controlling Law. This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in all respects in accordance with the laws of the state of New York (without regard to conflicts of law principles thereof).

G. Application of New York Law. Any matter not specifically covered by a provision of this Agreement shall be governed by the applicable provisions of New York law.

H. Amendment. This Agreement may be amended only by written consent of the Board and the Member. Re: Justification for Emergency Procurement of Surgical Masks

The Nassau County Office of Emergency Management requests an emergency procurement of items needed to help Nassau County and the County's health care providers to respond to the COVID-19, 2020 Coronavirus outbreak. This procurement of disposable surgical masks is of utmost urgency to protect our first responders and medical professionals as they encounter and treat COVID-19 afflicted patients. These masks will primarily be used by patients at hospitals and during EMS transport, but should the need arise, can substitute as a first responder mask where the N95 is used now. Proper personal protective equipment (PPE) is essential to assist our response professionals in performing their jobs safely and effectively during this outbreak.

Currently, we have less than 15k surgical masks on hand and our burn rate has been approximately 135k per week. While we do have orders placed through normal procurement channels such as Grainger and Fastenal, their supply is extremely limited. Grainger reported to OEM that the Federal government has been the primary recipient of 3M product for the past several weeks, effectively shutting down supply channels for many forms of PPE. In calling a list of vendors (attached) inquiring about availability of PPE, we were advised by all that nothing is currently available.

Out of the countless number of vendors that have contacted OEM saying they have or can acquire PPE, OEM has only found two that will accept a County PO - MPGGO and TrendiDirect. While MPGGO is asking .995 per mask, they promise immediate delivery. TrendiDirect is asking .90 per mask for the identical commodity but needs a 1 week lead time for product delivery with a limit to smaller orders.

Also, we have contacted NUMC and they have advised the surgical mask the vendors have identified are acceptable to them (see attached emails).

This procurement will serve Nassau's Police Department (2,000 members), volunteer and PD EMS units (2,000 members) as well as the our medical professionals (over 100,000 members) serving Nassau's 1.35 million residents in NUMC as well as other private hospitals.

When our First Responders arrive on scene, often the exact details of the aided may not have been clearly relayed to dispatch from the 911 caller. With today's COVID-19 threat, all first responders have to act as though the aided is positive for the virus. When the aided arrives at the hospital ED, the same presumption should also apply. As such, proper PPE, such as a surgical mask, is an essential component of our first responder's and medical professional's own personal safety as well as the safety of an aided resident. This PPE is necessary to ensure our aided residents continue to receive appropriate and timely medical care, while preventing and reducing the spread of COVID-19.

Jonathan/Gus,

We may have a legitimate opportunity for 1.2m blue surgical masks. See attached photos. While EMS here in the EOC say these will be good for patients and even their members if N95's run out, I need your opinion on viability in your facility. I'm asked Dr. Eisenstein for his opinion, too. Thank you.

III. This is a renewal, extension or amendment of an existing contract.

The contract was originally executed by Nassau County on _____ [date]. This is a renewal or extension pursuant to the contract, or an amendment within the scope of the contract or RFP (copies of the relevant pages are attached). The original contract was entered into after _____ _____ [describe procurement method, i.e., RFP, three proposals evaluated, etc.] Attach a copy of the most recent evaluation of the contractor's performance for any contract to be renewed or extended. If the contractor has not received a satisfactory evaluation, the department must explain why the contractor should nevertheless be permitted to continue to contract with the county.

IV. Pursuant to Executive Order No. 1 of 1993, as amended, at least three proposals were solicited and received. The attached memorandum from the department head describes the proposals received, along with the cost of each proposal.

- A. The contract has been awarded to the proposer offering the lowest cost proposal; OR:
- B. The attached memorandum contains a detailed explanation as to the reason(s) why the contract was awarded to other than the lowest-cost proposer. The attachment includes a specific delineation of the unique skills and experience, the specific reasons why a proposal is deemed superior, and/or why the proposer has been judged to be able to perform more quickly than other proposers.

V. Pursuant to Executive Order No. 1 of 1993 as amended, the attached memorandum from the department head explains why the department did not obtain at least three proposals.

- A. There are only one or two providers of the services sought or less than three providers submitted proposals. The memorandum describes how the contractor was determined to be the sole source provider of the personal service needed or explains why only two proposals could be obtained. If two proposals were obtained, the memorandum explains that the contract was awarded to the lowest cost proposer, or why the selected proposer offered the higher quality proposal, the proposer's unique and special experience, skill, or expertise, or its availability to perform in the most immediate and timely manner.
- B. The memorandum explains that the contractor's selection was dictated by the terms of a federal or New York State grant, by legislation or by a court order. (Copies of the relevant documents are attached).
- C. Pursuant to General Municipal Law Section 104, the department is purchasing the services required through a New York State Office of General Services contract no. _____, and the attached memorandum explains how the purchase is within the scope of the terms of that contract.

D. Pursuant to General Municipal Law Section 119-o, the department is purchasing the services required through an inter-municipal agreement.

VI. This is a human services contract with a not-for-profit agency for which a competitive process has not been initiated. Attached is a memorandum that explains the reasons for entering into this contract without conducting a competitive process, and details when the department intends to initiate a competitive process for the future award of these services. For any such contract, where the vendor has previously provided services to the county, attach a copy of the most recent evaluation of the vendor's performance. If the contractor has not received a satisfactory evaluation, the department must explain why the contractor should nevertheless be permitted to contract with the county.

In certain limited circumstances, conducting a competitive process and/or completing performance evaluations may not be possible because of the nature of the human services program, or because of a compelling need to continue services through the same provider. In those circumstances, attach an explanation of why a competitive process and/or performance evaluation is inapplicable.

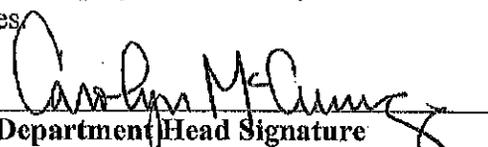

VII. This is a public works contract for the provision of architectural, engineering or surveying services. The attached memorandum provides details of the department's compliance with Board of Supervisors' Resolution No.928 of 1993, including its receipt and evaluation of annual Statements of Qualifications & Performance Data, and its negotiations with the most highly qualified firms.

VIII. Participation of Minority Group Members and Women in Nassau County Contracts. The selected contractor has agreed that it has an obligation to utilize best efforts to hire MWBE sub-contractors. Proof of the contractual utilization of best efforts as outlined in Exhibit "EE" may be requested at any time, from time to time, by the Comptroller's Office prior to the approval of claim vouchers.

IX. Department MWBE responsibilities. To ensure compliance with MWBE requirements as outlined in Exhibit "EE", Department will require vendor to submit list of sub-contractor requirements prior to the contract being submitted to the Comptroller.

X. Vendor will not require any sub-contractors.

In addition, if this is a contract with an individual or with an entity that has only one or two employees: a review of the criteria set forth by the Internal Revenue Service, Revenue Ruling No. 87-41, 1987-1 C.B. 296, attached as Appendix A to the Comptroller's Memorandum, dated February 13, 2004, concerning independent contractors and employees indicates that the contractor would not be considered an employee for federal tax purposes.

CONTRACTING AGENCY: The Cedarmore Corporation, Inc

AUTHORIZED AGENCY PERSON: Frank A. White

ADDRESS: 161 Lakeview Avenue, Freeport, New York 11520

TERM OF CONTRACT: 01/01/20-12/31/22

CONTRACT AMOUNT: $105,000.00

Youth Empowerment Series: Girlz Talk, BoyzN2Men, (YES) serves as a feeder program for all Cedarmore Programs. This series of youth programs will provide interested youth an opportunity to experience the high quality programs designed by Cedarmore. "Girlz Talk" is an annual conference where more than 400 girls ages 10 – 18 gather for a full day of critical, culturally relevant, age appropriate conversations led by leading national and local experts. It is the largest gathering of girls from diverse communities in the Long Island area. Similarly, "BoyzN2Men" is a day of interactive workshops, talkback sessions, and career mentoring with national experts, male role models, athletes, and mentors presenting culturally relevant strategies to succeed as the attendees' transition from boys into men. The YES "Continuing the Conversation" component is aimed at college preparedness. Youth participate in sessions led by expert facilitators that focus on Test Taking Strategies for College Entrance Exams, College Essay Writing, as well as interviewing, networking, and application completion. The "Book Club with Angela Yee" continues the conversation for middle school students.

The Young Entrepreneurs Training Program (YETP) has taught entrepreneurship to children between the ages of 10 and 18 for 15 years. We apply an experiential learning approach to entrepreneurship. Therefore, participants form companies and launch a business during the three weeks of the program. The YETP is an award- winning program which prepared a team to win first place at the University of Delaware Business Plan competition on 3 separate years. Our students have also placed in the Nassau County Comptroller's Business Plan Competition. Our alumni are middle school students, high school students, college graduates, graduates of master's degree programs, business owners, counselors, and corporate employees.

Our 2019 class was no exception. The students formed 5 companies from a sporting business to a natural beauty company. One company launched t-shirts that reflected currency from different countries. The participants launched at an International Street Fair and all 5 businesses made a profit. The final competition saw each company present their business at a Shark Tank Competition to business owners and political leaders from the community. Business owners earned a profit after launching their businesses and many won financial prizes as a result of the Shark Tank competition. The YETP has followed the aforementioned model for over a decade. The program includes 3 weeks of enrichment from 8:30-4 PM each day, lunch, snacks and trips. We pride ourselves on being one of the few programs in Nassau County that teach entrepreneurship and where children earn money. A number of our participants have finished the program multiple times.

DETAILED DESCRIPTION OF PERFORMANCE STANDARDS/MEASURES INSTRUCTION:

Performance standards are measured by evaluating multiple factors. One factor is the business launch. We are able to measure the success of the program based on how each program participant performs at the business launch. In most cases, participants are eager and enthusiastic to launch their businesses and therefore, engage in all activities necessary to achieve success. Thus, we measure success based on the effort of participants to complete the mission of launching a business. The business plan competition also provides a means by which we can measure the effectiveness of the program. Students who are well prepared and effective when discussing their business embodies the success of the program and reflect the fact that we have effectively achieved our goal of teaching entrepreneurship. Success is also measured by the profits made by each company. Finally, each participant takes a pre-test at the outset of the program and completes a post-test on the last day. The difference in scores on the pre-test and the post-test also serves as a tool to evaluate the effectiveness of the program.

Performance Standards/Measures Instruction:

In this section, contractor must provide its methods for performance and achieving deliverables under this Agreement. Please identify and include indicators of program success during the contract year and how planned versus actual performance will be assessed.

Technical and Capacity Building Instruction:

Use of contract funds:

The Contractor of funds exceeding $50,000 shall utilize a percentage of the contract amount to comply with the technical and capacity building requirement. Contractor shall utilize funds of not less than $1,000 and not greater than $2,000 of the total amount of the Contract.

Contractor of funds totaling less than $50,000 shall receive an additional $1,000 for the strict purpose of complying with the Technical and Capacity Building Requirement.

Equal Employment Opportunities for Minorities and Women

The provisions of this Appendix EE are hereby made a part of the document to which it is attached.

The Contractor shall comply with all federal, State and local statutory and constitutional anti-discrimination provisions. In addition, Local Law No. 14-2002, entitled "Participation by Minority Group Members and Women in Nassau County Contracts," governs all County Contracts as defined herein and solicitations for bids or proposals for County Contracts. In accordance with Local Law 14-2002:

- (a) The Contractor shall not discriminate against employees or applicants for employment because of race, creed, color, national origin, sex, age, disability or marital status in recruitment, employment, job assignments, promotions, upgradings, demotions, transfers, layoffs, terminations, and rates of pay or other forms of compensation. The Contractor will undertake or continue existing programs related to recruitment, employment, job assignments, promotions, upgradings, transfers, and rates of pay or other forms of compensation to ensure that minority group members and women are afforded equal employment opportunities without discrimination.
- (b) At the request of the County contracting agency, the Contractor shall request each employment agency, labor union, or authorized representative of workers with which it has a collective bargaining or other agreement or understanding, to furnish a written statement that such employment agency, union, or representative will not discriminate on the basis of race, creed, color, national origin, sex, age, disability, or marital status and that such employment agency, labor union, or representative will affirmatively cooperate in the implementation of the Contractor's obligations herein.
- (c) The Contractor shall state, in all solicitations or advertisements for employees, that, in the performance of the County Contract, all qualified applicants will be afforded equal employment opportunities without discrimination because of race, creed, color, national origin, sex, age, disability or marital status.
- (d) The Contractor shall make best efforts to solicit active participation by certified minority or women-owned business enterprises ("Certified M/WBEs") as defined in Section 101 of Local Law No. 14-2002, for the purpose of granting of Subcontracts.
- (e) The Contractor shall, in its advertisements and solicitations for Subcontractors, indicate its interest in receiving bids from Certified M/WBEs and the requirement that Subcontractors must be equal opportunity employers.
- (f) Contractors must notify and receive approval from the respective Office Head prior to issuing any Subcontracts and, at the time of requesting such authorization, must submit a signed Best Efforts Checklist.
- (g) Contractors for projects under the supervision of the County's Department of Public Works shall also submit a utilization plan listing all proposed Subcontractors so that, to the greatest extent feasible, all Subcontractors will be approved prior to commencement of work. Any additions or changes to the list of subcontractors under the utilization plan shall be approved by the Commissioner of the Department of Public Works when made. A copy of the utilization plan any additions or changes thereto

(h) At any time after Subcontractor approval has been requested and prior to being granted, the contracting agency may require the Contractor to submit Documentation Demonstrating Best Efforts to Obtain Certified Minority or Women-owned Business Enterprises. In addition, the contracting agency may require the Contractor to submit such documentation at any time after Subcontractor approval when the contracting agency has reasonable cause to believe that the existing Best Efforts Checklist may be inaccurate. Within ten working days (10) of any such request by the contracting agency, the Contractor must submit Documentation.

(i) In the case where a request is made by the contracting agency or a Deputy County Executive acting on behalf of the contracting agency, the Contractor must, within two (2) working days of such request, submit evidence to demonstrate that it employed Best Efforts to obtain Certified M/WBE participation through proper documentation.

Failure to maintain such records shall be deemed failure to make Best Efforts to comply with this Appendix EE, evidence of false certification as M/WBE compliant or considered breach of the County Contract.

Upon receipt by the Executive Director of a complaint from a contracting agency that a County Contractor has failed to comply with the provisions of Local Law No. 14-2002, this Appendix EE or any other contractual provisions included in furtherance of Local Law No. 14-2002, the Executive Director will try to resolve the matter.

The basis for rejecting any M/WBE deemed unqualified by the County Contractor shall be included in the Best Effort Documentation

The contract was originally executed by Nassau County on 11/12/2013 [date]. This is a renewal or extension pursuant to the contract, or an amendment within the scope of the contract or RFP (copies of the relevant pages are attached). The original contract was entered into after a Request for Proposals was issued on Oct. 11, 2012. Six (6) proposals were received and scored and ranked. Change Healthcare (formerly MED3000) was selected as the highest ranking proposer. The County recently issued a new RFP for these services, and this extension is to ensure there is no gap in these important services. [describe procurement method, i.e., RFP, three proposals evaluated, etc.] Attach a copy of the most recent evaluation of the contractor's performance for any contract to be renewed or extended. If the contractor has not received a satisfactory evaluation, the department must explain why the contractor should nevertheless be permitted to continue to contract with the county.

IV. Pursuant to Executive Order No. 1 of 1993, as amended, at least three proposals were solicited and received. The attached memorandum from the department head describes the proposals received, along with the cost of each proposal.

- A. The contract has been awarded to the proposer offering the lowest cost proposal; OR:
- B. The attached memorandum contains a detailed explanation as to the reason(s) why the contract was awarded to other than the lowest-cost proposer. V. Pursuant to Executive Order No. 1 of 1993 as amended, the attached memorandum from the department head explains why the department did not obtain at least three proposals.

- A. There are only one or two providers of the services sought or less than three providers submitted proposals. The memorandum describes how the contractor was determined to be the sole source provider of the personal service needed or explains why only two proposals could be obtained. If two proposals were obtained, the memorandum explains that the contract was awarded to the lowest cost proposer, or why the selected proposer offered the higher quality proposal, the proposer's unique and special experience, skill, or expertise, or its availability to perform in the most immediate and timely manner.
- B. The memorandum explains that the contractor's selection was dictated by the terms of a federal or New York State grant, by legislation or by a court order. (Copies of the relevant documents are attached).
- C. Pursuant to General Municipal Law Section 104, the department is purchasing the services required through a New York State Office of General Services contract no. _____, and the attached memorandum explains how the purchase is within the scope of the terms of that contract.

D. Pursuant to General Municipal Law Section 119-o, the department is purchasing the services required through an inter-municipal agreement.

VI. This is a human services contract with a not-for-profit agency for which a competitive process has not been initiated. Attached is a memorandum that explains the reasons for entering into this contract without conducting a competitive process, and details when the department intends to initiate a competitive process for the future award of these services. For any such contract, where the vendor has previously provided services to the county, attach a copy of the most recent evaluation of the vendor's performance. If the contractor has not received a satisfactory evaluation, the department must explain why the contractor should nevertheless be permitted to contract with the county.

In certain limited circumstances, conducting a competitive process and/or completing performance evaluations may not be possible because of the nature of the human services program, or because of a compelling need to continue services through the same provider. In those circumstances, attach an explanation of why a competitive process and/or performance evaluation is inapplicable.

VII. This is a public works contract for the provision of architectural, engineering or surveying services. The attached memorandum provides details of the department's compliance with Board of Supervisors' Resolution No. 928 of 1993, including its receipt and evaluation of annual Statements of Qualifications & Performance Data, and its negotiations with the most highly qualified firms.

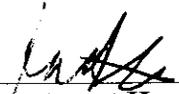

Instructions with respect to Sections VIII, IX and X: All Departments must check the box for VIII. Then, check the box for either IX or X, as applicable.

VIII. Participation of Minority Group Members and Women in Nassau County Contracts. The selected contractor has agreed that it has an obligation to utilize best efforts to hire MWBE sub-contractors. Proof of the contractual utilization of best efforts as outlined in Exhibit "EE" may be requested at any time, from time to time, by the Comptroller's Office prior to the approval of claim vouchers.

IX. Department MWBE responsibilities. To ensure compliance with MWBE requirements as outlined in Exhibit "EE", Department will require vendor to submit list of sub-contractor requirements prior to submission of the first claim voucher, for services under this contract being submitted to the Comptroller.

1. Nature of Business and Organization

Organization

Change Healthcare Inc. (the “Company”), a Delaware corporation, was formed on June 22, 2016 to hold an equity investment in Change Healthcare LLC (the “Joint Venture”), a joint venture between the Company and McKesson Corporation (“McKesson”). As of September 30, 2019, the Company and McKesson each owned approximately 41% and 59%, respectively, of the membership interest in the Joint Venture, subject to adjustment based on exercise of equity-based awards or other changes in the number of the Joint Venture’s membership units outstanding.

The Transactions

In June 2016, the Company, the Joint Venture, Change Healthcare Holdings, LLC, Change Healthcare Intermediate Holdings, LLC, Change Healthcare Performance, Inc. (“Legacy CHC”) and its stockholders—including affiliates of The Blackstone Group, Inc. (formerly known as the Blackstone Group L.P.) (“Blackstone”) and Hellman & Friedman LLC entered into an Agreement of Contribution and Sale (the “Contribution Agreement”) with McKesson (together with the Company, the “Members”). Under the terms of the Contribution Agreement, the parties agreed to form the Joint Venture, a joint venture that combined the majority of the McKesson Technology Solutions businesses, excluding McKesson’s Enterprise Information Solutions business and RelayHealth Pharmacy Network (such contributed businesses, “Core MTS”), with substantially all of the assets and operations of Legacy CHC, but excluding Legacy CHC’s pharmacy claims switching and prescription routing businesses (such excluded business, the “eRx Network” and the businesses contributed by Legacy CHC, together with Core MTS, the “Contributed Businesses”). The creation of the Joint Venture, including the contribution of the Contributed Businesses and related transactions, is collectively referred to as the “Transactions”. The Transactions closed on March 1, 2017.

Amendment of Certificate of Incorporation

Effective June 26, 2019 and in contemplation of its initial public offering of common stock, the Company amended its certificate of incorporation to effect a 126.4 for 1 stock split for all previously issued shares of common stock, to increase the authorized number of common stock, and to authorize shares of preferred stock. Following this amendment, the authorized shares include 9,000,000,000 shares of common stock (par value $.001 per share), 1 share of Class X stock (par value $.001 per share), and 900,000,000 shares of preferred stock (par value $.001 per share). All issued or outstanding shares or related share-based payment arrangement disclosures included herein have been retrospectively adjusted for the stock split.

Initial Public Offering

Effective July 1, 2019, the Company completed its initial public offering of 49,285,713 shares of common stock and a concurrent offering of 5,750,000 of tangible equity units (“TEUs”) for net proceeds of $608,679 and $278,875, respectively. The proceeds of the offering of common stock were subsequently contributed to the Joint Venture in exchange for 49,285,713 additional units of the Joint Venture, which together with the Company’s existing holdings represents an approximately 41% interest in the Joint Venture. The proceeds of the offering of TEUs were used to acquire TEUs of the Joint Venture that substantially mirror the terms of the TEUs included in the offering. The Joint Venture, in turn, used the proceeds received from the Company to repay $805,000 of its indebtedness under the Term Loan Facility without penalty in July 2019. The Joint Venture repaid an additional $85,000 of its indebtedness under the Term Loan Facility without penalty during the three months ended September 30, 2019 for a total paydown of $890,000.

2. Basis of Presentation

Principles of Consolidation

The accompanying unaudited condensed financial statements have been prepared in accordance with United States generally accepted accounting principles (“GAAP”) for interim financial information and with the instructions to Form 10-Q and Rule 10-01 of Regulation S-X of the Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) Guidelines, Rules and Regulations and, in the opinion of management, reflect all normal recurring adjustments necessary for a fair presentation of results for the unaudited interim periods presented. Certain information and footnote disclosures normally included in

Change Healthcare Inc.

(unaudited and amounts in thousands, except share and per share amounts) annual financial statements prepared in accordance with GAAP have been condensed or omitted. The results of operations for the interim period are not necessarily indicative of the results to be obtained for the full fiscal year. All intercompany accounts and transactions have been eliminated in the unaudited condensed financial statements.

Accounting Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the financial statements and accompanying notes. The Company bases its estimates on historical experience, current business factors and various other assumptions that the Company believes are necessary to consider in order to form a basis for making judgments about the carrying values of assets and liabilities, the recorded amounts of expenses and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities. The Company is subject to uncertainties such as the impact of future events, economic, environmental and political factors and changes in the Company's business environment; therefore, actual results could differ from these estimates. Accordingly, the accounting estimates used in the preparation of the Company's financial statements will change as new events occur, as more experience is acquired, as additional information is obtained and as the Company's operating environment changes. Changes in estimates are made when circumstances warrant. Such changes in estimates and refinements in estimation methodologies are reflected in the reported results of operations; and if material, the effects of changes in estimates are disclosed in the notes to the financial statements. Estimates and assumptions by management affect: the carrying value of the Company's investments; the provision and benefit for income taxes and related deferred tax accounts; contingencies; and the value attributed to equity awards. Additionally, the Company's financial statements are impacted by estimates and assumptions made by management that affect the financial statements of the Joint Venture, including: the allowance for doubtful accounts; the fair value assigned to assets acquired and liabilities assumed in business combinations; tax receivable agreement obligations; the fair value of interest rate cap agreement obligations; measurement of the components of tangible equity units; contingent consideration; loss accruals; the carrying value of long-lived assets (including goodwill and intangible assets); the classification and measurement of assets held for sale; the amortization period of long-lived assets (excluding goodwill); the carrying value, capitalization and amortization of software development costs; the provision and benefit for income taxes and related deferred tax accounts; certain accrued expenses; revenue recognition; contingencies; and the value attributed to equity awards.

Tangible Equity Units

In connection with the initial public offering, the Company completed an offering of tangible equity units (TEUs). Each TEU comprises an amortizing note and purchase contract, both of which are freestanding instruments and separate units of account. The amortizing notes were issued at par and are classified as debt on the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheet, with scheduled principal payments over the next twelve months reflected in current maturities of long-term debt. The purchase contracts are accounted for as prepaid forward contracts and classified as equity. The TEU proceeds and issuance costs were allocated to the amortizing notes and purchase contracts on a relative fair value basis. See Note 10 for further discussion.

Other Investments

The Company holds investments in tangible equity units issued by the Joint Venture with terms that substantially mirror the TEUs issued by the Company. Each TEU comprises an amortizing note and forward purchase contract, both of which are freestanding instruments and separate units of account. The Company accounts for its investment in each component at fair value. Unrealized gains and losses resulting from changes in the fair value of the investment in debt securities are included as a component of other comprehensive income. Unrealized gains and losses resulting from changes in the fair value of the investment in the equity purchase contracts are recorded in current period earnings, in accordance with ASU 2016-01. See Note 11 for further discussion.

Recently Adopted Accounting Pronouncements

In April 2019, the Company adopted Financial Accounting Standards Board ("FASB") Accounting Standards Update ("ASU") No. 2018-07 on a modified retrospective basis, which expands the scope of Topic 718 to include share-based payment transactions for acquiring goods and services from nonemployees. Among other provisions, the measurement date for awards to nonemployees was changed from the earlier of the date at which a commitment for performance by the counterparty was reached or the date at which performance was complete under the previous guidance to the grant date under this update. Because the Company's equity-based compensation was previously subject to remeasurement at fair value each quarter under previous authoritative literature, the adoption of this update had no material direct effect on the Company's consolidated financial statements. As described in Note 7, however, the adoption of this update changed the relationship between the equity-based compensation and the accounting for the freestanding option (i.e. the Dividend receivable).

Change Healthcare Inc.
Notes to Condensed Financial Statements
(unaudited and amounts in thousands, except share and per share amounts)

In April 2019, the Joint Venture adopted Accounting Standards Codification (“ASC”) 606, Revenue from Contracts with Customers, which replaces most prior general and industry specific revenue recognition guidance with a principles-based comprehensive revenue recognition framework on a modified retrospective basis. Under this revised framework, a company will recognize revenue to depict the transfer of promised goods and services to customers in an amount that reflects the consideration to which the company expects to be entitled in exchange for those goods and services. As the Company’s operations consist principally of an investment in the Joint Venture, its financial statements reflect no revenue and, accordingly, the Company recognized no direct impact on its financial statements from the adoption of this update. However, upon adoption, the Joint Venture recognized a cumulative effect adjustment to its Members’ deficit. As a result of the impact of the adoption of ASC 606 to the Joint Venture’s Members’ equity (deficit), the Company was required to recognize a proportionate amount of this cumulative effect adjustment to its April 1, 2019 retained earnings as well. The effect is disclosed within a separate caption of the accompanying condensed statement of stockholders’ equity.

Accounting Pronouncements Not Yet Adopted

In June 2016, the FASB issued ASUNo. 2016-13, as amended by ASUNo. 2018-19, which requires that a financial asset (or group of financial assets) measured at amortized cost be presented at the net amount expected to be collected based on relevant information about past events, including historical experience, current conditions and reasonable and supportable forecasts that affect the collectability of the reported amount. This update is scheduled to be effective for the Company beginning April 1, 2021, with early adoption permitted beginning April 1, 2019. The Company is currently assessing the potential effects this update may have on its condensed consolidated financial statements.

In August 2018, the FASB issued ASU2018-13, which modifies the disclosure requirements for fair value measurements. ASU2018-13 is effective for public companies for annual and interim periods beginning after December 15, 2019. Early adoption is permitted for either the entire standard or only the provisions that eliminate or modify requirements. The Company is currently assessing the potential effects this update may have on its financial statement disclosures.

3. Equity Method Investment in Change Healthcare LLC

Exchange of Equity Method Investments

In connection with the Transactions, the Company exchanged its 45.615% investment in Legacy CHC for 30% of the membership units of the Joint Venture. The Joint Venture used proceeds from the issuance of debt to acquire the remaining 54.385% of Legacy CHC. The Company accounted for this exchange of investments as a non-monetary transaction at their respective carrying values. Prior to the Transactions, the investors of Legacy CHC accounted for their investments at fair value. As a result, the book basis and fair value of the Company’s investment in Legacy CHC were generally the same such that no gain was recognized as a result of the Transactions.

The fair value of the Joint Venture was determined at March 1, 2017 using a combination of the income and the market valuation approaches. Under the income approach, a discounted cash flow model (“DCF”) was used in which cash flows anticipated over several periods, plus a terminal value at the end of that time horizon, are discounted to their present value using an appropriate expected rate of return. The discount rate used for cash flows reflects capital market conditions and the specific risks associated with the business. Under the market approach, valuation multiples of reasonably similar publicly traded companies or guideline companies are applied to the operating data of the subject business to derive the estimated fair value. These valuation approaches are considered a Level 3 fair value measurement. Fair value determination requires complex assumptions and judgment by management in projecting future operating results, selecting guideline companies for comparisons, determining appropriate market value multiples, selecting the discount rate to measure the risks inherent in the future cash flows and assessing the business’s life cycle and the competitive trends impacting the business, including considering technical, legal, regulatory, or economic barriers to entry. Any material changes in key assumptions, including failure to meet business plans, deterioration in the financial market, an increase in interest rate or an increase in the cost of equity financing by market participants within the industry or other unanticipated events and circumstances, may affect such estimates.

Additional Ownership Interest

Following the initial public offering, the Company contributed the proceeds of the offering of common stock to the Joint Venture in exchange for 49,285,713 additional units of the Joint Venture, which represented approximately 11% of additional ownership interest. Resulting from the additional ownership interest acquired, the Company measured additional basis differences at July 1, 2019 based on the fair value of the Joint Venture's assets and liabilities as of the date of the initial public offering, and using valuation approaches substantially similar to those used as of the date of the Transactions.

Equity Method Investment in Change Healthcare LLC

The Company accounts for its investment in the Joint Venture using the equity method of accounting. During the three and six months ended September 30, 2019 and 2018, the Company recorded a proportionate share of the earnings from this investment based on its ownership percentage during each respective period, which included transaction and integration related expenses incurred by the Joint Venture and the Company's portion of basis adjustments including amortization expenses associated with equity method intangible assets. These amounts are aggregated and recorded under the caption, "Loss from Equity Method Investment in the Joint Venture" in the accompanying condensed statements of operations.

Summarized financial information of the Joint Venture is as follows:

	Three Months Ended September 30,		Six Months Ended September 30,
	2019	2018	2019	2018
Statement of Operations Data:
Total revenue	$ 795,811	$ 800,190	$ 1,651,367	$ 1,623,453
Cost of operations (exclusive of depreciation and amortization)	$ 331,234	$ 327,563	$ 658,181	$ 664,993
Customer postage	$ 57,110	$ 62,404	$ 115,594	$ 127,962
Net income (loss)	$ (130)	$ 113,440	$ 71,785	$ 125,946

Subsequent to the Company's initial public offering of common stock, the Company now has a publicly available indication of the value of its investment in the Joint Venture. The fair value that was derived from trading prices of the Company's common stock at September 30, 2019 indicated a potential impairment to the carrying value of its investment in the Joint Venture. Accordingly, the Company evaluated its equity method investment for an other-than-temporary impairment ("OTTI"). The Company considered various factors in determining whether an OTTI has occurred, including the Company's ability and intent to hold the investment, the trading history available, the implied EBITDA valuation multiples compared to public guideline companies, the Joint Venture's ability to achieve milestones and any notable operational and strategic changes by the Joint Venture. After the evaluation, the Company determined that an OTTI had not occurred as of September 30, 2019 nor as of the date of this quarterly report on Form 10-Q. However, the Company may experience declines in the fair value of its investment in the Joint Venture, and it may determine an impairment loss will be required to be recognized in a future reporting period. Such determination will be based on the prevailing facts and circumstances, including those related to the reported results and disclosures of the Joint Venture as well as from changes in the market price of the Company's common stock.

In the event the Company obtains a controlling interest in the Joint Venture, the Company will evaluate its investment under the guidance in ASC 805 for a business combination achieved in stages. Upon such a change in control, the Company will remeasure its investment in the Joint Venture to fair value as of the date that control is obtained and will recognize a gain or loss in its statement of operations for the difference between the carrying value and fair value of its investment.

4. Legal Proceedings

In the ordinary course of business, the Company may become subject to various claims and legal proceedings. The Company is not currently a defendant in any pending litigation.

	2019	2018	2019	2018
Basic net income (loss) per share:

The calculation of diluted net income (loss) per share has not been presented due to the presence of a net loss for each period.

Due to their antidilutive effect, the following securities have been excluded from diluted net income (loss) per share for the periods indicated:

6. Income Taxes

The income tax benefit for the three months ended September 30, 2019 and 2018 was $13,620 and $6,783, respectively, which represents an effective tax rate of 12.7% and 26.7%, respectively. The income tax benefit for the six months ended September 30, 2019 and 2018 was $15,804 and $11,584, respectively, which represents an effective tax rate of 10.7% and 24.3%, respectively.

Fluctuations in our reported income tax rates from the statutory rate are primarily due to benefits recognized as a result of certain incentive tax credits resulting from research and experimental expenditures and discrete items recognized in the quarters.

McKesson Tax Receivable Agreement

In connection with the closing of the Transactions, the Joint Venture, subsidiaries of McKesson that serve as members of the Joint Venture (the “McK Members”), McKesson and the Company entered into a tax receivable agreement (the “McKesson Tax Receivable Agreement”). The McKesson Tax Receivable Agreement generally provides for the payment by the Joint Venture to the McK Members and it assigns 85% of the net cash tax savings realized (or, in certain circumstances, deemed to be realized) by the Company in periods ending on or after the date on which McKesson ceases to own at least 20% of the outstanding units of the Joint Venture (the “LLC Units”) as a result of (i) certain amortizable tax basis in assets transferred to the Joint Venture at the closing of the Transactions and (ii) imputed interest deductions and certain other tax attributes arising from payments under the McKesson Tax Receivable Agreement. Additionally, upon the occurrence of the first exchange of LLC Units by McKesson (or its permitted

Change Healthcare Inc.

transferees), if any, the Company has agreed to enter into an additional tax receivable agreement with the McK Members, pursuant to which the Company would be required to pay to the relevant McK Member 85% of the net cash tax savings, if any, arising from the Company's utilization of (i) certain tax basis increases resulting from the relevant exchange and payments under such additional tax receivable agreement and (ii) imputed interest deductions. The Company may also be required to enter into and make payments under an additional tax receivable agreement with McKesson in certain circumstances.

Because payments under the McKesson Tax Receivable Agreement are contingent upon McKesson's ceasing to own at least 20% of the Joint Venture and such an event was not probable at the inception of the McKesson Tax Receivable Agreement or as of September 30, 2019, no related obligation has been reflected on the accompanying condensed balance sheet.

Letter Agreement

The Company, the Joint Venture, McKesson and certain of McKesson's affiliates have entered into a letter agreement relating to the Contribution Agreement (the "Letter Agreement"). The Letter Agreement addresses miscellaneous tax-related matters, including (i) technical clarifications and modifications to the manner in which the Joint Venture allocates certain items of taxable income, loss and deduction among, and calculates and makes required tax distributions to, its members, (ii) the sharing of certain contingent tax benefits and expenses not addressed by the McKesson Tax Receivable Agreement or the tax matters agreement that the Company will enter into with McKesson in connection with a spin-off or split-off transaction (or a combination of the foregoing) that McKesson may, at its election, initiate and complete that would result, among other things, in the acquisition by the Company of all of McKesson's LLC Units and the issuance by the Company to McKesson and/or McKesson's securityholders of an equal number of shares of its common stock and (iii) procedures applicable in the case of certain tax proceedings. In particular, pursuant to the terms of the Letter Agreement, McKesson may adjust the manner in which depreciation or amortization deductions in respect of assets transferred to the Joint Venture at the closing of the Transactions are allocated among the Company, McKesson and certain of McKesson's affiliates beyond minimum amounts provided in the LLC Agreement. If an amount of deductions is allocated to the Company in excess of a specified minimum threshold, the Company will be required to make cash payments to McKesson equal to 100% of the tax savings of the Company attributable to such excess deductions for any tax period ending prior to the date on which McKesson ceases to own at least 20% of the outstanding LLC Units of the Joint Venture, after which the terms of the McKesson Tax Receivable Agreement will control. At September 30, 2019, the Company has recorded a liability to McKesson equal to $48,363, which reflects the amount payable for future tax savings the Company anticipates receiving as a result of deductions that are probable to be allocated by McKesson to the Company for the year ended March 31, 2019 and is reflected as Due to McKesson on the consolidated balance sheet.

7. Fair Value Measurements

The Company's assets and liabilities that are measured at fair value on a recurring basis consist of the Company's Dividend Receivable and Other Investments. The debt component of the tangible equity units issued by the Company is a Level 2 liability measured at fair value on a nonrecurring basis based on available market data and a discounted cash flow analysis (see Note 10). The tables below summarize the Dividend Receivable and Other Investments as of September 30, 2019 and March 31, 2019, aggregated by the level in the fair value hierarchy within which those measurements fall.

The Company is entitled to receive an additional unit of the Joint Venture for each share of stock issued by the Company. In the case of equity-based awards, the requirement to receive an additional unit of the Joint Venture upon exercise of such awards represents a freestanding derivative. Because the fair value measurement of this derivative involves significant unobservable inputs, the most significant of which is the use of a levered volatility calculation of a peer group of companies, the Company has determined that it represents a Level 3 fair value measurement.

Because the freestanding derivative is directly related to the Company's equity-based compensation awards, the valuation of the derivative is determined to be consistent with the valuation of the underlying equity-based awards (although we use a current period measurement date). As with the equity-based awards, changes in the value of the derivative are generally expected to fluctuate with changes in the value of the Company's common stock.

The following table summarizes the fair value of the freestanding derivative at September 30, 2019 and March 31, 2019, respectively:

Other Investments

The Company invested in a unit purchase contract and a debt instrument of the Joint Venture on terms that substantially mirror the economics of the TEUs (see Note 10). At September 30, 2019 and March 31, 2019, the Company's investment in the Joint Venture's debt securities were classified as "available-for-sale" and its investment in the Joint Venture's purchase contracts were accounted for as equity securities measured at fair value. Changes in unrealized gains and losses for the Company's investment in the Joint Venture's debt securities are recognized as adjustments to other comprehensive income (loss) while changes in unrealized gains and losses for the Company's investment in the Joint Venture's purchase contracts are recognized as adjustments to pretax income (loss). The fair value measurement of the investments is based on available market data and a discounted cash flow analysis of the Joint Venture's debt and equity securities for which the Company is investing.

Dividend Receivable

As the dividend receivable was initially received in connection with the contribution of assets to the Joint Venture, the initial fair value was treated as a component of the Company's contribution of assets and receipt of its Investment in the Joint Venture. During the three and six months ended September 30, 2019 and 2018, the Company recognized a decrease in the Dividend Receivable which was recorded as a component of Loss from Equity Method Investment in the Joint Venture. The result was that no net equity-based compensation related to employees of the Joint Venture was recognized in the financial statements of the Company for the three and six months ended September 30, 2019 and 2018.

Following the adoption of FASB ASUNo. 2018-07, however, the measurement of equity-based compensation generally becomes fixed at the date of grant such that the fair value of the dividend receivable is no longer correlated with the amount of equity compensation recognized. As a result, following the adoption of FASB ASU No. 2018-07, the Loss from Equity Method Investment in the Joint Venture is subject to variability associated with changes in the fair value of the equity-based awards.

Effective April 1, 2018, the Joint Venture adopted FASB ASUNo. 2017-12, which significantly changed the framework by which hedge accounting is recognized, presented and disclosed in the Joint Venture's financial statements. The adoption of this update by the Joint Venture resulted in a reclassification between its accumulated other comprehensive income (loss) and accumulated earnings (deficit).

Effective April 1, 2019, the Joint Venture adopted FASB ASUNo. 2018-02, which allows a reclassification from accumulated other comprehensive income to retained earnings for stranded tax effects resulting from the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017. The adoption of this update resulted in a reclassification between accumulative other comprehensive income (loss) and accumulated earnings (deficit).

As an investor in the Joint Venture, the Company has recognized its proportionate amount of these reclassifications as presented in the table above.

9. Equity Based Compensation

Effective as of the Company's initial public offering, the Company adopted the Change Healthcare Inc. 2019 Omnibus Incentive Plan (the "Omnibus Incentive Plan") pursuant to which 25.0 million shares of the Company's common stock have been reserved for issuance to employees, directors and consultants of the Company, the Joint Venture and its affiliates.

In connection with the Omnibus Incentive Plan, the Company, during the three and six months ended September 30, 2019, granted to the Joint Venture's employees and directors one or a combination of time-vesting restricted stock units (RSUs), time-vesting deferred stock units, performance stock units, and cash settled restricted stock units under vesting terms that generally vary from one to four years from the date of grant. Each of these instruments is described below.

Restricted Stock Units ("RSUs")—The Company granted 4,436,758 RSUs during the three and six months ended September 30, 2019. The RSUs are subject to either a graded vesting schedule over four years, or a one or four year cliff vesting schedule, depending on the terms of the specific award. Upon vesting, the RSUs are exchanged for shares of the Company's common stock.

Performance Stock Units ("PSUs")—The Company granted 1,079,621 PSUs during the three and six months ended September 30, 2019. The PSUs consist of two tranches, one for which the quantity of awards expected to vest varies based on the Joint Venture's compound annual revenue growth rate over a three year period in comparison to a target percentage and one for which the quantity of awards expected to vest varies based on the Joint Venture's compound annual Adjusted EBITDA growth rate over a three year period in comparison to a target percentage. The awards earned upon satisfaction of the performance conditions become vested on the fourth anniversary of the vesting commencement date of the award (i.e. continued service is required beyond the satisfaction of the performance condition prior to vesting). The Joint Venture recognizes compensation expense for the PSUs based on the number of awards that are considered probable to vest. Recognition of expense is based on the probability of achievement of performance targets and is periodically reevaluated.

Cash Settled Restricted Stock Units ("CSRSUs")—The Company granted 597,006 CSRSUs during the three and six months ended September 30, 2019. The CSRSUs are expected to vest ratably over three years. Upon vesting, however, the Company is required to pay cash in settlement of such CSRSUs based on their fair value at the date such CSRSUs vest.

Deferred Stock Units ("DSUs")—The Company granted 45,704 DSUs during the three and six months ended September 30, 2019. The DSUs vest 100% upon the one-year anniversary of the date of grant. Unlike the RSUs, however, the DSUs are exchanged for shares of the Company's common stock only following the participant's separation from service.

During the three and six months ended September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture recognized compensation expense of $6,096 related to awards granted under the Omnibus Incentive Plan. At September 30, 2019, aggregate unrecognized compensation expense of the Joint Venture related to the awards granted under the Omnibus Incentive Plan was $87,211.

10. Tangible Equity Units

In July 2019, the Company completed its offering of 5,750,000 TEUs. Total proceeds, net of underwriting discounts, were $278,875. Each TEU, which has a stated amount of $50, is comprised of a stock purchase contract and a senior amortizing note due June 30, 2022. The Company allocated the proceeds from the issuance of the TEUs to equity and debt based on the relative fair values of the respective components of each TEU. The value allocated to the stock purchase contracts is reflected net of issuance costs in additional paid in capital. The value allocated to the senior amortizing notes is reflected in debt on the accompanying balance sheet, with payments expected in the next twelve months reflected in current maturities of long-term debt. Issuance costs, reflected as a reduction of the face amount of the amortizing notes, are being accreted to the face amount of the debt under the effective interest method.

Change Healthcare Inc.
Notes to Condensed Financial Statements
(unaudited and amounts in thousands, except share and per share amounts)

The aggregate values assigned upon issuance of the TEUs, based on the relative fair value of the respective components of each TEU, were as follows:

	Equity Component	Debt Component	Total
Price per TEU	$ 41.7622	$ 8.2378	$ 50.00
Gross proceeds	240,133	47,367	287,500
Issuance costs	(7,204)	(1,421)	(8,625)
Net proceeds	$ 232,929	$ 45,946	$278,875

Each senior amortizing note has an initial principal amount of $8,2378 and bears interest at 5.5% per year. On each March 30, June 30, September 30 and December 30, the Company pays equal quarterly cash installments of $0.7500 per amortizing note (except for the September 30, 2019 installment payment, which was $0.7417 per amortizing note). Each installment constitutes a payment of interest and partial payment of principal. The carrying value and fair value of the senior amortizing notes as of September 30, 2019 was $42,537 and $43,896, respectively. Unless settled earlier, each purchase contract will automatically settle on June 30, 2022. The Company will deliver between a minimum of 18,429,325 shares and a maximum of 22,115,075 shares of the Company's common stock, subject to adjustment, based on the Applicable Market Value (as defined below) of the Company's common stock as described below:

- If the Applicable Market Value is greater than $15.60 per share, holders will receive 3.2051 shares of common stock per purchase contract.
- If the Applicable Market Value is less than or equal to $15.60 per share but greater than or equal to $13.00 per share, the holder will receive a number of shares of the Company's common stock per purchase contract equal to $50, divided by the Applicable Market Value; and
- If the Applicable Market Value is less than $13.00 per share, the holder will receive 3.8461 shares of common stock per purchase contract.

The Applicable Market Value is defined as the arithmetic average of the volume weighted average price per share of the Company's common stock over the twenty consecutive trading day period immediately preceding the balance sheet date, or June 30, 2022, for settlement of the stock purchase contracts.

The TEUs have a dilutive effect on the Company's net income (loss) per share. The 18,429,325 minimum shares to be issued are included in the calculation of basic net income (loss) per share. The difference between the minimum shares and the maximum shares are potentially dilutive securities, and accordingly, are included in the Company's diluted net income (loss) per share on a pro rata basis to the extent the Applicable Market Value is higher than $13.00 but is less than $15.60 at period end.

11. Other Investments

The proceeds of the offering of TEUs were used to acquire TEUs of the Joint Venture that substantially mirror the terms of the TEUs included in the offering. Under these mirrored arrangements, the Joint Venture is required to make cash payments or to transfer LLC Units to the Company concurrent with any cash payments or issuance of shares by the Company pursuant to the terms of its TEUs. The Company accounts for these mirror arrangements as investments in debt and equity securities.

At September 30, 2019 and March 31, 2019, the Company's investment in debt securities are classified as "available-for-sale" and its investment in forward purchase contracts are considered equity securities measured at fair value. Changes in unrealized gains and losses for the Company's debt securities are recognized as adjustments to other comprehensive income (loss) while changes in unrealized gains and losses for the Company's investment in forward purchase contracts are recognized as adjustments to pretax income (loss).

A summary of the Company's other investments at September 30, 2019 and March 31, 2019 is summarized in the tables that follow.

12. Subsequent Events

Agreement to Sell Office Property

In October 2019, the Joint Venture executed an agreement for the sale of its Alpharetta, GA office property for gross proceeds of approximately $31,500. The sale is expected to be completed during the third quarter of the Joint Venture's fiscal year. While the Joint Venture expects to recognize a gain of an immaterial amount as a result of this transaction, the Company expects, as a result of the write-off of basis differences associated with this office property, to recognize a loss within its Loss from equity method investment in the Joint Venture of approximately $14,000.

Recent Developments

Effective June 26, 2019, Change Healthcare Inc.'s Registration Statement on Form S-1 for the initial public offering of 49.3 million shares of common stock and the concurrent offering of 5.75 million tangible equity units ("TEUs") was declared effective by the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") and Change Healthcare Inc. subsequently amended its charter to authorize 9 billion shares of common stock and effected a 126.4 for 1 split of its common stock. Change Healthcare Inc.'s common stock and TEUs began trading the next day on the NASDAQ under the CHNG and CHNGU ticker symbols, respectively.

The offerings of common stock and TEUs were consummated on July 1, 2019 and resulted in Change Healthcare Inc. receiving net proceeds of $608.7 million and $278.9 million respectively, before consideration of offering costs paid subsequent to the offering from available cash. The proceeds of the offering of common stock were subsequently contributed to the Joint Venture in exchange for 49.3 million additional units of the Joint Venture, thereby resulting in an additional ownership in the Joint Venture of approximately 11%. The proceeds of the offering of TEUs were used to acquire TEUs of the Joint Venture that substantially mirror the terms of the TEUs issued by Change Healthcare Inc. in the offering. The Joint Venture, in turn, used the proceeds received from Change Healthcare Inc. to repay $805.0 million of its indebtedness under the Term Loan Facility (as defined herein) without penalty in July 2019.

In July 2019, the Joint Venture amended its Revolving Credit Facility (as defined herein), the primary effects of which were to increase the maximum amount that can be borrowed from $500.0 million to $785.0 million and to extend the maturity date until March 1, 2024. In the event that the outstanding balance under the Term Loan Facility exceeds $1.1 billion on December 1, 2023, however, amounts due, if any, under the Revolving Facility become due and payable on December 1, 2023.

Change Healthcare Inc.

Overview

Change Healthcare Inc. (formerly HCIT Holdings, Inc.), a Delaware corporation, was formed on June 22, 2016 to hold an equity investment in Change Healthcare LLC, a joint venture between Change Healthcare Inc. and McKesson Corporation ("McKesson"), which we refer to as the Joint Venture. Each of Change Healthcare Inc. and McKesson holds a 50% voting interest in the Joint Venture, with equal representation on the Joint Venture's board of directors and with all major operating, investing and financial activities requiring the consent of both members. As a result, Change Healthcare Inc. accounts for this investment using the equity method of accounting.

Change Healthcare Inc. has no substantive assets apart from its investment in the Joint Venture. As a result, Change Healthcare Inc. believes the financial statements of the Joint Venture are more relevant to an investor than Change Healthcare Inc.'s financial statements as they include greater detail regarding the financial condition and results of operations of the business.

Key Components of Change Healthcare Inc.'s Results of Operations

Loss from Equity Method Investment in the Joint Venture

Loss from equity method investment in the Joint Venture generally represents Change Healthcare Inc.'s proportionate share of the income or loss from this investment, including basis adjustments related to amortization expense associated with equity method intangible assets, property and equipment, deferred revenue and other items.

Loss from equity method investment in the Joint Venture was $56.2 million and $25.6 million for the three months ended September 30, 2019 and 2018, respectively. The loss from equity method investment in the Joint Venture increased as a result of incremental basis difference amortization due to the additional units of the Joint Venture that were acquired using the proceeds of the initial public offering, combined with lower operating profits at the Joint Venture in the current quarter when compared to the same quarter in the prior year, primarily due to the gain recognized from the sale of the Joint Venture's extended care business during the three months ended September 30, 2018.

Loss from equity method investment in the Joint Venture was $95.7 million and $48.3 million for the six months ended September 30, 2019 and 2018, respectively. The loss from equity method investment in the Joint Venture for the six months ended September 30, 2019 was discretely affected by the Joint Venture's adoption of Financial Accounting Standards Board ("FASB") Accounting Standards Codification No. 606 ("ASC 606") and Change Healthcare Inc.'s adoption of FASB Accounting Standards Update No. 2018-07 ("ASU 2018-07"). The loss from equity method investment in the Joint Venture was decreased by approximately $17.0 million as a result of the continuing effect of the adoption of ASC 606 and was increased by approximately $45.4 million as a result of changes in the fair value of its dividend receivable following the adoption of ASU 2018-07.

General and Administrative Expense and Management Fees

In addition to its income (loss) from its equity method investment in the Joint Venture, Change Healthcare Inc. may also periodically incur certain other operating expenses, including professional service fees, general liability insurance, and other fees associated with being an SEC registrant.

To the extent any such fees Change Healthcare Inc. incurs are required to facilitate or maintain its status as a public company, however, the limited liability company agreement of the Joint Venture (the "LLC Agreement") contemplates that Change Healthcare Inc. be reimbursed for such costs by the Joint Venture. Such reimbursements are classified as management fees within Change Healthcare Inc.'s statements of operations.

Gain (Loss) on Sale of Interests in the Joint Venture

Under the terms of the LLC Agreement, Change Healthcare Inc. and the Joint Venture agreed to cooperate to ensure a 1:1 ratio of outstanding shares of common stock of Change Healthcare Inc. to the units of the Joint Venture ("LLC Units") held by Change Healthcare Inc. as long as the subsidiaries of McKesson that serve as members of the Joint Venture (the "McK Members") hold LLC Units. This provision requires that Change Healthcare Inc. be issued an additional LLC Unit for each share of common stock that Change Healthcare Inc. issues. Similarly, for any share that Change Healthcare Inc. repurchases, the Joint Venture is likewise required to repurchase a respective LLC Unit from Change Healthcare Inc. In this latter case, the repurchase by the Joint Venture of LLC Unit(s) from Change Healthcare Inc. results in a gain or loss to Change Healthcare Inc. equal to the difference in the fair value of such LLC Units and the proportionate carrying value of Change Healthcare Inc.'s investment in the Joint Venture associated with such repurchased LLC Units.

Income Taxes

As the Joint Venture is treated as a partnership for income tax purposes, Change Healthcare Inc. is subject to income taxes for its allocable portion of the Joint Venture's taxable income. The income tax benefit was $13.6 million and $6.8 million (which resulted in effective income tax rates of 12.7% and 26.7%) for the three months ended September 30, 2019 and 2018, respectively. The income tax benefit was $15.8 million and $11.6 million (which resulted in effective income tax rates of 10.7% and 24.3%) for the six months ended September 30, 2019 and 2018, respectively.

In connection with the closing of the Transactions, the Joint Venture, subsidiaries of McKesson that serve as members of the Joint Venture (the "McK Members"), McKesson and the Company entered into a tax receivable agreement (the "McKesson Tax Receivable Agreement"). Additionally, the Company, the Joint Venture, McKesson and certain of McKesson's affiliates have entered into a letter agreement relating to the Contribution Agreement (the "Letter Agreement"). The McKesson Tax Receivable Agreement and the Letter Agreement contemplate payments from the Company to the McK Members or to McKesson based upon certain criteria as outlined in Note 6, Income Taxes. In the three months ended September 30, 2019 the Company has recorded a liability to McKesson equal to $48.4 million, which reflects the amount payable for future tax savings the Company anticipates receiving as a result of deductions that are probable to be allocated by McKesson to the Company for the year ended March 31, 2019.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

Overview

Change Healthcare Inc.'s principal source of liquidity consists of distributions or advances from the Joint Venture. To the extent that Change Healthcare Inc. requires additional funds, Change Healthcare Inc. may need to raise funds through subsequent debt or equity financing.

Change Healthcare Inc. has not incurred, nor does it expect to incur, significant capital expenditures in the normal course of business or to pursue acquisition opportunities other than through the Joint Venture.

Off-Balance Sheet Arrangements

As of September 30, 2019, Change Healthcare Inc. had no off-balance sheet arrangements.

Recent Accounting Pronouncements

See Note 2, Basis of Presentation, within Change Healthcare Inc.'s financial statements appearing elsewhere in this Quarterly Report for information about recent accounting pronouncements and the potential impact on Change Healthcare Inc.'s financial statements.

Critical Accounting Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in accordance with United States generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP") requires Change Healthcare Inc. to make estimates and assumptions that affect reported amounts and related disclosures. Change Healthcare Inc. considers an accounting estimate to be critical if:

- it requires assumptions to be made that were uncertain at the time the estimate was made; and
- changes in the estimate or different estimates that could have been made could have a material impact on Change Healthcare Inc.'s results of operations and financial condition.

As disclosed in Note 2, Summary of Significant Accounting Policies, in Change Healthcare Inc.'s Registration Statement on Form S-1 (333-230345), Change Healthcare Inc. evaluates its equity method investment for impairment review whenever an event or change in circumstances occurs that may have a significant adverse impact on the carrying value of the investment. If a loss in value occurs that is deemed to be other than temporary, an impairment loss would be recognized.

Subsequent to the IPO, Change Healthcare Inc. now has a publicly available indication of the value of its investment in the Joint Venture. Accordingly, Change Healthcare Inc. evaluated its equity method investment for an other-than-temporary impairment ("OTTI"). Change Healthcare Inc. considered various factors in determining whether an OTTI had occurred, including Change Healthcare Inc.'s ability and intent to hold the investment, the trading history available, the implied EBITDA valuation multiples compared to public guideline companies, and the Joint Venture's ability to achieve milestones and any operational and strategic changes by the Joint Venture that might have negatively impacted the fair value. After the evaluation, Change Healthcare Inc. determined that an OTTI had not occurred as of September 30, 2019 or as of the date of this quarterly report on Form 10-Q. However, the Joint Venture may experience declines in its fair value, and Change Healthcare Inc. may determine an impairment loss will be required to be recognized in a future reporting period. Such determination will be based on the prevailing facts and circumstances, including those related to the reported results and disclosures of the Joint Venture, as well as from changes in the market price of Change Healthcare Inc.'s common stock.

Change Healthcare Inc.'s investments in the debt and equity securities of the Joint Venture are reported at fair value. The measurement of these investments is impacted by changes in market interest rates, as well as factors that impact the underlying value of the Joint Venture's equity. See Note 11 for further discussion.

Change Healthcare LLC

Overview

The Joint Venture is a leading independent healthcare technology company, formed through the combination of substantially all of the businesses of Change Healthcare Performance, Inc. (formerly Change Healthcare, Inc.) ("Legacy CHC") and a majority of the McKesson Technology Solutions business ("Core MTS"), which was completed on March 1, 2017. The Joint Venture offers a comprehensive suite of software, analytics, technology enabled services and network solutions that drive improved results in the complex workflows of healthcare system payers and providers. The Joint Venture's solutions are designed to improve clinical decision making, simplify billing, collection and payment processes and enable a better patient experience.

The Joint Venture offers comprehensive end-to-end solutions with modular capabilities to address its customers' needs. Working with its customers to analyze workflows before, during and after care has been delivered to patients, the Joint Venture designs and commercializes innovative solutions for various points in the healthcare delivery timeline. The Joint Venture's offerings range from discrete data and analytics solutions to broad enterprise-wide solutions, which include workflow software and technology-enabled services that help its customers achieve their operational objectives.

The Joint Venture's Intelligent Healthcare Network was created to facilitate the transfer of data among participants and is one of the largest clinical and financial healthcare networks in the United States. In the fiscal year ended March 31, 2018, Change Healthcare facilitated nearly 14 billion healthcare transactions and approximately $1 trillion in adjudicated claims or approximately one-third of all U.S. healthcare expenditures. The Joint Venture serves the vast majority of U.S. payers and providers. The Joint Venture's customer base includes approximately 2,200 government and commercial payer connections, 900,000 physicians, 118,000 dentists, 33,000 pharmacies, 5,500 hospitals and 600 laboratories. This network transacts clinical records for over 112 million unique patients, more than one-third of the estimated total U.S. population. With insights gained from its pervasive network, extensive applications and analytics portfolio and its services operations, the Joint Venture has designed analytics solutions that include industry-leading and trusted franchises supported by extensive intellectual property and regularly updated content.

In addition to the advantages of scale, the Joint Venture believes it offers the collaborative benefits of a mission-critical partner. The Joint Venture seeks enduring relationships with each customer through solutions embedded in their complex daily workflows that deliver measurable results. The Joint Venture's customer retention rate for its top 50 provider and top 50 payer customers for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2019 was 100%. The Joint Venture believes its size, scale, thought leadership and prevalence across the healthcare ecosystem help make it a preferred partner for innovative technology companies and industry associations focused on driving standardization and efficiencies in the healthcare industry.

Segments

The Joint Venture reports its financial results in the following three reportable segments: Software and Analytics, Network Solutions and Technology-Enabled Services.

Table of Contents

- Software and Analytics provides software and analytics solutions for financial performance, payment accuracy, clinical decision management, value-based payment, provider and consumer engagement and imaging and clinical workflow.
- Network Solutions enables financial, administrative and clinical transactions, electronic business-to-business and consumer-to-business payments and aggregation and analytics of clinical and financial data.
- Technology-Enabled Services provides solutions for financial and administrative management, value-based care, communication and payment, pharmacy benefits administration and healthcare consulting.

In April 2019, the Joint Venture made certain changes in the way that it manages its business and allocates costs. Specifically, the Joint Venture made the following changes:

- Moved its consumer payments solution from the Network Solutions reportable segment to the Technology-enabled Services reportable segment.
- Moved its consumer engagement solutions from the Software and Analytics reportable segment to the Network Solutions reportable segment.
- Made certain changes in the way that costs are assigned to reportable segments.

The presentation of revenue and Adjusted EBITDA included within this management's discussion and analysis of financial condition and results of operations has been retrospectively adjusted for all periods presented to reflect the above described changes.

Factors Affecting Change Healthcare's Results of Operations

The following are certain key factors that affect, will affect, or have recently affected, the Joint Venture's results of operations:

Post-Contribution Cost Synergies

In connection with the Transactions, the Joint Venture identified opportunities to implement certain cost synergies based on its analyses of existing operating structures, estimated spend by category, its resource requirements and industry benchmarks for similar activities. The Joint Venture expects such cost synergies to include, among others, (i) product integration, network efficiencies and combining common products; (ii) procurement savings from the elimination of duplicate orders, leveraging scale and optimization of providers; (iii) utilization of global talent; and (iv) reduction of management redundancies and duplicative roles.

By the end of the fourth year following the combination of Legacy CHC and Core MTS, the Joint Venture expects to have implemented operational initiatives to fully realize these synergies, which are expected to result in significant annual run-rate cost savings and efficiencies. The Joint Venture has incurred significant non-recurring expenses and expects to continue to incur such expenses in order to achieve these cost synergies.

Macroeconomic and Industry Trends

The healthcare industry is highly regulated and subject to frequently changing complex regulatory and other requirements. For example, ongoing healthcare reform has significantly affected the healthcare regulatory environment by changing how healthcare services are covered, delivered and reimbursed through coverage expansion, reduced federal healthcare program spending, increased efforts to link federal healthcare program payments to quality and efficiency and insurance market reforms. The number of states that will ultimately participate in some form of Medicaid expansion and the future of mandated coverage for individuals is not yet clear. If the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (collectively, the "ACA") is repealed or significantly modified, such repeal or modification, any alternative reforms adopted in its place or the failure to adopt alternative reforms may have a material impact on the Joint Venture's business. For example, since many of the Joint Venture's products and services include solutions designed to assist customers in effectively navigating the shift to value-based healthcare, the elimination of, or significant reductions to, the ACA's various value-based healthcare initiatives may adversely impact the Joint Venture's business. While the specific regulatory instruments and tactics used to implement reform may change in the future, the Joint Venture expects that the pervasive focus on improving coverage, efficiency and quality and related needs for payers and providers to optimize performance and reduce costs will continue.

Revenue Convergence

In April 2019, the Joint Venture adopted Accounting Standards Codification (“ASC”) 606, Revenue from Contracts with Customers, which replaces most prior general and industry specific revenue recognition guidance with a principles-based comprehensive revenue recognition framework.

The Joint Venture adopted ASC 606 using the modified retrospective transition method applied only to contracts that were not completed as of the date of initial application. The adoption of ASC 606 resulted in a cumulative effect adjustment to reduce members’ equity (deficit) as of April 1, 2019 by $159.9 million. After assessing all potential impacts of adopting the new standard on its consolidated financial statements, related disclosures, and necessary control and process changes, the Joint Venture noted the following to be the most notable impacts of adopting the new standard:

- Revenue for certain contingent fee service arrangements will be accelerated as revenue for these arrangements is recognized as the services are performed.
- Revenue related to certain time-based software and content license agreements will be accelerated. The license component for certain time-based software will be recognized upon delivery to the customer (“point in time”), or in the case of software that requires significant production, modification or customization, recognized as the implementation work is performed. A non-license component (e.g., technical support) will be recognized over the respective contract terms (“over time”).
- Incremental costs to obtain contracts and qualifying costs to fulfill will be capitalized and amortized over the period of benefit. The net result of this change was an increase to capitalized contract costs on the balance sheet; these capitalized costs will be amortized and recognized as expense over an incrementally longer period of time.

Refer to Note 2, Basis of Presentation, in the unaudited condensed financial statements of the Joint Venture included as Exhibit 99.1 to this Quarterly Report for a full description of the impact of the adoption of ASC 606 on the Joint Venture’s financial statements.

Equity-based Compensation

Change Healthcare Inc. grants equity-based awards of Change Healthcare Inc. common stock to certain employees, officers and directors of Change Healthcare Inc. and the Joint Venture. For grants to employees, equity-based awards are generally measured at the date of grant and recognized as expense over each employee’s service period. Because the Joint Venture’s employees are not considered employees of Change Healthcare Inc., however, prior to the adoption of FASB ASU No. 2018-07 on April 1, 2019, the Joint Venture was generally required to measure these equity-based awards at fair value each quarter until the earlier of the completion of required service or the performance commitment date. As a result, the Joint Venture’s results of operations have historically reflected volatility from the periodic re-measurement of its equity-based awards.

In April 2019, the Joint Venture adopted FASB ASU No. 2018-07, the effect of which is to require that equity awards to non-employees be treated similarly to awards to employees. As a result, the Joint Venture expects to significantly lessen the volatility on equity-based compensation that has historically resulted from changes in the fair value of the underlying stock of Change Healthcare Inc., stock price volatility among its peer companies, changes in interest rates and the passage of time.

In connection with the initial public offering, the Board of Directors adopted, and the stockholders approved, the Change Healthcare Inc. 2019 Omnibus Incentive Plan (the “Omnibus Incentive Plan”), which became effective as of the date of the IPO. The purpose of our Omnibus Incentive Plan is to provide a means through which to attract and retain key personnel and to provide a means whereby our directors, officers, employees, consultants and advisors (and those of the Joint Venture and its subsidiaries) can acquire and maintain an equity interest in us or be paid incentive compensation. The Omnibus Incentive Plan allows us to implement a new market-based long-term incentive program to align our executive compensation package with similarly situated public companies.

As part of the 2019 Omnibus Incentive Plan, the Board of Directors may, from time to time, grant awards to one or more eligible persons. All awards granted under the Plan shall vest and become exercisable in such manner and on such dates or upon such events as determined by the Board of Directors, including attainment of performance conditions. Each award granted under the Omnibus Incentive Plan shall be evidenced by an award agreement, which agreement need not be the same for each participant.

Refer to Note 11, Equity Based Compensation, in the unaudited condensed financial statements of the Joint Venture included as Exhibit 99.1 to this Quarterly Report for a full description of the new awards included in the long-term incentive program.

Table of Contents

Acquisitions and Divestitures

The Joint Venture actively evaluates opportunities to improve and expand its business through targeted acquisitions that are consistent with its strategy. On occasion, the Joint Venture also may dispose of certain components of its business that no longer fit within its overall strategy. Because of the Joint Venture's acquisition and divestiture activity, as well as the shifting revenue mix of its business due to this activity, the Joint Venture's results of operations may not be directly comparable among periods.

In July 2018, certain of the Joint Venture's affiliates sold all of the membership interests in the Joint Venture's extended care business (a component of the software and analytics reportable segment) for net cash proceeds of $159.9 million.

Income Taxes

The Joint Venture's effective income tax rate is affected by several factors. The following table and subsequent commentary reconciles the Joint Venture's federal statutory rate to its effective income tax rate and the subsequent commentary describes the more significant of the reconciling factors:

	Six Months Ended September 30, 2019	Six Months Ended September 30, 2018
Statutory U.S. federal tax rate	21.00%	21.00%
State income taxes (net of federal benefit)	0.13	(0.04)
Income passed through to Members	(16.39)	(21.15)
Change in valuation allowance	(4.58)	0.05
Research and development credits (net of uncertain tax positions)	(2.29)	(2.83)
Return to provision adjustments	1.29	0.14
Other	4.29	1.03
Effective income tax rate	3.45%	(1.80)%

State Income Taxes—The Joint Venture's effective tax rate for state income taxes is generally impacted by changes in its apportionment.

Income Passed through to Members—Certain of the Joint Venture's subsidiaries are organized as limited liability corporations and report income that is distributed to the Members where it is subject to income taxes.

Change in tax liability on outside basis difference of foreign subsidiary—The Joint Venture records tax expense or benefit related to undistributed earnings in a foreign subsidiary for the change in the amount of excess of book basis over tax basis in the subsidiary.

Change in Valuation Allowance—The Joint Venture records valuation allowances or reverses existing valuation allowances related to assumed future income tax benefits depending on circumstances and factors related to its business. During the six months ended September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture released a valuation allowance related to prior deferred tax assets as a result of its change in judgment resulting from forecasted earnings and tax planning strategies that provide for future taxable income in the relevant jurisdictions.

Research and development credits (net of uncertain tax position liability)—The Joint Venture records credits against income taxes for certain research and development expenditures in the U.S. and Canada net of the portion that is estimated to be included in Change Healthcare Inc.'s unrecognized tax benefits.

Qualified McKesson Exit

In connection with a Qualified McKesson Exit, we anticipate that Change Healthcare Inc. will acquire the interest in the Joint Venture that it did not own prior to such transaction. As a result, in periods following the Qualified McKesson Exit, Change Healthcare LLC is expected to be a wholly-owned subsidiary of Change Healthcare Inc., and Change Healthcare Inc. will consolidate the financial position and results of Change Healthcare LLC in its financial statements.

Change Healthcare Inc. expects to account for the Qualified McKesson Exit and related transactions as a business combination achieved in stages in accordance with the FASB Accounting Standards Codification Business Combinations Topic, resulting in a new basis of accounting. As a result, Change Healthcare Inc. will be required to remeasure its investment in the Joint Venture to fair value as of the date that control is obtained and will recognize a gain or loss in its statement of operations for the difference in the carrying value and fair value of this investment. Further, Change Healthcare Inc. expects to recognize the consideration transferred, as well as the acquired business's identifiable assets, liabilities and noncontrolling interests at their acquisition date fair value. The excess of the consideration transferred over the fair value of the identifiable assets, liabilities and noncontrolling interest, if any, is anticipated to be recorded as goodwill. Any excess of the fair value of the identifiable assets acquired and liabilities assumed over the consideration transferred, if any, would generally be recognized within earnings as of the acquisition date.

As a result of the accounting for these transactions and the anticipated change in basis of accounting, the consolidated results of Change Healthcare Inc. in periods following the Qualified McKesson Exit will not be comparable to the consolidated results of the Joint Venture in periods prior to the Qualified McKesson Exit. The following are certain of the more significant changes resulting from the Qualified McKesson Exit that are expected to affect the comparability of financial results and operations:

- Gain or loss upon remeasuring Change Healthcare Inc.'s investment in the Joint Venture at its fair value.
- Increased tangible and intangible assets resulting from adjusting the basis of tangible and intangible assets to their fair value which is expected to result in increased depreciation and amortization expense.
- Potential increase or decrease in long-term debt as a result of adjustments to state the long-term debt at its fair value. Resulting differences in the historical carrying value and fair value of the long-term debt are expected to result in either additional discount or premium which, in turn, may materially increase or decrease future interest expense.
- Decreased deferred revenue as a result of recognizing deferred revenue in the business combination only to the extent that contractual obligations remain to be fulfilled at that time. Decreases in deferred revenue are expected to result in decreased solutions revenue in the near term.
- Income currently attributable to the Joint Venture and not subject to U.S. federal income taxes and most state and local income taxes will become subject to such taxes, resulting in an expected increase in Change Healthcare Inc.'s effective tax rate compared with the historical effective tax rate of the Joint Venture.

Results of Operations

The Joint Venture adopted the new revenue recognition accounting standard, ASC 606, effective April 1, 2019 on a modified retrospective basis. Its results of operations as presented within the following discussion and analysis includes financial results for reporting periods during fiscal 2020, which are disclosed in compliance with the new revenue recognition standard. Historical financial results for reporting periods prior to fiscal 2020 have not been retroactively restated and are presented in conformity with amounts previously disclosed under the prior revenue recognition standard, ASC 605. The Joint Venture has included additional information regarding the impacts from the adoption of the new revenue recognition standard for the three and six months ended September 30, 2019 and included financial results during fiscal 2020 under ASC 605 for comparison to the prior year.

The following table summarizes our consolidated results of operations for the three months ended September 30, 2019 and 2018, respectively:

Three Months Ended September 30, 2019 (ASC 605 Basis) Compared to Three Months Ended September 30, 2018

Solutions Revenue

Solutions revenue increased $10.8 million for the three months ended September 30, 2019, compared with the same period in the prior year. Factors affecting the Joint Venture's solutions revenue are described in the various segment discussions below.

Table of Contents

Expenses

Costs of Operations (Exclusive of Depreciation and Amortization)

Costs of operations (exclusive of depreciation and amortization) increased $4.6 million for the three months ended September 30, 2019, compared with the same period in the prior year. The increase in the Joint Venture's costs of operations is primarily attributable to an increase in information technology maintenance and data and communications costs.

Research and Development

Research and development expenses increased $0.6 million for the three months ended September 30, 2019, compared with the same period in the prior year. The increase is primarily attributable to increases in investments, offset by synergies associated with reduction or elimination of duplicative roles.

Sales, Marketing, General and Administrative

Sales, marketing, general and administrative expenses decreased $12.5 million for the three months ended September 30, 2019, compared with the same period in the prior year. Sales, marketing, general and administrative expense for each of the three months ended September 30, 2019 and 2018 reflects significant integration related costs, including professional and consulting fees related to rationalizations of information technology, business process re-engineering, implementation of human resource and finance information technology systems, severance and other costs. The amount of such costs, however, decreased by $8.5 million in the three months ended September 30, 2019 as compared to the same period in the prior year.

Customer Postage

Customer postage decreased $5.3 million for the three months ended September 30, 2019, compared with the same period in the prior year. Customer postage is affected by the declines in print volumes within communication and payment solutions, which were partially offset by the effect of a USPS postage rate increase in January 2019 (e.g. an increase in first-class postage of 10%). Because customer postage is a pass-through cost to the Joint Venture's customers, however, changes in volume of customer postage generally have no effect on operating income.

Depreciation and Amortization

Depreciation and amortization increased $8.1 million for the three months ended September 30, 2019, compared with the same period in the prior year. Depreciation and amortization were generally affected by routine amortization of tangible and intangible assets existing at March 31, 2019 as well as the routine amortization and depreciation of additions to property, equipment, and software since that date.

Accretion and changes in estimate with related parties, net

Accretion and changes in estimate with related parties, net decreased $2.7 million for the three months ended September 30, 2019, compared with the same period in the prior year. Accretion is routinely affected by changes in the expected timing or amount of cash flows which may result from various factors, including changes in tax rates and McKesson's discretionary allocation of deductions under the terms of the Letter Agreement.

Interest expense

Interest expense decreased $10.8 million for the three months ended September 30, 2019, compared with the same period in the prior year. This decrease is primarily attributable to the repayment of approximately $805.0 million of variable interest rate debt in July 2019 from the proceeds of the initial public offering and an additional repayment of $85.0 million during the three months ended September 30, 2019. The Joint Venture has interest rate cap agreements in place to limit its exposure to rising interest rates, and such agreements together with the Joint Venture's fixed rate notes effectively fixed interest rates for approximately 59% of the Joint Venture's total indebtedness at September 30, 2019.

Loss on Extinguishment of Debt

Loss on extinguishment of debt for the three months ended September 30, 2019 of $16.9 million includes a loss of $15.8 million related to the unamortized discounts and debt issuance costs associated with the total repayment of $890.0 million on the Term Loan Facility, as well as a loss of $1.1 million due to the deemed extinguishment associated with the amendment of the Revolving Credit Facility.

Table of Contents

Contingent consideration

Contingent consideration reflects changes in the fair value of the Joint Venture's earnout obligation to the former owners of an acquired business. Such amounts may increase or decrease in the future based on changes in the expected amount, timing, and probability of making such payments in the future.

Other, net

Other, net primarily represents income the Joint Venture receives from McKesson and eRx Network related to transitional and other services that we provide them following the closing of the Transactions in March 2017.

Income Tax Provision (Benefit)

The income tax provision was $1.0 million (effective tax rate of 115.0%) for the three months ended September 30, 2019 as compared to an income tax benefit of $2.1 million (effective tax rate of -1.9%) for the three months ended September 30, 2018. The Joint Venture's income taxes and related effective tax rate are routinely affected by it and its subsidiaries' legal organization. Certain of the Joint Venture's subsidiaries are organized as limited liability corporations and report income that is distributed to the Members where it is subject to income taxes. Other subsidiaries are organized as corporations, for which the tax effects are directly reflected in the Joint Venture's financial statements.

Software and Analytics

Software and Analytics revenue increased $5.8 million for the three months ended September 30, 2019 compared with the same period in the prior year. Software and Analytics revenue reflects core revenue growth and timing, partially offset by ongoing efforts to rationalize the connected analytics solution and the effect of prior year one-time nonrecurring revenue of $6.0 million in the enterprise imaging business.

Software and Analytics Adjusted EBITDA increased $9.5 million for the three months ended September 30, 2019, compared to the same period in the prior year. This increase in Adjusted EBITDA was attributable to core revenue growth and timing, operational synergies, and cost initiatives related to the connected analytics solution, partially offset by the decline in the enterprise imaging business.

Network Solutions

Network Solutions revenue increased $8.0 million for the three months ended September 30, 2019 compared with the same period in the prior year, which primarily reflects increased revenues resulting from the sale of new contracts in the data solutions, dental and medical network businesses and stronger volume.

Network Solutions Adjusted EBITDA increased by $2.5 million for the three months ended September 30, 2019 compared to the same period in the prior year. As described above, Network Solutions revenue was positively affected by increased revenues resulting from the sale of new contracts in the data solutions, dental and medical network businesses and stronger volumes. Adjusted EBITDA similarly increased as a result of these factors partially offset by investments to support the data solutions new market expansion efforts and continued investment in network capabilities.

Technology-enabled Services

Technology-enabled Services revenue decreased $2.4 million for the three months ended September 30, 2019, compared with the same period in the prior year. Technology-enabled Services revenue for the three months ended September 30, 2019 was primarily impacted by new sales and same store organic growth of $24 million, which was more than offset by $30 million of customer attrition (including the company's decision to exit certain contracts). Customer attrition for the three months ended September 30, 2019 reflects the full current period impact of attrition that occurred throughout fiscal year 2019 in the Joint Venture's physician revenue cycle management and communication and payment services solutions, driven by industry consolidation. While the Joint Venture expects that such consolidation will continue in the future, as part of its strategy, the Joint Venture is repositioning certain of its solutions to better address end market dynamics, enhance efficiency and to improve the long-term growth potential of these solutions.

Technology-enabled Services Adjusted EBITDA increased $1.8 million for the three months ended September 30, 2019, compared to the same period in the prior year. Technology-enabled Services Adjusted EBITDA for the three months ended September 30, 2019 reflects the decrease in Technology-enabled Services revenue which was more than offset by cost savings from the Joint Venture's post-contribution cost synergy initiatives.

Significant Changes in Assets and Liabilities

Within the Joint Venture's network solutions business, the Joint Venture regularly receives funds from certain pharmaceutical industry participants in advance of its obligation to remit these funds to participating retail pharmacies. Such funds are not restricted; however, these funds are generally paid out in satisfaction of the processing obligations within three business days of their receipt. At the time of receipt, the Joint Venture records a corresponding liability within accrued expenses on its consolidated balance sheets. At September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture reported $20.3 million of such pass-through payment obligations which were subsequently paid in the first week of October 2019. At March 31, 2019, the Joint Venture reported $7.4 million of such pass-through payment obligations.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

Overview

The Joint Venture's principal sources of liquidity are cash flows provided by operating activities, cash and cash equivalents on hand, and potential funds available under its Revolving Credit Facility. The Joint Venture's principal uses of liquidity are working capital, capital expenditures, debt service, business acquisitions and other general corporate purposes. The Joint Venture anticipates its cash on hand, cash generated from operations, and funds available under the Revolving Credit Facility will be sufficient to fund its planned capital expenditures, debt service obligations, business acquisitions and operating needs. The Joint Venture may, however, elect to raise funds through debt or equity financing in the future to fund significant investments or acquisitions that are consistent with its growth strategy.

Table of Contents

Cash, cash equivalents and restricted cash totaled $73.0 million and $48.9 million at September 30, 2019 and March 31, 2019, respectively, of which $23.7 million and $28.1 million was held outside the United States. As of September 30, 2019, no amounts had been drawn under the senior secured revolving line of credit and the Joint Venture could have borrowed up to the additional $779.9 million available. The Joint Venture also has the ability to borrow up to an additional $1,080.0 million, or such amount that the senior secured net leverage ratio does not exceed 4.9 to 1.0, whichever is greater, under the Senior Secured Credit Facilities, subject to certain additional conditions and commitments by existing or new lenders to fund any additional borrowings.

The balance retained in cash and cash equivalents is consistent with the Joint Venture's short-term cash needs and investment objectives. The Joint Venture may be required to make additional principal payments on the Term Loan Facility based on excess cash flows of the prior year, as defined in the credit agreement governing the Term Loan Facility.

Net change in cash, cash equivalents and restricted cash	$ 24.1	$ 158.0	(133.9)	(84.7)%

Operating Activities

Cash provided by operating activities is primarily affected by operating income, including the impact of debt service payments, integration related costs and the timing of collections and related disbursements. Cash provided by operating activities includes $12.9 million and $156.1 million as a source of cash related to pass-through funds for the six months ended September 30, 2019 and 2018, respectively.

Investing Activities

Cash used in investing activities primarily reflects routine capital expenditures related to purchase of property and equipment and the development of software, as well as expenditures related to significant software development efforts necessary to integrate the contributed businesses in both periods. Cash provided by investing activities in the six months ended September 30, 2018 was primarily impacted by the proceeds from the sale of the extended care business.

Financing Activities

Cash used in financing activities reflects cash payments under the Term Loan Facility, receipts under the Joint Venture's interest rate cap agreements, and payments for deferred financing obligations. Cash used in financing activities was primarily impacted by the proceeds from the initial public offering and resulting increased payments under the Term Loan Facility in the six months ended September 30, 2019.

Capital Expenditures

The Joint Venture incurs capital expenditures to grow its business by developing new and enhanced capabilities, to increase the effectiveness and efficiency of the organization and to reduce risks. The Joint Venture incurs capital expenditures for product development, disaster recovery, security enhancements, regulatory compliance and the replacement and upgrade of existing equipment at the end of its useful life.

Debt

Senior Credit Facilities and Senior Notes

In March 2017, the Joint Venture entered into the $5,100 million term loan facility (the “Term Loan Facility”), and a $500 million revolving credit facility (as amended in July 2019 to increase the maximum amount that can be borrowed to $785 million, the “Revolving Credit Facility” and, together with the Term Loan Facility, the “Senior Secured Credit Facilities”). Additionally, the Joint Venture issued $1,000 million of 5.75% senior notes due 2025 (the “Senior Notes”). No amounts have been drawn against the Revolving Credit Facility as of September 30, 2019.

The Joint Venture used the initial public offering proceeds received from Change Healthcare Inc. to repay $805,000 of its indebtedness under the Term Loan Facility without penalty in July 2019. The Joint Venture repaid an additional $85,000 of its indebtedness under the Term Loan Facility without penalty during the three months ended September 30, 2019 for a total paydown of $890,000.

In July 2019, the Joint Venture amended the Revolving Credit Facility, the primary effects of which were to increase the maximum amount that can be borrowed from $500 million to $785 million and to extend the maturity date until July 3, 2024. In the event that the outstanding balance under the Term Loan Facility exceeds $1,100 million on December 1, 2023, however, amounts due, if any, under the Revolving Facility become due and payable on December 1, 2023.

Tangible Equity Units

In July 2019, the Joint Venture issued a debt arrangement to Change Healthcare Inc. on terms that substantially mirror the economics of the amortizing note component of the Change Healthcare Inc. TEUs. The Joint Venture agreed to pay Change Healthcare Inc. an aggregate principal amount of $47,367 in quarterly installments of principal and interest (5.5% per year) on March 30, June 30, September 30, and December 30 of each year through June 30, 2022.

Hedges

From time to time, the Joint Venture executes interest rate cap agreements with various counterparties that effectively cap its LIBOR exposure on a portion of its existing Term Loan Facility or similar replacement debt. The following table summarizes the terms of the Joint Venture’s interest rate cap agreements at September 30, 2019.

Effective Date	Expiration Date	Notional Amount	Receive LIBOR Exceeding (1)	Pay Fixed Rate
March 31, 2017	March 31, 2020	$ 650,000	1.25%	0.56%
March 31, 2017	March 31, 2020	$ 750,000	1.00%	0.82%
August 31, 2018	March 31, 2020	$ 500,000	1.00%	1.82%
March 31, 2020	December 31, 2021	$ 1,500,000	1.00%	1.82%

(1) All based on 1-month LIBOR, except the $650,000 tranche which receives based on 3-month LIBOR.

The interest rate caps are recorded on the balance sheet at fair value. Changes in the fair value of the interest rate cap agreements are recorded in other comprehensive income.

In accordance with ASC 815, the fair value of the interest rate caps at inception is reclassified from other comprehensive income to interest expense in the same period the interest expense on the underlying hedged debt impacts earnings. Any payments the Joint Venture receives to the extent LIBOR exceeds the specified cap rate is also reclassified from other comprehensive income to interest expense in the period received.

In July 2017, the Financial Conduct Authority (the authority that regulates LIBOR) announced it intends to stop compelling banks to submit rates for the calculation of LIBOR after 2021. The Alternative Reference Rates Committee (“ARRC”) has proposed that the Secured Overnight Financing Rate (“SOFR”) is the rate that represents best practice as the alternative to USD-LIBOR for use in derivatives and other financial contracts that are currently indexed to USD-LIBOR. ARRC has proposed a paced market transition plan to SOFR from USD-LIBOR and organizations are currently working on industry wide and company specific transition plans as it relates to derivatives and cash markets exposed to USD-LIBOR. The Joint Venture has material contracts that are indexed to USD-LIBOR and is monitoring this activity and evaluating the related risks.

Effect of Certain Debt Covenants

A breach of any of the covenants under the agreements governing the Joint Venture's debt could limit its ability to borrow funds under the Term Loan Facility and could result in a default under the Term Loan Facility. Upon the occurrence of an event of default under the Term Loan Facility, the lenders could elect to declare all amounts then outstanding to be immediately due and payable, and the lenders could terminate all commitments to extend further credit. If the Joint Venture were unable to repay the amounts declared due, the lenders could proceed against any collateral granted to them to secure that indebtedness.

With certain exceptions, the Term Loan Facility obligations are secured by a first-priority security interest in substantially all of the assets of the Joint Venture, including its investment in subsidiaries. The Term Loan Facility contains various restrictions and nonfinancial covenants, along with a senior secured net leverage ratio test. The nonfinancial covenants include restrictions on dividends, investments, dispositions, future borrowings and other specified payments, as well as additional reporting and disclosure requirements. The senior secured net leverage test must be met as a condition to incur additional indebtedness, but otherwise is applicable only to the extent that amounts drawn exceed 35% of the Revolving Credit Facility at the end of any fiscal quarter. As of September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture was in compliance with all debt covenants.

The Joint Venture's ability to meet its liquidity needs depends on its subsidiaries' earnings and cash flows, the terms of the Joint Venture and its subsidiaries' indebtedness, and other contractual restrictions. Except for certain permitted distributions, the Joint Venture generally is not permitted to make any distribution to its members.

Off-Balance Sheet Arrangements

As of September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture had no off-balance sheet arrangements.

Recent Accounting Pronouncements

See Exhibit 99.1, “Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements,” Note 2, “Summary of Significant Accounting Policies,” for information about recent accounting pronouncements and the potential impact on the Joint Venture’s consolidated financial statements.

Critical Accounting Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in accordance with GAAP requires us to make estimates and assumptions that affect reported amounts and related disclosures. The Joint Venture considers an accounting estimate to be critical if:

- it requires assumptions to be made that were uncertain at the time the estimate was made; and
- changes in the estimate or different estimates that could have been made could have a material impact on our consolidated results of operations and financial condition.

The Joint Venture believes the current assumptions and other considerations used to estimate amounts reflected in its consolidated financial statements are appropriate. However, if actual experience differs from the assumptions and other considerations used in estimating amounts reflected in our consolidated financial statements, the resulting changes could have a material adverse effect on the Joint Venture’s consolidated results of operations and financial condition.

Revenue Recognition

In April 2019, the Joint Venture adopted Accounting Standards Codification ASC 606, Revenue from Contracts with Customers, which replaced most prior general and industry specific revenue recognition guidance with a principles-based comprehensive revenue recognition framework. Under this revised framework, a company recognizes revenue to depict the transfer of promised goods and services to customers in an amount that reflects the consideration to which the company expects to be entitled in exchange for those goods and services.

The Joint Venture generates most of its solutions revenue by using technology solutions (generally Software as a Service (“SaaS”)) to provide services to its customers that automate and simplify business and administrative functions for payers, providers, pharmacies, and channel partners and through the licensing of software, software systems (consisting of software, hardware and maintenance support) and content.

The Joint Venture recognizes revenue when the customer obtains control of the good or service through the Joint Venture satisfying a performance obligation by transferring the promised good or service to the customer.

Principal Revenue Generating Products and Services

Content license subscriptions and time-based software—The Joint Venture’s content license subscriptions and time-based software arrangements provide a license to use a software for a specified period of time. At the end of the contractual period, the customer either renews the license for an additional term or ceases to use the software. Software licenses are typically delivered to the customer with functionality that the customer can benefit from the software on its own or together with readily available resources. As contracts for these solutions generally do not price individual components separately, the Joint Venture allocates the transaction price to the license and ongoing support performance obligations based on standalone selling price (“SSP”), primarily determined by historical value relationships between licenses and ongoing support and updates. Revenue allocated to content license subscriptions and time-based software license agreements is generally recognized at the point-in-time of delivery of the license or the content update upon transfer of control of the underlying license to the customer. Generally, software implementation fees are recognized over the implementation period through an input measure of progress method. Revenue allocated to maintenance and support is recognized ratably over the period covered by the agreements, as passage of time represents a faithful depiction of the transfer of these services. In some cases, software arrangements provide licenses to several software applications that are highly integrated with the implementation services and software updates and cannot function separately. The bundle is a single performance obligation since the individually promised goods and services are not distinct in the context of the contract because the related implementation services significantly modify and customize the software and the updates provided to the integrated software solution are critical to the software’s utility. The related revenue is recognized on a straight-line basis, ratably over the contractual term due to the frequency and criticality of the updates throughout the license period.

Contingent fee services—The Joint Venture provides services to customers in which the transaction price is contingent on future occurrences, such as savings generated or amounts collected on behalf of its customers through the delivery of its services. In some cases, the Joint Venture performs services in advance of invoicing the customer, thereby creating a contract asset. Revenue in these arrangements is estimated and constrained until the Joint Venture determines that it is probable that a significant revenue reversal will not occur, and variable consideration is allocated to the performance obligation for which the Joint Venture earns a contingent fee.

Perpetual software licenses—The Joint Venture’s perpetual software arrangements provide a license for a customer to use software in perpetuity. Software licenses are typically delivered to the customer with functionality from which the customer can benefit from the license on its own or together with readily available resources. Perpetual software arrangements are recognized at the time of delivery or through an input measure of progress method over the installation period if the arrangements require significant production or modification or customization of the software. Contracts accounted for through an input measure of progress method are generally measured based on the ratio of labor hours incurred to date to total estimated labor hours to be incurred. Software implementation fees are recognized as the work is performed or under the input method for perpetual software. Hardware revenues are generally recognized upon delivery. Maintenance is recognized ratably over the term of the agreement as passage of time represents a faithful depiction of the transfer of these services.

Professional services—The Joint Venture provides training and consulting services to its customers, and the services may be fixed fee or time and materials based. Consulting services that fall outside of the standard implementation services vary depending on the scope and complexity of the service requested by the customer. Consulting services are deemed to be capable of being distinct from other products and services, and the services are satisfied either at a point of time or over time based on delivery. Training services are usually provided as an optional service to enhance the customer’s experience with a software product or provides additional education surrounding the general topic of the solution. Training services are capable of being distinct from other products and services. The Joint Venture treats training services as a distinct performance obligation, and they are satisfied at a point of time.

Transaction processing services—The Joint Venture provides transaction processing (such as claims processing) services to hospitals, pharmacies and health systems via a cloud-based (SaaS) platform. The promised service is to stand ready to process transactions for our customers over the contractual period on an as needed basis. The revenue related to these services is recognized over time as the transactions are processed, and the revenue is recognized over the individual days in which the services are performed. Any fixed annual fees and implementation fees are recognized ratably over the contract period.

Hosted solutions and software as a service (“SaaS”)—The Joint Venture enters into arrangements whereby the Joint Venture provides the customer access to a Joint Venture-owned software solution, which are generally marketed under annual and multi-year arrangements. The customer is only provided “access” (not a license) to the software application. In these arrangements, the customer does not purchase equipment nor does the customer take physical possession of the software. The related revenue is recognized ratably over the contracted term. For fixed fee arrangements, revenue recognition begins after set-up and implementation are complete. For per-transaction fee arrangements, revenue is recognized as transactions are processed beginning on the service start date.

Contract Balances

The Joint Venture’s payment terms vary by customer and product type. For certain products or services, the Joint Venture requires upfront payments before control of the product or service has transferred to the customer. For other products and services, the Joint Venture invoices the customer in arrears after providing the products or services. In addition, for certain contingent fee services, customers are billed in arrears, typically based upon a percentage of collections the Joint Venture makes on the customer’s behalf.

Under the new revenue standard, the Joint Venture generally recognizes a contract asset when revenue is recognized in advance of invoicing on a customer contract, unless the right to payment for that revenue is unconditional (i.e. requiring no further performance and only the passage of time). If a right to payment is determined to meet the criteria to be considered ‘unconditional’, then the Joint Venture will recognize a receivable.

There were no impairment losses recognized on accounts receivable or contract assets in the three and six months ended September 30, 2019.

The Joint Venture records deferred revenues when billings or payments are received from customers in advance of its performance. Deferred revenue is generally recognized when transfer of control to customers occurs. The deferred revenue balance is driven by multiple factors, including the frequency of renewals, invoice timing, and invoice duration. As of September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture expects 94% of the deferred revenue balance to be recognized in one year or less, and approximately $328 million of the beginning period balance was recognized during the three months ended September 30, 2019.

Costs to Obtain or Fulfill a Contract

Sales commissions and certain other incentive payments (e.g., bonuses that are contingent solely on obtaining a contract or a pool of contracts) earned by the Joint Venture’s sales organization are capitalized as incremental costs to obtain a contract. The Joint Venture typically does not offer commissions on contract renewals. Decremental commissions upon renewal (i.e., non-commensurate with initial commissions) are offered to the Joint Venture’s sales associates for certain customers and are not material. Under ASC 606, all commissions and other qualifying incentive payments capitalized are amortized over an expected period of benefit defined as the initial contract term plus anticipated renewals. In contrast, under ASC 605 these capitalized costs were amortized over the specific revenue contract terms, which are typically 12 to 60 months. In making the significant judgment in determining the appropriate period of benefit, the Joint Venture evaluated both qualitative and quantitative factors such as the expected customer relationship period and technology obsolescence. In addition, prior to solution go-live, the Joint Venture incurs certain contract fulfillment costs primarily related to SaaS setup for our clients. These costs are capitalized to the extent they are directly related to a contract, are recoverable, and create a resource used to deliver the Joint Venture's SaaS services. Capitalized costs to fulfill a contract are amortized over the expected period of benefit.

At September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture had capitalized costs to obtain a contract of $12.4 million in prepaid and other current assets and $67.4 million in other noncurrent assets. During the three and six months ended September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture recognized $5.1 million and $9.2 million, respectively, of amortization expense related to such capitalized costs, which is included in the total operating expenses. At September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture had capitalized costs to fulfill a contract of $1.4 million in prepaid and other current assets and $8.6 million in other noncurrent assets. During the three and six months ended September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture recognized $0.3 million and $0.6 million, respectively, of amortization expense related to such capitalized costs, which is included in cost of operations.

Postage Revenues

Postage revenues are the result of providing delivery services to customers in the Joint Venture's payment and communication solutions. Postage revenues are generally billed as a pass-through cost to the Joint Venture's customers. The service is part of a combined performance obligation with the printing and handling services provided to the customer because the postage services are not distinct within the context of the contract. The Joint Venture presents Postage Revenue separately from Solutions Revenue on the consolidated statements of operation as it makes the financial statements more informative for the users. The revenue related to the combined performance obligation of the postage, printing, and handling service is recognized as the transactions are processed, and the revenue is recognized over the individual days in which the services are performed.

Arrangements with Multiple Performance Obligations

The Joint Venture engages in customer arrangements which may include multiple performance obligations, such as any combination of software, hardware, implementation, SaaS-based offerings, consulting services, or maintenance services. For such arrangements, the Joint Venture allocates revenues to each performance obligation on a relative standalone selling price basis. A performance obligation's standalone selling price is determined based on the directly observable prices charged to customers when available or estimated using other methods such as the adjusted market assessment approach, the expected cost plus a margin approach, or other approaches in cases where distinct performance obligations are not sold separately but instead sold at a bundled price. For performance obligations with historical pricing that is highly variable, the residual approach is used. Such instances primarily relate to the Joint Venture's perpetual software arrangements in which the Joint Venture sells the same products to different customers for a broad range of amounts.

Remaining Performance Obligations

The aggregate amount of transaction price allocated to performance obligations that are unsatisfied (or partially unsatisfied) for executed contracts includes deferred revenue and other revenue yet to be recognized from non-cancellable contracts. As of September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture's total remaining performance obligations approximated $1.4 billion, of which approximately 52% is expected to be recognized over the next twelve months, and the remaining 48% thereafter.

In this balance, the Joint Venture does not include the value of unsatisfied performance obligations related to those contracts for which it recognizes revenue at the amount for which it has the right to invoice for services performed. Additionally, this balance does not include revenue related to performance obligations that are part of a contract with an original expected duration of one year or less. Lastly, this balance does not include variable consideration allocated to the individual goods or services in a series of distinct goods or services that are substantially the same and that have the same pattern of transfer to the customer. Examples includes variable fees associated with transaction processing and contingent fee services.

Disaggregated Revenue

The Joint Venture disaggregates the revenue from contracts with customers by operating segment as it believes doing so best depicts how the nature, amount, timing and uncertainty of the Joint Venture's revenue are affected by economic factors. See Note 9 in the Joint Venture unaudited financial statements included in Exhibit 99.1, "Segment Reporting" for the total revenue disaggregated by operating segment for the six months ended September 30, 2019 and 2018.

The Joint Venture's total revenue by disaggregated revenue source was generally consistent for each reportable segment for the three and six months ended September 30, 2019 compared with the corresponding periods in 2018.

Customer Incentives

Certain customers, which include the Joint Venture's channel partners, may receive cash-based incentives or rebates based on actual sales and achievement of a cumulative level of sales, which are accounted for as variable consideration. The Joint Venture considers these amounts to be consideration payable to the customer, and therefore, the Joint Venture estimates these amounts based on the expected amount to be provided to customers and reduces the transaction price accordingly.

Practical Expedients and Exemptions

The Joint Venture has elected to utilize either the right to invoice practical expedient or the series-based variable consideration allocation framework for most transaction processing services not subject to contingencies. The Joint Venture also has elected to exclude sales taxes and other similar taxes from the measurement of the transaction price in contracts with customers. Therefore, revenue is recognized net of such taxes.

In certain customer arrangements with customers, the Joint Venture determined there are certain promised goods or services which are immaterial in the context of the contract from both a quantitative and qualitative perspective, and therefore, the goods and services are disregarded when assessing the performance obligations in the customer arrangement.

The Joint Venture has elected to apply the significant financing practical expedient, and as a result, the Joint Venture will not adjust the promised amount of consideration in a customer contract for the effects of a significant financing component when the period of time between when the Joint Venture transfers a promised good or service to a customer and when the customer pays for the good or service will be one year or less.

Apart from the adoption of ASC 606, the Joint Venture believes there have been no other significant changes during the six months ended September 30, 2019 to the items we previously disclosed as our critical accounting estimates in "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations".

ITEM 3. QUANTITATIVE AND QUALITATIVE DISCLOSURES ABOUT MARKET RISK

Change Healthcare Inc.

Change Healthcare Inc. holds an equity method investment in the LLC Units of the Joint Venture as well as, following the consummation of the offering of TEUs on July 1, 2019, investments in the amortizing notes and prepaid forward purchase contracts components of the TEUs issued by the Joint Venture. In the case of the equity method investment in the Joint Venture, Change Healthcare Inc. is only exposed to changes in the fair value of the investment to the extent that the changes in fair value are so significant and long-lasting that they represented an other than temporary impairment of the investment. In the case of the investments in the amortizing note and prepaid forward purchase contracts components of the TEUs, however, such investments are required to be remeasured to their respective fair value each quarter with the changes in those values affecting earnings and other comprehensive income of Change Healthcare Inc.

Change Healthcare LLC

The Joint Venture has interest rate risk primarily related to borrowings under the Senior Secured Credit Facilities. Borrowings under the Senior Secured Credit Facilities bear interest at a rate equal to, at the Joint Venture's option, either (i) LIBOR for the relevant interest period, adjusted for statutory reserve requirements (which is subject, in the case of the Term Loan Facility, to a floor of 1.00% per annum and, in the case of the Revolving Credit Facility, to a floor of 0.00% per annum), plus an applicable margin or (ii) a base rate equal to the highest of (a) the rate of interest in effect as publicly announced by the administrative agent as its prime rate, (b) the federal funds effective rate plus 0.50% and (c) adjusted LIBOR for an interest period of one month plus 1.00% (which may be subject, solely in the case of the Term Loan Facility, to a floor of 2.00% per annum), in each case, plus an applicable margin.

As of September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture had borrowings of $3,993.3 million (before unamortized debt discount) under the Senior Secured Credit Facilities. As of September 30, 2019, the LIBOR-based interest rate on the Term Loan Facility and Revolving Credit Facility were each LIBOR plus 2.5%.

The Joint Venture manages economic risks, including interest rate, liquidity and credit risk, primarily by managing the amount, sources and duration of our debt funding and the use of derivative financial instruments. Specifically, the Joint Venture enters into interest rate cap agreements to manage exposures that arise from business activities that result in the receipt or payment of future known and uncertain cash amounts, the value of which are determined by interest rates. The Joint Venture's interest rate cap agreements are used to manage differences in the amount, timing and duration of our known or expected cash receipts and our known or expected cash payments principally related to our borrowings. As of September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture's outstanding interest rate cap agreements were each designated as cash flow hedges of interest rate risk and were determined to be highly effective.

A change in interest rates on variable rate debt may impact the Joint Venture's pretax earnings and cash flows. Based on the Joint Venture's outstanding debt as of September 30, 2019, and assuming that its mix of debt instruments, derivative financial instruments and other variables remain the same, the annualized effect of a one percentage point change in variable interest rates would have an annualized pretax impact on the Joint Venture's earnings and cash flows of approximately $20.9 million.

In the future, in order to manage the Joint Venture's interest rate risk, it may refinance its existing debt, enter into additional interest rate cap agreements, modify its existing interest rate cap agreements or make changes that may impact its ability to treat its interest rate cap agreements as a cash flow hedge. However, the Joint Venture does not intend or expect to enter into derivative or interest rate cap agreement transactions for speculative purposes.

ITEM 4. CONTROLS AND PROCEDURES

Disclosure Controls and Procedures

Change Healthcare Inc.'s management, with the participation of its Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer, has evaluated the effectiveness of its disclosure controls and procedures as of the end of the period covered by this report. The term "disclosure controls and procedures" as defined in Rules 13a-15(e) and 15d-15(e) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act") means controls and other procedures of a company that are designed to ensure that information required to be disclosed by a company in the reports that it files or submits under the Exchange Act is recorded, processed, summarized and reported, within the time periods specified in the SEC's rules and forms and that such information is accumulated and communicated to management including the Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer, as appropriate, to allow timely discussions regarding required disclosures.

Management recognizes that any controls and procedures, no matter how well designed and operated, can provide only reasonable, not absolute, assurance of achieving their desired control objectives. Based on the evaluation of Change Healthcare Inc.'s disclosure controls and procedures as of the end of the period covered by this report, its Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer concluded that, as of such date, its disclosure controls and procedures were effective at a reasonable assurance level.

Changes in Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

PART II. OTHER INFORMATION

ITEM 1. LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

Change Healthcare Inc.

In the normal course of business, Change Healthcare Inc. may become subject to various claims and legal proceedings. As of September 30, 2019, Change Healthcare Inc. was not involved in any material pending legal proceedings.

Change Healthcare LLC

The Joint Venture is subject to various claims with customers and vendors, pending and potential legal actions for damages, investigations relating to governmental laws and regulations and other matters arising out of the normal conduct of its business.

From time to time, the Joint Venture receives subpoenas or requests for information from various government agencies. The Joint Venture generally responds to such subpoenas and requests in a cooperative, thorough and timely manner. These responses sometimes require time and effort and can result in considerable costs being incurred by the Joint Venture. Such subpoenas and requests also can lead to the assertion of claims or the commencement of civil or criminal legal proceedings against the Joint Venture and other members of the health care industry, as well as to settlements.

Additionally, in the normal course of business, the Joint Venture is involved in various claims and legal proceedings. While the ultimate resolution of these matters has yet to be determined, the Joint Venture does not believe that it is reasonably possible that their outcomes will have a material adverse effect on the Joint Venture's consolidated financial position, results of operations or liquidity.

To reduce their exposure to an unexpected significant monetary award resulting from an adverse judicial decision, both Change Healthcare Inc. and Change Healthcare LLC maintain insurance that they believe is appropriate and adequate based on historical experience. Both Change Healthcare Inc. and Change Healthcare LLC advise their insurance carriers of any claims, threatened or pending, against them in the course of litigation and generally receives a reservation of rights letter from the carriers when such claims exceed applicable deductibles.

ITEM 1A. RISK FACTORS

In addition to the other information included in this report, you should carefully consider the factors discussed in "Risk Factors" included in the Registration Statement on Form S-1 (No. 333-230345), as well as the factors identified under "Cautionary Notice Regarding Forward-Looking Statements" at the end of Part I, Item 2 of this Quarterly Report, which could materially affect the Change Healthcare Inc.'s or the Joint Venture's business, financial condition or future results. The risks described in the Registration Statement on Form S-1 and this Quarterly Report are not the only risks Change Healthcare Inc. or the Joint Venture face. Change Healthcare LLC
Annual Incentive Plan (AIP)
Amended and Restated as of September 18, 2019

1. Purpose. The purpose of the Change Healthcare LLC Annual Incentive Plan (the “Plan”) is to provide an incentive to eligible employees of Change Healthcare LLC and its participating subsidiaries (collectively, the “Company”) who contribute to the success of the enterprise. The Plan offers eligible employees an opportunity to earn compensation in addition to their base salaries, based upon the performance of the Company (including its Business Units) and their individual performance.
2. Plan Administration. The Compensation Committee of the Board of Directors (the “Board”) of the Company (the “Committee”), in consultation with the Chief Executive Officer of the Company (the “CEO”), shall administer the Plan. The CEO shall oversee and interpret any and all aspects of the Plan (including the amount payable to any individual participant) and may delegate any responsibilities under the Plan to the Chief People Officer (“CPO”) of the Company. The CEO (other than with respect to himself) shall make final recommendations to the Committee regarding both the amount and the timing of any bonus payments pursuant to the Plan. The Committee shall review and approve the CEO’s recommendations. If an employee believes that he/she has been paid incorrectly or denied payment incorrectly under the Plan, the employee must provide written notice to the CPO (the “appeal”) within thirty (30) days of the date of the incorrect payment or payment refusal. The CEO has the sole unilateral discretion and authority to accept or reject an appeal, whether to modify or make a payment in response to an appeal, to interpret and apply the Plan and any and all language contained in the Plan, and to determine the amount of payment. Any and all decisions made by the CEO are final.
3. Plan Year. The Plan shall be effective from April 1 of each fiscal year of the Company through March 31 of such fiscal year (each, a Plan Year”).
4. Participant Eligibility. Employees eligible to participate in the Plan generally include regular full-time employees, unless state, local, province, or territorial laws requires additional employee participation, and an eligible employee selected to participate in the Plan is referred to as a “Participant”. A Participant must be employed and meet the eligibility criteria before the Participation Deadline to be eligible to participate in the Plan for that year.

Generally, individuals who are ineligible to participate in the Plan include the following:

- Temporary employees, independent contractors and consultants
- Employees located in the United States who do not have a signed Company Protection Agreement on file with the Company
- Anyone not actively employed on the date the Actual Awards are distributed (except as described in this Plan summary)
- Any other employee that does not meet the eligibility criteria above

5. Annual Incentive Potential. The target bonus potential (“Annual Incentive Plan or AIP Target Percentage”) is calculated as a percentage of the Participant’s Annual Base Salary as of the last day of the Plan Year to which the bonus relates. If a Participant no longer participates in the Plan due to a change in job during the Plan Year, the AIP Target Percentage is calculated as a percentage of the Participant’s Annual Base Salary as of the last day of the Plan Year on which the individual was a Participant in the Plan. If a Participant changes from full-time to part-time or vice versa during the Plan year, then the AIP Target Percentage is calculated based on the different employment percentages applicable during the Plan Year. The guidelines for determining AIP Target Percentage are based on the level of the job the employee is assigned. These guidelines, however, may be adjusted to reflect the significance, scope and level of accountability for a given job. Adjustments (increases or reductions) to the AIP Target Percentage levels may be made at the discretion of the CEO or the CPO of the Company. Additionally, certain AIP Target Percentage levels are set forth in written employment agreements. As such, these written agreements shall be controlling.
6. Performance Targets. The funding and payment of bonuses is based upon performance metrics established by the Committee. Unless and until otherwise specified by the Committee, the three Plan components are the Company Performance Targets, Business Unit Performance Targets and Individual Performance Measures. Calculation of Actual Awards shall be based on the achievement of multiple objectives. Each objective has a threshold, target and a maximum level of performance. For each objective, the bonus payment shall range from zero to a maximum percentage based on the level of performance for that objective.
 - a. Company Performance Targets. Payments are contingent upon the Company achieving the Company Performance Targets as shall be set by the Committee within the first ninety days of a Plan Year. If, and when, bonuses are declared, financial calculations shall be made to determine the funding level for Participants based upon the Company Performance Targets.
 - b. Business Unit Performance Targets. For those eligible employees whose job responsibilities are primarily related to a particular Business Unit, payments for a portion of the Participant’s bonus amount are contingent upon the Business Unit, achieving the applicable Performance Targets as shall be set by the Committee with respect to each Plan Year. If, and when, bonuses are declared, financial calculations shall be made to determine a funding level for each Business Unit.

- c. Individual Performance Measures. Each Participant shall have one or more Individual Performance Measures. Individual Performance Measures may be quantitative, qualitative or both. Once the Company and/or the Business Unit have achieved their performance goals, a Participant's Individual Performance Measures, taken as a whole with the Company and/or Business Unit performance, shall determine the amount of the Participant's Actual Award. Individual bonus potential can be greatly impacted by the level of achievement of Individual Performance Measures as determined by each Participant's manager. Actual Awards shall be adjusted, at each Participant's manager's discretion, to reflect the Participant's individual contribution to the achievement of Company Performance Targets and Business Unit Performance Targets and the Participant's Individual Performance Measures. A Participant's manager shall review and approve, modify or disapprove the Actual Award, if any, to be paid to a Participant for the Plan Year, and reserves the right to reduce or increase or eliminate the individual payments determined according to the above method.
7. Prorations. If an employee, not previously eligible for participation in the Plan, moves to a job and becomes eligible for participation in the Plan, the employee's Actual Award shall be calculated as a prorated portion of the annual bonus relevant to that Plan Year based upon the employee's first date of eligibility. If a person otherwise eligible for participation in the Plan becomes an employee of the Company during the Plan Year, the employee's Actual Award shall be calculated as a prorated portion of the annual bonus for that Plan Year based upon the employee's first date of employment. If a Participant is transferred to a new job during the Plan Year with a higher or lower AIP Target Percentage, the determination of the Participant's Actual Award shall be calculated based on the two different AIP Target Percentages, prorated for each AIP Target Percentage based on the date of the change in job. If a Participant is transferred to a new job during the Plan Year with a higher or lower Business Unit Performance Target, the determination of the Participant's Actual Award shall be calculated based on the different Performance Targets, prorated for each Business Unit Performance Target, based on the date of the change in job within that Plan Year. If a Participant no longer participates in the Plan due to a change in job during the Plan Year, the employee shall be eligible to receive a prorated award based on the period of participation in the Plan; provided, that the employee must continue to meet the "Conditions For Receiving Payment" set forth below. Such prorated award shall be paid at the same time as awards are made to other Participants under the Plan.
8. Payout and Taxation. The Company anticipates any bonus amounts earned under the Plan for each Plan Year shall be paid in a lump sum around June of the year following that Plan Year after completion of audited financial statements for the Plan Year and final executive and Committee approval but in any event, bonus amounts earned under the Plan, if any, shall be paid prior to March 15 of the calendar year following the end of the Plan Year to which such bonus amounts relate. Specific provisions regarding distribution are outlined below under the “Conditions for Receiving Payment” section of the Plan. Payroll taxes shall be withheld from the bonus award, or remitted to tax authorities, subject to and in accordance with law. Actual Awards that Participants receive shall be reported as income in the year in which they are paid, in accordance with applicable law.

9. Conditions for Receiving Payment. No Actual Awards under this Plan shall be paid to any Participant if employment is terminated, whether voluntary or involuntary, prior to the actual payment distribution date, except as described in Section 10 of this Plan summary or to the extent required by applicable law. However, the Company retains the authority to make exceptions to the foregoing policy in unusual or meritorious cases including, but not limited to, the death of a Participant during the Plan Year, termination of employment due to total or partial disability, call to active military service or retirement with the written consent of the Company. For clarity, a Participant is considered an active employee of the Company during any notice period, whether based on a written employment agreement, the applicable local employment or labor laws, or the common or civil law (“Notice Period”) if the Participant continues working during the Notice Period, regardless of why that Participant’s employment is terminated. However, if a Participant receives a payment in lieu of notice, instead of working during the Notice Period, the employee will not be considered an active employee during the Notice Period and the last day worked is considered the termination date for purposes of the Plan.
10. Effect of Termination of Employment. Except as expressly set forth in this section, a Participant must be an active employee of the Company on the date the Actual Awards are distributed to Participants to be eligible to receive any payment under the Plan.
 - a. Death or Long-Term Disability. If a Participant’s employment is terminated by the Company due to death or Long-Term Disability during the Plan Year, the Participant shall be entitled to receive a prorated portion of the Actual Award, with proration based on the date of termination of employment within the Plan Year.
 - b. Retirement. If a Participant’s employment is terminated due to Retirement on or after the Participation Deadline, the Participant shall be entitled to receive a prorated portion of the Actual Award, with proration based on the date of termination of employment within the Plan Year.
 - c. Other Qualifying Terminations. If a Participant’s employment is terminated due to a Qualifying Termination on or after the Participation Deadline, the Participant shall be entitled to receive a prorated portion of the Actual Award, with proration based on the date of termination of employment within the Plan Year.

11. Limitations and/or Adjustments. Payment of an Actual Award under the Plan is not an integral part of a Participant's compensation package. A Participant's base salary compensates them for the expected results of any given job role within the Company. Payment of an Actual Award is at the discretion of the Company. For the avoidance of doubt, the Plan is discretionary by nature, and unless the provincial labor/employment standards legislation applicable in the province of employment where the Participant works requires otherwise in the specific circumstance, awards made under the Plan shall not be deemed a portion of a Participant's compensation for any purpose whatsoever, including without limitation, when calculating a Participant's entitlements to termination pay, severance pay or other amounts payable upon termination of employment. Participation in a Plan Year does not guarantee payment of an award under the Plan for that Plan Year and Participation in one Plan Year does not guarantee participation in any subsequent Plan Year. The Company reserves the right to review, amend, suspend and/or terminate the Plan, the incentive calculation formulas and all other aspects of the Plan at any time. Plan changes shall be based on a determination of the Company's business needs and do not require prior notification or explanation to Participants. A Participant's participation in the Plan shall not be construed as an employment contract or as a promise of continuing employment between the Company and the Participant. Employment with the Company is terminable at will, unless an employment contract or state, local, province, or territorial laws requires otherwise.
 12. Active Employment Eligibility. If a Participant takes any type of approved leave of absence for less than (12) consecutive weeks during the Plan Year, this period of time will be included in the calculation of the award. If a Participant takes any type of approved leave of absence for (12) consecutive weeks during the Plan Year or more, the period of time in excess of (12) weeks will not be considered in the Participant's Actual Award calculation, unless an employment contract or state, local, province, or territorial laws requires otherwise.
 13. Section 409A. The payments made under this Plan to Participants subject to U.S. taxes are intended to be exempt from with Section 409A of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, and applicable guidance issued thereunder ("Section 409A"). Payments made under this Plan shall be interpreted and construed to be distributed in the short-term deferral period, as defined under Treasury Regulation section 1.409A-1(b)(4). Notwithstanding any provision of this Plan to the contrary, this Plan shall be interpreted and construed consistent with the terms set forth in this Section 13, provided that the Company shall not be required to assume any increased economic burden in connection therewith. Although the Company intends to administer this Plan so that it shall be exempt from the requirements of Section 409A, the Company does not represent or warrant that this Plan shall be exempt from Section 409A or any other provision of federal, state, local, or non-United States law. The Company, or either of its directors, officers, employees or advisers shall not be liable to the Participant (or any other individual claiming a benefit through the Participant) for any tax, interest, or penalties the Participant may owe as a result of compensation paid under this Plan, and shall have no obligation to indemnify or otherwise protect the Participant from the obligation to pay any taxes pursuant to Section 409A.

14. Clawback. Any payment made under this Plan shall be subject to reduction, cancellation, forfeiture or recoupment to the extent necessary to comply with (i) any clawback, forfeiture or similar policy adopted by the Company, whether in existence as of the effective date of the Plan or later adopted by the Company) and (ii) any applicable law or government regulation. Further, unless otherwise determined by the Committee, to the extent that the Participant receives any amount in excess of the amount that the Participant should otherwise have received under the terms of the Plan for any reason (including, without limitation, by reason of a financial restatement, mistake in calculations or other administrative error), the Participant shall be required to repay any such excess amount to the Company. The Company will make any determination for clawback, forfeiture or recovery in its sole discretion and in accordance with any applicable law, government regulation or Company policy, as applicable. By participating in this Plan the Participant consents to such deductions being made by the Company.
15. Change in Control. In connection with a Change in Control, the Committee shall have the discretion to make changes to the Plan and awards hereunder as the Committee, in its sole discretion, deems to be equitable and appropriate.

The purpose of the Guidelines is to provide a framework to be used in the event that any of the Change Healthcare LLC, Participating Companies (collectively, the "Company") decides to award severance to Eligible Executives who have a Qualifying Termination and who do not have a contractual entitlement to Severance Benefits. The determination as to which Executive is eligible to receive Severance Benefits in the event of a Qualifying Termination is within the Company's sole discretion. The Company may amend, modify or terminate these Guidelines at any time with or without notice to Executives, including without limitation the right to establish Severance Benefits on an action by action basis in its sole discretion.

The waiver and release will apply to all claims, known and unknown, relating to the Executive’s employment with the Company through and including the date of execution. (xix) “Severance Benefits” means the amount of payments that an Eligible Executive may receive under these Guidelines.

(c) Eligibility. In order to be eligible to receive Severance Benefits under these Guidelines, an Eligible Executive must not fall under one of the exceptions, as set forth in Section 3(d) of these Guidelines, and fulfill the following:

- (i) be actively employed until his or her date of termination as scheduled by the Company unless otherwise indicated by the Company.
- (ii) must execute and return a Release in accordance with the time periods set forth in the release agreement.

(d) Exceptions. An Executive who otherwise is an Eligible Executive will not receive Severance Benefits in any of the following circumstances:

(i) The Executive has executed an individually negotiated employment contract or agreement with the Company, which includes the provision of Severance Benefits upon his or her termination. Such Executive's Severance Benefits, if any, shall be governed by the terms of such individually negotiated employment contract or agreement. If these Guidelines would provide the Executive more benefits than the Executive's individual agreement, the Company may, at its sole discretion, offer the Executive the amount set forth herein;

(ii) The Executive voluntarily terminates employment with the Company. Voluntary terminations include, but are not limited to, resignation and retirement;

(iii) The Executive rejects an offer of Comparable Employment with the Company;

(iv) In connection with a Change in Control between the Company and another entity, the surviving entity (a "Successor Employer") employs Executive for the period of time outlined in Schedule A as attached to these Guidelines, after the Change in Control in the same position as he or she held immediately prior to the Change in Control or offers Comparable Employment to Executive.

If, during any period, the Company has not regarded an individual as an employee of the Company and, for that reason, has not withheld employment taxes with respect to that individual, then that individual shall not be an Eligible Executive for that period, even in the event that the individual is determined, retroactively, to have been an employee of the Company during all or any portion of that period.

4. AMOUNT OF SEVERANCE BENEFITS.

Schedule A, attached to these Guidelines, sets forth the amount of the Severance Benefits that an Eligible Executive may receive pursuant to these Guidelines.

5. EQUITY.

When the Eligible Executive terminates employment, any outstanding stock options, restricted stock units or other equity grants will be treated as set forth in the applicable equity incentive plan and award agreements and/or any other related documents.

6. OTHER EMPLOYMENT BENEFITS.

(a) COBRA Continuation. Each Eligible Executive who is enrolled in a Company-sponsored health, dental or vision plan will be eligible for COBRA Continuation coverage. The Company will notify the individual of any such right to continue health coverage.

(b) Other Employee Benefits. All non-health benefits (such as life insurance and disability coverage) will terminate as of the Executive's last day of being physically present on the job, the last day of active employment with the Company, or the date of termination, as determined by the applicable plan documents and/or the Company in its sole discretion (except to the extent that the Executive elects and pays for any conversion privilege available). The Executive's right to benefits under the Company's 401(k) plan shall be determined exclusively by the plan and any of its related agreements.

(c) Coordination with Other Plans. Any Severance Benefits payable to the Eligible Executive under these Guidelines will not be counted as compensation for purposes of determining benefits under any other benefit policies or plans of the Company, except to the extent expressly provided therein.

7. TIME AND FORM OF PAYMENT.

Subject to the terms and conditions set forth in these Guidelines, Severance Benefits will be paid in a single lump sum on the first payroll date following the effective date of the Release, except as otherwise provided in Schedule A, as attached to these Guidelines. No Severance Benefits will be paid or provided until the expiration of any applicable revocation period. In no event will any Severance Benefits be paid or provided under these Guidelines if the Release does not become effective by fifteen (15) days prior to (i) the end of the short-term deferral period as defined in Treasury Regulation § 1.409A-1(b)(4) or (ii) the end of the second calendar year following the year in which the separation occurs, if the Severance Benefits are less than the maximum amount provided under Treasury Regulation § 1.409A-1(b)(9)(iii)(A).

8. NON-DUPLICATION OF BENEFITS.

There will be no duplication of severance benefits that the Company or any of its affiliates pay or provide to the Eligible Executive, and that the Severance Benefits provided under these Guidelines are in lieu of any severance benefits for which the Eligible Executive might otherwise have been eligible under any plan, program, guidelines, policy or arrangement of the Company or any of its affiliates. To the extent necessary to avoid duplication of benefits, Severance Benefits paid or provided under these Guidelines will be reduced to offset severance benefits paid or provided to the Eligible Executive under any other plan, program, guidelines, policy or arrangement of the Company or any of its affiliates. Notwithstanding the foregoing, an Executive who has an employment agreement, in effect with the Company at the time of his or her termination of employment, that provides for severance payments and/or benefits shall not be eligible to be an Eligible Executive and shall not receive any Severance Benefits under these Guidelines.

9. NOTICE.

The Company may give at least two (2) weeks' non-working notice in advance of termination at the Company's sole discretion. If the effective date of the termination is immediate, then the Company may pay the Eligible Executive(s) an amount equal to two (2) weeks' salary in lieu of notice. However, the provision of notice and/or notice pay is at the Company's sole discretion, unless notice and/or notice pay is required by applicable law.

10. NO IMPLIED EMPLOYMENT CONTRACT.

Nothing in these Guidelines shall be deemed (a) to give any Executive any right to be retained in the employ of the Company, or (b) to interfere with the right of the Company to discharge any Executive at any time and for any reason, which right is hereby reserved. Nothing contained in these Guidelines alters or amends an Executive's status as an at-will employee. As an at-will employee, either the Executive or the Company may terminate the employment relationship with or without cause, with or without advance notice.

11. REEMPLOYMENT.

If an Eligible Executive receives Severance Benefits pursuant to these Guidelines and is subsequently reemployed by the Company in reasonably Comparable Employment, such Eligible Executive shall be obligated to repay the Company any portion of Severance Benefits received that is in excess of the time the he or she was separated from the Company. For purposes of determining the repayment obligation, the Severance Benefits shall be converted to a "Weekly Benefit Amount," which shall be calculated by dividing the Severance Benefits paid by the number of weeks of base salary payments that the Eligible Executive received as set forth in Schedule A, as attached to these Guidelines. The Weekly Benefit Amount multiplied by the number of whole weeks the Eligible Executive was separated from the Company shall be deducted from the total amount of Severance Benefits paid, and such Eligible Executive shall repay to the Company the difference between the two amounts.

12. Section 280G of the Code.

(a) Notwithstanding any other provision of these Guidelines or any other plan, arrangement or agreement to the contrary, if any of the payments or benefits provided or to be provided by the Company or its affiliates to the Eligible Executive or for the Eligible Executive's benefit pursuant to the terms of these Guidelines or otherwise ("Covered Payments") constitute parachute payments ("Parachute Payments") within the meaning of Section 280G of the Code and would, but for this Section 12 be subject to the excise tax imposed under Section 4999 of the Code (or any successor provision thereto) or any similar tax imposed by state or local law or any interest or penalties with respect to such taxes (collectively, the "Excise Tax"), then prior to making the Covered Payments, a calculation shall be made comparing (i) the Net Benefit (as defined below) to the Eligible Executive of the Covered Payments after payment of the Excise Tax to (ii) the Net Benefit to the Executive if the Covered Payments are limited to the extent necessary to avoid being subject to the Excise Tax. Only if the amount calculated under (i) above is less than the amount under (ii) above will the Covered Payments be reduced to the minimum extent necessary to ensure that no portion of the Covered Payments is subject to the Excise Tax (that amount, the "Reduced Amount"). "Net Benefit" shall mean the present value of the Covered Payments net of all federal, state, local, foreign income, employment and excise taxes.

(b) Any such reduction shall be made in accordance with Section 409A of the Code and the following:

(i) the Covered Payments which do not constitute nonqualified deferred compensation subject to Section 409A of the Code shall be reduced first; and

(ii) all other Covered Payments shall then be reduced as follows: (A) cash payments shall be reduced before non-cash payments; and (B) payments to be made on a later payment date shall be reduced before payments to be made on an earlier payment date.

(c) Any determination required under this Section 12, including whether any payments or benefits are parachute payments, shall be made by the Company (or an accounting firm that the Company selects) in its sole discretion. The Eligible Executive shall provide the Company with such information and documents as the Company may reasonably request in order to make a determination under this Section 12. The Company's determination shall be final and binding on the Eligible Executive.

(d) It is possible that after the determinations and selections made pursuant to this Section 12 the Eligible Executive will receive Covered Payments that are in the aggregate more than the amount provided under this Section 12 ("Overpayment") or less than the amount provided under this Section 12 ("Underpayment").

(i) In the event that: (A) the Company determines, based upon the assertion of a deficiency by the Internal Revenue Service against either the Company or the Eligible Executive which the Company believes has a high probability of success, that an Overpayment has been made or (B) it is established pursuant to a final determination of a court or an Internal Revenue Service proceeding that has been finally and conclusively resolved that an Overpayment has been made, then the Eligible Executive shall pay any such Overpayment to the Company together with interest at the applicable federal rate (as defined in Section 7872(f)(2)(A) of the Code) from the date of the Eligible Executive's receipt of the Overpayment until the date of repayment.

(ii) In the event that: (A) the Company, based upon controlling precedent or substantial authority, determine that an Underpayment has occurred or (B) a court of competent jurisdiction determines that an Underpayment has occurred, any such Underpayment will be paid promptly by the Company to or for the benefit of the Eligible Executive together with interest at the applicable federal rate (as defined in Section 7872(f)(2)(A) of the Code) from the date the amount would have otherwise been paid to the Eligible Executive until the payment date.

(e) Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Company in its sole discretion may choose to put the Parachute Payments to a shareholder vote in accordance with Section 280G(b)(5)(B) and the regulations promulgated thereunder.

13. GENERAL PROVISIONS.

(a) Severability. The invalidity or unenforceability of any provision of these Guidelines shall not affect the validity or enforceability of any other provision of the Guidelines. If any provision of these Guidelines is held by a court of competent jurisdiction to be illegal, invalid, void or unenforceable, such provision shall be deemed modified, amended and narrowed to the extent necessary to render such provision legal, valid, and enforceable, and the other remaining provisions of these Guidelines shall not be affected but shall remain in full force and effect.

(b) Headings and Subheadings. Headings and subheadings contained in these Guidelines are intended solely for convenience and no provision of these Guidelines is to be construed by reference to the heading or subheading of any section or paragraph.

(d) Successors. These Guidelines will be binding upon any successor to the Company, its assets, its businesses or its interest, in the same manner and to the same extent that the Company would be obligated under the Guidelines if no succession had taken place. In the case of any transaction in which a successor would not by the foregoing provision or by operation of law be bound by these Guidelines, the Company shall require any successor to the Company to expressly and unconditionally assume these Guidelines in writing and honor the obligations of the Company hereunder, in the same manner and to the same extent that the Company would be required to perform if no succession had taken place. All payments and benefits that become due to an Eligible Executive under these Guidelines will inure to the benefit of his or her heirs, assigns, designees, or legal representatives.

(e) Transfer and Assignment. Neither an Eligible Executive nor any other person shall have any right to sell, assign, transfer, pledge, anticipate or otherwise encumber, transfer, hypothecate or convey any amounts payable under these Guidelines prior to the date that such amounts are paid, except that, in the case of an Eligible Executive's death, such amounts shall be paid to his or her estate.

(f) Waiver. Any party's failure to enforce any provision or provisions of these Guidelines will not in any way be construed as a waiver of any such provision or provisions, nor prevent any party from thereafter enforcing each and every other provision of the Guidelines.

(g) Governing Law. To the extent not pre-empted by federal law, these Guidelines shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of Tennessee without regard to conflicts of law principles.

(h) Clawback. Any payment made under the Guidelines shall be subject to reduction, cancellation, forfeiture or recoupment to the extent necessary to comply with (i) any clawback, forfeiture or similar policy adopted by Change Healthcare Inc., whether in existence as of the Effective Date or later adopted by Change Healthcare Inc.) and (ii) any applicable law or government regulation. Further, unless otherwise determined by the Compensation Committee of Change Healthcare Inc., to the extent that the Participant receives any amount in excess of the amount that the Participant should otherwise have received under the terms of the Guidelines for any reason (including, without limitation, by reason of a financial restatement, mistake in calculations or other administrative error), the Participant shall be required to repay any such excess amount to Change Healthcare Inc. Change Healthcare Inc. will make any determination for clawback, forfeiture or recovery in its sole discretion and in accordance with any applicable law, government regulation or Change Healthcare Inc. policy, as applicable. By participating in these Guidelines the Participant consents to such deductions being made by Change Healthcare Inc.

(i) Withholding. The Company shall have the right to withhold from any amount payable hereunder any Federal, state, and local taxes in order for the Company to satisfy any withholding tax obligation it may have under any applicable law or regulation.

(j) Section 409A of the Code.

(i) These Guidelines are intended to comply with Section 409A of the Code or an exemption thereunder and shall be construed and administered in accordance with Section 409A of the Code. Notwithstanding any other provision of the Guidelines, payments provided under the Guidelines may only be made upon an event and in a manner that complies with Section 409A of the Code or an applicable exemption. Any payments under the Guidelines that may be excluded from Section 409A of the Code either as separation pay due to an involuntary separation from service or as a short-term deferral shall be excluded from Section 409A of the Code to the maximum extent possible. For purposes of Section 409A of the Code, each installment payment or benefit provided under the Guidelines shall be treated as a separate payment. Any payments subject to and not exempt from Section 409A is to be made under the Guidelines upon a termination of employment shall only be made upon a "separation from service" under Section 409A of the Code. The Company, or either of its directors, officers, employees or advisers shall not be liable for all or any portion of any taxes, penalties, interest, or other expenses that may be incurred by a Eligible Executive as a result of compensation paid under the Guidelines, and shall have no obligation to indemnify or otherwise protect an Eligible Executive from the obligation to pay any taxes pursuant to Section 409A.

(ii) Notwithstanding any other provision of the Guidelines, if any payment or benefit provided to an Eligible Executive in connection with his or her Qualifying Termination is determined to constitute “nonqualified deferred compensation” within the meaning of Section 409A of the Code and the Eligible Executive is determined to be a “specified employee” as defined in Section 409A(a)(2)(b)(i) of the Code, then such payment or benefit shall not be paid until the first payroll date to occur following the six-month anniversary of the Qualifying Termination or, if earlier, on the Eligible Executive’s death (the “Specified Employee Payment Date”). The aggregate of any payments that would otherwise have been paid before the Specified Employee Payment Date shall be paid to the Eligible Executive in a lump sum on the Specified Employee Payment Date and thereafter, any remaining payments shall be paid without delay in accordance with their original schedule. Notwithstanding any other provision of the Guidelines, if any payment or benefit is conditioned on the Eligible Executive’s execution of a Release, the first payment shall include all amounts that would otherwise have been paid to the Eligible Executive during the period beginning on the date of the Qualifying Termination and ending on the payment date if no delay had been imposed. 1. Nature of Business and Organization

Nature of Business

Change Healthcare LLC (the “Joint Venture”), is a leading independent healthcare technology platform that provides data and analytics-driven solutions to improve clinical, financial and patient engagement outcomes in the U.S. healthcare system. The Joint Venture offers a comprehensive suite of software, analytics, technology enabled solutions that drive improved results in the complex workflows of healthcare system payers and providers.

Organization

In June 2016, Change Healthcare Inc., the Joint Venture, Change Healthcare Holdings, LLC, Change Healthcare Intermediate Holdings, LLC, Change Healthcare Performance, Inc. (“Legacy CHC”) and its stockholders—including affiliates of The Blackstone Group, L.P. (“Blackstone”) and Hellman & Friedman LLC (“Hellman & Friedman”)—entered into an Agreement of Contribution and Sale (the “Contribution Agreement”) with McKesson Corporation (“McKesson”, together with Change Healthcare Inc., the “Members”). Under the terms of the Contribution Agreement, the parties agreed to form the Joint Venture, a joint venture that combined the majority of the McKesson Technology Solutions businesses, excluding McKesson’s Enterprise Information Solutions business and RelayHealth Pharmacy Network (such contributed businesses, “Core MTS”) with substantially all of the assets and operations of Legacy CHC, but excluding Legacy CHC’s pharmacy claims switching and prescription routing businesses (such excluded businesses, the “eRx Network” and the businesses contributed by Legacy CHC, together with Core MTS, the “Contributed Businesses”). The creation of the Joint Venture, including the contribution of the Contributed Businesses and related transactions, is collectively referred to as the “Transactions”. The Transactions closed on March 1, 2017.

Basis of Accounting

Due to the existence of shared control among the Members over all major financial and operating decisions of the Joint Venture and its consolidated subsidiaries, the assets and liabilities contributed to the Joint Venture were recognized in the accompanying condensed consolidated financial statements at their historical carrying values (i.e., joint venture accounting).

Change Healthcare Inc. Initial Public Offering

Effective July 1, 2019, Change Healthcare Inc. completed its initial public offering of 49,285,713 of common stock and a concurrent offering of 5,750,000 of tangible equity units (“TEUs”). The proceeds of the offering of common stock were subsequently contributed to the Joint Venture in exchange for an additional 49,285,713 units of the Joint Venture (“LLC Units”), which together with the Company’s existing holdings represents an approximately 41% interest in the Joint Venture. The proceeds of the offering of TEUs were used to acquire instruments of the Joint Venture that, in economic terms, substantially mirror the terms of the TEUs included in Change Healthcare Inc.’s offering. The net proceeds received from Change Healthcare Inc. from the offering of common stock and the offering of TEUs were $603,787 and $276,633, respectively, and the Joint Venture, in turn, used the proceeds to repay $805,000 of its indebtedness under the Term Loan Facility without penalty in July 2019. The Joint Venture repaid an additional $85,000 of its indebtedness under the Term Loan Facility without penalty during the three months ended September 30, 2019 for a total paydown of $890,000. However, due to the presence of unamortized discounts and debt issuance costs, the Joint Venture recognized a loss on extinguishment of debt of approximately $15,791 during the three and six months ended September 30, 2019.

Amendment of Revolving Credit Facility

Additionally, in July 2019, the Joint Venture amended its Revolving Credit Facility, the primary effects of which were to increase the maximum amount that can be borrowed from $500,000 to $785,000 and to extend the maturity date until July 3, 2024. In the event that the outstanding balance under the Term Loan Facility exceeds $1,100,000 on December 1, 2023, however, amounts due, if any, under the Revolving Facility become due and payable on December 1, 2023. In connection with this amendment, a portion of the debt was deemed extinguished, and the Joint Venture recognized a loss on extinguishment of $1,109 during the three and six months ended September 30, 2019.

2. Basis of Presentation

Principles of Consolidation

The accompanying unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with United States generally accepted accounting principles (“GAAP”) for interim financial information and with the instructions to Form 10-Q and Rule 10-01 of Regulation S-X of the Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) Guidelines, Rules and Regulations (“Regulation S-X”) and, in the opinion of management, reflect all normal recurring adjustments necessary for a fair presentation of results for the unaudited interim periods presented. Certain information and footnote disclosures normally included in annual financial statements prepared in accordance with GAAP have been condensed or omitted. The results of operations for the interim period are not necessarily indicative of the results to be obtained for the full fiscal year. All intercompany accounts and transactions have been eliminated in the unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements.

Tangible Equity Units

In connection with the initial public offering of Change Healthcare Inc., the Joint Venture completed an offering of TEUs that were issued to Change Healthcare Inc. Each TEU comprises an amortizing note and purchase contract, both of which are freestanding instruments and separate units of account. The amortizing notes were issued at par and are classified as debt on the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheet, with scheduled principal payments over the next twelve months reflected in current maturities of long-term debt. The purchase contracts are accounted for as prepaid forward contracts and classified as equity. The TEU proceeds and issuance costs were allocated to the amortizing notes and purchase contracts on a relative fair value basis, consistent with the methodology utilized by Change Healthcare Inc. See Note 12 for further discussion.

Accounting Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the condensed consolidated financial statements and accompanying notes. The Joint Venture bases its estimates on historical experience, current business factors and various other assumptions that the Joint Venture believes are necessary to consider in order to form a basis for making judgments about the carrying values of assets and liabilities, the recorded amounts of revenue and expenses and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities. The Joint Venture is subject to uncertainties such as the impact of future events, economic, environmental and political factors and changes in the Joint Venture’s business environment; therefore, actual results could differ from these estimates. Accordingly, the accounting estimates used in the preparation of the Joint Venture’s financial statements will change as new events occur, as more experience is acquired, as additional information is obtained and as the Joint Venture’s operating environment changes. Such changes in estimates and refinements in estimation methodologies are reflected in the reported results of operations, and, if material, the effects of changes in estimates are disclosed in the notes to the condensed consolidated financial statements. Estimates and assumptions by management affect: the allowance for doubtful accounts; the fair value assigned to assets acquired and liabilities assumed in business combinations; tax receivable agreement obligations; the fair value of interest rate cap agreement obligations; contingent consideration; loss accruals; the carrying value of long-lived assets (including goodwill and intangible assets); the classification and measurement of assets held for sale; the measurement of the components of tangible equity units; the amortization period of long-lived assets (excluding goodwill); the carrying value, capitalization and amortization of software development costs; the provision and benefit for income taxes and related deferred tax accounts; certain accrued expenses; revenue recognition; contingencies; and the value attributed to equity awards.

Allowance for Doubtful Accounts

The allowance for doubtful accounts of $21,796 and $20,438 at September 30, 2019 and March 31, 2019, respectively, reflects the Joint Venture’s best estimate of losses inherent in the Joint Venture’s receivables portfolio determined on the basis of historical experience, specific allowances for known troubled accounts and other currently available evidence.

Accounting Pronouncements Not Yet Adopted

In February 2016, the Financial Accounting Standards Board (“FASB”) issued Accounting Standards Update (“ASU”)No. 2016-02, which generally requires that all lease obligations be recognized on the balance sheet at the present value of the remaining lease payments with a corresponding lease asset. As originally issued, the standard required that companies adopt the standard using the modified retrospective transition method and report a cumulative effect adjustment to the opening balance of retained earnings in the earliest comparative period presented. In July 2018, the FASB issued ASU No. 2018-11 which provides companies with the option to apply this cumulative effect adjustment to the opening balance of retained earnings in the period of adoption instead of the earliest comparative period presented. This update is scheduled to be effective for the Joint Venture beginning April 1, 2020, with early adoption permitted. The Joint Venture is currently assessing both the method of adoption and the potential effects this update may have on its condensed consolidated financial statements.

In June 2016, the FASB issued ASUNo. 2016-13, as amended by ASUNo. 2018-19, which requires that a financial asset (or group of financial assets) measured at amortized cost be presented at the net amount expected to be collected based on relevant information about past events, including historical experience, current conditions and reasonable and supportable forecasts that affect the collectability of the reported amount. This update is scheduled to be effective for the Joint Venture beginning April 1, 2021, with early adoption permitted beginning April 1, 2019. The Joint Venture is currently assessing the potential effects this update may have on its condensed consolidated financial statements.

In August 2018, the FASB issued ASUNo. 2018-13, which modifies the disclosure requirements related to fair value measurements based on the FASB Concepts Statements. This update eliminates certain disclosures, modifies others and, in certain cases, requires additional disclosures. This update is effective for the Joint Venture beginning April 1, 2020, with earlier adoption permitted. The Joint Venture is currently assessing the potential effects this update may have on its condensed consolidated financial statements.

In August 2018, the FASB issued ASUNo. 2018-15, which aligns the requirements for capitalizing implementation costs incurred in a hosting arrangement that is a service contract with the requirements for capitalizing implementation costs incurred to develop or obtain internal-use software. This update also requires that the effects of such capitalized costs be classified in the same respective caption of the statement of operations, balance sheet and cash flows as the underlying hosting arrangement. Upon adoption, a company may elect to either retrospectively restate each prior reporting period or apply the update prospectively to all implementation costs incurred after the effective date. This update is scheduled to be effective for the Joint Venture beginning April 1, 2020, with early adoption permitted. The Joint Venture is currently assessing both the method of adoption and the potential effects this update may have on its condensed consolidated financial statements.

Recently Adopted Accounting Pronouncements

In April 2019, the Joint Venture adopted FASB ASUNo. 2018-16, which adds the Overnight Index Swap rate based on the Secured Overnight Financing Rate as a benchmark interest rate for hedging purposes. As the adoption of this update applies only to qualifying new or redesignated hedging relationships entered into following the date of adoption, its adoption has no immediate effect on the Joint Venture's condensed consolidated financial statements.

In April 2019, the Joint Venture adopted FASB ASUNo. 2018-02, which allows a reclassification from accumulated other comprehensive income to retained earnings for stranded tax effects resulting from the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017 ("Tax Legislation"). Because the Joint Venture's financial statements do not separately classify the components of members' deficit, the effect of the adoption of this update was limited to the separate disclosure in Note 10 related to the reclassification of such stranded costs from accumulated comprehensive income (loss) to accumulated deficit.

In April 2019, the Joint Venture adopted FASB ASUNo. 2018-07, which expands the scope of Topic 718 to include share-based payment transactions for acquiring goods and services from nonemployees. Among other provisions, the measurement date for awards to nonemployees changed from the earlier of the date at which a commitment for performance by the counterparty is reached or the date at which performance is complete under the previous guidance to the grant date under this update. Because the Joint Venture's equity-based compensation was previously subject to remeasurement at fair value each quarter under the previous authoritative literature, the effect of the adoption of this update had no material effect on the Joint Venture's condensed consolidated financial statements.

In April 2019, the Joint Venture adopted Accounting Standards Codification ("ASC") 606, Revenue from Contracts with Customers, which replaced most prior general and industry specific revenue recognition guidance with a principles-based comprehensive revenue recognition framework. Under this revised framework, a company recognizes revenue to depict the transfer of promised goods and services to customers in an amount that reflects the consideration to which the company expects to be entitled in exchange for those goods and services. All of the Joint Venture's revenue is accounted for under ASC 606.

The Joint Venture adopted ASC 606 using the modified retrospective transition method applied only to contracts that were not completed as of the date of initial application. The Joint Venture has also elected the contract modification transition practical expedient, and as a result, will treat all contract modifications entered into prior to adoption date as if they were part of the original contract. The adoption of the new revenue standard utilizing these transition methods resulted in a cumulative effect adjustment that reduced members' equity (deficit) as of April 1, 2019 by $159,877. After assessing all potential impacts of adopting the new standard on its consolidated financial statements, related disclosures, and necessary control and process changes, the Joint Venture has noted the following to be the most notable impacts of adopting the new standard:

- Revenue for certain contingent fee service arrangements will be accelerated as revenue for these arrangements is recognized as the services are performed.
- Revenue related to certain time-based software and content license agreements will be accelerated. The license component for certain time-based software will be recognized upon delivery to the customer ("point in time"), or in the case of software that requires significant production, modification or customization, recognized as the implementation work is performed. A non-license component (e.g., technical support) will be recognized over the respective contract terms ("over time").
- Incremental costs to obtain contracts and qualifying costs to fulfill will be capitalized and amortized over the period of benefit. The net result of this change was an increase to capitalized contract costs on the balance sheet; these capitalized costs will be amortized and recognized as expense over an incrementally longer period of time.

The following tables represent the impact of the new standard on the Joint Venture's unaudited financial statements as of and for the three and six months ended September 30, 2019:

3. Revenue Recognition

The Joint Venture generates most of its solutions revenue by using technology solutions (generally Software as a Service ("SaaS")) to provide services to its customers that automate and simplify business and administrative functions for payers, providers, pharmacies, and channel partners and through the licensing of software, software systems (consisting of software, hardware and maintenance support) and content.

The Joint Venture recognizes revenue when the customer obtains control of the good or service through the Joint Venture satisfying a performance obligation by transferring the promised good or service to the customer.

Principal Revenue Generating Products and Services

Content license subscriptions and time-based software—The Joint Venture’s content license subscriptions and time-based software arrangements provide a license to use a software for a specified period of time. At the end of the contractual period, the customer either renews the license for an additional term or ceases to use the software. Software licenses are typically delivered to the customer with functionality that the customer can benefit from the software on its own or together with readily available resources. As contracts for these solutions generally do not price individual components separately, the Joint Venture allocates the transaction price to the license and ongoing support performance obligations based on standalone selling price (“SSP”), primarily determined by historical value relationships between licenses and ongoing support and updates. Revenue allocated to content license subscriptions and time-based software license agreements is generally recognized at the point-in-time of delivery of the license or the content update upon transfer of control of the underlying license to the customer. Generally, software implementation fees are recognized over the implementation period through an input measure of progress method. Revenue allocated to maintenance and support is recognized ratably over the period covered by the agreements, as passage of time represents a faithful depiction of the transfer of these services. In some cases, software arrangements provide licenses to several software applications that are highly integrated with the implementation services and software updates and cannot function separately. The bundle is a single performance obligation since the individually promised goods and services are not distinct in the context of the contract because the related implementation services significantly modify and customize the software and the updates provided to the integrated software solution are critical to the software’s utility. The related revenue is recognized on a straight-line basis, ratably over the contractual term due to the frequency and criticality of the updates throughout the license period.

Contingent fee services—The Joint Venture provides services to customers in which the transaction price is contingent on future occurrences, such as savings generated or amounts collected on behalf of its customers through the delivery of its services. In some cases, the Joint Venture performs services in advance of invoicing the customer, thereby creating a contract asset. Revenue in these arrangements is estimated and constrained until the Joint Venture determines that it is probable a significant revenue reversal will not occur, and variable consideration is allocated to the performance obligation for which the Joint Venture earns a contingent fee.

Perpetual software licenses—The Joint Venture’s perpetual software arrangements provide a license for a customer to use software in perpetuity. Software licenses are typically delivered to the customer with functionality from which the customer can benefit from the license on its own or together with readily available resources. Perpetual software arrangements are recognized at the time of delivery or through an input measure of progress method over the installation period if the arrangements require significant production or modification or customization of the software. Contracts accounted for through an input measure of progress method are generally measured based on the ratio of labor hours incurred to date to total estimated labor hours to be incurred. Software implementation fees are recognized as the work is performed or under the input method for perpetual software. Hardware revenues are generally recognized upon delivery. Maintenance is recognized ratably over the term of the agreement as passage of time represents a faithful depiction of the transfer of these services.

Professional services—The Joint Venture provides training and consulting services to its customers, and the services may be fixed fee or time and materials based. Consulting services that fall outside of the standard implementation services vary depending on the scope and complexity of the service requested by the customer. Consulting services are deemed to be capable of being distinct from other products and services, and the services are satisfied either at a point of time or over time based on delivery. Training services are usually provided as an optional service to enhance the customer’s experience with a software product or provides additional education surrounding the general topic of the solution. Training services are capable of being distinct from other products and services. The Joint Venture treats training services as a distinct performance obligation, and they are satisfied at a point of time.

Transaction processing services—The Joint Venture provides transaction processing (such as claims processing) services to hospitals, pharmacies and health systems via a cloud-based (SaaS) platform. The promised service is to stand ready to process transactions for our customers over the contractual period on an as needed basis. The revenue related to these services is recognized over time as the transactions are processed, and the revenue is recognized over the individual days in which the services are performed. Any fixed annual fees and implementation fees are recognized ratably over the contract period.

Hosted solutions and software as a service (“SaaS”)—The Joint Venture enters into arrangements whereby the Joint Venture provides the customer access to a Joint Venture-owned software solution, which are generally marketed under annual and multi-year arrangements. The customer is only provided “access” (not a license) to the software application. In these arrangements, the customer does not purchase equipment nor does the customer take physical possession of the software. The related revenue is recognized ratably over the contracted term. For fixed fee arrangements, revenue recognition begins after set-up and implementation are complete. For per-transaction fee arrangements, revenue is recognized as transactions are processed beginning on the service start date.

Contract Balances

The Joint Venture's payment terms vary by customer and product type. For certain products or services, the Joint Venture requires upfront payments before control of the product or service has transferred to the customer. For other products and services, the Joint Venture invoices the customer in arrears after providing the products or services. In addition, for certain contingent fee services, customers are billed in arrears, typically based upon a percentage of collections the Joint Venture makes on the customer's behalf.

Under the new revenue standard, the Joint Venture generally recognizes a contract asset when revenue is recognized in advance of invoicing on a customer contract, unless the right to payment for that revenue is unconditional (i.e. requiring no further performance and only the passage of time). If a right to payment is determined to meet the criteria to be considered 'unconditional', then the Joint Venture will recognize a receivable.

There were no impairment losses recognized on accounts receivable or contract assets during the three and six months ended September 30, 2019.

The Joint Venture records deferred revenues when billings or payments are received from customers in advance of its performance. Deferred revenue is generally recognized when transfer of control to customers occurs. The deferred revenue balance is driven by multiple factors, including the frequency of renewals, invoice timing, and invoice duration. As of September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture expects 94% of the deferred revenue balance to be recognized in one year or less, and approximately $328,000 of the beginning period balance was recognized during the first six months of fiscal 2020.

Costs to Obtain or Fulfill a Contract

Sales commissions and certain other incentive payments (e.g., bonuses that are contingent solely on obtaining a contract or a pool of contracts) earned by the Joint Venture's sales organization are capitalized as incremental costs to obtain a contract. The Joint Venture typically does not offer commissions on contract renewals. Decremental commissions upon renewal (i.e., non-commensurate with initial commissions) are offered to the Joint Venture's sales associates for certain customers and are not material. Under ASC 606, all commissions and other qualifying incentive payments capitalized are amortized over an expected period of benefit defined as the initial contract term plus anticipated renewals. In contrast, under ASC 605 these capitalized costs were amortized over the specific revenue contract terms, which are typically 12 to 60 months. In making the significant judgment in determining the appropriate period of benefit, the Joint Venture evaluated both qualitative and quantitative factors such as the expected customer relationship period and technology obsolescence. In addition, prior to solution go-live, the Joint Venture incurs certain contract fulfillment costs primarily related to SaaS setup for our clients. These costs are capitalized to the extent they are directly related to a contract, are recoverable, and create a resource used to deliver the Joint Venture's SaaS services. Capitalized costs to fulfill a contract are amortized over the expected period of benefit.

At September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture had capitalized costs to obtain a contract of $12,407 in prepaid and other current assets and $67,426 in other noncurrent assets. During the three and six months ended September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture recognized $5,098 and $9,207 of amortization expense related to such capitalized costs, respectively, which is included in the total operating expenses. At September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture had capitalized costs to fulfill a contract of $1,383 in prepaid and other current assets and $8,571 in other noncurrent assets. During the three and six months ended September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture recognized $313 and $609 of amortization expense, respectively, related to such capitalized costs, which is included in cost of operations.

Postage Revenues

Postage revenues are the result of providing delivery services to customers in the Joint Venture's payment and communication solutions. Postage revenues are generally billed as a pass-through cost to the Joint Venture's customers. The service is part of a combined performance obligation with the printing and handling services provided to the customer because the postage services are not distinct within the context of the contract. The Joint Venture presents Postage Revenue separately from Solutions Revenue on the consolidated statements of operation as it makes the financial statements more informative for the users. The revenue related to the combined performance obligation of the postage, printing, and handling service is recognized as the transactions are processed, and the revenue is recognized over the individual days in which the services are performed.

Arrangements with Multiple Performance Obligations

The Joint Venture engages in customer arrangements which may include multiple performance obligations, such as any combination of software, hardware, implementation, SaaS-based offerings, consulting services, or maintenance services. For such arrangements, the Joint Venture allocates revenues to each performance obligation on a relative standalone selling price basis. A performance obligation's standalone selling price is determined based on the directly observable prices charged to customers, when available or estimated using other methods such as the adjusted market assessment approach, the expected cost plus a margin approach, or other approaches in cases where distinct performance obligations are not sold separately but instead sold at a bundled price. For performance obligations with historical pricing that is highly variable, the residual approach is used. Such instances primarily relate to the Joint Venture's perpetual software arrangements in which the Joint Venture sells the same products to different customers for a broad range of amounts.

Remaining Performance Obligations

The aggregate amount of transaction price allocated to performance obligations that are unsatisfied (or partially unsatisfied) for executed contracts includes deferred revenue and other revenue yet to be recognized from non-cancellable contracts. As of September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture's total remaining performance obligations approximated $1,347,000, of which approximately 52% is expected to be recognized over the next twelve months, and the remaining 48% thereafter.

In this balance, the Joint Venture does not include the value of unsatisfied performance obligations related to those contracts for which it recognizes revenue at the amount for which it has the right to invoice for services performed. Additionally, this balance does not include revenue related to performance obligations that are part of a contract with an original expected duration of one year or less. Lastly, this balance does not include variable consideration allocated to the individual goods or services in a series of distinct goods or services that are substantially the same and that have the same pattern of transfer to the customer. Examples includes variable fees associated with transaction processing and contingent fee services.

Disaggregated Revenue

The Joint Venture disaggregates the revenue from contracts with customers by operating segment as it believes doing so best depicts how the nature, amount, timing and uncertainty of the Joint Venture's revenue are affected by economic factors. See Note 9, Segment Reporting for the total revenue disaggregated by operating segment for the three and six months ended September 30, 2019 and 2018.

The Joint Venture's total revenue by disaggregated revenue source was generally consistent for each reportable segment for the three and six months ended September 30, 2019 and 2018.

Customer Incentives

Certain customers, which include the Joint Venture's channel partners, may receive cash-based incentives or rebates based on actual sales and achievement of a cumulative level of sales, which are accounted for as variable consideration. The Joint Venture considers these amounts to be consideration payable to the customer, and therefore, the Joint Venture estimates these amounts based on the expected amount to be provided to customers and reduces the transaction price accordingly.

Practical Expedients and Exemptions

The Joint Venture has elected to utilize either the right to invoice practical expedient or the series-based variable consideration allocation framework for most transaction processing services not subject to contingencies. The Joint Venture also has elected to exclude sales taxes and other similar taxes from the measurement of the transaction price in contracts with customers. Therefore, revenue is recognized net of such taxes.

In certain customer arrangements with customers, the Joint Venture determined there are certain promised goods or services which are immaterial in the context of the contract from both a quantitative and qualitative perspective, and therefore, the goods and services are disregarded when assessing the performance obligations in the customer arrangement.

The Joint Venture has elected to apply the significant financing practical expedient, and as a result, the Joint Venture will not adjust the promised amount of consideration in a customer contract for the effects of a significant financing component when the period of time between when the Joint Venture transfers a promised good or service to a customer and when the customer pays for the good or service will be one year or less.

4. Interest Rate Cap Agreements

Risk Management Objective of Using Derivatives

The Joint Venture is exposed to certain risks arising from both its business operations and economic conditions. The Joint Venture principally manages its exposures to a wide variety of business and operational risks through management of its core business activities. The Joint Venture manages economic risks, including interest rate, liquidity and credit risk, primarily by managing the amount, sources and duration of its debt funding and the use of derivative financial instruments. Specifically, the Joint Venture enters into derivative financial instruments to manage differences in the amount, timing and duration of the Joint Venture's known or expected cash receipts and its known or expected cash payments principally related to the Joint Venture's borrowings.

Cash Flow Hedges of Interest Rate Risk

The Joint Venture's objectives in using interest rate derivatives are to add stability to interest expense and to manage its exposure to interest rate movements. To accomplish these objectives, the Joint Venture primarily uses interest rate cap agreements as part of its interest rate risk management strategy.

In March 2016 and 2017, Legacy CHC and the Joint Venture, respectively, executed annuitized interest rate cap agreements with a combined notional amount of $650,000 and $750,000, respectively, to limit the exposure of the variable component of interest rates under the then existing term loan facility or future variable rate indebtedness, each beginning in March 2017 and expiring in March 2020.

In August 2018, the Joint Venture executed additional annuitized interest rate cap agreements with notional amounts of $500,000 and $1,500,000, respectively, to limit the exposure of the variable component of interest rates under the term loan facility or future variable rate indebtedness to a maximum of 1.0%. The $500,000 interest rate cap agreement began effective August 31, 2018 and expires March 31, 2020. The $1,500,000 interest rate cap agreement begins effective March 31, 2020 and expires December 31, 2021.

As of September 30, 2019, each of the Joint Venture's outstanding interest rate cap agreements was designated as a cash flow hedge of interest rate risk and was determined to be highly effective.

Following the adoption of ASU 2017-12, all changes in the fair value of derivatives designated and that qualify as cash flow hedges are recorded in accumulated other comprehensive income and are subsequently reclassified into earnings in the period that the hedged forecasted transaction affects earnings. Amounts reported in accumulated other comprehensive income related to derivatives will be reclassified to interest expense as interest payments are made on the Joint Venture's variable-rate debt. During the twelve months subsequent to September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture estimates that $16,009 will be reclassified as an increase to interest expense.

The following table summarizes the fair value of the Joint Venture's derivative instruments at September 30, 2019 and March 31, 2019:

Derivative financial instruments designated as hedging instruments:	Fair Values of Derivative Financial Instruments
	Balance Sheet Location	September 30, 2019	March 31, 2019
Interest rate cap agreements	Prepaid and other current assets	$ 731	$ 8,766
Interest rate cap agreements	Accrued expenses	(11,629)	(2,160)
Interest rate cap agreements	Other long-term liabilities	(23,066)	(16,846)

Tabular Disclosure of the Effect of Derivative Instruments on the Statement of Operations

The effect of the derivative instruments on the accompanying condensed consolidated statements of operations for the three and six months ended September 30, 2019 and 2018 is summarized in the following table:

	Three Months Ended September 30, 2019	Three Months Ended September 30, 2018	Six Months Ended September 30, 2019	Six Months Ended September 30, 2018
Derivative financial instruments in cash flow hedging relationships:
Gain/ (loss) related to effective portion of derivative financial instruments recognized in other comprehensive income (loss)	$ (3,635)	$ 6,218	$ (20,686)	$ 11,868
Gain/ (loss) related to portion of derivative financial instruments reclassified from accumulated other comprehensive income (loss) to interest expense	$ 479	$ 1,293	$ (568)	$ 2,705

Credit Risk-related Contingent Features

The Joint Venture has agreements with each of its derivative counterparties providing that if the Joint Venture defaults on any of its indebtedness, including a default where repayment of the indebtedness has not been accelerated by the lender, then the Joint Venture also could be declared in default on its derivative obligations.

As of September 30, 2019, the termination value of derivative financial instruments in a net liability position, which includes accrued interest but excludes any adjustment for nonperformance risk, was $35,207. If the Joint Venture had breached any of these provisions at September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture could have been required to settle its obligations under the agreements at this termination value. The Joint Venture does not offset any derivative financial instruments, and the derivative financial instruments are not subject to collateral posting requirements.

5. Fair Value Measurements

Assets and Liabilities Measured at Fair Value on a Recurring Basis

The Joint Venture's assets and liabilities that are measured at fair value on a recurring basis consist of the Joint Venture's derivative financial instruments and contingent consideration obligations. The tables below summarize these items as of September 30, 2019 and March 31, 2019, aggregated by the level in the fair value hierarchy within which those measurements fall.

Description	Balance at September 30, 2019	Quoted in Markets Identical (Level 1)	Significant Other Observable Inputs (Level 2)	Significant Unobservable Inputs (Level 3)
Interest rate cap agreements	$ (33,964)	$ —	$ (33,964)	$ —
Contingent consideration obligations	(4,000)	—	—	(4,000)
Total	$ (37,964)	$ —	$ (33,964)	$ (4,000)

Description	Balance at March 31, 2019	Quoted in Markets Identical (Level 1)	Significant Other Observable Inputs (Level 2)	Significant Unobservable Inputs (Level 3)
Interest rate cap agreements	$ (10,240)	$ —	$ (10,240)	$ —
Contingent consideration obligations	(3,091)	—	—	(3,091)
Total	$ (13,331)	$ —	$ (10,240)	$ (3,091)

The valuation of the Joint Venture's derivative financial instruments is determined using widely accepted valuation techniques, including discounted cash flow analysis on the expected cash flows of each derivative. This analysis reflects the contractual terms of the derivative, including the period to maturity, and uses observable market-based inputs, including interest rate curves. The fair value of the interest rate cap agreements is determined using the market standard methodology of netting the discounted future fixed cash payments (or receipts) and the discounted expected variable cash receipts (or payments) using the overnight index swap rate as the discount rate.

The Joint Venture incorporates credit valuation adjustments to appropriately reflect both its own nonperformance risk and the respective counterparty's nonperformance risk in the fair value measurements. In adjusting the fair value of its derivative contracts for the effect of nonperformance risk, the Joint Venture has considered the impact of netting and any applicable credit enhancements and measures the credit risk of its derivative financial instruments that are subject to master netting agreements on a net basis by counterparty portfolio.

Although the Joint Venture has determined that the majority of the inputs used to value its derivatives fall within Level 2 of the fair value hierarchy, the credit valuation adjustments associated with its derivatives utilize Level 3 inputs to evaluate the likelihood of default by itself and by its counterparties. As of September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture determined that the credit valuation adjustments are not significant to the overall valuation of its derivatives. As a result, the Joint Venture determined that its derivative valuations in their entirety are classified in Level 2 of the fair value hierarchy.

The valuation of the Joint Venture's contingent consideration obligations was determined using a discounted cash flow method as applied to cash flows determined through a Monte Carlo Simulation. This analysis reflects the contractual terms of the purchase agreements (e.g., minimum and maximum payments, length of earn-out periods, manner of calculating any amounts due, etc.) and utilizes assumptions with regard to future cash flows, probabilities of achieving such future cash flows and a discount rate. Significant increases with respect to assumptions as to future revenue and probabilities of achieving such future revenue would have resulted in a higher fair value measurement while an increase in the discount rate would have resulted in a lower fair value measurement.

The table below presents a reconciliation of the fair value of the liabilities that use significant unobservable inputs (Level 3):

	Three Months Ended September 30, 2019	Three Months Ended September 30, 2018	Six Months Ended September 30, 2019	Six Months Ended September 30, 2018
Balance at beginning of period	$ (2,300)	$ (4,172)	$ (3,091)	$ (4,000)
Adjustment of provisional amounts	—	—	—	100
Gain/ (loss) included in contingent consideration	(1,700)	72	(909)	(200)
Balance at end of period	$ (4,000)	$ (4,100)	$ (4,000)	$ (4,100)

Assets and Liabilities Measured at Fair Value upon Initial Recognition

The carrying amount and the estimated fair value of financial instruments held by the Joint Venture at September 30, 2019 and March 31, 2019 were:

	September 30, 2019		March 31, 2019
	Carrying Amount	Fair Value	Carrying Amount	Fair Value
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 72,992	$ 72,992	$ 47,718	$ 47,718
Accounts receivable	$ 675,306	$ 675,306	$ 759,502	$ 759,502
Senior Credit Facilities (Level 2)	$3,925,509	$3,973,284	$4,804,905	$4,834,800
Senior Notes (Level 2)	$ 981,335	$1,015,000	$ 979,905	$ 990,000
Debt component of tangible equity units (Level 2)	$ 42,069	$ 43,896	$ —	$ —

The carrying amounts of cash equivalents and accounts receivable approximate fair value because of their short-term maturities. The fair value of the Senior Credit Facilities and Senior Notes is based upon market quotes and trades by investors in partial interests of these instruments. The fair value of the debt component of tangible equity units is based on a discounted cash flow analysis.

Investments in Businesses

In December 2018, the Joint Venture purchased $15,000 of preferred shares of a health care company and $500 shares in a related company holding certain intellectual property, each of which is classified within Other noncurrent assets, net on the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheets. Because this investment has no readily determinable fair value, the Joint Venture measures this investment at cost minus impairment, if any, plus or minus changes resulting from observable price changes in orderly transactions for the identical or a similar investment of the same issuer. The Joint Venture recognized no changes in the value of this investment during the three and six months ended September 30, 2019.

6. Legal Proceedings

The Joint Venture is subject to various claims with customers and vendors, pending and potential legal actions for damages, investigations relating to governmental laws and regulations and other matters arising out of the normal conduct of its business.

Government Subpoenas and Investigations

From time to time, the Joint Venture receives subpoenas or requests for information from various government agencies. The Joint Venture generally responds to such subpoenas and requests in a cooperative, thorough and timely manner. These responses sometimes require time and effort and can result in considerable costs being incurred by the Joint Venture. Such subpoenas and requests also can lead to the assertion of claims or the commencement of civil or criminal legal proceedings against the Joint Venture and other members of the health care industry, as well as to settlements.

Other Matters

Additionally, in the normal course of business, the Joint Venture is involved in various claims and legal proceedings. While the ultimate resolution of ongoing matters has yet to be determined, the Joint Venture does not believe that their outcomes will have a material adverse effect on the Joint Venture's consolidated financial position, results of operations or liquidity.

7. Income Taxes

The Joint Venture is treated as a partnership for income tax purposes and is therefore not subject to U.S. federal income taxes and not subject to most state and local income taxes. Legacy CHC and Change Healthcare Practice Management Solutions, Inc., both wholly owned subsidiaries of the Joint Venture, are subject to U.S. federal, state and local, and non-U.S. corporate income taxes.

The income tax expense for the three months ended September 30, 2019 and income tax benefit for the three months ended September 30, 2018 was $998 and $2,119, respectively, which represents an effective tax rate of 115.0% and (1.9%), respectively. The income tax expense for the six months ended September 30, 2019 and income tax benefit for the six months ended September 30, 2018 was $2,563 and $2,228, respectively, which represents an effective tax rate of 3.4% and (1.8%), respectively.

Fluctuations in the Joint Venture's reported income tax rates are primarily due to the earnings from partnerships that are passed through to the Members for which the Joint Venture is not subject to tax and benefits recognized as a result of certain incentive tax credits resulting from research and experimental expenditures in both the US and Canada.

8. Tax Receivable Agreement Obligations to Related Parties

Upon the consummation of the Transactions, the Joint Venture assumed obligations related to certain tax receivable agreements (collectively, the "Tax Receivable Agreements") with its current and former owners. Because the assets and obligations of the predecessor businesses were contributed to the Joint Venture at their historical carrying values, these Tax Receivable Agreements are subject to differing accounting models as explained below.

2009—2011 Tax Receivable Agreements

Under the 2009—2011 Tax Receivable Agreements assumed by the Joint Venture in connection with the Transactions, the Joint Venture is obligated to make payments to certain of the former Legacy CHC stockholders, equal to 85% of the applicable cash savings that the Joint Venture expects to realize as a result of tax attributes arising from certain previous transactions. As a result of the covered change of control with respect to the Tax Receivable Agreements that occurred in connection with the Transactions, payments the Joint Venture makes under the 2009—2011 Tax Receivable Agreements are required to be calculated using certain valuation assumptions, including that the Joint Venture will have sufficient taxable income to use the applicable tax attributes and that certain of such tax attributes will be used by the Joint Venture on a pro rata basis from the date of the Transactions (or in certain cases from the date of certain previous transactions) through the expiration of the applicable tax attribute. Because the 2009—2011 Tax Receivable Agreements were previously subject to fair value measurement in connection with a prior business combination transaction, it is recognized at its initial fair value plus recognized accretion to date.

2017 Tax Receivable Agreement

The 2017 Tax Receivable Agreement generally provides for the payment by Change Healthcare Performance, Inc. (a wholly owned subsidiary of the Joint Venture) to affiliates of Blackstone, Hellman & Friedman of 85% of the net cash tax savings realized (or, in certain circumstances, deemed to be realized) in periods ending on or after the Transactions as a result of certain net operating losses and certain other tax attributes of Change Healthcare Performance, Inc. as of the date of the Transactions. The 2017 Tax Receivable Agreement is considered a loss contingency under FASB ASC Topic 450 and is reflected on the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheet at the amount that is both probable and reasonably estimable with future changes in this value being reflected within pretax income or loss.

McKesson Tax Receivable Agreement

The McKesson Tax Receivable Agreement generally requires payment to affiliates of McKesson (the “McKesson TRA Parties”) of 85% of certain cash tax savings realized (or, in certain circumstances, deemed to be realized) by Change Healthcare Performance, Inc. in periods ending on or after the date on which McKesson ceases to own at least 20% of the Joint Venture as a result of (i) certain amortizable tax basis in assets transferred to Joint Venture at the closing of the Transactions and (ii) imputed interest deductions and certain other tax attributes arising from payments under the McKesson Tax Receivable Agreement. Because payments under the McKesson Tax Receivable Agreement are contingent upon McKesson’s ceasing to own at least 20% of the Joint Venture and such an event was not probable at inception of the McKesson Tax Receivable Agreement or as of September 30, 2019, no related obligation has been reflected on the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheet.

Based on facts and circumstances at September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture estimates the aggregate payments due under these Tax Receivable Agreements to be as follows:

	2009 - 2011 Tax Receivable Agreements	2017 Tax Receivable Agreement	Total
2020 (remainder)	$ —	$ —	$ —
2021	18,703	1,179	19,882
2022	19,756	1,179	20,935

Thereafter	119,498	52,393	171,891
Gross expected payments	196,879	115,731	312,610

Total tax receivable agreement obligations due to related parties	104,027	115,731	219,758
Less: Current portion due (included in due to related parties, net)	(18,703)	(1,179)	(19,882)
Tax receivable agreement long-term obligations due to related parties	$ 85,324	$ 114,552	$ 199,876

The timing and/or amount of aggregate payments due may vary based on a number of factors, including the amount of net operating losses and income tax rates.

9. Segment Reporting

Management views the Joint Venture's operating results based on three reportable segments: (a) Software and Analytics, (b) Network Solutions and (c) Technology-enabled Services. The accounting policies of the reportable segments are the same as those described in the summary of significant accounting policies in Note 2 to the Joint Venture's audited consolidated financial statements for the year ended March 31, 2019.

In April 2019, the Joint Venture made certain changes in the way that it manages its business and allocates costs. Specifically, the Joint Venture made the following changes during the period:

- Moved its consumer payments solution from the Network Solutions reportable segment to the Technology-enabled Services reportable segment.
- Moved its consumer engagement solutions from the Software and Analytics reportable segment to the Network Solutions reportable segment.
- Made certain changes in the way that costs are assigned to the reportable segments.

The presentation in the tables that follow has been retrospectively adjusted to reflect the above described changes. The retrospective reclassifications resulted in an impact to revenue and Adjusted EBITDA of less than 2% for each reportable segment.

Software and Analytics

The Software and Analytics segment provides solutions for revenue cycle management, provider network management, payment accuracy, value-based payments, clinical decision support, consumer engagement, risk adjustment and quality performance, and imaging and clinical workflow.

Network Solutions

The Network Solutions segment provides solutions for financial, administrative and clinical transactions, electronic payments and aggregation and analytics of clinical and financial data.

Technology-enabled Services

The Technology-enabled Services segment provides solutions for revenue cycle and practice management, value-based care enablement, communications and payments, pharmacy benefits administration and consulting.

Corporate and Eliminations

Inter-segment revenue and expenses primarily represent claims management and payment and communication solutions provided between segments.

Corporate and eliminations includes pass-through postage costs, management, administrative and certain other shared corporate services costs that are not allocated to the respective reportable segments, as well as eliminations to remove inter-segment revenue and expenses and consolidating adjustments to classify certain rebates paid to channel partners as a reduction of revenue. These administrative costs are excluded from the adjusted EBITDA measure for each respective reportable segment.

Listed below are the revenue and adjusted EBITDA for each of the reportable segments for the three and six months ended September 30, 2019 and 2018. This information is reflected in the manner utilized by management to make operating decisions, assess performance and allocate resources. Such amounts include allocations of corporate shared services functions that are essential to the core operations of the reportable segments such as information technology, operations and product development functions. Segment assets and related depreciation expenses are not presented to management for purposes of operational decision making, and therefore are not included in the accompanying tables.

11. Equity Based Compensation

Following Change Healthcare Inc.'s initial public offering, Change Healthcare Inc. adopted the Change Healthcare Inc. 2019 Omnibus Incentive Plan (the "Omnibus Incentive Plan") pursuant to which 25.0 million shares of the Change Healthcare Inc.'s stock have been reserved for issuance to employees, directors and consultants of Change Healthcare Inc., the Joint Venture and its affiliates.

In connection with the Omnibus Incentive Plan, Change Healthcare Inc., during the three months ended September 30, 2019, granted to the Joint Venture's employees and directors one or a combination of time-vesting restricted stock units (RSUs), time-vesting deferred stock units, performance stock units, and cash settled restricted stock units under vesting terms that generally vary from one to four years from the date of grant. Each of these instruments are described below.

Restricted Stock Units ("RSUs")—Change Healthcare Inc. granted 4,436,758 RSUs during the three months ended September 30, 2019. The RSUs are subject to either a graded vesting schedule over four years or a one or four year cliff vesting schedule, depending on the terms of the specific award. Upon vesting, the RSUs are exchanged for shares of the Change Healthcare Inc.'s common stock.

Performance Stock Units ("PSUs")—Change Healthcare Inc. granted 1,079,621 PSUs during the three months ended September 30, 2019. The PSUs consist of two tranches, one for which the quantity of awards expected to vest varies based on the Joint Venture's compound annual Revenue growth rate over a three year period in comparison to a target percentage and one for which the quantity of awards expected to vest varies based on the Joint Venture's compound annual Adjusted EBITDA growth rate over a three year period in comparison to a target percentage. The awards earned upon satisfaction of the performance conditions become vested on the fourth anniversary of the vesting commencement date of the award (i.e. continued service is required beyond the satisfaction of the performance condition prior to vesting). The Joint Venture recognizes compensation expense for the PSUs based on the number of awards that are considered probable to vest. Recognition of expense is based on the probability of achievement of performance targets and is periodically reevaluated.

Cash Settled Restricted Stock Units ("CSRSUs")—Change Healthcare Inc. granted 597,006 CSRSUs during the three months ended September 30, 2019. The CSRSUs are expected to vest ratably over three years. Upon vesting, however, Change Healthcare Inc. is required to pay cash in settlement of such CSRSUs based on their fair value at the date such CSRSUs vest.

Deferred Stock Units ("DSUs")—Change Healthcare Inc. granted 45,704 DSUs during the three months ended September 30, 2019. The DSUs vest 100% upon the one-year anniversary of the date of grant. Unlike the RSUs, however, the DSUs are exchanged for shares of the Change Healthcare Inc.'s common stock only following the participant's separation from service.

During the three and six months ended September 30, the Joint Venture recognized compensation expense of $6,096 related to awards granted under the 2019 Plan. At September 30, 2019, aggregate unrecognized compensation expense of the Joint Venture related to awards granted under the 2019 Plan was $87,211.

12. Tangible Equity Units

In July 2019, Change Healthcare Inc. completed its offering of 5,750,000 TEUs. Each TEU, which had a stated amount of $50, was comprised of a prepaid stock purchase contract and a senior amortizing note due June 30, 2022. Change Healthcare Inc. allocated the proceeds from the issuance of the TEUs to equity and debt based on the relative fair values of the respective components of each TEU. Change Healthcare Inc. invested the net proceeds of each in a unit purchase contract and a debt instrument of the Joint Venture on terms that substantially mirror the economics of the TEUs, resulting in net proceeds to the Joint Venture of $276,633 after consideration of underwriting discounts and third party costs that were allocated between the unit purchase contract and debt instrument consistent with the allocation utilized by Change Healthcare Inc. Under these mirrored arrangements, the Joint Venture is required to make cash payments or to transfer LLC Units to Change Healthcare Inc. concurrent with any cash payments or issuance of shares by Change Healthcare Inc. pursuant to the terms of its TEUs.

With respect to the mirrored debt arrangement, the Joint Venture agreed to pay Change Healthcare Inc. an aggregate principal amount of $47,367 in quarterly installments of principal and interest (5.5% per year) on March 30, June 30, September 30, and December 30 of each year through June 30, 2022. Such amounts have been classified with debt on the accompanying consolidated balance sheets.

With respect to the mirrored unit purchase contract, the Joint Venture agreed to issue LLC Units to Change Healthcare Inc. in an amount equal to the number of shares of common stock issued by Change Healthcare Inc. to holders of its purchase contract and at the time of delivery of such common stock to such holders. Such amounts have been classified within Member's deficit on the accompanying consolidated balance sheets.

Because the economics of the unit purchase contract are intended to mirror the purchase contracts issued by Change Healthcare Inc., the Joint Venture expects to deliver between 18,429,325 LLC Units and 22,115,075 LLC Units, subject to adjustment, based on the Applicable Market Value (as defined below) of Change Healthcare Inc.'s common stock as described below:

- If the Applicable Market Value of Change Healthcare Inc.'s common stock is greater than $15.60 per share, holders will receive 3.2051 shares of common stock per purchase contract and the Joint Venture will issue an identical number of LLC units to Change Healthcare Inc.
- If the Applicable Market Value is less than or equal to $15.60 per share but greater than or equal to $13.00 per share, the holder will receive a number of shares of the Company's common stock per purchase contract equal to $50, divided by the Applicable Market Value and the Joint Venture will issue an identical number of LLC units to Change Healthcare Inc.; and
- If the Applicable Market Value is less than $13.00 per share, the holder will receive 3.8461 shares of common stock per purchase contract and the Joint Venture will issue an identical number of LLC units to Change Healthcare Inc.

The Applicable Market Value is defined as the arithmetic average of the volume weighted average price per share of the Company's common stock over the twenty consecutive trading day period immediately preceding the balance sheet date, or June 30, 2022, for settlement of the stock purchase contracts.

The unit purchase contract has a dilutive effect on the Change Healthcare Inc.'s net income (loss) per unit. The 18,429,325 minimum LLC Units to be issued are included in the calculation of basic net income (loss) per unit. The difference between the minimum LLC Units and the maximum LLC Units are potentially dilutive securities, and accordingly, will be included in the Joint Venture's diluted net income (loss) per unit on a pro rata basis to the extent the Applicable Market Value is higher than $13.00 but is less than $15.60 at period end.

14. Asset Held for Sale

During the three months ended September 30, 2019, the Joint Venture committed to a plan to sell its Alpharetta, GA office property in an effort to reduce its real estate footprint. The Joint Venture expects to complete a sale of the property during its fiscal third quarter and recognize an immaterial gain on sale. As of September 30, 2019, the property had a carrying value of $29,562. As a result of this contemplated sale transaction, the Joint Venture has classified the property as an asset held for sale on the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheet at September 30, 2019.

15. Subsequent Events*Agreement to Sell Office Building*

In October 2019, the Joint Venture executed an agreement for the sale of its Alpharetta, GA office property for proceeds of approximately $31,500. The sale is expected to be completed during the third quarter of the Joint Venture's fiscal year. The Joint Venture expects to recognize a gain of an immaterial amount as a result of this sale.

The Joint Venture has evaluated subsequent events through November 14, 2019, the date the financial statements were available to be issued.

The sealed bids were publicly opened on _____ [date], _____ [#] of sealed bids were received and opened.

II. The contractor was selected pursuant to a Request for Proposals.

The Contract was entered into after a written request for proposals was issued on _____ [date]. Potential proposers were made aware of the availability of the RFP by advertisement in _____ [newspaper], posting on industry websites, via email to interested parties and by publication on the County procurement website. Proposals were due on _____ [date]. _____ [state #] proposals were received and evaluated. The evaluation committee consisted of: _____

_____ (list # of persons on committee and their respective departments). The proposals were scored and ranked. As a result of the scoring and ranking, the highest-ranking proposer was selected.

III. This is a renewal, extension or amendment of an existing contract.

The contract was originally executed by Nassau County on November 12, 2013 [date]. This is a renewal or extension pursuant to the contract, or an amendment within the scope of the contract or RFP (copies of the relevant pages are attached). The original contract was entered into after a Request for Proposals was issued on October 11, 2012. Proposals were due on December 28, 2012. Six proposals were received and were scored and ranked. Change Healthcare (formerly known as "Med3000") was selected as the highest ranking proposer. The County issued a new RFP for these services on February 15, 2013, 4 proposals are currently being evaluated. This extension is to ensure a smooth transition of services to a new contract. [describe procurement method, i.e., RFP, three proposals evaluated, etc.] Attach a copy of the most recent evaluation of the contractor's performance for any contract to be renewed or extended. If the contractor has not received a satisfactory evaluation, the department must explain why the contractor should nevertheless be permitted to continue to contract with the county.

IV. Pursuant to Executive Order No. 1 of 1993, as amended, at least three proposals were solicited and received. The attached memorandum from the department head describes the proposals received, along with the cost of each proposal.

- A. The contract has been awarded to the proposer offering the lowest cost proposal; OR:
- B. The attached memorandum contains a detailed explanation as to the reason(s) why the contract was awarded to other than the lowest-cost proposer. V. Pursuant to Executive Order No. 1 of 1993 as amended, the attached memorandum from the department head explains why the department did not obtain at least three proposals.

- A. There are only one or two providers of the services sought or less than three providers submitted proposals. The memorandum describes how the contractor was determined to be the sole source provider of the personal service needed or explains why only two proposals could be obtained. If two proposals were obtained, the memorandum explains that the contract was awarded to the lowest cost proposer, or why the selected proposer offered the higher quality proposal, the proposer's unique and special experience, skill, or expertise, or its availability to perform in the most immediate and timely manner.
- B. The memorandum explains that the contractor's selection was dictated by the terms of a federal or New York State grant, by legislation or by a court order. (Copies of the relevant documents are attached).
- C. Pursuant to General Municipal Law Section 104, the department is purchasing the services required through a New York State Office of General Services contract no. _____, and the attached memorandum explains how the purchase is within the scope of the terms of that contract.

- D. Pursuant to General Municipal Law Section 119-o, the department is purchasing the services required through an inter-municipal agreement.

VI. This is a human services contract with a not-for-profit agency for which a competitive process has not been initiated. Attached is a memorandum that explains the reasons for entering into this contract without conducting a competitive process, and details when the department intends to initiate a competitive process for the future award of these services. For any such contract, where the vendor has previously provided services to the county, attach a copy of the most recent evaluation of the vendor's performance. If the contractor has not received a satisfactory evaluation, the department must explain why the contractor should nevertheless be permitted to contract with the county.

In certain limited circumstances, conducting a competitive process and/or completing performance evaluations may not be possible because of the nature of the human services program, or because of a compelling need to continue services through the same provider. In those circumstances, attach an explanation of why a competitive process and/or performance evaluation is inapplicable.

VII. This is a public works contract for the provision of architectural, engineering or surveying services. The attached memorandum provides details of the department's compliance with Board of Supervisors' Resolution No. 928 of 1993, including its receipt and evaluation of annual Statements of Qualifications & Performance Data, and its negotiations with the most highly qualified firms.

Instructions with respect to Sections VIII, IX and X: All Departments must check the box for VIII. Then, check the box for either IX or X, as applicable.

VIII. Participation of Minority Group Members and Women in Nassau County Contracts. The selected contractor has agreed that it has an obligation to utilize best efforts to hire MWBE sub-contractors. Proof of the contractual utilization of best efforts as outlined in Exhibit "EE" may be requested at any time, from time to time, by the Comptroller's Office prior to the approval of claim vouchers.

IX. Department MWBE responsibilities. To ensure compliance with MWBE requirements as outlined in Exhibit "EE", Department will require vendor to submit list of sub-contractor requirements prior to submission of the first claim voucher, for services under this contract being submitted to the Comptroller.

X. Vendor will not require any sub-contractors.

In addition, if this is a contract with an individual or with an entity that has only one or two employees: a review of the criteria set forth by the Internal Revenue Service, Revenue Ruling No. 87-41, 1987-1 C.B. 296, attached as Appendix A to the Comptroller's Memorandum, dated February 13, 2004, concerning independent contractors and employees indicates that the contractor would not be considered an employee for federal tax purposes.

CONTRACTOR NAME: Change Healthcare Practice Solutions (formerly MED3000)

CONTRACTOR ADDRESS: 3055 Lebanon Pike, Suite 1000, Nashville, TN 37214

FEDERAL TAX ID #: 232939847

Instructions: Please check the appropriate box ("☑") after one of the following roman numerals, and provide all the requested information.

I. The contract was awarded to the lowest, responsible bidder after advertisement for sealed bids. The contract was awarded after a request for sealed bids was published in _____ [newspaper] on _____ [date]. The sealed bids were publicly opened on _____ [date]. _____ [#] of sealed bids were received and opened.

II. The contractor was selected pursuant to a Request for Proposals.

The Contract was entered into after a written request for proposals was issued on October 11, 2012 [date]. Potential proposers were made aware of the availability of the RFP by advertisement in Newsday [newspaper], posting on industry websites, via email to interested parties and by publication on the County procurement website. Proposals were due on 12/28/12 [date]. 6 [state #] proposals were received and evaluated. The evaluation committee consisted of: DI KENNETH HETTLER, SGT GREG STEPHANOFF, AND AMTC STEVE GERARDI AND AMT MARY QUEREN

(list # of persons on committee and their respective departments). The proposals were scored and ranked. As a result of the scoring and ranking, the highest-ranking proposer was selected.

III. This is a renewal, extension or amendment of an existing contract.

The contract was originally executed by Nassau County on NOVEMBER 12, 2013 [date]. This is a renewal or extension pursuant to the contract, or an amendment within the scope of the contract or RFP (copies of the relevant pages are attached). The original contract was entered into after 2/12/13 -SEE II FOR DESCRIPTION

[describe procurement method, i.e., RFP, three proposals evaluated, etc.] Attach a copy of the most recent evaluation of the contractor's performance for any contract to be renewed or extended. If the contractor has not received a satisfactory evaluation, the department must explain why the contractor should nevertheless be permitted to continue to contract with the county.

IV. Pursuant to Executive Order No. 1 of 1993, as amended, at least three proposals were solicited and received. The attached memorandum from the department head describes the proposals received, along with the cost of each proposal.

- A. The contract has been awarded to the proposer offering the lowest cost proposal; OR:
- B. The attached memorandum contains a detailed explanation as to the reason(s) why the contract was awarded to other than the lowest-cost proposer. The attachment includes a specific delineation of the unique skills and experience, the specific reasons why a proposal is deemed superior, and/or why the proposer has been judged to be able to perform more quickly than other proposers.

V. Pursuant to Executive Order No. 1 of 1993 as amended, the attached memorandum from the department head explains why the department did not obtain at least three proposals.

- A. There are only one or two providers of the services sought or less than three providers submitted proposals. The memorandum describes how the contractor was determined to be the sole source provider of the personal service needed or explains why only two proposals could be obtained. If two proposals were obtained, the memorandum explains that the contract was awarded to the lowest cost proposer, or why the selected proposer offered the higher quality proposal, the proposer's unique and special experience, skill, or expertise, or its availability to perform in the most immediate and timely manner.
- B. The memorandum explains that the contractor's selection was dictated by the terms of a federal or New York State grant, by legislation or by a court order. (Copies of the relevant documents are attached):
- C. Pursuant to General Municipal Law Section 104, the department is purchasing the services required through a New York State Office of General Services contract no. _____, and the attached memorandum explains how the purchase is within the scope of the terms of that contract.

- D. Pursuant to General Municipal Law Section 119-o, the department is purchasing the services required through an inter-municipal agreement.

VI. This is a human services contract with a not-for-profit agency for which a competitive process has not been initiated. Attached is a memorandum that explains the reasons for entering into this contract without conducting a competitive process, and details when the department intends to initiate a competitive process for the future award of these services. For any such contract, where the vendor has previously provided services to the county, attach a copy of the most recent evaluation of the vendor's performance. If the contractor has not received a satisfactory evaluation, the department must explain why the contractor should nevertheless be permitted to contract with the county.

In certain limited circumstances, conducting a competitive process and/or completing performance evaluations may not be possible because of the nature of the human services program, or because of a compelling need to continue services through the same provider. In those circumstances, attach an explanation of why a competitive process and/or performance evaluation is inapplicable.

VII. This is a public works contract for the provision of architectural, engineering or surveying services. The attached memorandum provides details of the department's compliance with Board of Supervisors' Resolution No. 928 of 1993, including its receipt and evaluation of annual Statements of Qualifications & Performance Data, and its negotiations with the most highly qualified firms.

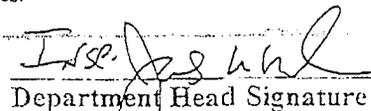

Instructions with respect to Sections VIII, IX and X: All Departments must check the box for VIII. Then, check the box for either IX or X, as applicable.

VIII. Participation of Minority Group Members and Women in Nassau County Contracts. The selected contractor has agreed that it has an obligation to utilize best efforts to hire MWBE sub-contractors. Proof of the contractual utilization of best efforts as outlined in Exhibit "EE" may be requested at any time, from time to time, by the Comptroller's Office prior to the approval of claim vouchers.

IX. Department MWBE responsibilities. To ensure compliance with MWBE requirements as outlined in Exhibit "EE", Department will require vendor to submit list of sub-contractor requirements prior to submission of the first claim voucher, for-services under this contract being submitted to the Comptroller.

X. Vendor will not require any sub-contractors.

In addition, if this is a contract with an individual or with an entity that has only one or two employees: a review of the criteria set forth by the Internal Revenue Service, Revenue Ruling No. 87-41, 1987-1 C.B. 296, attached as Appendix A to the Comptroller's Memorandum, dated February 13, 2004, concerning independent contractors and employees indicates that the contractor would not be considered an employee for federal tax purposes.

III. This is a renewal, extension or amendment of an existing contract.

The contract was originally executed by Nassau County on November 12, 2013[date]. This is a renewal or extension pursuant to the contract, or an amendment within the scope of the contract or RFP (copies of the relevant pages are attached).see II above. [describe procurement method, i.e., RFP, three proposals evaluated, etc.] Attach a copy of the most recent evaluation of the contractor's performance for any contract to be renewed or extended. If the contractor has not received a satisfactory evaluation, the department must explain why the contractor should nevertheless be permitted to continue to contract with the county.

IV. Pursuant to Executive Order No. 1 of 1993, as amended, at least three proposals were solicited and received. The attached memorandum from the department head describes the proposals received, along with the cost of each proposal.

A. The contract has been awarded to the proposer offering the lowest cost proposal; OR:

B. The attached memorandum contains a detailed explanation as to the reason(s) why the contract was awarded to other than the lowest-cost proposer. The attachment includes a specific delineation of the unique skills and experience, the specific reasons why a proposal is deemed superior, and/or why the proposer has been judged to be able to perform more quickly than other proposers.

V. Pursuant to Executive Order No. 1 of 1993 as amended, the attached memorandum from the department head explains why the department did not obtain at least three proposals.

A. There are only one or two providers of the services sought or less than three providers submitted proposals. The memorandum describes how the contractor was determined to be the sole source provider of the personal service needed or explains why only two proposals could be obtained. If two proposals were obtained, the memorandum explains that the contract was awarded to the lowest cost proposer, or why the selected proposer offered the higher quality proposal, the proposer's unique and special experience, skill, or expertise, or its availability to perform in the most immediate and timely manner.

B. The memorandum explains that the contractor's selection was dictated by the terms of a federal or New York State grant, by legislation or by a court order. (Copies of the relevant documents are attached).

C. Pursuant to General Municipal Law Section 104, the department is purchasing the services required through a New York State Office of General Services contract no. _____, and the attached memorandum explains how the purchase is within the scope of the terms of that contract.

D. Pursuant to General Municipal Law Section 119-o, the department is purchasing the services required through an inter-municipal agreement.

VI. This is a human services contract with a not-for-profit agency for which a competitive process has not been initiated. Attached is a memorandum that explains the reasons for entering into this contract without conducting a competitive process, and details when the department intends to initiate a competitive process for the future award of these services. For any such contract, where the vendor has previously provided services to the county, attach a copy of the most recent evaluation of the vendor's performance. If the contractor has not received a satisfactory evaluation, the department must explain why the contractor should nevertheless be permitted to contract with the county.

In certain limited circumstances, conducting a competitive process and/or completing performance evaluations may not be possible because of the nature of the human services program, or because of a compelling need to continue services through the same provider. In those circumstances, attach an explanation of why a competitive process and/or performance evaluation is inapplicable.

VII. This is a public works contract for the provision of architectural, engineering or surveying services. The attached memorandum provides details of the department's compliance with Board of Supervisors' Resolution No.928 of 1993, including its receipt and evaluation of annual Statements of Qualifications & Performance Data, and its negotiations with the most highly qualified firms.

In addition, if this is a contract with an individual or with an entity that has only one or two employees:

a review of the criteria set forth by the Internal Revenue Service, Revenue Ruling No. 87-41, 1987-1 C.B. 296, attached as Appendix A to the Comptroller's Memorandum, dated February 13, 2004, concerning independent contractors and employees indicates that the contractor would not be considered an employee for federal tax purposes.

In addition, Local Law No. 14-2002, entitled "Participation by Minority Group Members and Women in Nassau County Contracts," governs all County Contracts as defined herein and solicitations for bids or proposals for County Contracts. In accordance with Local Law 14-2002:

(a) The Contractor shall not discriminate against employees or applicants for employment because of race, creed, color, national origin, sex, age, disability or marital status in recruitment, employment, job assignments, promotions, upgradings, demotions, transfers, layoffs, terminations, and rates of pay or other forms of compensation. The Contractor will undertake or continue existing programs related to recruitment, employment, job assignments, promotions, upgradings, transfers, and rates of pay or other forms of compensation to ensure that minority group members and women are afforded equal employment opportunities without discrimination.

(b) At the request of the County contracting agency, the Contractor shall request each employment agency, labor union, or authorized representative of workers with which it has a collective bargaining or other agreement or understanding, to furnish a written statement that such employment agency, union, or representative will not discriminate on the basis of race, creed, color, national origin, sex, age, disability, or marital status and that such employment agency, labor union, or representative will affirmatively cooperate in the implementation of the Contractor's obligations herein.

The Contractor shall state, in all solicitations or advertisements for employees, that, in the performance of the County Contract, all qualified applicants will be afforded equal employment opportunities without discrimination because of race, creed, color, national origin, sex, age, disability or marital status.

The Contractor shall make best efforts to solicit active participation by certified minority or women-owned business enterprises ("Certified M/WBEs") as defined in Section 101 of Local Law No. 14-2002, for the purpose of granting of Subcontracts.

The Contractor shall, in its advertisements and solicitations for Subcontractors, indicate its interest in receiving bids from Certified M/WBEs and the requirement that Subcontractors must be equal opportunity employers.

Contractors must notify and receive approval from the respective Department Head prior to issuing any Subcontracts and, at the time of requesting such authorization, must submit a signed Best Efforts Checklist.

Contractors for projects under the supervision of the County's Department of Public Works shall also submit a utilization plan listing all proposed Subcontractors so that, to the greatest extent feasible, all Subcontractors will be approved prior to commencement of work. Any additions or changes to the list of subcontractors under the utilization plan shall be approved by the Commissioner of the Department of Public Works when made. A copy of the utilization plan any additions or changes thereto shall be submitted by the Contractor to the Office of Minority Affairs simultaneously with the submission to the Department of Public Works.

At any time after Subcontractor approval has been requested and prior to being granted, the contracting agency may require the Contractor to submit Documentation Demonstrating Best Efforts to Obtain Certified Minority or Women-owned Business Enterprises. In addition, the contracting agency may require the Contractor to submit such documentation at any time after Subcontractor approval when the contracting agency has reasonable cause to believe that the existing Best Efforts Checklist may be inaccurate. Within ten working days (10) of any such request by the contracting agency, the Contractor must submit Documentation.

In the case where a request is made by the contracting agency or a Deputy County Executive acting on behalf of the contracting agency, the Contractor must, within two (2) working days of such request, submit evidence to demonstrate that it employed Best Efforts to obtain Certified M/WBE participation through proper documentation.

Award of a County Contract alone shall not be deemed or interpreted as approval of all Contractor's Subcontracts and Contractor's fulfillment of Best Efforts to obtain participation by Certified M/WBEs.

A Contractor shall maintain Documentation Demonstrating Best Efforts to Obtain Certified Minority or Women-owned Business Enterprises for a period of six (6) years. Failure to maintain such records shall be deemed failure to make Best Efforts to comply with this Appendix EE, evidence of false certification as M/WBE compliant or considered breach of the County Contract.

The Contractor shall be bound by the provisions of Section 109 of Local Law No. 14-2002 providing for enforcement of violations as follows:

Upon receipt by the Executive Director of a complaint from a contracting agency that a County Contractor has failed to comply with the provisions of Local Law No. 14-2002, this Appendix EE or any other contractual provisions included in furtherance of Local Law No. 14-2002, the Executive Director will try to resolve the matter.

If efforts to resolve such matter to the satisfaction of all parties are unsuccessful, the Executive Director shall refer the matter, within thirty days (30) of receipt of the complaint, to the American Arbitration Association for proceeding thereon.

Upon conclusion of the arbitration proceedings, the arbitrator shall submit to the Executive Director his recommendations regarding the imposition of sanctions, fines or penalties. The Executive Director shall either (i) adopt the recommendation of the arbitrator (ii) determine that no sanctions, fines or penalties should be imposed or (iii) modify the recommendation of the arbitrator, provided that such modification shall not expand upon any sanction recommended or impose any new sanction, or increase the amount of any recommended fine or penalty. The Executive Director, within ten days (10) of receipt of the arbitrators' award and recommendations, shall file a determination of such matter and shall cause a copy of such determination to be served upon the respondent by personal service or by certified mail return receipt requested. The award of the arbitrator, and the fines and penalties imposed by the Executive Director, shall be final determinations and may only be vacated or modified as provided in the civil practice law and rules ("CPLR").

(m) The Contractor shall provide contracting agency with information regarding all subcontracts awarded under any County Contract, including the amount of compensation paid to each Subcontractor and shall complete all forms provided by the Executive Director or the Department Head relating to subcontractor utilization and efforts to obtain M/WBE participation.

Failure to comply with provisions (a) through (m) above, as ultimately determined by the Executive Director, shall be a material breach of the contract constituting grounds for immediate termination. Once a final determination of failure to comply has been reached by the Executive Director, the determination of whether to terminate a contract shall rest with the Deputy County Executive with oversight responsibility for the contracting agency.

Provisions (a), (b) and (c) shall not be binding upon Contractors or Subcontractors in the performance of work or the provision of services or any other activity that are unrelated, separate, or distinct from the County Contract as expressed by its terms.

The requirements of the provisions (a), (b) and (c) shall not apply to any employment or application for employment outside of this County or solicitations or advertisements therefor or any existing programs of affirmative action regarding employment outside of this County and the effect of contract provisions required by these provisions (a), (b) and (c) shall be so limited.

The Contractor shall include provisions (a), (b) and (c) in every Subcontract in such a manner that these provisions shall be binding upon each Subcontractor as to work in connection with the County Contract.

As used in this Appendix EE the term "Best Efforts Checklist" shall mean a list signed by the Contractor, listing the procedures it has undertaken to procure Subcontractors in accordance with this Appendix EE.

As used in this Appendix EE the term "County Contract" shall mean (i) a written agreement or purchase order instrument, providing for a total expenditure in excess of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000), whereby a County contracting agency is committed to expend or does expend funds in return for labor, services, supplies, equipment, materials or any combination of the foregoing, to be performed for, or rendered or furnished to the County; or (ii) a written agreement in excess of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000), whereby a County contracting agency is committed to expend or does expend funds for the acquisition, construction, demolition, replacement, major repair or renovation of real property and improvements thereon. However, the term "County Contract" does not include agreements or orders for the following services: banking services, insurance policies or contracts, or contracts with a County contracting agency for the sale of bonds, notes or other securities.

As used in this Appendix EE the term "County Contractor" means an individual, business enterprise, including sole proprietorship, partnership, corporation, not-for-profit corporation, or any other person or entity other than the County, whether a contractor, licensor, licensee or any other party, that is (i) a party to a County Contract, (ii) a bidder in connection with the award of a County Contract, or (iii) a proposed party to a County Contract, but shall not include any Subcontractor.

As used in this Appendix EE the term "County Contractor" shall mean a person or firm who will manage and be responsible for an entire contracted project.

As used in this Appendix EE "Documentation Demonstrating Best Efforts to Obtain Certified Minority or Women-owned Business Enterprises" shall include, but is not limited to the following:

Proof of having advertised for bids, where appropriate, in minority publications, trade newspapers/notices and magazines, trade and union publications, and publications of general circulation in Nassau County and surrounding areas or having verbally solicited M/WBEs whom the County Contractor reasonably believed might have the qualifications to do the work. A copy of the advertisement, if used, shall be included to demonstrate that it contained language indicating that the County Contractor welcomed bids and quotes from M/WBE Subcontractors. In addition, proof of the date(s) any such advertisements appeared must be included in the Best Effort Documentation. If verbal solicitation is used, a County Contractor's affidavit with a notary's signature and stamp shall be required as part of the documentation.

Proof of having provided reasonable time for M/WBE Subcontractors to respond to bid opportunities according to industry norms and standards. A chart outlining the schedule/time frame used to obtain bids from M/WBEs is suggested to be included with the Best Effort Documentation. Proof or affidavit of follow-up of telephone calls with potential M/WBE subcontractors encouraging their participation. Telephone logs indicating such action can be included with the Best Effort Documentation.

Proof or affidavit that M/WBE Subcontractors were allowed to review bid specifications, blue prints and all other bid/RFP related items at no charge to the M/WBEs, other than reasonable documentation costs incurred by the County Contractor that are passed onto the M/WBE.

Proof or affidavit that sufficient time prior to making award was allowed for M/WBEs to participate effectively, to the extent practicable given the timeframe of the County Contract.

Proof or affidavit that negotiations were held in good faith with interested M/WBEs, and that M/WBEs were not rejected as unqualified or unacceptable without sound business reasons based on (1) a thorough investigation of M/WBE qualifications and capabilities reviewed against industry custom and standards and (2) cost of performance. The basis for rejecting any M/WBE deemed unqualified by the County Contractor shall be included in the Best Effort Documentation.

If an M/WBE is rejected based on cost, the County Contractor must submit a list of all sub-bidders for each item of work solicited and their bid prices for the work.

h. The conditions of performance expected of Subcontractors by the County Contractor must also be included with the Best Effort Documentation

i. County Contractors may include any other type of documentation they feel necessary to further demonstrate their Best Efforts regarding their bid documents.

As used in this Appendix EE the term "Executive Director" shall mean the Executive Director of the Nassau County Office of Minority Affairs; provided, however, that Executive Director shall include a designee of the Executive Director except in the case of final determinations issued pursuant to Section (a) through (l) of these rules.

As used in this Appendix EE the term "Subcontract" shall mean an agreement consisting of part or parts of the contracted work of the County Contractor.

As used in this Appendix EE, the term "Subcontractor" shall mean a person or firm who performs part or parts of the contracted work of a prime contractor providing services, including construction services, to the County pursuant to a County contract. Subcontractor shall include a person or firm that provides labor, professional or other services, materials or supplies to a prime contractor that are necessary for the prime contractor to fulfill its obligations to provide services to the County pursuant to a County contract. Subcontractor shall not include a supplier of materials to a contractor who has contracted to provide goods but no services to the County, nor a supplier of incidental materials to a contractor, such as office supplies, tools and other items of nominal cost that are utilized in the performance of a service contract.

Provisions requiring contractors to retain or submit documentation of best efforts to utilize certified subcontractors and requiring Department head approval prior to subcontracting shall not apply to inter-governmental agreements. In addition, the tracking of expenditures of County dollars by not-for-profit corporations, other municipalities, States, or the federal government is not required.

Morris will continue to deliver personal, uninterrupted, and effective customer service to you at a level unmatched by our competition.

Nassau County as a Showplace: Nassau County already is "A Shining Star" in our EMS Division. You are far more than another line on a spreadsheet as might happen with some of our competition. In fact, we are extremely proud of the partnership we have enjoyed with you for the preceding ten years.

We have accomplished much to be proud of with you, and it sets us apart from the competition:

- Our entire staff (including managers and supervisors) are highly trained Certified Professional Coders, many of whom have worked with us for over twenty years. They have expertise in reviewing and assigning accurate medical codes for procedures, diagnoses, and they have a sound knowledge of medical coding regulations including compliance and medical necessity requirements.

MED3000 Comprehensive Revenue Recovery Solutions

- We are aggressive in our follow-up with insurance companies and patient balances and make multiple calls to patients inquiring about insurance information as well as any outstanding balances.
- Our staff appeals denials, re-appeals denials, and then arbitrates all claims until they are paid in full.
- MED3000 files claims with the State Insurance Dept. if insurance companies continuously fail to pay the claims in full.
- We have registered with Fair Health Inc. (an agency that determines that charge rates are reasonable and customary) and have used these findings to set maximum rates in the NY Metro region.

These findings have resulted in establishing defensible positions in arbitration and State Insurance Dept. hearings.

- We have never been cited by any governmental agencies for any reason unlike many of our competitors.
- Last, but not least, your ambulance billing programs has achieved unparalleled financial success in partnership with us at MED3000.

When we took over your program in 2002, you were averaging $186 per transport; today, that number has risen to approximately $525 per transport. How significant is $525 per transport?

Nassau County's current revenue of $525 per transport places it in the top 5% of all Mid-Atlantic 911 providers and is a full $175 higher per transport than any other community in the Greater New York area providing billing for ambulance transports.

In conclusion, by continuing the very best in customer service, compliance, and financial returns, we know that in our partnership with you, Nassau County is poised for continued excellence in its ambulance billing program.

Transparency in Everything We Do: By transparency, we pledge to continue our proprietary system designed exclusively for you whereby internal audits (of varying degrees and frequency) are performed on billing functions with the results forwarded to you for review. We have always opened up our processes to you so that nothing is hidden from you.

Trust is everything in a relationship, personal or business. We want your trust, but realize that trust isn't assigned; trust is earned. Transparency fosters trust.

At MED3000, we bridge the gap between operational knowledge and technology so that EMS providers can deliver the highest levels of operational and financial performance to their communities and clients. Our comprehensive package of client services and programs including EMS billing and revenue management, data warehousing tools, comprehensive practice management, consulting services, operational oversight, and clinical performance measures are all outlined in this Response.

We have a clear focus on partnering with EMS service providers. Our substantial fire and EMS experience allows us to excel at providing quality training programs for our clients that include billing program education, documentation training, administrative training, HIPAA and privacy security training and, as needed, public relations and education programs.

We work closely with our clients to establish charge rates that maximize collections from health insurance carriers. We have even negotiated contract rates with insurance carriers on behalf of our clients. We are sensitive to the government healthcare provider such as Nassau County and recognize your unique relationship to each citizen.

Finally, we will continue to manage your billing operation within proper accounting standards so that there is never a risk or question related to insurance or financial auditing and/or program accountability.

MED3000 Qualifications and Experience

MED3000, Inc. provides EMS and Motor Vehicle Accident (MVA) revenue recovery services to over 150 EMS and MVA clients in over ten states. Processing over 500,000 annual billables, MED3000 possesses the expert personnel and EMS revenue recovery experience required to maximize EMS revenue recovery for you.

Since our founding in 1995, MED3000 has grown to become a national provider of healthcare management and technology services, with over 2,100 employees in 13 states.

In just four short years, the bottom line of our entire EMS client portfolio has increased by more than $35 per transport. Our EMS division is one of the leading providers of EMS revenue recovery services in America and consistently returns the highest revenue per transport of any company providing EMS revenue recovery services across America.

Finally, our financial "horsepower" is unmatched. MED3000 was recently acquired by McKesson; McKesson achieved $112B in sales in 2011 and is currently ranked #14 in the Fortune 500.

MED3000 Successes

In today's tough financial climate, every community across America that manages ambulance billing is constantly looking at ways to maximize revenues. As a partner with many such communities, we are privileged, on a constant basis, to experience many financial "success stories" with our clients. Earlier in this Response, we highlighted the substantial financial success that you have achieved in Nassau County. Following is another example of financial success: our partnership with Fairfax County, Virginia.

In late 2009, Fairfax County decided to put its EMS billing program up for competitive bid. After a national competitive bid process was initiated and concluded in early 2010, Fairfax County selected MED3000 over two other large national EMS billing companies to provide comprehensive EMS billing services beginning on July 1, 2010.

In FY08 and FY09 combined, the total income Fairfax County realized from EMS billing averaged $285 per transport. In the twelve months ending March 2012, Fairfax County's average revenue per transport from EMS transports was $349; an increase of over 20% compared to FY08/09.

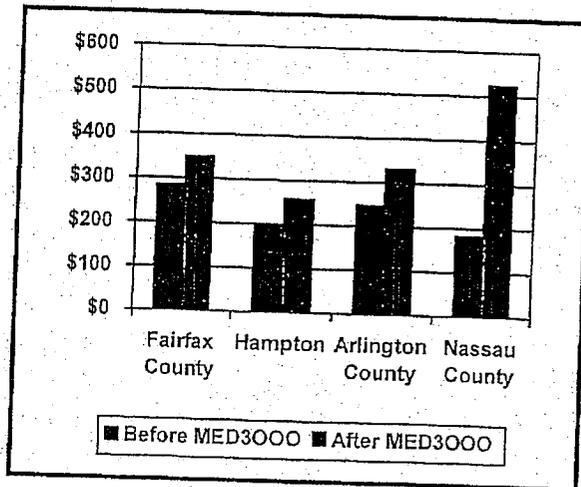

By any measurement, Fairfax County and MED3000 have been extremely successful.

MED3000 Comprehensive Revenue Recovery Solutions

Another MED3000 success story is the City of Hampton, Virginia. In September of 2010, the City of Hampton contracted with MED3000 to manage its EMS billing program.

Our revenue history in Hampton has outperformed our success in Fairfax County; in calendar year 2009, the City of Hampton generated $197 per transport. Contrast those results with these: in the twelve months ending March 2012, the City of Hampton averaged $258 per transport, an increase of 31% compared to 2009.

Furthermore, we have had similar results in other jurisdictions such as Arlington County, Virginia. Before MED3000, Arlington County averaged $248 per transport; in calendar year 2011, the County generated $331 per transport (+33%). The table below illustrates our success in dollars per transport:

Our success to date in Fairfax County, the City of Hampton, Arlington County, and particularly with you in Nassau County has not been accidental. It is the result of hard work, innovative proprietary methods, on-site supervision, and the excellent team concept MED3000 has developed with our clients.

Furthermore, we offer a wide variety of billing and customer service tools for our customers. Those tools include:

- Acryness Intelligent Document Solutions to produce and mail all patient statements as well as to provide online patient access to update insurance information and to make payments on account balances
- Documentation/compliance procedures

- Substantial experience with establishing "electronic relationships" with hospitals
- Bank lockbox experience with numerous banks and financial institutions across America

MED3000 Project Approach

Management Philosophy

MED3000 values its people as one of the greatest assets of our company:

- We continually strive for excellence in each and everything we do.
- We do not tolerate dishonesty.
- We demand accountability in our organization.
- When we make a mistake, we take full responsibility for that mistake and do everything we can do make sure that mistake is not repeated.
- We believe in positive reinforcement: when an employee achieves something special, he or she is rewarded.
- We believe employees work best when they report to supervisors and these supervisors report to their immediate superiors. When all work closely this way, we keep communication open and our clients' best interests first.
- We provide our employees with the best possible tools in order to allow them to succeed.
- We believe that training is the key to prevent recurring mistakes; we provide training opportunities for our employees as well as our client base.
- We view each and every MED3000 employee as extensions of our clients; when our personnel interact with your customers, we become an extension of your department.

Benchmarking

MED3000 organizes its EMS revenue recovery workforce with team supervisors working with billing specialists who manage all aspects of the clients they serve: call charge/bill, health insurance acquisition, posting, and accounts receivable follow-up.

MED3000 Comprehensive Revenue Recovery Solutions

Each billing team is assigned a block of MED3000 clients, and, within each team, specialists provide their expertise to each client assigned to their team. For example, supervisor Ashley Peters's team has billing specialists assigned to posting. Each specialist provides posting for all of Ashley's clients.

The team concept works well. Our Operations Director assigns charge and revenue benchmarks for each team. Each team supervisor is responsible for managing all aspects of her team in order to meet benchmark goals established by the Director. If these goals are met, each team is rewarded; if they do not, an analysis is made and problems are corrected if found.

Benchmark numbers are reviewed each week with a tighter analysis at the end of each month. Based on the outcome of an analysis, changes or modifications are made as needed.

Finally, the team concept sets up internal "competitions"; we provide proprietary rewards periodically for team successes.

Quality Assurance

Our team concept with corresponding benchmark controls is designed to improve team efficiency. We also work with clients such as you to improve efficiency by conducting quarterly reviews. At the end of each quarter, we produce a quarterly report for each client.

Each quarterly report identifies key components of a client's billing process: total charges, total dollars billed, transports, payor mix, etc.

Each client is mailed a quarterly report; once you receive your report and have time to look it over, Morris will schedule a time to meet personally with you to review your quarterly report results.

Customer Service

We are very aware of the customer service expectations you have with your citizens and will represent you and your citizens in a very sensitive, respectful way. Any inquiries that question patient care will be forwarded to County members for review.

We employ toll free telephone services for all customer service representatives. Customer service representatives will be available Monday through Friday (excluding holidays) from 8 a.m. Eastern to 5:00 p.m. Eastern to answer any incoming customer service inquiries. Based on input from you, we have the flexibility to extend those customer service hours if needed.

Additionally, all of our executive staff employees can be accessed virtually 24/7 by any of your key administrative personnel to respond to any issues or inquiries.

Keys to Success

With annual billing in excess of 350 million dollars, we very much understand what it takes to be financially successful in the EMS revenue recovery industry.

Following are 7 "Keys to Success" that we will strongly work with you to implement and/or improve:

- Proper Documentation
- Charge Rates
- Signatures
- Technology
- Training
- Management of Accounts Receivable
- Compliance

Proper Documentation

Proper documentation of patient treatment and patient demographic information is a significant factor in order for you to realize maximum reimbursements from EMS revenue recovery.

Our coding personnel apply stringent Medicare rules and regulations in determining whether or not a call is coded BLS, ALS, or ALS2.

Charge Rates

We will continue to provide to you charge rate guidance and recommend to you any needed charge rates changes to give you the chance to capture maximum available revenue from the insurance providers.

Typically, we recommend charge rates be established that blend the Usual, Reasonable, and Customary charges as established by Medicare for the specific geographic region with the actual cost of providing the emergency medical service response.

Communities can estimate the actual cost of providing EMS services by considering budget allocations and the total number of emergency responses for services that EMS agencies respond to. It is not uncommon for these costs to range from $1,200 to $1,500.

Medicare and Medicaid obviously will pay their allowable rate for services provided; nothing more. Private insurance providers will pay based on the individual policy provision which may be as much as 100% of the charge. We have been very successful in capturing the maximum revenue possible from a multitude of insurance providers while at the same time taking a very passive approach to resident collections for revenue recovery. This combination establishes a system that is very sensitive to all tax paying residents.

Signatures

One of the key components for a successful EMS revenue recovery program is signature capture. Signature capture is comprised of two key elements:

- HIPAA privacy right notification signature
- Assignment of Benefits release signature

HIPAA Privacy Right Notification Signature

The Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 (HIPAA) is a comprehensive federal law that regulates many aspects of personal and private health information. Many areas of HIPAA deal with health information outside the scope of public and private EMS; however, HIPAA does address and regulate several areas of EMS information security, maintenance, and transfer including proper notification of patient privacy rights.

Under HIPAA, each transported patient is required to be notified of his or her privacy rights under HIPAA and to sign a release that such notification has been presented to the patient.

We will provide you with HIPAA signature release language combined with assignment of benefits release information. We combine language that requires only one signature to satisfy both HIPAA and assignment of benefits signature requirements.

Assignment of Benefits Release Signature

An assignment of benefits release signature is an absolute requirement of all federal health insurance providers such as Medicare, Champus, and Railroad Medicare. Some minor and some major regional private insurance carriers such as Anthem, United Healthcare, Oxford, and Aetna require an assignment of benefits signature for payment.

We will send a signature release letter to each patient who fails to provide an assignment of benefits signature. It is extremely important for your EMS providers to attempt to capture a patient assignment of benefits release signature in the field. In the case of patients who are not physically or mentally able to sign a signature release, Medicare law allows for field providers to sign in lieu of the patient along with an acknowledgement signature from the receiving hospital.

Either way, signatures are a must and the overall success of an EMS revenue recovery program can be greatly enhanced by proper signature capture.

Training

We are very effective in our client training program. As a component of our service, we will continue to make available to you a training program that provides all patient care providers with the most up to date information on all components of your billing program and the key items necessary for success.

We use experienced EMS professionals who have been a part of successful EMS revenue recovery programs provide our field training. Our trainers also understand the financial challenges in providing a high quality EMS system. Our training program ties together today's financial challenges with the basic fundamentals of EMS revenue recovery to provide each attendee with a clear picture of how excellence in EMS revenue recovery can lead to higher revenues.

Technology

We are committed to providing state-of-the-art electronic interfaces for each of our clients. At MED3000 EMS, we have a staff of ten employees who comprise our Information Technology (IT) team. This team of professionals takes the lead in providing interface bridges to our clients' EMS application software programs as well as interfaces that enable us to receive patient demographic and health insurance information from numerous individual hospitals and hospital systems.

Currently, we have interfaces for many ePCR platforms. Should we be selected, it will be easy for us to continue our current relationship with you and RescueMedic or another ePCR platform should you desire to change.

Furthermore, and perhaps most importantly, we will work with you to improve constantly our current methodologies in obtaining patient health insurance information from your current transport hospitals.

Management of Accounts Receivable

EMS revenue maximization for you requires aggressive and disciplined AR management. To that end, we have devised our SureReview process for AR management. SureReview ensures each and every insurance due balance is worked on a 45 day cycle. This revolutionary process eliminates standard aging reports used by other billing vendors.

SureReview catches claims before they age with an insurance company, resulting in increased insurance payments for our clients.

We are fully confident that close cooperation between our staff and you will result in maximizing EMS revenue recovery revenues.

Compliance

Honesty, integrity, and transparency are of the utmost importance to all facets of MED3000's business operations and executive leadership. We have adopted and implemented, with full senior executive leadership support, MED3000's Compliance Program which serves as a valuable asset in complying with all applicable laws and regulations while continuously building a strong ethical culture.

The MED3000 Code of Conduct is a key document of our Compliance Program, providing guidance to MED3000 employees, contractors, and vendors as to appropriate professional and personal conduct required while carrying out daily activities. The Code of Conduct exceeds HIPAA and CMS requirements by:

- Clearly communicating our commitment to our policies and procedures, regulations, professional standards, ethical business practices, and workplace standards;
- Clearly conveying a message to all MED3000 colleagues their responsibility for maintaining full compliance with laws and regulations as well as the expectations that they act and represent MED3000 with the highest ethical standards;
- Informs all of our employees about their responsibilities in making MED3000 a successful organization.

Hillary Harlan is Chief Compliance and Ethics Officer. An attorney as well as a registered nurse, Ms. Harlan previously served as Director of Compliance and Legal Services for Preferred Care Partners Management Group, LP. She is responsible for overseeing MED3000's corporate compliance and ethics program as well as overseeing MED3000's operating units. Recognizing the importance of expertise in compliance leadership, MED3000 believes a CCO with direct healthcare experience, a law degree, and significant compliancy experience provides appropriate leadership for our organization and clients.

As a foundation for our ethical and compliant business practices, MED3000 has several adopted and fully implemented policies; they are as follows:

- MED3000 HIPAA Policies and Procedures
- MED3000 Compliance Plan
- MED3000 Code of Conduct
- MED3000 Identity Theft ("Red Flag") Program

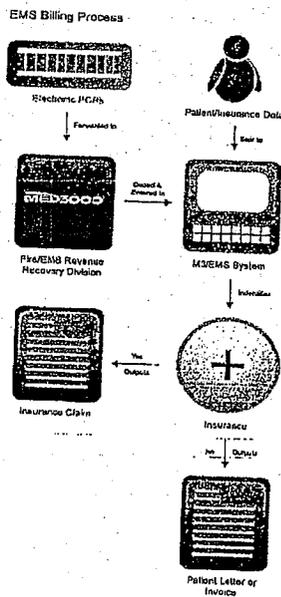

- Non-Employment of Sanctioned Individuals Policy
- Non-Retaliation Policy

Operation of Electronic Billing

The M3/EMS interface engine allows our billing staff to measure more effectively and manage the data being received from hospitals. Measuring is always a prerequisite of managing and no other billing vendor doing business across America manages and reports on results so accurately.

Client PCR's are electronically (and by paper when required) received in our office, coded by our staff, entered into our system, and then automatically matched with the demographic/insurance data to create an insurance claim. Insurance claims are generated on a daily basis and forwarded to insurance companies electronically in the vast majority of cases.

When no insurance is identified, billing associates automatically check for Medicaid eligibility on behalf of the CLIENTNAME. If no insurance is identified, the patient will receive either a Request for Information (RFI) letter or a balance due invoice as specified by the client. Incomplete mailing addresses are programmatically forwarded to Accurint (the largest and most complete skip trace data base available). Updated addresses are automatically updated in the system and the patient communications process is initiated, as illustrated below:

We will provide, throughout the contract period, experienced industry professionals to work side-by-side with you to monitor continually all facets of its billing program. Finally, we will continue to manage your billing operation within proper accounting standards so that there is never a risk or question related to insurance or financial auditing and/or program accountability.

Billing Process Synopsis

Should you continue to contract with us, your billing process will flow as it always has:

First of all, the entire process begins with patient treatment and demographic information that is captured by EMS personnel in the field. On each response and transport, your EMS personnel typically gather dozens of data points and enter that information as well as narrative documentation into an electronic patient care report (PCR) in RescueMedic.

Once a PCR is stored within RescueMedic, your EMS personnel will then upload that record with hundreds of others into a safe and secure MED3000 File Transfer Protocol (FTP) site.

After those files have been stored in our FTP, billing information is then entered electronically into our Medical Manager billing platform. Once entered into Medical Manager, each claim is tagged with a unique Medical Manager identifier and then coded. Assuming no patient treatment and/or demographic information is missing, the record is charged into Medical Manager and awaits health insurance information.

The acquisition of patient health insurance information is what sets MED3000 apart from any other vendor that may respond to this RFP, regardless of vendor size. If selected, we will continue to use and improve the current patient health insurance acquisition system with your primary transport hospitals.

The acquisition of timely and complete patient health insurance information is critical to the success of any EMS transport billing program.

Overall, our experience is that we receive complete patient treatment and demographic information within 2-3 days of the incident date as well as complete health insurance information from the transport hospital within 10-14 days of the incident day. As soon as we receive this information, we complete the charge and bill the claim to the provider or patient within 24 hours of receiving all information (within 10-14 days of incident date).

With few exceptions, all primary claims are billed electronically through our third party clearinghouse, WebMD; WebMD is one of the world's leading providers of healthcare management and technology solutions.

Examples of first claim providers are Medicare, Medicaid, Anthem Blue Cross, United Healthcare, and Oxford, although literally hundreds of providers are also billed electronically through WebMD.

WebMD is also used for secondary Medicare claims while the overwhelming majority of secondary providers are billed via paper claims as are individual patients without insurance or individual patients with an outstanding balance after insurance payments.

Should our billing personnel have incomplete patient treatment and/or demographic information, our personnel may need to contact fire department personnel for issues related to treatment or the patient for issues relating to missing patient demographic information. MED3000 personnel use a variety of tools such as Request for Information (RFI) letters, telephone calls, email, and skip tracing services such as Accurint to obtain as much information as possible before sending claims to insurance providers.

Once the initial claim is sent to primary and secondary providers, most programs work within a billing model that sends out subsequent bills on a 30-60 and sometimes 90 days billing cycle subsequent to the date of the initial bill. At the end of this billing cycle, any remaining balance is designated for write-off and is either written off in total per County directive or forwarded to a collection agency should you desire such action.

As far as payments are concerned, Medicare will remit payments on claims within two weeks of submittal while the overwhelming majority of private insurers will remit payments within three weeks of claim submittal. We prefer that you be in the position to receive payments electronically from as many providers as possible; electronic payment remittal accelerates payment time.

Timeline

Should MED3000 be selected as the successful vendor, the timeline is simple.

We will continue business as usual providing you with comprehensive billing services and RescueMedic ePCR software. We will also continue our current replacement/upgrade program of Panasonic CF-19 laptop computers or equivalent on an as needed basis.

Tab 8: Executive Summary

Your success in ambulance billing depends on excellence in these areas:

- Maximizing Revenues
- 100% Compliance
- Integration with RescueMedic
- Field Laptop Computers
- Phone System Sophistication
- Excellence in Customer Service

Following are summaries for each of these proposed enhancements:

- An EMS Transport Billing Program that Maximizes Revenues

We have been contracted with you since 2002; in 2002 your program generated approximately $186 per transport.

Since 2002, our partnership with you has greatly increased the revenues for Nassau County resulting from ambulance billing. During the preceding five (5) years, you averaged or were above $400 per transport. Today Nassau County realizes nearly $525 per transport.

Given today's current economic landscape and especially the financial challenges facing communities such as Nassau County, $525 per transport is better than excellent; it is astounding. As we highlighted earlier in this Response, your current return of $525 per transport is a full $175 higher per transport than what is received by any other ambulance transport provider in the Greater New York City area.

How did this happen? As we discussed earlier, numerous factors have helped us "drive" your high returns.

Here are some of those important factors:

- Our ability to aggressively pursue insurance companies for partial or non-existent payment.
- We arbitrate all claims until they are paid in full.
- Our registration and findings with Fair Health, Inc. have been instrumental in setting maximum rates in metro New York.
- Our staff is highly trained, experienced, and dedicated (many with over 20 years of ambulance billing experience); many are Certified Professional coders who assign and review all coding diagnosis to ensure 100% coding compliance.

In conclusion, since 2002, the average revenue per transport in Nassau County has increased exponentially by nearly 300%.

- A System Which is 100% Compliant

Honesty, integrity, and transparency are of the utmost importance to all facets of MED3000's business operations and executive leadership. We have adopted and implemented, with full senior executive leadership support, MED3000's Compliance Program which serves as a valuable asset in complying with all applicable laws and regulations while continuously building a strong ethical culture.

The MED3000 Code of Conduct is a key document of our Compliance Program, providing guidance to MED3000 employees, contractors, and vendors as to appropriate professional and personal conduct required while carrying out daily activities. The Code of Conduct exceeds HIPAA and CMC requirements by:

- Clearly communicating our commitment to our policies and procedures, regulations, professional standards, ethical business practices, and workplace standards;
- Clearly conveying a message to all MED3000 colleagues their responsibility for maintaining full compliance with laws and regulations as well as the expectations that they act and represent MED3000 with the highest ethical standards;
- Informs all of our employees about their responsibilities in making MED3000 a successful organization.

Hillary Harlan is Chief Compliance and Ethics Officer. An attorney as well as a registered nurse, Ms. Harlan previously served as Director of Compliance and Legal Services for Preferred Care Partners Management Group, LP. She is responsible for overseeing MED3000's corporate compliance and ethics program as well as overseeing MED3000's operating units. Recognizing the importance of expertise in compliance leadership, MED3000 believes a CCO with direct healthcare experience, a law degree, and significant compliancy experience provides appropriate leadership for our organization and clients.

- RescueMedic Integration

MED3000 has a strong history of integration with EMS record management systems platforms; we currently integrate with a multitude of EMS software companies throughout the United States and, as such, we acquire electronically patient treatment and demographic information. Nearly 100% of all MED3000 EMS transport billing clients electronically upload patient treatment and demographic information from EMS RMS platforms to MED3000.

As you are aware of, we are 100% electronically compliant with RescueMedic ePCR software; most importantly, we have an operational interface with RescueMedic that provides exceptional service today. It will continue to provide excellent service into 2013 and beyond.

Finally, should you desire to replace your current RescueMedic ePCR solution with another solution that meets your needs, MED3000 will procure and pay for that solution.

- Field Laptop Computers

If we are so fortunate to continue our partnership with you, our plan is to continue the annual acquisition/replacement of approximately 20 Panasonic CF-19 laptops.

Should you desire to replace more than 20 laptops annually, we will procure the number of laptops that satisfy your needs.

- Phone System Sophistication

The entire MED3000 "world" uses the latest in Cisco telephone technology; each of our billing offices has the following Cisco functions and capabilities:

- Each supervisor has the ability to monitor and report on call taker activity.
- Supervisors and administrators monitor the overall activity within the call center.
- Each supervisor can monitor the phone activity by employee.

MED3000 Comprehensive Revenue Recovery Solutions

- Each supervisor can monitor all phone activity related to a client activity.

Cisco reporting is critical in telephone management. Following are a few of the reporting options and administrative tools our administrators in order to manage telephone operations:

- A unique 800# is assigned to each client; when a MED3000 billing associate's telephone rings, he/she knows immediately the MED3000 client related to that telephone call. This unique telephone number is also printed on billing statements as well as Request for Information (RFI) letters.
- A report on the length of time to answer calls.
- A report on the time patients are put on hold (if applicable).
- A report on the time employees are on the phone with patients.
- A report that shows "on time" related sequences for all phone calls by incoming telephone numbers.

Proper management of telephone operations is critical with customer service; our Cisco system is another example of how seriously we take customer service.

• Excellence in Customer Service

If you select us as the successful vendor, our management philosophy and program management with you will be the same as it has been. As agents of the customer, we pursue excellence in each and everything we do.

Should we so fortunate to continue our professional partnership with you, oversight of your program will continue to be directed by Morris Maybruch whose ambulance billing experience with your program as well as with other programs in the Greater New York City area is unmatched. Morris's professional touch, his keen understanding of all issues pertaining to ambulance billing, and his unique familiarity with your revenue recovery program will be critical in understanding and solving issues that develop within your agency pertaining to ambulance billing.

We have, and always will, place your customers first; our Executive Staff has extensive fire service and EMS experience; consequently, we understand the special bond that exists between you and the citizens of Nassau. Our communication with your customers on a day-to-day basis will continue to be professional and all interactions, whether verbal or written, are and will be held to the highest standards. Our EMS transport billing unit has been blessed with solid growth and a large part of that growth can be attributed to the understanding we have of our customers and the professionalism we deliver.

Whether the task is acquiring health insurance information, interfacing with data management systems, or talking on the telephone with a transported patient, we always pursue excellence in every aspect of our business. Our business is serving people by providing a service that ultimately helps to save lives.

We know your business and possess extensive knowledge and professional relationships with fire departments and EMS agencies across America. Furthermore, we are among the leaders in providing technology solutions to many facets of America's health system and fire service.

We are proud to have teamed with you; we hope to move that team effort into 2013 and beyond. We enjoy what we do and we believe in what we do. Most importantly, we believe in what you do.

We know EMS. We know your desire to save lives.

8. Who currently provides Billing Services and what does the County pay for current billing services?

Med3000 is paid a commission on eligible receipts at a rate of 8.25% for billing services. This excludes Medicaid claims which are paid at a rate of $7.50 per claim. This also excludes patient & insurance refunds.

9. Does the NCPD utilize a Fleet Management System to monitor their Ambulance Fleet? If so what is the name of system?

Clarification needed – is this a reference to a GPS system? Or fleet maintenance?

Fleet maintenance is managed internally by PDCN's Fleet Services Bureau.

10. Does the County have a preferred Collection Agency? If so, what is the name of that agency?

MSB

11. Has the County considered or will the selected vendor be responsible for collection of accounts greater than 90 days at the start of the contract?

To be determined.

12. Does the County utilize a Lockbox to receive payments? What is the name of the County's Financial Institution?

Yes, we utilize a lockbox for payment remittance. The County's Financial Institution is Bank of America.

13. per Computer Hardware and Software pg 9 The Contractor to provide computer software, hardware, peripherals and accessories as needed by Bureau, in conformity with such Items and materials currently utilized by Bureau. Upgrades and/or expansion of equipment, software, hardware, peripherals and accessory needs as required by Bureau to be responsibility of vendor.

Can the County provide an itemized list of the 'materials currently utilized by Bureau' (SKU, # of units etc) in order for proposer to price those items?

Please see attached list referencing the equipment we are currently utilizing.

14. Can the County provide the name of the CAD vendor, software and version along with the export specifications and mechanism utilized to export CAD information currently or as part of this contract? Please identify if there will be a cost from the CAD vendor to the contractor for the export and what that amount is?

CAD does not interface with our e-pcr or billing system.

15. Do the Ambulances utilize a Mobile Data Terminal? If so name of System?

Yes, but it does not interface with our e-pcr or billing system.

16. For Patient Care Report training, can the county provide # of Paramedics/EMTs' to be included in classes? How is the structure of training to be completed i.e. by shifts regular Business hours etc?

There are currently 161 ALS providers in the EAB. While we do not currently anticipate a change in our e-pcr program, the structure of any training to be done would be determined at that time.

17. Please confirm that there is no MBE/WBE requirement or Bid Bond required in this solicitation.

No MBE/WBE requirement

18. Can the County provide the names/positions of Nassau County personnel as well as vendors who attended pre-Bid conference on 11/13/2012?

The RFP contact person is D/Sgt. Tara Comiskey.

19. Please provide a breakdown (either percentages or numbers) of claims billed by payer in the past year (Medicare, Medicaid, Commercial, Self-Pay)
See answer to question #5.

20. Please provide the total number and dollars of claims paid in the past year by payer.
See answer to question #1 & #3.

21. What is the current fee structure in place with the existing vendor?
See answer to question #8.

22. Will the successful vendor assume responsibility for any backlog of unbilled and/or previously billed accounts? If so, is an aged trial balance report of this backlog available that identifies by payer the volume and dollar value.

See answer to #11 (tbd).

23. The RFP states the Bureau responded to over 60,000 calls in 2011. Are all calls dispatched from the same CAD software? What is the current CAD software being used?

Not applicable as there is no interface between the dispatch system, the vehicle MDT, and the e-pcr system or billing system.

24. Please confirm the Bureau is considered one provider. Or, are there numerous providers, utilizing various CAD systems, with numerous provider numbers?

Yes, the EAB is a single provider with a single provider number.

25. What type/brand of hardware is currently being used? What is the lifecycle of the hardware? Does the Bureau expect to have new hardware prior to implementation, or will the Bureau roll over hardware as devices expire? ..

At the implementation of the contract, all hardware (tough books, specifically) will be within the 1st year of use by us & therefore relatively new. Our plan is to continue to roll over hardware as they approach 2 years of service. Replacement of tough books is not expected before 2014. Office hardware & software which supports the billing department will need to be replaced on an as-needed basis. A list of equipment we are currently utilizing is attached.

26. Is the contractor responsible for provision of connectivity, or will the new system utilize the existing available connectivity?

The billing vendor is responsible for maintaining connectivity. The cellular provider & internet provider are to be selected by the EAB.

27. What is the anticipated timeline/Go Live for implementation?

Unknown at this time

28. Will bidders be required to provide a list of equipment, data system and billing programs in the Bid Submission?

Clarification needed on 'equipment'.

29. Can Nassau Police Department and the Contractor work a system for fraud alerts... (those customers giving false information)?

Unknown at this time

30. Are the six County Employees that receive training be from the police department or scattered county departments?

Police Department.

31. Since the contractor's fee is based on a percentage of net revenues, will be there additional payments for tasks outside the Scope of work?

No, there are no additional payments. In addition to normal billing functions, the Scope of Work may include, but is not limited to, the vendor being required to generate data or build reports at the request of the Department.

32. Would the department be able to provide bidders with a breakdown of call volume, billed amount and revenue collections by payor category (e.g. Medicare, Medicaid, Commercial Insurance, Private Pay)?

See answers to #1 thru #7.

33. PPM has always been advised that billing companies are not allowed to charge based on a percentage of collections (see the below links for reference). However, it has come to our attention recently that this may only apply to Medicaid and may only apply to billing companies that actually receive the funds directly from the insurance companies (see attached email from our council). Does the department want bidders to structure proposals on a percentage basis or should other methods of fee calculations be used?

<http://www.camlawblog.com/articles/malpractice-and-risk-management/do-percentagebased-revenuesharing-arrangements-between-a-clinic-and-its-health-care-practitioners-violate-stark-antikickback-and-foesplitting-laws/>
<http://insuranceclaimsinformation.blogspot.com/2012/03/are-you-and-your-providers-breaking-law.html>

34. Would the department prefer one all inclusive fee structure or would other structures that may be more cost effective (such as establishing a percentage/fee for billing and carving out/ passing through certain ancillary costs such as computers, toughbooks, epcr licenses) be acceptable? Note: this can be done by having the ancillary costs paid directly through the Department so there is no markup or profit made on these items by the billing company (billing company will still administer all aspects of the purchase and maintenance of such items) or they can be paid for by the billing company and itemized on invoices to the Department.

35. Would the Department entertain having the billing and EPCR software hosted by a third party vendor that provides such services for other ambulance agencies where such an arrangement would offer better security, backup of all data, and functionality/reliability for the EPCR laptops during power outages and natural disasters?

This question appears to be in contradiction to the requirements of the RFP.

4.1 Responsibilities of the County. With respect to any use and/or disclosure of PHI, the County hereby undertakes to do the following to the extent material to the PHI held by the Contractor:

a) inform the Contractor of any changes in the County's Notice of Privacy Practices (the "Notice"), which the County provides to Individuals pursuant to 45 C.F.R. §164.520, and provide the Contractor a current copy of such Notice and a copy of all updated versions thereof prior to their effective date;

b) inform the Contractor of any changes in, or withdrawal of, any relevant authorization provided to the County by Individuals pursuant to 45 C.F.R. §164.508, which impact the Contractor under the Agreement;

c) inform the Contractor of any applicable decisions made by any Individual to opt-out of allowing his or her PHI to be used for fundraising activities of the County pursuant to 45 C.F.R. §164.514(f), which impact the Contractor under the Agreement; and

d) notify the Contractor, in writing, of any arrangements permitted or required under 45 C.F.R. parts 160 and 164, which impact the use and/or disclosure of PHI by the Contractor under the Agreement, including, but not limited to, restrictions on use and/or disclosure of PHI as provided for in 45 C.F.R. §164.522 agreed to by the County.

4.2 Responsibilities of the County with Respect to Access, Amendment, Restrictions and Accounting of Disclosures of PHI. The County hereby agrees to do the following regarding access to PHI, amendments to inaccuracies contained in PHI, and restrictions regarding PHI in the Contractor's possession, to the extent material to the PHI held by the Contractor:

a) notify the Contractor, in writing, of any PHI that the County seeks to make available to an Individual pursuant to 45 C.F.R. § 164.524 and the time, manner, and form which the Contractor shall provide such access;

b) notify the Contractor, in writing, of any amendment(s) to PHI in the possession of the Contractor that the Contractor shall make and inform the Contractor of the time, form, and manner in which such amendment(s) shall be made; and

c) notify the Contractor, in writing, of any restrictions that the County has agreed to adhere to with regard to the use and disclosure of PHI of any Individual that materially affects and/or limits the uses and disclosures which are otherwise permitted.

5. RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE CONTRACTOR WITH RESPECT TO EPHI

5.1 The Contractor's Responsibilities. With respect to any use and/or disclosure of EPHI, Contractor agrees that it shall:

a) comply with the provisions of 45 C.F.R. §§ 164.308, 164.310, 164.312 and 164.316 relating to implementation of administrative, physical and technical safeguards with respect to Electronic PHI in the same manner that such provisions apply to a HIPAA covered entity. Contractor will also comply with any additional security requirements contained in the HITECH Act that are applicable to a business associate.

b) implement administrative, physical and technical safeguards that reasonably and appropriately protect the confidentiality, integrity, and availability of EPHI that Contractor creates, receives, maintains, or transmits on behalf of the County. Contractor shall be responsible for ensuring that such safeguards are adequate to comply with the requirements of the Security Rule.

c) ensure that any agent to whom it provides EPHI, including a subcontractor, agrees to implement reasonable and appropriate safeguards to protect such EPHI.

d) report to the County, in writing, any Security Incident within three (3) business days of becoming aware of such Security Incident; provided, however, that the Parties acknowledge and agree that this Section constitutes notice by McKesson to Customer of the ongoing existence and occurrence of attempted but Unsuccessful Security Incidents (as defined below). "Unsuccessful Security Incidents" will include, but not be limited to, pings and other broadcast attacks on McKesson's firewall, port scans, unsuccessful log-on attempts, denials of service and any combination of the above, so long as no such incident results in unauthorized access, use or disclosure of PHI. Without limiting the foregoing, the Contractor shall report to the County regarding whether such Security Incident has resulted in a breach of the Security Rule.

e) upon the County's request, provide the County with immediate access to the Contractor's security systems and programs in order for the County to investigate any Security Incident or to audit the Contractor's security systems and programs. The Contractor acknowledges that the County has the right, but not the obligation, to access and audit the Contractor's security systems and programs.

f) provide the Secretary of HHS with access to all records, books, agreements, policies and procedures relating to the use and/or disclosure of EPHI for compliance investigations.

7. TERMS AND TERMINATION

7.1 Term. This Addendum shall become effective as of the date first indicated above, and shall continue in effect until all of the PHI provided by the County to the Contractor, or created or received by the Contractor on behalf of the County, is destroyed or returned to the County, and all other obligations of the parties have been met. If it is infeasible to return or destroy such PHI, then such PHI shall continue to be protected as set forth in Section 7.4.

7.2 Termination by the County. As provided for under 45 C.F.R. §§ 164.504(e)(2)(iii) and 164.314(a)(2)(i), the County may (a) exercise its rights under Section 7.3 below or (b) immediately terminate the Agreement if the County, in its sole discretion, determines that the Contractor has breached a material term of this Addendum and cure is not possible. The County may exercise such right to terminate the Agreement by providing the Contractor with written notice of its intent to terminate specifying the material breach of the Agreement that provides the basis for termination. Such termination will be effective immediately, unless another date is specified in such notice.

7.3 Opportunity to Cure. As provided for under 45 C.F.R. § 164.504(e)(2)(iii) and notwithstanding Section 7.2 hereof, the County may terminate the Agreement, after notice and opportunity to cure as herein provided, if the County, in its sole discretion, determines that the Contractor has unintentionally breached a material term of this Addendum. If the County decides to provide an opportunity to cure in such case, it shall: (a) provide the Contractor with written notice of the existence of an alleged material breach; and (b) afford the Contractor an opportunity to cure the alleged material breach. Failure to cure within fourteen (30) days shall constitute grounds for the immediate termination of the Agreement by the County.

7.4 Effect of Termination. Upon the termination, cancellation, or any other conclusion of the Agreement, the Contractor shall, if feasible, return to the County or destroy all PHI, in whatever form or medium, pursuant to 45 C.F.R. § 164.504(e)(2)(ii)(J), including, but not limited to, PHI in the possession of its subcontractors and/or agents, within thirty (30) days of the effective date of the termination, cancellation, or other conclusion of the Agreement.

a) Once all PHI in the Contractor's possession or control, including, but not limited to, PHI in the possession or control of its subcontractors and/or agents, has been returned to the County or destroyed, the Contractor shall provide a written certification to the County regarding the return or destruction of such PHI within such thirty (30) day period. Such certification shall be relied upon by the County as a binding representation; and

b) if the Contractor believes that return or destruction of PHI in its possession and/or in the possession of its subcontractors or agents is infeasible, the Contractor shall notify the County of such infeasibility in writing. Said notification shall include, but not be limited to: (i) a statement that the Contractor has, in good faith, determined that it is infeasible to return or destroy the PHI in its possession and/or in the possession of its subcontractors or agents, as applicable, (ii) identification of the PHI that the Contractor believes it is infeasible to return or destroy, and (iii) the specific reasons for such determination. In addition to providing such notification, the Contractor shall certify within such thirty (30) day period that it will and will require its subcontractors or agents, as applicable, to limit any further uses and/or disclosures of such PHI to the purposes that make the return or destruction of the PHI infeasible; and

c) If it is infeasible for the Contractor to return or destroy the PHI upon termination of the Agreement (including this Addendum), the Contractor will: (a) extend the protections of this Addendum to such PHI; (b) limit further uses and disclosures of such PHI to those purposes that make the return or destruction infeasible, for so long as the Contractor maintains such PHI; and (c) never disclose such PHI to another Contractor client or third party unless such information has been de-identified in accordance with the standards set forth in 45 C.F.R. § 164.514(b).

8. INDEMNIFICATION

8.1 Indemnity. The Contractor agrees to indemnify and hold harmless the County and any of its affiliates, officers, directors, employees, attorneys, or agents (collectively, "Indemnitees") from and against any direct damages finally awarded as a result of a claim or cause of action, including attorneys' fees and court or proceeding costs arising out of or in connection with any non-permitted or violating use or disclosure of PHI or other breach of this Addendum by the Contractor or any subcontractor, agent, person, or entity under the Contractor's control.

8.2 Control of Defense. If any Indemnitees are named a party in any judicial, administrative, or other proceeding arising out of or in connection with any use or disclosure of PHI by the Contractor or any subcontractor, agent, individual, or organization under the Contractor's control, and such use or disclosure of PHI was not permitted by this Addendum, then any Indemnitee shall have the option at any time either: (i) to tender defense to the Contractor, in which case the Contractor shall provide qualified attorneys, consultants, and other appropriate professionals to represent the Indemnitee's interests at the Contractor's expense, or (ii) undertake its own defense, choosing the attorneys, consultants, and other appropriate professionals to represent its interests, in which case the Contractor shall be responsible for and pay the fees and expenses of such attorneys, consultants, and other professionals.

8.3 Control of Resolution. The Indemnitees shall have the sole right and discretion to settle, compromise, or otherwise resolve any and all claims, causes of actions, liabilities, or damages against them, notwithstanding that the Indemnitees may have tendered their defense to the Contractor. Any such resolution will not relieve the Contractor of its obligation to indemnify the Indemnitees under this Section

9. CONFIDENTIALITY

This Addendum does not affect any other obligations in the Agreement to the extent not inconsistent herewith or not involving the confidentiality, use, or disclosure of PHI. This Addendum, however, does supercede all other obligations in the Agreement to the extent they are inconsistent herewith and involve the confidentiality, use, or disclosure of PHI.

10. MISCELLANEOUS

10.1 Survival. The respective rights and obligations of the Contractor and the County under the provisions of Sections 3, 4, 5, 7.4, and 8, solely with respect to PHI the Contractor retains in accordance with Section 7.4 because it is not feasible to return or destroy such PHI, shall survive the termination of the Agreement indefinitely. In addition, Section 9 shall survive termination of this Addendum indefinitely, notwithstanding whether the Contractor retains PHI in accordance with Section 7.4 hereto.

10.2 Amendments. The Agreement (including the terms of this Addendum) may not be modified, nor shall any provision of the Agreement be waived or amended, except in a writing duly signed by authorized representatives of the parties and expressly referencing the Agreement. Notwithstanding anything in the Agreement to the contrary, to the extent that the Privacy Rule or Security Rule, or any other applicable law related to the privacy or security of health information is materially amended, updated, or revised following the execution of this Addendum, the parties agree to take such action as is necessary to amend this Addendum from time to time as is necessary for the County to comply with the requirements of HIPAA.

10.3 No Third Party Beneficiaries. Nothing contained in the Agreement (including, but not limited to, this Addendum), whether express or implied, is intended to confer, nor shall anything herein confer, upon any person other than the parties and their respective successors or assigns of the parties, any rights, remedies, obligations, or liabilities whatsoever in relation to the disclosure or use of PHI.

10.4 Cooperation and Disputes. Each party will reasonably cooperate with the other in the performance of the mutual obligations under this Addendum. If any controversy, dispute, or claim arises between the parties with respect to the Agreement (including, but not limited to, this Addendum), the parties shall make reasonable good faith efforts to resolve such matters informally.

10.5 Regulatory References. Any reference to any part or section of the CFR shall include such part or section as drafted upon the effective date of this Addendum and as it is subsequently updated, amended, supplemented, superceded, or revised.

10.6 Conflicts. Any conflicts or inconsistencies between the terms in this Addendum and terms in other parts of the Agreement shall be resolved in favor of the terms in this Addendum.

10.7 Interpretation. Any ambiguity in the Agreement (including, but not limited to, this Addendum) shall be resolved in favor of a meaning that permits the County to comply to the greatest extent possible with the Privacy Rule, the Security Rule and Other Legal Requirements.

11. HITECH ACT

- a) Contractor will make a report to the County of any Breach of Unsecured protected health information, as required by 45 C.F.R. § 164.410, within five business days of Contractor's discovery of the Breach, and
- b) In the event of a Breach caused solely by Contractor, reimburse County for any reasonable and substantiated expenses County incurs in notifying individuals of a breach, as required under HIPAA, caused by Contractor or its subcontractors or agents.
- c) Contractor understands it is not in compliance with the HIPAA standards set forth in Sections 164.502(e) and 164.504(e) if the Contractor knows of a pattern of activity or practice that the County engages in which constitutes a material breach or violation of the County's obligation under a contract or other business arrangement, unless the Contractor takes reasonable steps to cure the breach or end the violation, as applicable, and if in taking steps to cure or end the breach it is unsuccessful, the Contractor must terminate the contract or arrangement if feasible, and if not feasible, the Contractor must report the problem to the Secretary.
